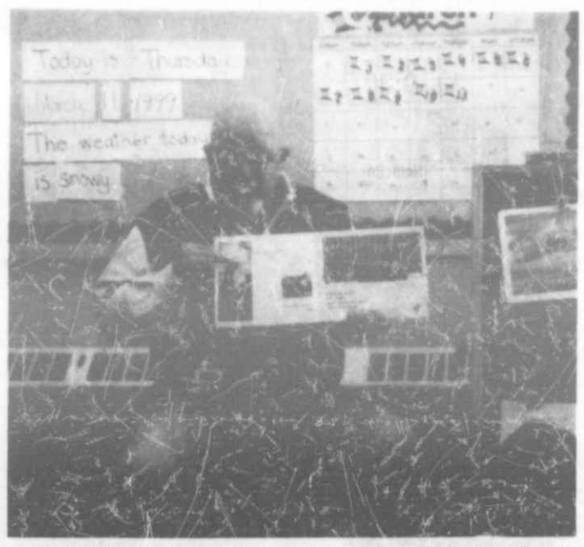
The club's next meeting will be Saturday, April 17, at 7 p.m. at the Oakland fire hall.



BEARING GIFTS, Bell Atlantic Pioneer volunteer Larry Cosner visited Dennett Road Elementary School recently. The presents he brought were books to enhance the classroom libraries for the remainder of the school year. At the end of the year, each student will be given a book to keep, compliments of the Pioneers. While visiting the school, Mr. Cosner also read aloud to several of the classes.

Church To Offer Musical Drama

A dramatic presentation, highlighted by music and special effects, will be enacted at the Cornerstone Assembly of God Church, April 4-7, beginning at 7 p.m. each evening.

The production Gone With The Wind...To Heaven or To Hell tells the story of the aftermath for the people of a small town devastated by a tornado. "It could almost have been written about us," Pastor Chad Nelson commented, referring to the storms which hit the Salisbury, Pa., area last spring.

Characters in the play meet at the gate of heaven for a review of the books of their lives, leading to a determination of how and where they will each spend eternity. The cast of characters includes 45 members of the church congregation.

The public is invited to attend this presentation, which is offered free of charge. Cornerstone Assembly of God Church is located along Route 219, one mile north of Salisbury.

State's Roadway Fatalities In '98 A 30-Year Low

Citing the "effectiveness of aggressive and comprehensive safety initiatives implemented" during his administration, Governor Parris N. Glendening has announced that 1998 Maryland highway fatalities were the lowest in 30 years. The governor applauded highway safety advocates, traffic engineers, state and local law enforcement officers, and motorists for making Maryland's roadways some of the safest in the nation.

"These statistics confirm Maryland's enforcement and outreach efforts are working," said Governor Glendening. "We will do everything in our power to continue this trend and make our roadways even safer. Motorists can do their part by buckling up, obeying speed limits and driving carefully. These numbers show clearly that our safety efforts have undeniably saved lives."

During Governor Glendening's first term, a number of traffic laws that were enacted include: the primary seat belt law, enacted in 1997; the bicycle helmet law for children 16 and under, enacted in 1995; and the child passenger safety law, enacted in 1984 and amended in 1996.

"We are working aggressively to reduce highway deaths in Maryland, and increase safety belt use by all motorists," said Transportation Secretary John D. Porcari. "From highway engineering to our driver education programs, we will use every tool at our disposal to inform Maryland drivers and make our roads safer."

The 1998 figures of 606 fatalities and 551 fatal crashes are less than the 1997 record of 610 fatalities and 570 crashes. Maryland's rate of 1.3 fatalities per 100 million miles of travel is 19 percent lower than the national average of 1.6. Maryland's fatality rate is the seventh lowest in the nation. Massachusetts' rate of 0.88 is the lowest, and Montana has the highest rate at 2.82.

One of the most significant factors in Maryland's improved highway safety is the steady increase in the number of Marylanders using safety belts. A fall 1998 survey indicated 83 percent of the state's travelers are "buckling up" — a 13 percent increase since fall 1997. Since Maryland's primary safety belt law took effect, the Maryland State Police (MSP) have issued nearly 200,000 citations for safety belt violations.

"Many lives have been saved simply because more people than ever are buckling up," said Col. David B. Mitchell, MSP superintendent. "With additional highway safety measures in place, more drivers operating vehicles with care, patience, and courtesy, as well as increased enforcement activities by police departments all across the state, Maryland's highways are safer."

According to the MSP, the primary causes of fatal accidents are: unwillingness to wear a seatbelt or cycle helmet; excessive speed; pedestrian error; and failure to drive within a single lane.

"Clearly, we are seeing an overall decline in highway fatalities," said SHA administrator Parker F. Williams, the governor's Highway Safety representative. "We will not be satisfied until Maryland's roadways are the safest in the nation. That will only happen through continued enforcement, education, and the commitment of Marylanders to drive safely."

State Payroll System Is Now Y2K Compliant

State Comptroller William Donald Schaefer announced that, beginning this week, all paychecks and direct deposits issued to state employees will come from a payroll system that is Year 2000 (Y2K) compliant. The just-completed effort to correct the state payroll system was started in March 1997 and required code changes to more than 2,400 programs.

"More than 100,000 employees depend upon the state payroll system to get their checks out on time," said Schaefer. Thanks to the hard work of the employees in the Central Payroll Bureau and the Annapolis Data Center, state workers can be confident that the system will produce the payroll without a hitch after January 1, 2000."

The Y2K problem arises out of the ability of many computers to read only the last two digits in dates. Those computers would read the year 2000, or "00," as 1900, causing computers to malfunction.

"Fixing this problem involved more than just making sure the checks are printed accurately and on time," said Schaefer. "State payroll is a complicated system that is responsible for making up to 127 different payroll deductions such as health insurance payments, retirement contributions, and savings bond purchases, and seeing to it that those payments are transferred to the appropriate vendors."

The comptroller's office continues to lead in the effort to avoid Y2K problems. "Our mainframe, which supports the operations of 24 state agencies, is now Y2K compliant, and all of our computer applications and telecommunications equipment will be corrected and tested by July," said Schaefer. "I'm proud to say that our Year 2000 project has been favorably reviewed by independent auditors, legislative auditors, and the Maryland Year 2000 Program Management Office."

The Maryland Year 2000 Program Management Office was established in 1997 to coordinate the Y2K efforts across the state. The office is operated and managed by the University of Maryland, College Park, under the direction of the Department of Budget and Management.

Dawn Metzger Joins Staff Of Garrett Rehab

Garrett Rehab Services has announced the hiring of occupational therapist Dawn Metzger during Occupational Therapy Awareness Month, which is being celebrated in April.

Ms. Metzger earned her bachelor of science degree in occupational therapy from the University of Findlay. Previously, she had earned her occupational assistant degree from Mt. Aloysius College in Cresson, Pa.

Having an amount of experience in a variety of settings is one of Metzger's strengths, according to a company spokesperson. She has worked in many different arenas, including outpatient services, acute care hospitals, rehab hospitals, skilled nursing facilities, and home health care. It was her outpatient experience that allowed her to gain experience and expertise in hand therapy. In addition to her providing outpatient services at GRS, she will also be serving the acute and subacute units at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. She is also providing home health through Garrett Home Health Inc.

"Bringing an individual of Dawn's caliber onto our staff is icing on the cake. Dawn's experience and work ethic, along with her personality, allows her to step in to both the hospital and GRS and add more quality to our staff," stated Audrey Kennedy, clinic director and physical therapist.

Metzger has completed several courses for continuing education, including Intro to Hand Therapy, Focus on Splinting, and Interdisciplinary Team Approach. She resides in Cumberland.

Occupational therapy is structured to increase independence in those who have experienced a loss of ability caused by aging, illness, injury, or developmental disability. In addition, OT's abilities to restore function to individuals who have sustained finger, hand, and wrist injuries helps separate these therapists from others in the health field. Occupational therapists provide skills for individuals to work toward returning to daily tasks of living, such as buttoning a shirt, tying a shoelace, brushing their hair or teeth, and putting on makeup, among others. GRS is the area's only provider of outpatient occupational therapy.

Indian Music, Dance Program Slated At FSU

Frostburg State University's Center for International Education is co-sponsoring an evening of classical Indian music and dance, featuring One World Living Art's Jazz and World Music Ensemble on Tuesday, April 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Pealer Recital Hall of the campus Performing Arts Center.

This group of individuals will travel to Frostburg from as far away as New Zealand, India, and the west coast of the U.S. They will perform a combination of contemporary, traditional, and classical Indian dance and musical compositions by guru Nabaghana Singha from Manipur in India. American bassist and composer Harold Anderson and percussionist Royal Hartigan will interlace these compositions with African American and European jazz dialogues.

The dancers will perform works from the Manipur region in the northeast of India. Manipuri dance is one of the most ancient forms of community ceremonial dance still practiced today.

Admission is free, but tickets must be booked prior to the concert by either calling 301-687-7460 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. or stopping by FSU Performing Arts Center, Room 127. Tickets are also be available at the Performing Arts Center box office on the night of the performance.

For further information, persons may phone the Center for International Education Office at 301-687-4714 or 301-687-4747.

Persons with disabilities may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

F&M Donates New Computer To GCC Center

Thanks to a contribution by Farmers and Merchants Bank, the Small Business Development Center of Garrett Community College has a new computer and printer to help meet the needs of its current and future clients.

"F&M recognizes that the strength of small companies is very important to our local economy and is very pleased to help contribute to the needs of Garrett County small businesses. The SBDC and Garrett Community College will now have yet another tool to assist in their small business counseling services," said Jeff McCauley, vice president, Farmers and Merchants Bank.

Farmers and Merchants Bank's contribution to the GCC Foundation for the purchase of computer equipment helps Garrett Community College in other ways as well. Bretta Reinhard, advancement officer, GCC Foundation, said, "The state of Maryland will match dollar-for-dollar every dollar of eligible contribution made to the new Innovative Partnerships in Technology program. We sincerely appreciate F&M's contribution to this important program."

FUNDING FOR A NEW IMAC COMPUTER and printer were recently donated to the Small Business Development Center of Garrett Community College by Farmers and Merchants Bank. Above, Jeff McCauley, vice president of F&M, eyes the new equipment with Bretta Reinhard, left, advancement officer for the Garrett Community College Foundation, and Sandy Major, counselor at the center. See story for details.

While technology is vital to the new millennium, it is constantly changing and expensive for GCC to upgrade, according to Sandy Major, counselor for the center. The Innovative Partnerships for Technology is a state program that offers the potential for GCC to secure up to $400,000 of matching funds. Those wishing to learn more about technology contributions may contact Reinhard at 301-387-3100.

"Computers are becoming critical to operating a small business competitively in today's world," Major said. "Despite this, many small business owners don't know how to use computers to meet the needs of their businesses. This contribution by F&M Bank will enable our office to help business owners overcome this obstacle. We will be providing opportunities for small business owners who are new to the use of computers to come to the office to become more comfortable with them. I sincerely appreciate this contribution and am looking forward to showing our local small business owners how they can access the Internet to benefit their businesses. I'll also be teaching clients how to set up computerized record keeping systems.

"We chose an iMac because in addition to being the nation's top selling computer, it has all the features that most local small businesses need and is now priced under $900," Major continued. "The iMac has won many awards since its introduction in August, including being chosen as Time Digital's 1998 Machine of the Year and CNET's most Innovative Product of the Year.

"Small businesses who can't afford to purchase a computer now can use ours free of charge on a scheduled basis. I will be available to help them understand Internet access and how to use other programs," she concluded.

The Small Business Development Center at GCC promotes economic development in the county by offering free counseling services for small businesses in order to help them be profitable. "It assists in the development of business plans, marketing materials, and loan packages," Major said. "The contribution of this equipment will help in each of these areas."

Small business owners may call Major at 301-387-3167 to learn more about counseling services and use of the new computer equipment.

FSU Will Host Sunday Afternoon Of Music Apr. 11

Frostburg State University invites the public to enjoy a Sunday afternoon of music featuring performances by Michael Avagliano, violinist, and Klaus-Georg Pohl and Ute Gareis, piano duo, on April 11 in the Performing Arts Center Pealer Recital Hall.

Avagliano, a featured guest of FSU's Cultural Events Sunday Afternoon ShowCase Series, is slated to open the afternoon of events with a 12:30 p.m. performance. This is a change in perfotmance time and location.

Avagliano was co-concertmaster of the Carrollton Chamber Players and the Lafayette Symphony Orchestra before relocating this year from Indiana to New Jersey. He was selected as co-concertmaster for the 1998 edition of the prestigious National Orchestral Institute at the University of Maryland, College Park.

A complimentary brunch in the Lane Center Greenhouse will be available for Sunday Afternoon ShowCase ticket holders directly following the Avagliano performance.

The menu includes broccoli cheddar and tomato-herb quiche, breakfast potatoes, muffins, fresh fruit and relish tray, chef-carved turkey and ham, vegetable medley, fresh baked pies and assorted puddings, orange juice, coffee and tea.

The second concert of the afternoon, sponsored by the FSU Music Department Guest Artist Series, will feature the acclaimed piano duo Klaus-Georg Pohl and Ute Gareis at 3 p.m. in the Pealer Recital Hall.

Both Gareis and Pohl were born in Germany and began playing the piano at age 6. Following their studies at academies in Wurzburg and Cologne, they worked for three years with Peter Feuchtwanger in London, who taught them to transfer the art of bel canto to the piano.

After performing as soloists and chamber musicians, they decided in 1992 to appear as a duo. From the outset, critics have noted that the caliber and resonance of their performance as a duo "creates an atmosphere of excitement and joy." They have made numerous appearances both in the U.S. and abroad.

Admission to the piano concert is free and open to the public.

For information and additional ticket reservations for the CES Sunday Afternoon ShowCase violin performance, persons may contact the FSU CES box office manager, 301-687-4411, Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Refunds or exchanges will be provided for CES ticket holders who cannot attend the violin concert because of changes in performance time.

The FSU Sunday ShowCase performances for this season are sponsored by the FSU Foundation Inc. The FSU Cultural Events Series also acknowledges the Peabody Institute of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore for its support of the performing arts.

The 1998-99 CES is funded in part by the Maryland State Arts Council and is presented in association with FSU's WFWM 91.9.

The FSU Department of Music Guest Artist Series is grateful for the support of PharmaCare, Farmers & Merchants Bank & Trust, Rehab Solutions, Allegany Arts Council, FSU Foundation Inc., John H. Balch, R.Ph., and Jack Aylor.

Persons with disabilities may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

EXPRESSING APPRECIATION to the Oakland Rotary Club at a recent meeting was Tammy Lee, pictured right, who was awarded a college scholarship by the club, made available through the Garrett Community College Foundation. She is majoring in math/science at GCC and plans to continue her studies at West Virginia University, where she will major in computer science. Pictured with her is Katherine Zimmerman, treasurer of the Oakland Rotary Club.

Jennings UMC Slates Service

The Jennings United Methodist Church will hold its annual Easter sunrise service on Sunday, April 4, at 6:30 a.m. Pastor Brenda Shreve will be the speaker for the worship service, which will be followed by a light breakfast. Sunday school will begin at 8:30 a.m.

Also on April 12 at 7 p.m., the Puppeteers from Christ Lutheran Church, Grantsville, will present a play titled "His Fleece was White as Snow."

The church is located four miles south of Grantsville along the Jennings Road, off Md. Rt. 495. The public is invited to attend all services and programs.

Egg Hunt Slated

An Easter egg hunt will be held at Herrington Manor State Park on Saturday, April 3, at 2 p.m. Fifty dozen eggs have been donated by McDonald's and were colored by students at Crellin Elementary. There will be prizes awarded in two age groups, 1-5 and 6-12. There will also be a visit from the Easter Bunny. Persons may pre-register by calling 301-334-9180.

Park Friends Slate Clean-Up

The Friends of New Germany will host the annual park clean-up at New Germany State Park on Saturday, April 17. Registration will be at the lakehouse from 8:30 to 9 a.m. "This is an excellent opportunity for students to earn credit for their Service Learning commitment," stated a park spokesperson. Refreshments will be served at noon.

The rain date is April 24.

ERNEST HEMINGWAY: THE MAN AND HIS DEMONS

When Ernest Hemingway was just a toddler, his mother asked him what he was afraid of. "'Fraid of nothing!" the boy replied. So he answered throughout his life until he could no longer quiet his demons – despite an enviable life of literary achievements, passionate romances, athletic adventures and drunken good times.

For reasons unknown, his mother raised him and his older sister as twins, dressing them identically in clothes of both genders. The confused Hemingway was terrified Santa Claus would fail to bring him boy toys. Thus, he spent his life proving his manliness.

When WWI broke out, Hemingway enlisted as an ambulance driver. Wounded, he received a medal for bravery but embellished the tale beyond belief. As a patient, he met a young nurse who, while jilting him, became the prototype for Catherine in "A Farewell to Arms."

After the war, he married Hadley, whose money allowed them to join the Paris expatriates. F. Scott Fitzgerald helped connect him with legendary editor Max Perkins, who published "The Sun Also Rises." True to form, Lady Brett was based on an unrequited love.

He fell out of love with Hadley, married Pauline and moved to Key West. After "For Whom the Bell Tolls" was published, he left Pauline for journalist Martha Gellhorn, settling in Cuba for 22 years, competing with his wife for assignments. While both were covering WWII, Hemingway met Mary, wife number four. Unlike the others, she was able to hold on after the infatuation faded. She nursed him through his later serious depressions, checking him into the Mayo Clinic. Despite her efforts, he managed to shoot himself with his favorite shotgun. His demons finally got the best of him but not before Hemingway had established himself as one of America's most important writers.

Q. What is yellowware? I have a collection of mixing bowls. I think of them as yellowware, but my friends say some pieces are just modern mixing bowls.

A. Collectors differ on the definition of "yellowware." All agree that yellowware is stoneware made from yellow clay.

The English exported yellowware to the United States in the early 1800s. Clay beds were found, and yellowware was made in the Eastern United States and Ohio.

Some collectors consider the era of yellowware over by the end of the 19th century. Others consider any piece made of yellow clay to be yellowware.

Most yellowware pieces are mixing bowls and other kitchen wares. The age is determined by shape and design.

Q. Can you tell me how my small electric sterilizer was used? It is porcelain on the outside, with a metal top, lining and perforated tray. It is 5 inches long, 2 1/4 inches wide and 3 inches tall. The front once had a paper label, but it was worn away.

A. You have a Renwal brand syringe sterilizer made by the American Sundries Co. of Brooklyn, N.Y. It was designed to be used in small medical offices. It also was sold to diabetics who gave themselves insulin shots at home.

Boiling water in the sterilizer would heat syringes and needles placed in the tray.

Insulin was first isolated in the 1920s. Your sterilizer was made sometime during the '30s or early '40s.

TIE IT UP – I would like to offer what I believe is a great idea for tying up tomato plants. First, buy a 33-gallon garbage-bag roll. Unroll one bag and rip it off without unfolding. Cut into 1-inch strips using sharp scissors or a utility knife. Unfold strips into loops. Loop one end around plant and back through itself and tie the other end to rope or stake. These are virtually indestructible and never cut into the plants. Randy L., Girard, Ohio

Volunteers Needed To Deliver Easter Dinner To Seniors

Members of the Garrett County community are needed who are willing to prepare and deliver a serving of Easter dinner for a home-bound senior citizen. This sharing of a meal program is being coordinated by Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc.'s Area Agency on Aging.

The dinner-sharing program was initiated at Christmas. Local residents prepared extra plates of the holiday meal and took them to the homes of elderly neighbors who might otherwise have spent the day alone. According to Adina Brode of the Agency on Aging, the Christmas project was a "success" for both the volunteers delivering the meals and the seniors who received them.

Those interested in sharing their Easter meal with a frail elderly person may call the Agency on Aging.

Butscher Named Prince George's Officer of Year

Cpl. James A. Butscher, a former resident of Garrett County, was honored as Police Officer of the Year 1998 and received the Silver Medal of Valor on March 17 at the Prince George's County Public Safety Valor Awards Luncheon.

The award was in recognition of the "decisive and heroic actions" displayed by Police Officer First Class Butscher, while handling a residential breaking and entering and attempted rape.

The citation read as follows: "On March 2, 1998, a suspect broke into the home of a mother with a young daughter. The homeowner escaped with a cordless phone in her hand. With Police Communications on the phone and police officers en route, the homeowner advised the suspect's movements throughout the house. Understandably, the homeowner became increasingly upset as she observed the suspect make his way to her 12-year-old daughter's bedroom.

"The dispatcher, still on the phone with the now frantic mother, could also hear loud screams. He immediately apprised the responding officer of the current situation while desperately attempting to calm the mother and assure her that officers are en route and to remain outside for their arrival.

"Officer Butscher was the first police officer on the scene. He quickly ascertained pertinent information and concluded that there was an extremely high probability the 12-year-old could be raped or seriously assaulted by the suspect. Without a moment to spare, Officer Butscher chose the only option available to him. He entered the home alone in an effort to rescue the screaming girl.

"Unfamiliar with his dark surroundings, Officer Butscher quickly made his way through the home and up to the young girl's second-floor bedroom. Still hearing the frantic screams, Officer Butscher kicked open the bedroom door. He immediately observed the frightened girl cowering in a corner. The suspect had struggled with her on her bed. Officer Butscher then observed the suspect standing near the girl, poised to strike her again.

"Fearing for the girl's life, Officer Butscher, without fear or reservation, instinctively placed himself between the girl and the suspect. As her human shield was in place, the girl was afforded a safe avenue of escape. Officer Butscher then attempted to arrest the suspect and a struggle ensued. Officer Butscher's backup arrived on the scene and immediately entered the residence to assist him. Taking all the strength of both officers, the suspect was subdued and handcuffed.

"The unparelled courage of Police Officer First Class Butscher directly contributed to the successful resolution of a life-threatening incident."

Cpl. Butscher, a graduate of Southern High School, is the son of Brenda Butscher, Oakland, and the late Tom Butscher.

GCMH Provides Intervention In Psychiatric Cases

"A psychiatric emergency, just like any other type of emergency, demands a timely and appropriate response to the situation," explained Dr. Richard Perry, chief of emergency medicine at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, when asked to comment on psychiatric services in the county. "Through the emergency department, crisis intervention is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week."

In the late 1980s, in response to a need identified by the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, Garrett Memorial established the protocol for patients experiencing a psychiatric crisis to be assessed by an emergency physician and a crisis counselor. Patients in crisis are evaluated to determine the extent of care needed. The emergency physician and crisis counselor will determine if the patient requires inpatient care at a specialized facility or if the patient can safely return home, with referrals to other local agencies for support and follow-up services.

"The network is in place for patients who need inpatient psychiatric care," explained Mary VanSickle, LCSW-C, director of social services at Garrett Memorial. "Transfer arrangements are coordinated by our staff, allowing the patient to be moved to a hospital with a psychiatric unit.

"We receive referrals from the court system, law enforcement, physician offices, and schools, as well as patients who refer themselves when facing a crisis situation," explained VanSickle. "Garrett County Memorial Hospital's emergency department is the only facility in the county that can provide emergency psychiatric services."

Dr. Richard Perry, chief of emergency medicine at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and Mary VanSickle, LCSW-C, director of social services at the hospital and a crisis counselor, discuss coordination of services for psychiatric patients in the county. GCMH is the only facility in the county that can provide emergency psychiatric services.

In Memory of My Best Friend, Meghan Price, on Her 21st Birthday

There are many people who come and go in our lives.
A few touch us in ways that change us forever, making us better from knowing them.
You have made a difference in my life, and for this I am grateful. Author Unknown

Meghan,
Thank you for being the most beautiful, inspirational, completely crazy, and phenomenal woman I know. Thanks for being you. I love you, Meg!

GCC Student To Participate In Disney Program

David Deem, who will be awarded his associate in arts degree from Garrett Community College in May, has been selected to participate in the Walt Disney World College Program in Orlando, Fla., this summer.

The program is an educational, work, and interpersonal relationship program especially designed to increase practical knowledge of the entertainment and hospitality industry. More than 7,000 students representing over 600 colleges and universities throughout the United States will receive commemorative degrees as graduates of the Walt Disney World College Program in 1999.

The educational component includes a series of business seminars that focus on the Walt Disney Company's history, philosophy, culture, and management. Students also select from specialized curricula that provide insights about resorts, theme parks, human resources, and Disney management. Eligible candidates include full-time first-year students through non-graduating seniors who are in good academic standing.

Students who are accepted into the program work 30 hours each week with two days off. They live in apartments and provide their own food.

Deem, who has never been to Florida, will participate this year as a Quick Service Host. Because of his interest in theatre, he hopes to be able to try out for Disney's On Stage Program, which will give him experience as an entertainer. At GCC, he has assisted Ben Sincell with the College and Me fifth grade students by performing song and dance routines.

He says that he first found information about the Disney program on the Internet, after hearing about it from a friend who visited Orlando last year. Stacie Haskiell, GCC's career placement coordinator, helped him prepare his résumé and gave him tips for interviewing. He then took his résumé and his college transcript to West Virginia University, where the interview was conducted.

Deem lives with his sister, Debra Filsinger, in Oakland.

"I'M GOING TO DISNEY WORLD!" - Garrett Community College student David Deem will be off to the Magic Kingdom this summer after being hired by the theme park's summer employment program recently. Deem is shown above with Stacie Haskiell, GCC's coordinator of placement services, who assisted him with his resumé writing and interview preparation.

Mortgage Loans At Fixed 5.5% Now Available

The new interest rates for 30-year fixed-rate mortgages acquired through the Maryland Mortgage Program, administered by the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) Community Development Administration, is 5.5 percent.

The program helps make home ownership more affordable for low- and moderate-income buyers by offering rates lower than the private lenders. The program is for first-time homebuyers, except in certain federally targeted areas. About $59 million is available in 5.5 percent mortgage loan money for use around the state. The money must be used to purchase existing homes; it may not be used for newly constructed housing. The maximum amount in Garrett County available for an existing house is $115,200.

Income limits for borrowers are $59,200 for a family of one or two and $68,080 for three or more in all parts of the state, except for Calvert, Charles, Frederick, Montgomery, and Prince George's counties, where the limits are $72,300 for a family of one or two and $83,145 for a family of three or more. The maximum home acquisition costs vary by county.

The monthly principal and interest payment for a $100,000 loan, not including mortgage insurance, hazard insurance, or property taxes, at the 5.5 percent interest rate will be $567.79. A typical conventional mortgage at 7.1 percent would require a monthly payment of $672.03.

Mortgages are available through local lending institutions, not DHCD. Program brochures, lists of participating lenders, and county-by-county eligibility requirements are available by calling 410-514-7501 or toll free at 1-800-638-7781. The hearing impaired may call Maryland Relay for the Deaf at 711.

The Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development works with partners to revitalize communities, encourage homeownership, expand affordable housing opportunities, and enhance Maryland's historic sites and traditions.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of my son "Dink" who died on Good Friday, April 1, 1983.

It is lonely here without you, so sad along life's way. Life does not seem the same to me, since you were called away. It broke my heart to lose you, but you did not go alone, for part of me went with you that day God called you home. They say time heals all sorrow and helps us to forget, but time so far has only proved how much I miss you yet.

Dearly loved, fondly remembered, and sadly missed.

Dhimitra Davenport, Raymond Hopkins Wed In July Ceremony At Silver Lake

Dhimitra S. Davenport of Abington, Pa., and Raymond L. Hopkins Jr. of the northwestern section of Philadelphia, Pa., were married on July 29, 1998. The evening ceremony, performed by Pastor Paul Poerschke of Davis, W.Va., was held in the smallest church in the lower 48 states, located in Silver Lake, W.Va.

The matron of honor was Tina Winters, accompanied by her daughter Shari and niece, Sarah Michell. The bride wore a light cream country dress with lace overlay and carried a bouquet of handpicked wildflowers. The groom wore a blue suit with a cream colored shirt.

After a two-night stay at Blackwater Falls Lodge, the couple toured and camped in the Canadian Atlantic provinces.

The bride is a high school science teacher, and the groom works with the Department of Defense. The couple resides in both Gaithersburg and Warfordsburg, Pa. Eventually they will live near Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., where a house will be built on land owned by the bride that is the highest point in Maryland.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Eleven couples applied for their marriage licenses this week, according to David Martin, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court.

John Robert Merrifield, 31, and Vikki Lynn Brennan, 24, both of Fairmont, W.Va.

Garold Ralph Powell, 37, and Gloria Edilma Norena, 28, both of Barrackville, W.Va.

Eric Roy Wilson, 29, Swanton, and Marcy Lynn Lins, 27, McHenry.

Paul Philip Bircher, 25, and Elizabeth Lea Getson, 19, both of Elk Garden, W.Va.

Justin Wayne Jones, 22, and Amy Marie Fickes, 20, both of Grantsville.

Delmar Cleland Beitzel, 65, Accident, and Thelma Virginia Shipp, 68, Corinth, W.Va.

Stanley Emil Alaica, 47, and Sylvia Jo Tatone, 42, both of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Tommy Lynn Cussins, 24, and Stephanie Nicole Wotring, 18, both of Thomas, W.Va.

Claude Dayton Mitchell, 48, and Linda Mae Back, 51, both of Fairmont, W.Va.

Junior Ray Lewis, 25, and Lucinda Renee Gidley, 20, both of Oakland.

Carroll Rose Core, 72, and Susan Elaine Cole, 47, both of Morgantown, W.Va.

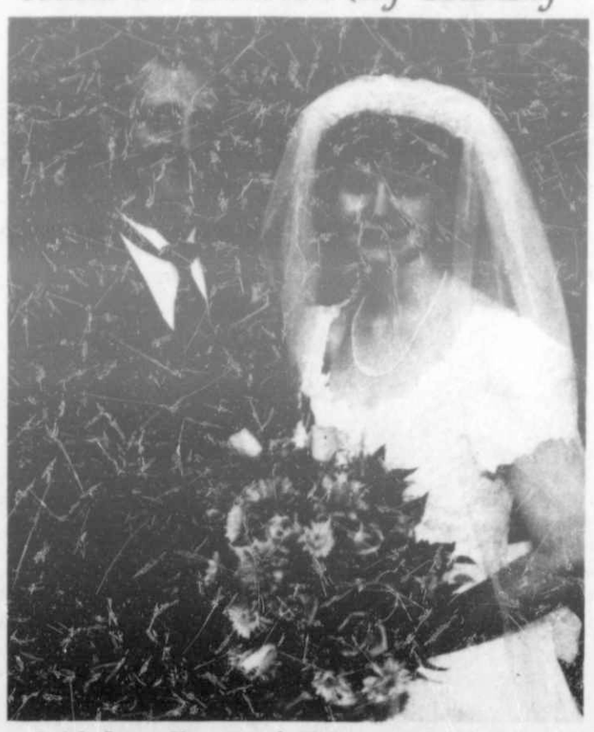
Miss Case Will Wed Mr. Peters

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Peters of Parkersburg, W.Va., formerly of Wantagh, Long Island, N.Y., announce the engagement of their daughter Kara to Charles Case of Palo Alto, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Case, Deep Creek Lake.

Miss Peters is a 1994 graduate of Parkersburg High School and will graduate from Fairmont State College this spring with a bachelor's degree in marketing. Mr. Case is a 1996 graduate of West Virginia University with a bachelor's degree in political science. Mr. Case is currently employed by Goldman, Sacks and Co. as an administrative assistant, located in Menlo Park, Calif.

A June 12 wedding is planned, and will be held at Deep Creek Lake.

Miss Knotts And Mr. Huelskamp United In Double-Ring Ceremony



Leigh Susan Knotts and Matthew James Huelskamp were united in marriage September 19, 1998, during a double-ring ceremony at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, with Rev. Roger Harrison Sr. officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Charles and Dorothy Knotts, Kitzmiller. The groom is the son of Vincent and Katherine Huelskamp, Longmont, Colo.

Escorted to the altar by her father and presented in marriage by her parents, the bride wore an ivory A-line gown accented with pearls and lace. Her headpiece was an ivory pearl tiara with a fingertip-length veil. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of fall mums and roses.

Serving as woman of honor was Kathy Knotts, Mtn. Lake Park, sister of the bride. The bride's attendants were Heather Stokes-Huby, Scotch Plains, N.J., friend of the bride; Kristiann Germain, Oakland, friend of the bride; and Haroula Truffa, Richmond, Va., niece of the bride. The attendants wore tea-length hunter green dresses and carried hand-tied bouquets of fall mums and roses.

Serving as bestman was Robert Shahan, Greenwood, S.C., friend of the groom. Groomsmen were V.T. Huelskamp, Henderson, brother of the groom; Patrick Mitchell, Oakland, friend of the groom; and Gordon Gregory, Cumberland, friend of the groom. Charles Knotts III, Goldsboro, N.C., nephew of the bride, served as usher. The groom and groomsmen were attired in black tuxedos with hunter green ties and vests.

Michael Monda, cousin of the bride, was the pianist. Soloists were Jane Eskew, cousin of the bride, and Carl Fike, friend of the bride. Musical selections during the ceremony were "All I Ask of You," by Weber, "True Love," by Porter, "The Irish Wedding Song," by Betteridge, and "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte.

Erika Huelskamp, sister of the groom, served as guest book attendant. Linda Huelskamp, sister-in-law of the groom, was program attendant. Joelle Plauger and Laurel Lent, friends of the bride, and Stephen Truffa, great-nephew of the bride, were birdseed attendants. John and Joyce Hahn, cousins of the bride, were videographers.

The reception was held at St. Peter's Parish Social Hall, immediately following the ceremony. Ken Vaden, cousin of the bride, prepared the buffet dinner. Cake attendant was Mary Ann Buresh, aunt of the groom. The wedding cake was baked by Thelma DeWitt, Terra Alta, W.Va. The four-tier chocolate and spice cake was decorated with an ivory basket weave design, fresh fall mums, and greenery. Music for the reception was provided by Mr. Z. Wedding photography was by Art Hanlin of Art's Images.

Out-of-state guests were from Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, New Jersey, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia.

The groom's parents hosted a buffet dinner at Pizzeria Uno's following the wedding rehearsal. The bride was the guest of honor at two bridal showers, one given by Kathy Knotts and one given by Joyce Hahn, Lexington, Ky.

The bride is a 1987 graduate of Southern High School and a 1991 graduate of Hood College, Frederick. She received her doctoral degree from Indiana University of Pennsylvania in 1998 and is employed as a clinical psychologist at Mountain Lakes Behavioral Healthcare in Guntersville, Ala.

The groom is a graduate of DeMatha Catholic High School in Hyattsville, and the University of Maryland, University College in College Park. He is employed as a park ranger by the U.S. Department of the Interior at Little River Canyon National Preserve.

Following a honeymoon trip to Disney World and a cruise to the Bahamas on the Disney Magic, the couple established residence in Fort Payne, Ala.

Miss Hauser To Wed Mr. Qualls

Heidi Sue Hauser and John Allen Qualls announce their engagement and forthcoming wedding.

Miss Hauser is the daughter of Harold and Alice Hauser, Oakland. She is a 1995 graduate of Southern High School, and graduated from Garrett Community College with an associate degree in arts and sciences in agriculture. She is currently employed by Pineview Veterinary Hospital of Oakland.

Mr. Qualls, the son of Willard and Brenda Qualls, Bayard, W.Va., is a 1990 graduate of Union High School and a 1995 graduate of Potomac State College, Keyser, W.Va., with an associate degree in arts and sciences in forestry. He is currently employed at Rigidply Rafters of Oakland.

The ceremony will be held at Oak Grove Church of the Brethren, McHenry, on June 26 at 2 p.m. Although invitations will be sent, all friends and family are invited to attend. The time and place of the reception will be announced.

Lowdermilks Mark 50th Anniversary

Harold Junior and Mary Jane Lowdermilk of Terra Alta, W.Va, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with family this Saturday. The couple were married on April 2, 1949.

Mr. Lowdermilk is a son of the late Gilbert and Bessie Casteel Lowdermilk and is retired from the Garrett County Roads Department in Oakland.

Mrs. Lowdermilk is a daughter of the late McKinley and Edna Collins Stephens and is retired from Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The couple are members of the Apostolic Church of Mtn. Lake Park. They have two daughters, Mrs. Freddie (Diana) Harrison of Terra Alta, W.Va., and Mrs. Danny (Ellen) Teets of McHenry; three sons, Harold Lowdermilk of Fairmont, W.Va., Rickey Lowdermilk of McHenry, and Roger Lowdermilk of Galian, Ohio.; and 10 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. One granddaughter is deceased.

Festival For Friends Kicks Off With Raffle

The third annual Festival for Friends event, a local fund-raiser for children's charities, is slated for Sunday, May 16, at the McHenry House at the Wisp Resort; however, tickets are already on sale for a Beanie Babies™ raffle, organized by Brenda Thomas and Lori Malcolm to raise money for the selected charities.

Ten baskets of Beanie Babies™ will be raffled, including numerous "retired" figures from the stuffed toy line, and raffle tickets are available at the Reminisce Antique Mall, located along Route 219 in McHenry.

Proceeds from raffle ticket sales will benefit Big Brothers/Big Sisters of the Alleghenies, an organization which assists children in need of extra companionship and attention; Shriner's Children's Hospital, where children under the age of 18 receive medical care free of charge; and the Grant-A-Wish Foundation, an organization formed to fulfill the special wishes of children with life-threatening illnesses. For further information on the raffle, interested persons may call 301-387-8275.

Named in accordance with its beach theme, the upcoming May "Beachcomber" Festival for Friends celebration will be held in honor of the birthdays of Emily Thomas and Nixon Malcolm. Funding for the event was made possible by a PEN (Parent Network) mini-grant offered through the Office for Children, Youth, and Families.

Further information on the Beachcomber Festival is available on its web site at geocities.com/EnchantedForest/Creek.9935/index.html. Persons interested in volunteer opportunities for the festival may call Malcolm at 301-387-7535 or Thomas at 301-387-6445.

The fund-raiser qualifies participants for Community Service hours for local school requirements, Malcolm said. "The Beachcomber Festival for Friends is an inspiring concept to teach young people in our local communities the importance of giving to others and to have fun doing it," she said.

GCC To Offer Ag Programs To All Maryland Residents

A program that prepares students for 21st century careers and the "green industries" at Garrett Community College in western Maryland is now available to all Maryland residents at the lowest tuition rates.

The Agricultural Management program given in cooperation with the University of Maryland Institute of Applied Agriculture has recently received statewide designation, thus making it eligible for the reduced tuition. Students from any county in the state can now enroll in this program at the same tuition as those from the home county of Garrett.

Three areas of concentration are offered in the two-year program: land management, agribusiness/farm management, and horticulture. In addition to raising traditional crops and livestock, students in farm management learn about forms of alternative agriculture such as raising goats and rabbits and fish farming. The horticulture option trains students for careers in landscaping, nursery production, and related green industries.

As Willie Lantz, agriculture instructor at GCC, says, "Agriculture is not just about raising corn and milking cows anymore. There are more technical and complex aspects related to agriculture in the future."

Students in this program have many "hands on" practical experiences as they attend class in the field, visit farms and greenhouses, and work on the college's experimental farm plot. They also have opportunities for work study jobs of caring for the animals and fish tanks. Beyond academic courses and the practical experiences, students will become familiar with technologies of the future, the Geographic Information System (GIS) and Global Positioning System (GPS), which provide data for making decisions.

GCC is a small college of about 700 students located in a rural area at the northern end of Deep Creek Lake just off U.S. Route 219. Among the seven campus buildings is a residence hall that houses 60 students.

Anyone desiring further information about the Agriculture Management program at Garrett Community College may call the college's admission office at 301-387-3010. A spring open house is scheduled for Saturday, April 24, from 10 a.m. to noon. Interested students and their parents are invited to attend.

Second Annual Meat Goat Conference Set

The Advanced Technology Center (ATC) program at Garrett Community College and the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service will sponsor the second annual Meat Goat Conference to be held on April 17 in the auditorium at GCC. The conference will begin registration at 8:30 a.m. and run until 3:30 p.m. A lunch break will be taken at 12:30 p.m. at which time participants will enjoy a catered goat meat and ostrich meat buffet luncheon.

Terry Gipson, associate professor and researcher at Langston University, will be the featured speaker. Gipson, who is considered an expert in his field, will discuss the regional trends and demand for goat meat and the implications of those trends.

Willie Lantz, ag instructor at GCC, will present two topics. He will present a realistic meat goat enterprise budget that was designed for this region. He will also discuss forages through the use of forage samples and their analyses.

Larry Poss, USDA marketing specialist/inspector and meat goat judge, will discuss how to determine exactly what the markets are looking for. Poss deals with livestock sales and auctions and has been asked to explain how these places separate and grade meat goats.

This is one day that goat raisers won't want to miss, according to Lantz.

To register or for more information, those interested may contact Patsy McKenzie at 301-387-3122.

Crop Values Are Down In '98, Says Statistics Service

The Marketing Year Average (MYA) prices for Maryland corn, soybeans, wheat, barley, and oats for 1998 were down from the 1997 marketing year prices. Soybeans had the biggest price drop, followed by barley and winter wheat. Growing conditions across the state were adequate for small grains, such as wheat, barley, and oats, but yields were lower than 1997.

On the national level, prices were down for corn for grain, oats, winter wheat, barley, soybeans, hay, and potatoes. United States MYA prices for most crops are computed by weighting state MYA prices by the estimated quantity sold in each state. The exceptions are for corn, sorghum, oats, barley, wheat, rice, soybeans, flaxseed, sunflower, and upland cotton, which are computed by weighting U.S. monthly prices by monthly marketings for the U.S. marketing year.

State MYA prices for these monthly crops are computed by weighting monthly prices by the monthly percentages of total sales during their marketing year.

NRAES Publications Available For Growers/Marketers

The following Natural Resource, Agriculture, and Engineering Service (NRAES) publications are being highlighted this month for growers and marketers.

Orders should be sent to NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701. Quantity discounts are available. Major credit cards are accepted, and checks should be made payable to NRAES. For information about quantity discounts, or for a free publications catalog, contact NRAES by phone at 607-255-7654, by fax at 607-254-8770, or by e-mail at nraes@cornell.edu. NRAES also maintains a web site at http://www.nraes.org.

NRAES Publications Win Awards

Three recent books published by NRAES (formerly the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service) have been honored with Blue Ribbon awards in the 1998 ASAE Educational Aids Competition. The Blue Ribbon award winners from NRAES are Post-Frame Building Handbook: Materials, Design Considerations, Construction Procedures, NRAES-1 (published May 1997); Strawberry Production Guide for the Northeast, Midwest, and Eastern Canada, NRAES-88 (May 1998); and Liquid Manure Application Systems Design Manual, NRAES-89 (May 1998).

ASAE (the Society for Engineering in Agricultural, Food, and Biological Systems) presents the Blue Ribbon awards annually in recognition of "outstanding effort and achievement in the development of noteworthy educational aids." Major emphasis in the competition is placed on how well the educational aids meet the needs of intended audiences.

Post-Frame Building Handbook, NRAES-1, presents in a clear, easy-to-follow style the latest design considerations and construction methods for post-frame buildings. Enhanced by 60 illustrations and 31 tables, the book provides essential information for the preliminary design of a modern post-frame structure. Post-Frame Building Handbook was edited by Jon Carson, Pennsylvania State University, and Mark Dougherty, NRAES. The 78-page publication is a major revision of the original Pole and Post Buildings (1984), by Wilmot W. Irish, Cornell University; Grant D. Wells, Iowa State University Extension; Robert A. Parsons, ASHRAE; and Gerald R. Bodman, University of Nebraska. Post-Frame Building Handbook may be ordered from NRAES for $12, plus $3.50 shipping and handling for a single copy.

Strawberry Production Guide, NRAES-88, is the most comprehensive production guide ever published for strawberry growers. The publication includes 14 chapters, 115 full-color photographs, 37 figures, and 47 tables. It provides up-to-date, in-depth coverage of every aspect of strawberry culture from preparing the production site to harvesting and marketing. Presented in a three-ring binder, the guide also includes budget spreadsheets on a floppy disk (for use with Microsoft Excel, version 4.0 or higher). The 162-page guide was edited by Marvin Pritts, Cornell University, and David Handley, University of Maine, and written by 16 experts representing eight universities. Strawberry Production Guide is priced at $45, plus $5 shipping and handling for a single copy.

Liquid Manure Application Systems Design Manual, NRAES-89, provides current research and industry experience in applying liquid manures to farmland. Emphasizing basic principles, the abundantly illustrated 168-page manual outlines a design process for planning and implementing an economically efficient, environmentally safe liquid manure application system that is tailored to the individual producer's conditions. Liquid Manure Application Systems Design Manual, was written by Mark Dougherty, NRAES; Larry D. Geohring, Cornell Cooperative Extension; and Peter Wright, Cornell Cooperative Extension. Cost of the publication is $20, plus $3.50 shipping for a single copy.

Potential New Market for Area Sheep Producers

The population of the people in the Muslim religion is increasing at a rapid pace. There are thousands of Muslims on the East Coast of the United States, and their preferred meats are lamb and goat. For the past few months we have been exploring the potential of marketing lamb and goat meat products in a different approach to the Muslim population.

We have met on two occasions with the president of the Muslim U.S. Chamber of Commerce to discuss the possibility of marketing Halal label meat products. The Mt. Pride Cooperative Inc. just recently became a member of the Muslim Chamber of Commerce. The chamber is going to assist us in identifying and establishing market outlets for lamb, goat, and rabbit meat products.

Muslims are accustomed to buying their meat products either whole or in large pieces that have the Halal stamp of approval. We are planning to introduce the lamb, goat, and rabbit as fresh specialty processed cuts, vacuum packed with the Halal and the USDA inspection stamp. We have conferred with several leaders of the Muslims, and they indicated the market is ready for the packaged meats. The next huddle will be the acceptance of the retail pricing, which will be much higher in cost than just buying a dressed carcass.

In the very near future, tentatively April 28, we will be asking interested sheep producers to attend a special meeting for additional information and to plan production and marketing strategies. I am sure I do not have all of the area sheep producers on my mailing list. If you would like, you may call my office or the Preston County Extension Office to indicate you are interested in being invited to the meeting.

NRAES Publications

economists will continue to face provocative questions concerning international trade, production, marketing, environmental protection, information systems, education, and government policy in the 21st century. Bringing together 79 papers, a recent publication ($60 plus shipping and handling, 1996, 600 pages) presents current research on a broad range of such questions. The Proceedings of the XIIIth International Symposium on Horticultural Economics, held at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J., on August 4-9, 1996, includes articles on horticultural economics by specialists from around the globe.

Included in the first chapter of the volume are three invited papers: "Horticultural Economics: Past, Present, and Future," "The New Zealand Experience: Towards a Free Market Economy," and "The Horticulture Sector of the Former Soviet Union." Additional chapters offering 4-7 refereed papers each are "GreenhouseManagement," "Management," "Marketing," "Quality Management/Strategic Planning," "Fruits and Vegetables," "Computers and Information Systems," "Floriculture and Ornamentals," "Sustainability," "Development," "Consumer Attitudes, Preferences, and Demand," and "Posters." A final chapter provides 14 non-refereed papers.

The individual papers analyze a variety of topics in diverse locations. The following list is a representative sample: "Factors Influencing the Adoption of Biological Control Technologies in Floriculture Under Glass" (Germany), "Farm Management of Fungicide Use in Tulips in the Netherlands," "The Effects of Increased Trade on the U.S. Fruit Sector," "Strategic Quality Planning in the Horticultural Sector" (United Kingdom), "An Alliance Strategy in the Fruit and Vegetable Sector: The Example of Agro-Marche-Strategies" (France), "A Proposal to Set Up an International Scientific Network for Information on Horticultural Economics," "Share Analysis of Drivers of Growth in the Ornamental Industry: A Case Study of New Jersey," "Demand and Supply Factors on the Market for Organic Vegetables: The Case of Sweden," "The Cost of Maintaining Genetic Resources for Cassava" (Colombia), "Understanding the Factors Influencing Consumer Choice of Cut Flowers: A Means-End Approach" (Australia), "Economic Analysis of Potato Cultivars under Two Sustainability Factors" (India), and "Market Planning for Specialty Crops: An Applied Economic Approach" (USA). A complete table of contents is given below.

The proceedings was edited by Robin G. Brumfield, Department of Agricultural, Food, and Resource Economics, Rutgers University, and published by the International Society for Horticultural Science. In addition to agricultural economists, producers of fruits, vegetables, and ornamentals and their advisors will find it an informative book.

Composting for Municipalities Publication Available

Composting, a managed treatment process that turns biodegradable waste material into a soil-like substance called compost, may be able to help municipalities with the increasingly complex task of managing the waste stream. Specifically, composting has the potential to decrease the amount of waste disposed of in landfills; lessen environmental hazards (through reduced emissions from incinerators and leachate from landfills); help achieve compliance with state-mandated recycling goals; and produce a clean, organic product with a number of potential uses and markets. A new publication, Composting for Municipalities: Planning and Design Considerations, NRAES-94 ($18 plus shipping and handling, November 1998, 136 pages) was written to help municipal planners decide whether composting fits their waste management goals and objectives.

This 136-page publication will provide policy makers and municipal planners with information about the basic principles, current practices, and potential benefits of composting as well as guidance in the planning, design, and operation of a municipal composting facility. The publication will also be useful to compost facility operators and technicians (for help in managing facilities and improving operations); consultants and designers; regulators and enforcement agencies; and other community stakeholders wishing to learn more about the role composting can play in municipal solid waste management. The publication was designed for use as a home-study guide or a textbook for classes and workshops.

Composting for Municipalities contains seven chapters that cover the major aspects of compost facility design and operation. Chapter topics include composting options (such as the composting methods and technologies available to municipalities); planning a municipal compost facility (including assembling a planning team, conducting a market survey, and identifying potential costs); siting a new facility; obtaining feedstock for composting (including sorting and separating mixed municipal solid waste); making compost; marketing compost; and managing a facility for long-term success. Information presented in the eight appendixes includes a sample preliminary market survey, sample outlines of important planning and contract documents, physical and chemical characteristics of commonly composted raw materials, a compost pad area calculation, and a listing of handy conversion factors. Also included in the book are 41 illustrations, 15 tables, numerous sample calculations, a glossary, and a list of resources for additional information.

Composting for Municipalities: Planning and Design Considerations was put together by Mark Dougherty, professional engineer and former staff engineer at NRAES. Mark attended the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service's Better Composting School and received a certificate of technical ability in composting from the University of Maine Cooperative Extension Compost School.

New Farm Workforce Management Publications Available

Two new publications from NRAES can help owners and managers of farms, horticultural businesses, and agriservice businesses learn to create a work environment that motivates employees and is productive, profitable, safe, and worker-friendly. The first publication is the proceedings of a conference titled "Workforce Management for Farms and Horticultural Businesses: Finding, Training, and Keeping Good Employees," which was held January 13-15, 1999, in Camp Hill, Pa. The proceedings ($15 plus S/H/sales tax, 140 pages, January 1999) includes papers on various aspects of farm workforce management by experts from the fields of human resources, law, business, academia, and government. A companion workbook is called Workshop Handouts, NRAES-122 ($12 plus S/H/sales tax, 66 pages, January 1999).

The proceedings Workforce Management for Farms and Horticultural Businesses: Finding, Training, and Keeping Good Employees, NRAES-117, offers 14 papers, including discussions of such key issues as the value of employees, communicating the business's mission, and managing a multicultural workforce. Other papers address material covered in training workshops at the conference: performance feedback, recruiting and hiring outstanding staff, getting the most from employees, and leadership as coaching to develop people. Additional papers address legal aspects of farm workforce management, such as elements of the employment contract, hiring with and without a contract, guest workers (the H-2A Temporary Agricultural Worker Program), discrimination in the workplace, the fundamentals of farm employment rules and regulations, the EPA worker protection standard, and developing a safety training program.

Workshop Handouts includes self-assessments, checklists, and guidelines concerning recruitment and hiring, communication styles, performance reviews, leadership styles, and motivating employees. This publication will help you define your approach to workforce management and the benefits and drawbacks of that approach.

In addition to owners and managers of farms, horticultural businesses, and agribusinesses and professionals who advise them, both publications will be of interest to readers, including managers and owners of businesses not big enough to have a human resource department, public- and private-sector farm advisors, professionals in the service and supply industry, agricultural educators, and government agency staff.

The proceedings, Workforce Management for Farms and Horticultural Businesses, NRAES-117, is available for $15 per copy, plus S/H/sales tax. Workshop Handouts, NRAES-122, is priced at $12 per copy, plus S/H/sales tax. Shipping and handling for one copy of either publication is $3.50 within the continental United States. The proceedings and workbook together cost $27, and shipping and handling for the set is $5 within the continental United States. (New York State residents must add 8% sales tax.) Both may be ordered from NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701.

Twenty-two million American workers produce, process, sell, and trade the nation's food and fiber. But only 4.6 million of those people live on farms — slightly less than 2 percent of the total U.S. population.

Soy Diesel Buckets Save The Day; Another Adventure Aboard Beyond

by Susanne Hammond
Md. Soybean Board

When your house is a sailboat, you learn to be resourceful. Everything you own does double duty to earn its place in a small space, and when your budget is limited, you create new ways to use and reuse what you've got.

That's been the case with Capt. Jim MacNeil and Rebecca Payne, two Maryland sailors off on a Caribbean cruise since late 1996. It's their dream vacation, and one that's been helped along by an unusual "crew" of soybean farmers from Maryland and Ohio, and a big biofuel plant in Lakeland, Fla.

Soybean farmers pay a "checkoff" assessment at the point of first sale, which is used for soybean research, promotion, and education. Through the checkoff, new soybean products are developed and commercialized, helping to increase the demand for soybeans.

Biodiesel, a diesel fuel made from soybean oil, was researched and developed and now is being commercialized with soybean checkoff dollars.

MacNeil and Payne have been burning a 20-percent blend of biodiesel called B20 in their 41-foot ketch, Beyond, since they left the Chesapeake. Regular shipments from NOPEC Corp., a biodiesel manufacturer in Florida, helps them maintain this long-term, long-distance test of B20.

For the sake of convenience, the biodiesel is shipped in five-gallon buckets — the same packaging available to boaters and others looking to use the biodegradable, nontoxic fuel, neat or blended. (Webshoppers should visit www.nbb.org to find local sources or do mail order.)

Since '96, Beyond has accumulated quite a stack of buckets. For sailors on a budget, that's actually a good thing.

The buckets make convenient storage containers and tool caddies, stack neatly when empty, and — when it rains — become the most valuable items on the boat. Set out across Beyond's teak decks, they collect rainwater — precious, clean, clear freshwater — that's useful for bathing and cleaning. Freshwater from cooking and drinking almost always must come from onshore, where it may or may not cost money to fill Beyond's tank.

Right around Christmas, the sailors found another use — as fire buckets.

In the weeks after Hurricane Georges, many Puerto Ricans, especially those near the coast, remained without power. Destruction was widespread and rubble more or less blocked many streets. Cleanup was slow.

"I was not surprised when Rebecca announced there was a fire ashore," MacNeil says. "I told her they were probably burning trash from the storm."

"I don't think so," Payne replied to him. "I heard fire extinguishers being discharged."

The binoculars confirmed their fears. Flames were licking from a window onshore.

A bucket brigade had been started, and there were plenty of men — but only three buckets. Because of the hurricane, the phones were not working. Someone had been dispatched to the local fire department.

Without hesitation, Payne loaded the biodiesel buckets into Beyond's dinghy as MacNeil put on long pants. In seconds, he was on his way across the harbor.

Before rushing to tie up his dinghy, MacNeil grabbed the stack of buckets and flung them over to the bucket-filler. For a moment, it was literally "raining buckets," MacNeil recalled.

A cheer went up from the brigade and their efforts redoubled. Within a half-hour, the fire was subdued.

Most of the damage was contained to the pump house, where the fire had started. The main house suffered blackened siding and some melted items on the interior from the intense heat, but was repairable. Injuries were minimal — just some pulled muscles and minor burns.

Buckets lay about the yard, all emblazoned with NOPEC's BioBooster label. As MacNeil gathered them up, a member of the homeowner's family asked him why he kept so many buckets.

MacNeil explained his voyage and that the buckets are useful for catching rainwater. The man listened, then pointed to his house and said, "Mi casa es su casa."

"He added that as long as we remained in the harbor, we'd never again have to worry about fresh water," MacNeil said.

In the weeks following, the Montserrat family and the sailors have become fast friends. They went sailing on Beyond and enjoyed dinners together.

Manny and Carmen and their daughter Rocio welcomed MacNeil and Payne at Christmas dinner — a native island feast including hot pastales (meat wrapped in green bananas); pumpkin and squash rolled and tied in paper or banana leaves; mocilla (a strong, dark blood sausage); spit-roasted pig; various rice dishes; and desserts of candied papaya, flan, and coconut rice pudding. To wash it down, they shared cool glasses of Coquito, a coconut rum liquor, and steaming espresso.

"The family now calls me 'half Puerto Rican' and I'm sure we're a bit rounder now, thanks to Carmen's fabulous criollo cuisine."

Health Insurance -- When You're Self-Employed, It's All Your Money

That's Why You Need MSA 100™

The self-employed can now get a major new tax break on their health insurance using a tax-advantaged medical savings account (MSA).

The medical savings plan, MSA 100, offers a variety of tax benefits for you, the self-employed:

- Contributions to the MSA are 100% deductible.
- Money spent on your health premium is 40% deductible.
- Withdrawals for qualified medical expenses are never taxed.
- Interest accumulates tax-deferred and, if used for medical care, is never taxed.

SCHOOL NEWS

The AmeriCorps personnel presented their "Victory Garden" idea to the students of the Friendsville Elementary School. "The Victory Garden" will be a cooperative effort between AmeriCorps and the school. AmeriCorps will supply cups, soil, seeds, fertilizer, and a spray bottle and the students will plant and care for the seeds until they become plants. AmeriCorps will then give the plants to deserving persons to plant in their gardens. This activity will help to tie in with the theme of the month, which is new plants, growth, and spring.

The second grade class of Friendsville Elementary School will once again travel to the Goodwill Mennonite Home to sing for the residents there. The students, with the help of parent volunteer Shawna Manges, made a bunny picture to give to each resident. They will also tour Yoder's Market to learn more about goods and services.

The fourth and fifth grade chorus will be traveling to Rt. 40, Keyser, Yough Glades, Dennett Road, and Accident elementary schools during April to perform their chorus program. The chorus will also perform for Senator Sarbanes in Washington, D.C., on May 25.

April brings forth a new Virtue of the Month for the students to participate in. The new "Virtue of the Month" is teamwork/cooperation.

National Breakfast Week will be celebrated again during the week of April 12-16. Parents are invited to participate by eating breakfast with their child during the week. Anyone interested should notify the office a day in advance.

Volunteers are still needed in the library to help re-shelve books and other library tasks. Anyone interested should contact Sally Frazee at the school.

Scholarship For Women Available Through BPW

Applications are now available for "A Scholarship for Women," the annual $600 award given by the Garrett County Business & Professional Women's Club. Lisa Thayer Welch, chairperson of the Scholarship Committee, stated that any woman over the age of 30 who will be attending any accredited institution and studying in a vocational, technical, or academic program that leads to a degree or certificate may apply. The Scholarship Committee must receive applications by May 14.

Scholarship awards are based on criteria including proof of acceptance at a vocational, technical, or academic school or college for the upcoming term; three letters of reference of character and abilities from persons not related to the applicant; and information requested by the scholarship application. This includes financial need, community involvement, and the applicant's apparent ability to achieve her educational goals.

Applications may be obtained from any BPW member, and at the financial aid offices of Garrett Community College, Allegany College, and Frostburg State University. For more information or an application, interested persons may also contact Welch at 301-334-1974, days, or 301-387-4405, evenings.

McHenry Church Choir To Sing Easter Cantata

The McHenry United Methodist Church will present an Easter Cantata titled "Jesus Christ is Lord," written by Marty Parks. The presentation will be held Easter Sunday, April 4, at 11 a.m. at the church, located at the intersection of Bumble Bee and Mosser roads.

The choir is under the direction of Doug Gaither. This will be the choir's first-time appearance for the newly restructured church, with the Reverend Warren Friend as pastor.

The church will sponsor an egg hunt on Saturday, April 3, at 1 p.m. for all children, regardless of the weather conditions. The egg hunt will also include face painting, crafts, balloons, prizes and refreshments.

Regular Sunday events include 9:30 a.m. fellowship with refreshments, 10 a.m. Sunday School for adults and children, worship service at 11 a.m. including a children's message, and church for children.

GC Health Dept. Gives Safety Tips On Egg Handling

As the Easter bunny season approaches, Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department offers some tips for safer egg handling.

"Eggs are potentially hazardous, which means that they are capable of supporting the rapid and progressive growth of disease-causing bacteria," explained Tina Buckel, food service coordinator. After hard-cooking eggs, it is re-commended that the eggs be air-cooled. Air-cooled hard boiled eggs are considered to be shelf-stable (in other words, no longer potentially hazardous) and can be left out at room temperature, she stated.

Eggs that are cooled in water should be refrigerated as they can still cause food-borne illness. "To be on the safe side, all eggs should be refrigerated," Buckel said.

Careful egg handling requires thorough hand washing, whether cooking, cooling, dyeing, or hiding the eggs.

After dyeing, eggs should be kept in the refrigerator. If the dyed eggs are to be eaten after egg hunts, they should not be left out of refrigeration for long periods of time. If dyed eggs are used for decoration or display, they should not be eaten but thrown away at the end of the season.

Mental Health Associates Seek Personal Stories

The Families Subcommittee of the Mountain Top Mental Health Associates Inc. (MTMHA), the public mental health system management agency for Garrett County, reports it is continuing to learn from families who have mentally ill family members. The subcommittee will attempt to improve services available through improved education, planning, and coordination activities.

Pastor Roland Nairn, Families Subcommittee chair, said he believes that learning from those who have most personally been affected will permit the CSA to work towards structuring the public mental health system in Garrett County most appropriately. "Many families have experienced the trials when a family member becomes mentally ill, and these families no longer take good mental health for granted. The stigma of mental illness, however, is so strong that many families do not discuss the illness nor their stories of how they learned to cope. Yet their journey can be helpful for other families to grow and learn, and their difficult lessons learned can be shared with others," Nairn said.

May is Mental Health Awareness Month, and the MTMHA is preparing several activities, including workshops, public service announcements, and other activities designed to inform the community about mental illness. Persons who would like to share their stories are asked to contact the MTMHA offices.

"Confidentiality is assured, and every effort will be made to assist families to resolve problems," Pastor Nairn said. Stories may be published if appropriate and with the consent of the family, although no names or other identifying information will be included. The offices can be reached at 301-334-8144 or by mail at P.O. Box 437, Oakland, MD 21550.

Arthritis Pain Mystery Solved

Horse Liniment is the secret!

OCALA, FL. -- An ingredient used to treat inflammation in thoroughbred racehorse legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx® and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Gulf Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Scientists suggest that ARTH-Rx works by intercepting the pain messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain. Although the mechanism is not totally clear, pain is relieved in the affected area because the pain signal actually disappears.

ARTH-Rx is the only product on the market with Neurocaine and is available in a convenient, pleasant scented roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, ARTH-Rx is available in pharmacies, nutrition stores, and even some feed stores. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446. © 1997 PGC

The Substitute Trustees reserve the unqualified right to withdraw the premises, at any time prior to the sale or release the premises from the effect of the Deed of Trust. If the Substitute Trustees determine that any bid is not commensurate with the value of the premises, they may reject the bid and withdraw the premises from sale. The highest bidder acknowledged by the Substitute Trustees shall be the purchaser and, in the event of any dispute among the bidders, the Substitute Trustees shall have the sole and final discretion to determine the successful bidder or to resell the premises.

The premises are sold in an "as is" condition with purchaser responsible for any housing and/or zoning violations, and neither the Substitute Trustees nor any other party makes any warranty or representation, either expressed or implied, of any kind or character, with respect to the premises' physical condition. The premises are sold subject to any and all convenants, conditions restrictions, easements, rights-of-way and limitations of record, including, but not limited to, any restrictions arising under the state and county laws. The premises are sold subject to the rights of persons, other than the Substitute Trustees, in possession of all or of any part of the premises as tenants under recorded or unrecorded leases, if any. Neither the Substitute Trustees, nor any other party guarantees or covenants to deliver or in any way obtain possession of the premises for the purchaser. A deposit of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will be required to bid upon the premises. All deposits shall be in the form of cash, certified check, cashier's check or some other form of exchange acceptable to the Substitute Trustees, in their sole and final discretion, and will be required from the purchaser (if other than the noteholder) at the time of sale. the balance of the purchase price, together with interest on such balance at the rate of 13.5% per annum from the date of sale to the date of settlement, must be paid in cash, or equivalent current funds, on the date of settlement.

The property will be sold subject to a prior mortgage from March 11, 1994, in the original amount of $81,000.

All state and local real estate taxes, other public charges, regular or special assessments and the like, shall be adjusted to the date of the foreclosure sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. The purchaser shall pay all state, county and city transfer taxes, recordation taxes and fees, title examination costs, attorney's fees, conveyancing fees, notary fees and all other costs incident to the settlement.

The purchaser shall settle and comply with the sale terms within ten (10) days after the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland finally ratifies the sale; TIME BEING OF THE ESSENCE. If the purchaser defaults, in addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to them, the Substitute Trustees may declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the premises at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. In such event, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney's fees and all other charges. Conveyance of the property shall be by Substitute Trustee's Deed, without covenant or warranty, express or implied.

If for any reason the Substitute Trustees are not able to convey good and merchantable title as advertised or announced at sale, or if any exceptions to the sale are sustained, the purchaser's sole remedy shall be a refund of the deposit, without interest. Upon refund of the deposit, the sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE that the Town of Oakland, on the 1st day of March, 1999, introduced an Annexation Resolution, in accordance with the provisions of Article 23A, Section 19 of the Annotated Code of Maryland, for the annexation of the area known as the Route 219 North Annexation, and providing that the area to be annexed shall be zoned as "Town Center" category as defined by the Oakland Zoning Ordinance. The full resolution as introduced is as follows:

BEFORE THE MAYOR AND TOWN COUNCIL OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND, RESOLUTION NO.: R99-02 (ANNEXATION NO. A99-01-ROUTE 219 NORTH ANNEXATION)

WHEREAS, pursuant to Section 19(b) of Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland, the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland have initiated this Resolution to enlarge the corporate boundaries of the Town by annexation of land adjoining and contiguous to the existing corporate boundaries, and being the area known as the Route 219 North Annexation, as is depicted in detail on a Plat dated October 13, 1998, as revised January 20, 1999, prepared by Morgan C. France, surveyor; and

WHEREAS, the Mayor and Town Council have caused to be made a verification of the fact that the said annexation has been consented to by not less than twenty-five percent (25%) of the persons who reside in the area to be annexed, and who are registered as voters in County elections, and from the owners of not less than twenty-five percent (25%) of the assessed valuation of the real property located in the area to be annexed, as evidenced by the signatures of said persons on writings establishing their consent.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MAYOR AND TOWN COUNCIL OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THAT ALL THE LAND LYING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF THE HEREINAFTER DESCRIBED PARCEL OR PARCELS SHALL BE ANNEXED TO AND BECOME PART OF THE TOWN OF OAKLAND.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that from and after the effective date of this Resolution, all persons residing in the area to be annexed shall be and become citizens of the Town of Oakland, and subject to the provisions of the Charter of said Town, and any amendments thereto, and that all real property so annexed and the personal property thereon shall be subject to the municipal property taxes to be levied by said Town, and that all of the said property, real and personal, will be taxed as all other property within the Town of Oakland, at the tax rate legally set by the Mayor and Town Council thereof.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Mayor and Town Council shall extend such services to the residents to be annexed hereby, as are extended to other residents of the Town of Oakland, where available.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that, inasmuch as the area to be annexed is designated in the Garrett County Development Plan as "General Commercial" "Rural" or "Suburban Residential" (as shown thereon according to designation of the various tracts thereof), and that at this time there is no actual zoning ordinance within Garrett County which affects the area to be annexed, and consequently no specific land use definitions therefor, and inasmuch as the Zoning Ordinance for the Town of Oakland contains a land use category designated as "Town Center," and inasmuch as the area to be annexed has been designated by the State of Maryland as a "Priority Funding Area" (PRA) because it is expected to experience accelerated development and said area contains such uses as single-family residences, new and used car sales businesses, food and grocery stores, a real estate office and restaurant, etc., and inasmuch as all of these uses are permitted in the zoning category known as "Town Center" as defined by the Zoning Ordinance of the Town of Oakland, and, therefore, the Mayor and Town Council have determined that the annexed area shall be zoned "Town Center" (TC) under the Zoning Ordinance of the Town of Oakland, as adopted October 23, 1989, and as subsequently amended, and said area shall be designated as such on the official zoning map for the Town of Oakland, as said category is most compatible with the actual character of the area to be annexed.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that Notice of this Resolution shall be published in a newspaper with general circulation within the Town of Oakland and Garrett County, giving notice that the public hearing on this Resolution shall be held in the Council Room at the Oakland Town Hall on the 19th day of April, 1999, which date is not less than fifteen (15) days after the fourth (4th) publication of said Notice as provided for herein.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that this Resolution shall become effective on the forty-sixth (46th) day following its final enactment.

ROBERT E. WATSON, Town Attorney

The Mayor and Town Council shall hold a public hearing on this Resolution, and the annexation, on the 19th day of April, 1999, in the Oakland Town Hall located at 15 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, at 7:00 p.m.

By the Authority of Mayor and Town Council of Oakland
By its Town Counsel, Robert E. Watson

A STAR! in Western Maryland is looking for new Members!

A STAR! AmeriCorps program is recruiting Corps Members to join our team starting September 1999. All positions are contingent upon funding. Members will be required to have a background check prior to beginning service. The AmeriCorps program in this area is administered by the Western Maryland Alliance for Service, a partnership formed by Frostburg State University and local community service agencies. A STAR! provides direct service in the areas of health, education, environment, and unmet human needs to residents of Allegany and Garrett counties. A STAR! is an example of "Getting Things Done" when communities pull together.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS:

What could I receive in exchange for my service?

In exchange for one year of service, you would receive a living allowance averaging $8,370 per year, health care, child care (if eligible), and an education award of $4,725 at the completion of one year and 1700 hours of service.

Am I eligible to join AmeriCorps?

AmeriCorps Members represent a "snapshot of America," drawing from a diverse range of age, race, income, education, etc. To be eligible, you must be 17 years or older; a U.S. citizen or legal resident; and a high school graduate or be willing to complete GED requirements during the year of service.

For more information or an application, call the Alliance Office at 301-687-7599, or the individual agency you wish to apply. Applications can also be picked up at the FSU Lane Center Information Desk, FSU Braddock House, and the agencies listed. Applications will be reviewed until positions are filled. All positions are contingent upon grant funding. FSU and the Western Maryland Alliance for Service are AA/EEO employers.

Oakland Man Charged With Rape, Assault

An Oakland man faces numerous counts of rape and assault after his March 26 arrest by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation when it was learned that he had allegedly been engaging in an ongoing sexual relationship with a juvenile female.

Bushrod Kenneth Hardesty, 18, has been charged with eight counts each of second degree rape and second degree assault. He is currently being held in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $100,000 bond set by a district court commissioner.

In a separate GBI investigation, a Loch Lynn man was arrested on Friday for reportedly having a sexual relationship with a juvenile female in February and March.

Timothy Wayne Walden, 22, faces charges of two counts of third degree sexual offense and two counts of second degree assault. He faces an additional three counts of providing an alcoholic beverage to three juvenile females on March 27 in the Loch Lynn area.

Walden's arrest on those allegations came on the heels of his March 28 arrest in connection with a domestic assault that occurred at the residence he and a woman share. The alleged victim reported that during an argument that morning Walden pushed her and a couch over and kicked her in the back. That altercation resulted in a second-degree assault charge.

Walden is being held on a $6,000 bond set by a dis-

STOW THE SLED AND INFLATE THE INNER-TUBE, the season of sun has begun. Actually, there are still a few piles of old snow still hanging on, but they aren't stopping the rash of spring fever that has pounced on residents in the past week. Warm air and sunny days are resulting in the creation of a green haze across the landscape, where buds are finally daring to open. The folks in the boat pictured above are Deep Creek Lake rangers Karl Christensen and Darryl Riley, who were out this week putting in the docks at the state park. The men said they would be placing the buoys soon and the park will open for business in a few weeks. The weekend will be a nice one, according to the forecasters, with optimum weather for kite flying, bike riding, or sun worshipping. Photo by John McEwen.

Traffic Lights Considered At Two DCL Sites

Officials at the Maryland Department of Transportation, State Highway Administration (SHA), and the Garrett County Roads Department are currently considering the installation of stoplights at two Deep Creek Lake intersections. One will possibly be placed at the intersection of Glendale Road and Rt. 219, and the other at the crossing of Rt. 219 and Mosser (Bumble Bee) Road.

Fred Crozier, district engineer for SHA, the county commissioners, Lee Thorne (county roads administrator), and other roads officials met last week to discuss the possibility of installing these traffic lights.

The Deep Creek locations have been the subjects of SHA traffic engineering studies over the past several months, upon the request of Thorne and other officials. The SHA uses a list of "signal warrants" to judge the need for traffic light installation, and both sites met at least three of those warrants.

At the Glendale/219 location, the SHA officials recommended the pursuit of a traffic light because four signal warrants were met there. The number of accidents was not significant, but the risk to pedestrians is on the increase, and there are significant seasonal fluctuations in traffic flow.

If a light would go up at this three-way crossing, the first phase would be to erect equipment for an "intersection control beacon," or flashing light, which engineers would be able to easily upgrade to a full signal at a later date. The flashing light phase would help teach drivers of the change, the SHA official said. He also noted that a second option would be to build a full signal but have it operate on a seasonal schedule, only controlling

A 150TH BIRTHDAY, known officially as a sesquicentennial, will be celebrated by the town of Oakland in October of this year, and a commemorative poster advertising the event, pictured above, is now on sale for $5 each at Oakland Town Hall. The poster was designed by Carol Welch of The Republican newspaper staff, and features Our Town Theatre actors (Richard Hill, Liz Gilbert, and Brittany Harvey) dressed in period costumes waiting for a train at Oakland's historic B&O Railroad Station. Several planning meetings have been held by dozens of community volunteers to prepare for the week-long celebration (Oct. 10-17), much of which will coincide with the annual Autumn Glory Festival. Governor Parris Glendening has been invited to attend and to help re-dedicate the train station. A daily schedule of events is still being developed, and Oakland Mayor Asa McCain and Main Street Program coordinator Glenn Tolbert welcome additional event ideas from the general public.

Concerns Voiced About Lake Sale; Officials Urging Tact

Several local individuals met with the Garrett County commissioners this week to express their concern about sections of the Letter of Intent for the sale of Deep Creek Lake from GPU Inc. to the state of Maryland. The individuals represented the Deep Creek Lake Affairs Committee of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, the Deep Creek Property Owners Association, and the Legislative Committee of the Garrett County Board of Realtors.

The group asked the commissioners to withhold their formal approval of the sale document until more information is learned concerning the 600 acres of land to be retained by GPU. The energy company and the state settled last Tuesday on a lake sale price of $7.8 million. Although the formal sale is not expected to be finalized until June 30, a Letter of Intent signed by the state and GPU officials delineates the terms of sale.

The purchase includes the lake, the buffer strip along the shore line, and other parcels. The final agreement will permanently place over 4,400 acres into the state's park system, according to information released by Governor Parris Glendening last week. However, approximately 600 acres will remain in the ownership of GPU for five years. If it is not sold during that time, this land will revert to the state. The actual location of this 600 acres is unclear, as formal maps had yet to be released to the public Tuesday. However, the commissioners had requested the maps, and the [illegible] to be delivered by the state officials this week, perhaps today, to the courthouse.

Karen Myers, Jonathan ("Smiley") Kessler, Ed King, and other members of the group who met with the commissioners Tuesday said they are worried about the possible complications that could occur with the 600-acre tract. In a prepared report, they posed several questions about the land and how it might be sold. First, they asked if it could be acquired for the $3.8 million they said was reported to be the difference in previous state negotiations. They also asked if this were true, could the county acquire it and effectively become a joint owner along with the state of the entirety of the lake and full buffer strip?

They urged specifically that the commissioners stress to all involved in the sale that there are to be "no changes to the rights and use of the lake and buffer strip for existing permit holders and adjacent land owners." They also suggested that the commissioners stipulate that the land could perhaps only be sold to adjacent property owners.

Kessler reported that he had researched the issue and had determined the land to be possibly connected to the buffer strip, which would be a tract encircling the entire lake. He and others worried that lake access could become a

One Maryland Program Close To Approval; Contingent On Cig. Tax

Final vote on tobacco tax set today

As the Maryland General Assembly charges into its closing days for 1999, the debate continues on Governor Parris Glendening's proposed $1 tobacco tax. The governor has announced that $10 million of his supplemental budget will go into Speaker of the House Casper Taylor's One Maryland Program, but only if the full $1 tax is approved by the Senate. The House approved the tax earlier in the session, but only a $.36 tax has been approved by the Senate Budget and Taxation Committee.

The committee's approved tax would effectively raise the state tobacco tax by 100%.

Proponents of the tariff maintain that this action will reduce the number of tobacco users, chiefly young people. Opponents are claiming that the real reason behind the tax is to fund "pork barrel" projects and not to deter smokers.

Glendening announced Monday that his $153 million general fund supplemental budget is based upon the passage of the $1 tax. With this amount assured the state, he said he will commit $10 million for One Maryland, the plan designed by Taylor to target economic and job development activities to Smart Growth communities in regions of the state that have not fully benefited from the state's economic prosperity. Garrett County is on the list of "economically distressed areas," and would benefit from the One Maryland plan.

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival '99 Season Of Events Is Announced

A variety of music and other presentations will be featured throughout this year's Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) season of events, slated to open on April 23 with a dramatic production.

"Everything from classical piano to bluegrass, from gospel to symphony is on the summer schedule," said Beth Johnson, executive director of GLAF.

The season will begin with the National Players, who will present Edmund Rostand's Cyrano de Bergerac on April 23 at 8 p.m. in the Garrett Community College (GCC) auditorium. Tickets for this single performance are now on sale at the GLAF box office at GCC. Persons are advised to make reservations in advance.

Classical pianist Marina Lomazov will perform on May 30 at Will O' the Wisp. The concert, to begin at 3 p.m., is being sponsored by David and Irene Eyer and will be presented

GLAF To Open Season With Famous Play

Cyrano de Bergerac, a romantic drama by French playwright Edmund Rostand, will open the 1999 Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) season on April 23, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Garrett Community College. The play will be presented by the National Players, the resident touring company of the University of Maryland.

The play was first presented in Paris where it was performed for a record-breaking 300 nights. The production made famous the character of Cyrano, a romantic writer embarrassed by his large nose, who conceals his identity as he pursues his love for Roxana. He directs the romance with Roxana by using another man, Christian, who serves as his stand-in.

Members of the National Players are chosen from among the most talented in conjunction with Music at Penn Alps.

Another afternoon event at Will O' the Wisp will take place at 3 p.m. on June 6, when the West Virginia String Quartet will present a concert sponsored by Mettiki Coal Corporation. The tempo will change on June 12 when popular gospel singer Ethel Caffie Austin entertains at GCC at 8 p.m.

Internationally known storyteller Donald Davis will take the GCC stage on June 22 and 23, offering two workshops and an evening performance. An innovative program titled "Word Beat — Poetry, Prose, and Percussion" will be presented at Our Town Theatre on June 25 at 8 p.m.

The Maryland Humanities Council will host another Chautauqua at GCC, July 5-8. "American Originals" will be presented under the traditional tent on the college lawn.

"Elizabethan Roots of Appalachian Music" by local musicians is slated at the GCC auditorium on July 10 at 8 p.m. and July 11 at 3 p.m. This program will be sponsored by First United Bank and Trust.

Two workshops for young people will be held

Native American Center Building Reportedly Stalled

The construction of an American Indian conference center, known as Wind Hollow, in the Bittinger area has apparently been postponed. Donald Keel and Theda McPheron Keel, founders of the Wind Hollow Foundation, had planned to break ground this spring and have most of the center completed over the summer, but, according to other published reports, the construction will not begin this year.

Keel apparently stated that the multi-million-dollar complex will still be built on the 140 acres of Garrett County ground, close to the Casselman River; however, a new building time line has not been released.

According to reports, the Keels are currently focusing on various Native American health issues. They recently relocated from Morgantown, W.Va., to the Frederick area, according to reports.

Plans Finalized For Choral Society Concert This Weekend

MICHAEL HORTON

JENNIFER GILLMER

CELIA AMSTUTZ

With plans nearing completion for the Garrett Choral Society's performance of Bach's Magnificat and Vivaldi's Gloria this weekend, director Nancy Learey announced this week that Michael Horton, Los Angeles, and Jennifer Gillmer, Reston, Va., will fill the remaining solo roles, while Dr. Celia Amstutz, also of Virginia, will be the guest organist. The other soloists for the performance, announced recently, are Eugene Galvin and Rose Bello.

Since moving from Europe to Los Angeles in 1993, Horton has debuted at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion as soloist with the Los Angeles Master Chorale in a presentation of Handel's Messiah, in Benjamin Britten's Rejoice in the Lamb with conductor Paul Salamunovich, with the San Diego Symphony as Camile in The Merry Widow, and in the Pacific Symphony Orchestra's From Vienna to Broadway, after which he was declared "a phenomenal singer and immensely talented" by the Orange County Register.

Horton starred in the Hamburg production of Andrew Lloyd Webber's Phantom of the Opera as Andre and Reyer, under the direction of Hal Prince. He also starred in Cats and Jesus Christ, Superstar. Other appearances include those with the Long Beach Opera, Opera Pacific, Pittsburgh Opera, Lake George Opera Festival, Berkshire Choral Festival (Santa Fe and Scheffield), Cincinnati Opera, and regular appearances with the Pacific Symphony Orchestra with guest conductor Jack Everly.

Horton can be heard on the CD How Do I Love Thee? and has sung on the soundtracks of many motion pictures, including Independence Day, Men in Black,

CAUGHT IN THE CROSS-WINDS this tractor trailer load of pallets shifted, causing the truck to flip over early yesterday morning on Garrett Highway near Keyser's Ridge. Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack reported that Walter Richard Fike, 38, Accident, was heading northbound near Diesel School Road at 12:45 a.m. when the severe wind wrecked its havoc. Though the cab of the truck suffered extensive damage, Fike's injuries did not require emergency transport. Grantsville VFD responded to the scene and reported that wooden pallets were retrieved from 150 feet from the road.

Clarification Noted

In last week's story about Deep Creek Lake, it was reported that Edwards was the delegate who filed a bill to raise Garrett County's share of state park revenue from 15% to 25%. Edwards noted this week that it was actually former delegate DeCorsey Bolden who entered the bill in the 1970s. Edwards was at that time a commissioner, along with Wayne Hamilton and Don Bender, and that fiscal authority had asked Bolden to pursue the legislation, which was successful. Apologies to Mr. Bolden for the error.

COME SEE HOW THEY RUN! A great deal of running about and slamming doors one after the other can be seen and heard on the Southern High School stage this weekend, April 9 and 10, at 8 p.m. each night, as the school's department of theatre arts presents the play See How They Run. The tickets are $3 each to this British farce, which director Jane Avery said will be "great family fare." Written by Philip King, the play is being produced by special arrangement with Samuel French Inc. The cast members, photographed above in one of their many fracases, are (left to right) Amy Snyder (as Penelope Toop), Jon Wildesen (Lionel Toop), Mikey Virts (Corporal Clive Winton), Pat Murphy (Reverend Humphrey), Russ Crosco (Sgt. Towers), Jay Murphy (the Russian), Kane Wengerd (the Bishop of Lax), Marianne Peracchio (Miss Skillon), and Janet Cook (Ida).

Man Convicted Of Theft To Serve Month

An Oakland man has been sentenced to 18 months in jail by Garrett County Circuit Court Judge James Sherbin. Seventeen months of the term for Chad Allen Ward, 20, was then suspended. The defendant pleaded guilty in court proceedings last week of misdemeanor theft.

Ward will be on probation for six months following his release from jail, according to a report from the State's Attorney for Garrett County. The 30 days will be added to a 13-month jail term already being served by the defendant for other charges.

Ward was charged by the Oakland City Police, whose investigation revealed that he and a juvenile had entered into a pick-up truck parked at the Oak Lee Dairyland and had removed a purse and its contents last October.

In another circuit case, a Mtn. Lake Park man was sentenced to six months in jail, having been convicted of driving a motor vehicle while his privilege to do so was revoked. David Wayne Welch, 33, was arrested last September when an Oakland police officer, who knew Welch's license had been revoked, observed him driving a vehicle in town.

A second charge of driving while suspended was dismissed when the defendant pleaded guilty to the first charge, according to information from the state's attorney's office.

STRIKE UP THE BAND - The 1999 Student Arts Fair gets under way Saturday at 11 a.m. at Garrett Community College. One group that will perform during the festive event is the Northern High School Band. Business Growth Attributed To GGBA Web Site

Grantsville business owner Candy Fetterly's Walnut Ridge Bed and Breakfast is among more than 60 businesses listed on the Greater Grantsville Business Association web site. At a recent general meeting of the business group, she reported that the Internet display had contributed to a noted increase in inquiries and bookings at her B&B.

The GGBA web site, designed and installed more than 15 months ago, catalogs each member of the area organization according to product or service, and gives an address and phone number. In addition, the site provides photos and general interest information including local history, attractions in the Grantsville area, a calendar of community events, and maps of the region, county, and town streets.

About 16 of the GGBA members have also linked from the web site to their own home pages. Fetterly is one who did so as soon as the site was up and running. "Since January of 1998 the GGBA site has had about 1,000 hits. People are looking at it," she told the group members.

Fetterly's web site is complete with pictures of the interior views of the rooms and cabin available at the B&B, a listing of local activities and special package deals, and local recipes, she explained. "My business has doubled from people learning about it on the web site," Fetterly said.

As more people use the Internet to seek information and even shop for merchandize, displaying of products and services on a home page becomes a stronger factor in business growth, Fetterly said.

Another GGBA member who has experienced a positive response from web site users is Debbie Klotz, owner of the antiques shop Dream Weavers. On the home page for the business Klotz has noted that anyone who mentions learning about the store on the Internet will receive a discount on a purchase. "Debbie has had people come to Grantsville just to shop in Dreamweavers and they tell her they have found her on the web site. It really works," Fetterly reported.

Lindy Moebs, president of the GGBA and owner of MuttWorks, has linked her home page to the group's web site. Along with some pet photos, the page describes her pet services and her own line of pet colognes. "Lindy designed a place on her page where customers can order the pet colognes directly and pay with a credit card," Fetterly said.

Persons may visit the GGBA on-line at www.ggcnet.net/ggba. For more information on the business association persons may call Lindy Moebs at 301-895-5510.

Southern Band Boosters Schedule Bluegrass, Gospel Music Program

An evening of Grand Ole Opry style entertainment, featuring both bluegrass and gospel music, will be presented at Southern High School Friday, May 7, at 8 p.m. The program is sponsored by the Southern Band Boosters, and advance tickets are on sale now.

Appearing in full concert will be 1999 Grammy Award nominees and Grand Ole Opry legends Jim and Jesse and The Virginia Boys, and The Lewis Family, known as the nation's first family of gospel bluegrass, featuring the comedic antics and "fast-lick picking" of five-string banjo "wizard," Little Roy. Also appearing will be Luke McKnight, a fast-rising, young bluegrass artist, whose music appeals to teenagers as well as adults.

Now in their 35th year as members of the world famous Grand Ole Opry, brothers Jim and Jesse McReynolds have become known for such chart-topping recordings as "Paradise"; "Diesel On My Tail"; "Better Times A-Coming"; "Cotton Mill Man"; "Memphis"; "Sweet Little Miss Blue Eyes"; and the famous movie theme, "The Ballad of Thunder Road." They were honored in 1997 by First Lady Hillary Clinton at the White House, who presented them the National Endowment for the Arts Heritage Award.

Their 1998 album release, Songs From The Home Place, on the Pinecastle label, was nominated for a Grammy, which led to the record company's decision to release a four-CD box set featuring 100 of the duet's most popular songs including, the re-release of parts of a lauded live album they made several years ago in Tokyo, Japan.

The Lewis Family, who travel to more than 200 show dates annually from their home base in Lincolnton, Ga., offer a unique blend of "rollicking stage humor, heartfelt spiritual inspiration, driving instrumentation, and unpredictable surprises."

Named to the Georgia Music Hall of Fame and having over 50 recorded albums and three videos to their credit, The Lewis Family has been featured nationally on both the Word and Benson record labels, and on noted broadcasts over CBS, TNN, NBC, The Grand Ole Opry, and The Gospel Jubilee. Their tours have taken them to every state, across Canada, and overseas to England, Japan, Holland, France, and Italy.

Advance tickets may be purchased now from any Southern Garrett Band Booster member, or at Englander's Pharmacy, Cannon's Ace Hardware in Keyser, W.Va., Bill's Marine Service at Deep Creek Lake, the Plaza Drug Mart in Kingwood, W.Va., or by mail by calling 1-301-387-9275 or by writing: Bluegrass Show Tickets, Attention: Mary V. Beckman, P.O. Box 3012, Swanton, MD 21561-3012. Persons should make checks payable to Southern Band Boosters.

Advance tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for students, a saving of $2.50 each over the prices at the door. Children under 6 are admitted free. All tickets are general admission and are being sold on a first-come, first-served basis. Doors will open at 7 p.m.

Rep. Smith To Be Speaker For Lincoln Dinner

The Garrett County Republican Central Committee has announced that Congressman Nick Smith will be the speaker for the 27th annual Lincoln Day Dinner. Elected from Michigan's 7th District in 1992, Congressman Smith was an intelligence officer in the U.S. Air Force, is a former state senator from Michigan, and owns a 2,000-acre dairy farm.

His congressional activities have included legislation for farmers which became part of the 1997 tax cut package passed by Congress. He sponsored the Budget Enforcement Act, which limits discretionary spending, and it became part of the House Budget agreements. He introduced legislation to reform Social Security and ensure its solvency. The Neutral Cost Recovery Act was introduced by Smith. This bill would cut taxes on business investments, create jobs and income, and would stimulate the economy, according to supporters.

Smith is the chairman of the House Task Force Committee on debt limit and the misuse of trust funds. He serves on the Budget, Agriculture, and Science committees.

The Lincoln Day Dinner will be held Thursday, April 29, at the Wisp McHenry House, beginning with a social hour at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. The cost is $25 per person. Tickets are

Md. Environmental Trust Official To Head Local Efforts

JOHN WILLIAMSON

The leadership role of Maryland Mountain Trust, western Maryland's non-profit land conservation organization, has been assumed by John Williamson, a trustee for the Maryland Environmental Trust. As acting director for the fledgling Garrett County-based group, Williamson was here last week to review the progress of this project.

Organized in May 1998, Md. Mtn. Trust is the first land conservation/preservation organization in Garrett County and one of many statewide. Chartered by the state, the trust is governed by a board of directors, at which Williamson takes the helm to fill the term of Dr. Peter Brown.

Among his first duties as acting director, Williamson interviewed some perspective board members and visited several sites in Garrett County which have been put into conservation easements or are currently awaiting application acceptance.

As Md. Mtn. Trust approaches the end of its first year, program field director Mick Womersley, who is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the trust, said the board has set a goal to broaden the spectrum of local residents involved in developing Garrett County's trust program. "He (Williamson) wants to bring onto the board people who are interested in preserving culturally historic land and farmland, as well as scenic areas," Womersley said.

Traveling through Garrett County with Williamson last week was Barbara Levin, conservation easement planner for Maryland Environmental Trust. Her efforts in western Maryland include education about environmental conservation and programs that help to protect local heritage.

Anyone interested in learning more about Maryland's land conservation programs, including Rural Legacy and agricultural and environmental trusts, may contact Md. Mtn. Trust in Garrett County at 301-689-8164 or e-mail mickatum@aol.com.

Board Of Ed. Notes Agenda For Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday, April 13, in the board meeting room. The session will be called to order at 2:25 p.m..

The first agenda item is the annual presentation by the student councils of Northern middle and high schools and Southern middle and high schools. Public comment will be taken at 3:40 p.m. with executive session immediately following.

The public session will re-open at approximately 5 p.m. Among the administrative concerns that will be addressed beginning at 5:15 p.m. are action on a contract award for mechanical upgrades at Swan Meadow School and several school bus issues including passes and loading zones.

Consideration of instructional matters is scheduled to start at 5:35 p.m. and include information on the Technology Literacy Challenge Fund, the MICCA 1999 Computer Educator Award, National Board Teacher Certification, and a "Gear-Up" proposal on career and technical education.

The meeting is open to the public.

GLAF BENEFIT PLANNING UNDER WAY — The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Benefit Committee is hard at work planning this spring's gala, which has been titled "Blues in the Night." The event, a main fund-raiser for GLAF, is slated for May 22 and will include a limited silent auction with special items collected by committee members. Also available will be an open bar until dinner is served. The decorations will be predominately blue with a jazz theme, and special "blue surprises" will be featured during dinner. Wine for guests is also included in the price of the ticket. Music by Windfall, for listening or dancing, will begin at 8 p.m. Invitations will be mailed soon to last year's guests; however, invitations are not required. Committee members, pictured above left to right, are Nancy Nemith, Ann Englander, Jane Frawley, Chan Bell, Susannah Kurtz, Martin Heise (chair), and Vava Ralley. Not present for the photo were committee members Mary Warther and Tiddie Wheeler. For more information and/or reservations, persons may call 301-387-5018, 301-387-9474, or the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

MSP Reports Burglary In McHenry Area

A burglary at a residence along Mosser Road was investigated last week by Maryland State Police from the McHenry barrack.

Police reported that sometime between the hours of 5:30 p.m. March 30 and 12:30 a.m. March 31 an unknown suspect or suspects entered the McHenry residence of James E. Sherbin through an unlocked door, gained access to the garage and took the victim's 1997 purple and yellow Honda CSR600 F3 motorcycle. The suspect reportedly drove the motorcycle, wrecked it, and returned it to the garage.

CDS ARREST

A seat belt violation stop by police last Friday lead to an arrest for possession of a suspected controlled dangerous substance.

Police reported that Michael A. Evans, 23, Oakland, was operating a 1990 Subaru on Route 135 east of Sand Flat Road on Friday at 4:30 p.m. when he was stopped for not wearing a seatbelt.

The officer reported that when he approached the vehicle, which Evans had pulled onto the shoulder of the road, he saw beer bottles, a metal smoking pipe, and suspected marijuana in the car. Evans was charged with posssion of a suspected controlled dangerous substance with intent to use.

State's Attorney Welch To Speak At GCC Event

Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County, will speak on the topics of abuse, separation, divorce, custody, and child support in a special presentation at Garrett Community College, Room 305, on Thursday, April 15, at 12:30 p.m. Persons in difficult and painful situations who wish to learn their options, responsibilities, and sources of help are encouraged to attend the session.

As state's attorney for the county since July 1996, Welch prosecutes all juvenile matters, and has been involved in criminal and family court matters for the past 12 years. She is chairperson of the Family Violence Coalition and serves on the advisory committees of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation and the Narcotics Task Force.

This presentation is being sponsored by the New Dimensions, New Horizons, and The Caring Connection programs of GCC, under the direction of Barbara Frey. For more information about the free program or to register, persons may call 301-387-3102 or 301-387-3071.

The New Horizons program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and GCC, and the New Dimensions program is funded by the Department of Human Resources.

First Knight, Waterworld, Extreme Measures, Mars Attacks!, and Disney's Inspector Gadget. Since 1983, he has voiced puppet characters on the popular PBS children's television series Mister Rogers' Neighborhood, singing in such Neighborhood operas as A Grandad for Daniel and Josephine, the Short-Necked Giraffe.

Jennifer Gillmer, a native of North Carolina, regularly performs in the Washington, D.C., area, and has performed such roles as the Countess in La Nozee, Fiordiligi in Cosi Fan Tutte, and most recently as the title role in Rita, a one-act opera by Donizetti. She has also performed with the McLean Symphony with roles in La Boheme and Norma.

Dr. Amstutz is an accomplished recitalist and chamber musician, having earned a master's degree in music and doctor of musical arts degree from the Peabody Conservatory of Johns Hopkins University. She has performed with the Kennedy Center Theater Chamber Players and the George Mason Faculty Players.

In addition to her performances, Dr. Amstutz is on the faculty of George Mason University and is director of music and organist at Fairfax United Methodist Church, where she overseas 14 musical groups and the "Music at Fairfax" series.

Both of the choral society's performances will be held at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland, with the first one slated for 7:30 p.m. Saturday, April 10, and the second on Sunday, April 11, at 2 p.m. Tickets are now available at Englander's Pharmacy, and will also be available at the door. The prices are $5 for adults and $2.50 for children 12 and under.

The concerts are funded in part by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Taste Of Garrett Co. To Benefit Heart Association

A Taste of Garrett County 1999, a food-sampling event designed to raise funds for the American Heart Association, is slated for Tuesday, April 27, from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Silver Tree Inn. The annual fund-raiser will also feature a 50/50 drawing and a number of educational reminders on how to stay heart healthy.

"A Taste ot Garrett County is an exhilarating evening of fine dining and good company," a spokesperson said. "Guests may sample the cuisine from our area's finest restaurants, and attendees cover a broad spectrum from professionals, officials, and paraprofessionals." The evening's sampling menu draws on the talents of local chefs from local restaurants, including J.G.'s Pub, McClive's, the Point View Inn, the Silver Tree Inn, and the U.S. Food Service.

Tickets for the event are $15 per person and may be obtained from co-chairs Bea Crosco at Flowers by Webers or Jan Bernard at Long & Foster Realty in McHenry. Tickets are also available by calling the AHA regional office at 1-800-684-1000, and a limited number of tickets will also be available at the door.

Swanton Woman Arrested For Theft Of Ring

A Swanton woman was arrested yesterday and charged with felony theft in connection with the theft of a ring from a Swanton residence, according to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Patricia Ann Michaels, 28, (who also reportedly goes by the name of Patricia Ann Collins) was taken into custody after the ring, which had been reported stolen on Saturday, was recovered in the Cumberland area. Valued at $5,000, the diamond and emerald ring was eventually discovered to have been pawned at a Cumberland pawn shop in late March. The ring was recovered by the GBI with the assistance of the C3I unit.

Michaels has been released on her own recognizance.

GCSO Releases Statistics On Family Violence

Garrett County Sheriff's Office has released the March statistics on cases handled of family violence and assault.

There were three domestic violence complaints filed and six cases of domestic violence assaults investigated. Ex parte orders were issued in five cases and three domestic violence protective orders filed.

Sheriff's deputies reported four domestic assault arrests during the month of March and three arrests for violation of restraining orders.

An unspecified number of firearms were brought into the GCSO as a result of a court order to relinquish under a protective order.

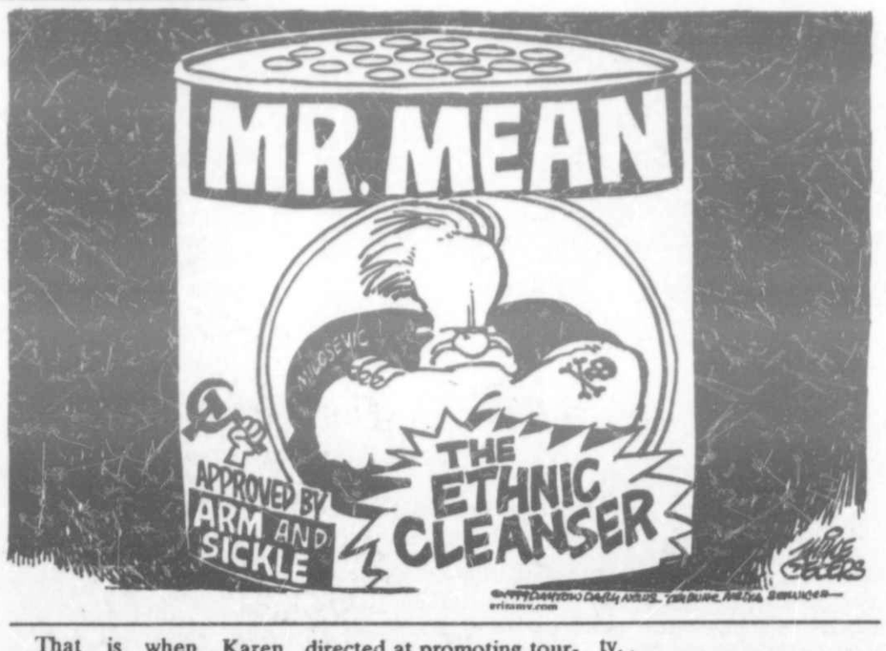
Support for the Bombing...

There was a 10-year-old boy on one of the morning news programs this week. He was (note, was) a resident of Kosovo, but he was being interviewed in a medical facility in Macedonia where he had been brought for treatment of a gunshot wound. He explained that Serbian troops had stormed into his house, and he watched them shoot his mother and three sisters, each of them at point-blank range through the head. He was also shot, but he played dead.

After the soldiers murdered 19 members of his family, they set his house on fire. He sneaked out a back door, and in the process, he attempted to carry with him his 2-year-old sister who had been shot. But his upper arm had been shattered by a bullet, and he simply could not carry her. He made his way to an aunt's house nearby, and he and his aunt became two of the tens of thousands of homeless refugees who have been stripped of everything they own, including their identities.

This is but one of hundreds of similar events that are going on this very moment in Kosovo, which is why we fully support the NATO bombing campaign. In fact, we would support the bombing of Serbian troops in the field rather than just buildings and military installations. Milosevic and his ethnic-cleansing henchmen are no different than Adolph Hitler and his followers, and they must be stopped. We are pleased that, this time, the United States, the most powerful free nation in the world, is not turning its back on these innocent victims of such savagery. We did so at least once before, and millions of innocent people were slaughtered in the meantime.

It is both fascinating and enraging to us that there are demonstrations being staged in this country and in many other nations protesting the bombing in Yugoslavia, yet we have seen no demonstrations by anyone protesting the treatment of Kosovo residents by the Serbs. We also wonder what the demonstrators' position would be if they and their families were suddenly in the same situation faced by the aforementioned little boy.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I was disappointed to read in last week's issue of The Republican that the Health Department is considering relocating at a McHenry site.

It would seem more fitting to keep the primary location in the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park area. Not only is Oakland our county seat, but this area contains the bulk of the population that the Health Department serves.

Certainly the Health Department officials could refurbish or build in or near Oakland. I see many locations just taking a walk around town.

Sincerely,
Merry L. Paugh
Swanton

To the Editor:

I'm writing to reply to R.C. Speicher's comment in last week's paper.

No. I've never eaten poison ivy, hemlock, or strychnine. But I do know people who have eaten poison ivy.

But you've missed the point of my letter. Marijuana is illegal and it is used to help cancer patients and other illnesses.

But alcohol, on the other hand, is legal and it's proven to be our number one killer in America today and has been for a long time. So why are the offenders treated so differently?

Sincerely,
Sandy Craver

To the Editor:

The following is quoted from The Republican following the fire that destroyed the Chinese Restaurant and the Gonder Insurance Agency building on February 13, 1994. The headline read "Oakland Recovery Begins Even as Fire Rages."

"The demolition of the scorched buildings was quick, with most of the work finished by 6:30 a.m. Monday. McCain said he contacted Rodney Glotfelty, director of solid waste and recycling, early on Sunday, and Glotfelty was able to arrange the opening of the old Garrett County Landfill. Over 50 truckloads of debris were taken to the landfill all through the night.

"It was great to get all the wreckage out of there," McCain said. "I didn't want the burned-out shell standing there for days and days, making it look like the fire had just happened. I want to keep things moving. That's my main goal." He noted the State Highway Administration provided key assistance in the demolition.

My question to Mayor McCain is "What about the wreckage at Liberty and Second Streets?" Isn't that debris just as big an eyesore?"

DeCorsey Bolden
Co-owner of Southern Office Supply, whose inventory and fixtures were removed to the landfill during the night.

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to the Pandora's Box presentation recently held at Garrett Community College. The program, sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department and AmeriCorps, was a poignant presentation on the severity and scope of the AIDS problem in our area. The high school students — who wrote, directed, and starred in the performance — are to commended!

I have only lived in Garrett County for two months. Prior to becoming the Pastor at Lakeside Assembly of God in Oakland, I worked in youth ministry for nearly 10 years. In my experience, peer groups can be an effective means to communicate some of our most important messages. I believe the students who participated in this year's program have much to share. I hope the school board would consider allowing them to present this program for the other students in Garrett County.

It's a shame they put forth their energy to communicate such an important message ultimately heard by so few.

Sincerely,
Rob Culler
Oakland

To the Editor:

Once again the citizens of Garrett County came through. Easter dinner was prepared and delivered to 33 homebound frail elderly who found themselves alone and without family on Easter Sunday. The Community Action Area Agency on Aging would like to thank them by mentioning their names here: Pat Bowser, Marie Skipper, Linda Green, John Downer, Leo Rowan, Linda Rally, Barbara Shane, Sue Teagarden, Carol Riley, Lisa Welch, Clay Garland, Nancy Brady, Lynda Weeks, Grace Ross, Leona Beckman, James Kisner, and Cindy Maust.

Because we didn't have 33 volunteers, some took two or more people to deliver a meal to on Easter. This newspaper and WMSG and WKHJ radio also need to be thanked for getting the word out.

The Agency is grateful to all of you, and we know 33 people were very thankful that day.

Gratefully yours,
Veronica Padmos

To the Editor:

This community is lucky to have Ms. Karen Spiker-Myers as one of its members. Once again she has assisted in fulfilling a need — this time, the Dove Center was the recipient. Word has spread that our shelter was at capacity and that we were interested in moving our business offices to another location. This would allow for additional sleeping areas. Funding for this move was not budgeted and monies were extremely limited.

That is when Karen stepped in and made us an offer that was hard to pass up, so we decided to capitalize on it. We moved our business offices into the A&A Realty building next to Food Lion the last weekend in March. This move has allowed us to turn two former offices into bedrooms. The comfort level of those needing shelter services has increased with this new arrangement. Thank you, Karen, for making this possible. Your new tenants will not forget your generosity and look forward to a pleasant working relationship.

Sincerely,
Linda S. Spassil
The Dove Center's Board of Directors and Staff

To the Editor:

It was very discouraging to read in last week's paper that the Health Department Site Selection Committee had recommended a site adjacent to the GCC campus as the proposed location for the Health Department consolidation project.

With all the efforts of the county through such entities as economic development, Garrett County summit meetings, and western Maryland tourism being directed at promoting tourism in that part of the county, it seems that moving a very important service/support organization to GCC is not very prudent.

The county seat of Garrett County, lest we forget, is Oakland. It has served as the support and service infrastructure for decades and continues to do so with the courthouse, as well as a majority of the banking, insurance, medical groups, hospital, pharmacies, and yes, Post Office services. This makes a lot of sense. There are several sites in the town of Oakland or on the outskirts that were offered to the committee and rejected. These sites would keep the services closer to the client base and would better enable the Health Department employees' interaction with other entities than a move to the lake.

One item mentioned in the report was related to the ease of sharing technology with GCC with videoconferencing being a specific need. I would be surprised if many of the Health Department employees are involved in videoconferencing on a routine basis, but if so, the Armory in Oakland has that capacity.

Another item of concern, and a legitimate one, is the distance of residents in the northern end of the county from Oakland and their access to the new facility. As the committee mentioned, the transit system could be utilized to shuttle people from Oakland and surely it could as easily shuttle people from the northern areas. Better yet, I believe that a satellite office may be necessary in that area. The report mentions that budget reductions may impede that effort, but I believe if the building is built in Oakland and with some control over space needs, the savings could more than offset that additional cost and serve the residents of both ends of the county better.

I am sure that a cost analysis of building in Oakland vs. GCC would indicate that it would be less expensive to the taxpayers and a much more efficient use of the Health Department's limited resources to build in Oakland. If a cost analysis was done that showed otherwise, I have not been able to obtain a copy.

The lake area supports the tourism industry with a preponderance of restaurants, recreational retail, movies, and the like, while Oakland serves the needs of Garrett County residents with the services listed above.

It seems that it will be vastly more costly to the county taxpayers to be located so far away from a majority of the Health Department's client base in the south end of the county. It is also remote from the courthouse, other county agencies, the hospital, medical services, and many nonprofits that the Health Department agencies deal with on a routine basis, such as Lighthouse, Appalachian Crossroads, Dove Center, etc. With clients driving north to the college area and employees driving south to the Oakland area, the traffic on Rt. 219 will be noticeably more congested.

Why is this inefficiency so noticeable to many residents, but not to the Committee? Unless the master plan is to move the courthouse to the lake area, it makes no sense. It has to be politically motivated. If we look at some recent actions, the county has already moved the Promotion Council to the lake and rumors have other agencies slated to head in the same direction.

I urge all taxpayers (whether county or state monies are used is irrelevant) to contact the county commissioners and voice their concern over this extremely wasteful and ill-conceived idea that the geographical center of the county is the most efficient location.

To the Editor:

The public school has a responsibility to educate and prepare children for a healthy and successful life. This is a great expectation that requires a partnership between home and school in order to achieve overall educational success. My objections to using junk food in the classroom are based on medical and nutritional evidence. We should not ignore this evidence because it is such an important part of the overall health of our children.

I presented the following concerns to school staff members and parents:

1. Is junk-food, or any food used as a reward, detrimental to the development of healthy eating habits and might it cause eating disorders?

2. Do parents have a right to be notified if snack foods are given in the classroom every day?

3. What are the nutritional needs of young children? Do these snacks promote tooth decay and obesity?

4. What are the possible legal issues the school might face if a child chokes or receives food that causes a severe allergic reaction or illness due to improper handling?

5. Should a policy be implemented to promote sound nutritional education?

Some staff members and parents, unconvinced by my concerns, made the following comments at the March 8th PTA meeting:

1. Parents who do not have money to buy candy and other junk food for their children might want their children to receive junk food from teachers.

2 Teachers do not need parents butting into their classrooms and telling them what to do. Teachers should be able to give candy to students at any time. A teacher should be able to eat Snickers bars at the end of the day if she feels like it.

3. Parents should rely only on conversations with their own children to find out what is going on in the classroom instead of expecting to be informed by the school that junk food is given by teachers.

4. Are you complaining about the snacks I provide for your child in kindergarten?

My comments made at the PTA meeting do not interfere with the choices people make in their personal lives, but only the choices they make affecting children attending our public schools. I believe

SABBATH

Everybody needs a day like the one I had last week. In fact, the Bible says we need a day like that once a week. It was a day of Sabbath.

For me, as for most ministers, Sunday — the Lord's Day — is my primary day of work. The early morning finds me finishing my sermon. Then there is church school and worship. During the afternoon I visit my parishioners.

To have a day of Sabbath, of cessation and rest, I must carve it out of the rest of the week. The whirling world often draws me into its vortex. The week becomes a blur of going and doing. This pattern works like compound interest. One day there is the slightest pause, and I wonder how so much could have gone undone when I have been so busy.

For a day to be a true Sabbath the two most important features are an intentional turning toward God and a sense of leisure about whatever is done. Reading is always part of Sabbath for me, but there are some books which I would not read, because reading them would not feed me but would rather draw strength out of me.

I try not to operate machines on Sabbath. That means not driving, not washing clothes, not mowing the yard, not working on the computer, not talking on the telephone (any more than is absolutely necessary). Of course in our modern, technological society, opening the water tap runs the pump and turning on the light switch runs a generator somewhere.

That points to one of the things wrong in our technological age. It is impossible to live with modern things and have a complete day of stopping. Somebody has to be at work somewhere.

I planted tomato and pepper seeds in flats, something I have been meaning to do for more than a month. I cut daffodils and forsythia, and made up three vases. That was like bringing sunshine indoors. I spent some time just looking at the greening earth and the one field that has been ploughed.

It was an imperfect Sabbath because I did some work, actually quite a bit of work. There was a week's worth of dishes. They were pots and pans, the truth be told, since the electric dishwasher has kept up with the dishes. I also folded a basket of clean clothes which had been sitting at the foot of my bed for a week.

There is a question of what work and what kind of work can be done on the Sabbath since if one does too much work or work that is too strenuous then it isn't Sabbath anymore.

A perfect Sabbath is rarely possible, but a weekly sabbath, however imperfect, is a necessity of life. Without it life quickly becomes less than life. If God expresses part of his divinity by having a Sabbath, who do we think we are to do without it? The answer to that is easy: Modern man thinks he is himself the maker of gods (technology, money, etc.) and that therefore he can live without God and, therefore, without Sabbath. The gods of our hands — technology and money — do not let us rest.

The best thing is to live as a community which honors Sunday — the Lord's Day — as the Sabbath. Rest is rich when it is rest in common.

In our society, Sunday as Sabbath is not possible for some people. Even some of those who make it to church may have to go work later that day. Other people must work Sundays or look for other work. This is a sad reality, but it is a reality for many people. The next best thing is to choose another day and offer it to God as Sabbath.

Sabbath is sunshine and rain for our hearts. Sabbath is refreshment and rest. It is an invitation to be still and to know that the Lord is God and to know that we are his.

What Is A Magnificat?

The "Magnificat" is the name given to the song of praise uttered by Mary after she knew she was to be the mother of Jesus. The title was taken from a word in the first line — "My soul doth magnify the Lord." These words, recorded in Luke 1:46-55, were spoken by Mary as she was visiting her cousin Elizabeth, who was pregnant with John the Baptist.

The "Magnificat" has, for centuries, been included as a canticle (hymn whose words are taken directly from the Bible) in the Vespers liturgy of the Roman Catholic Church. Following the 16th century Reformation, the "Magnificat" remains in the Vespers (late afternoon or evening) liturgy of many Protestant denominations as well. In earliest times it was sung in Latin, and even after the Protestant Reformation, Latin was used in the churches on the most important festivals in the church year — Christmas, Easter, and Whitsunday (Pentecost, the 50th day after Easter). J.S. Bach wrote his musical setting of the Magnificat for Christmas 1723 shortly after he became employed at the St. Thomas Kirche in Leipzig, in which post he was to remain until his death in 1750.

Bach's Magnificat divides the text into 12 sections for chorus, soloists, and orchestra. Certain aspects of the music serve to heighten the meaning of the text. This technique is known as "tone painting." Appreciation of the work is enriched by those who both know the text and detect the tone-painting techniques used to highlight the text. An example of Bach's tone painting is his choosing the chorus rather than a solo to sing the words "All generations," as layer upon layer of sound suggests the many preceding generations.

Vivaldi's Gloria is the "Gloria in Excelsis" included in the Common liturgy of the traditional worship service. The text of the "Gloria in Excelsis" begins with the song of the angels at Jesus' birth, recorded in Luke 2:14, and continues with a traditionally used textual expansion of praise to God. The title comes from the first word of the text, which begins "Glory to God in the highest." Vivaldi's Gloria is also set in 12 sections for chorus, soloists, and orchestra.

Each of these masterworks lasts about one-half hour and will be sung in the original Latin. English translations are listed in the program, along with some of the tone-painting techniques used by Bach to highlight the text.

Now that you know what the Magnificat and Gloria are, we hope that you will join the Garrett Choral Society as it presents these two masterpieces this weekend at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland. There is a Saturday night performance at 7:30 p.m. and a Sunday matinee at 2 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door for $5 and $2.50 for children 12 and under. These performances are made possible in part by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

OTT Announces Cast For Smoke On The Mtn.

The cast list for Our Town Theatre's production of Smoke on the Mountain has been announced by Jane Avery and Susan Peterson, directors of the show.

Michael Hale-Cooper will play the part of Reverend Mervin Oglethorpe, minister of the Mount Pleasant (N.C.) Baptist Church. Joining him will be the Sanders Family Singers with Richard Hill as Burl Sanders, Patty Brenneman as his wife Vera, and their children: Evelyn White as June, Janet Cook as Denise, and Michael Fratz as Dennis. Len Eiswert will play the role of Burl's brother Stanley. Accompanying musicians will be Lindy Moebs and Matt Eary.

A read-through for the cast will be held on Monday, April 12, at 7 p.m.

Conceived by Alan Bailey and written by Connie Ray, the play is being produced by special permission from Samuel French Inc. The dates for the production will be the last week of May and the first week of June. Persons may make reservations for the show by calling the theatre after the first of May.

Suite For Celtic Harp Slated At Our Town Theatre

The Garrett County Arts Council will present a performance of Sylvia Woods's Brandiswhiere Suite for Celtic Harp at Our Town Theatre, Oakland, on Sunday, April 18, at 2 p.m. While admission is free, reservations may be made by calling the arts council office at 301-387-3121.

Directed by harpist Lynne Barnes of Cumberland, the concert will feature Roger Dale as narrator and nine performers playing a variety of instruments, including four celtic harps, flute, glass flute, bodhran, snare drum, hog-nosed psaltry, synthesizer, orchestra bells, and tin whistle.

The musical suite depicts the legend of Brandiswhiere, a mysterious invisible island where harpists live, the musicians' struggle with an evil magician, and the triumph of good over evil. "This concert is a perfect complement to the return of spring," according to an arts council spokesman. "The legend is appropriate for all ages, and the music and narration have the power to sweep the audience into the realm of fantasy. For those who enjoy harp music, this presentation will be sheer delight."

The concert is made possible by funding support provided through the courtesy of the Stanley P. Smith Family Foundation to benefit the people of Garrett County.

GLAF TO PRESENT CYRANO DE BERGERAC — The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) season will open this year with a presentation of Cyrano de Bergerac, a romantic drama by French playwright Edmund Rostand, who penned the classic over 100 years ago. The play is a production of the National Players, the resident touring company of the University of Maryland, and is being presented as part of the troupe's 50th anniversary tour. Actors Jon Cohn (Christian) and Rebeka DiFrancesca Parshall (Roxana) are pictured above in one of the more romantic scenes of the famous love story, in which a man, self-conscious of his long nose, attempts to court a woman he adores by putting his words in another man's mouth. See story. The show will be presented in the auditorium of Garrett Community College on April 23 at 8 p.m. Tickets can be purchased in advance at the GLAF office (301-387-3082) Monday through Friday, 10 a.m.-1 p.m. by credit card, or by mailing a check payable to GLAF: P.O. Box 151, McHenry, MD 21541. Admission will be $8 for adults and $4 for youth 18 and under. For this performance, students of GCC will also be admitted for $4.

Single-Vehicle Crash Injures Oakland Man

An Oakland man was hospitalized after a single-vehicle accident that occurred on March 25 on Maryland Highway just east of Ollie North Road, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Dennis Rutherford Stottlemeyer, 26, was driving his Jeep Cherokee eastbound on Maryland Highway at 5:55 a.m. when he reportedly fell asleep at the wheel. His vehicle drifted onto the eastbound shoulder before traveling off the roadway completely and striking a tree.

Stottlemeyer was transported by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he was hospitalized for his injuries. The Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department also assisted on the scene. Sheriff's sources said the accident was being investigated.

Although Stottlemeyer was admitted to the hospital, emergency room sources were unable to confirm his status as of today.

Gorman/Bethlehem Rds.

A two-vehicle collision last Wednesday on Gorman Road near Bethlehem Road injured an Oakland woman, who was subsequently treated and released from Garrett Memorial.

Virginia Louise Upton, 66, was reportedly stopped in the southbound lane of Gorman Road waiting to turn into a driveway when a Chevrolet truck driven by William Skeweris, 70, Oakland, struck her Buick Century in the rear. Southern Rescue made the transport.

Skeweris was reportedly blinded by the sun, and was charged in the incident.

Oakland Sang Run Rd.

A March 25 two-vehicle collision on Oakland Sang Run Road resulted in an injury to a passenger in one of the vehicles.

Crystal Lynn Sines, 41, Oakland, was transported by Southern Rescue to Garrett Memorial, where she was treated and released following the 6:25 p.m. mishap.

Sines was a passenger in a Ford van operated by John Keith Sines, 42, Oakland, that backed onto the roadway from a private driveway. A two-door Dodge driven by Richard Allan Mutter, 20, Oakland, reportedly rounded a turn near the Sines vehicle and skidded into its rear after the brakes were applied. No charges were filed.

Rt. 135/Sand Flat Rd.

An accident that occurred at the intersection of Maryland Highway and Sand Flat Road on the morning of March 24 sent one of the drivers to Garrett Memorial for treatment.

Kenneth Allen DeWitt, 23, Oakland, was driving his Chevrolet truck westbound on Maryland Highway at 7 a.m. when his vehicle was struck by a Ford truck operated by Ralph E. Martin Jr., 38, Elk Garden, W.Va. Martin reportedly ran a stop sign as he was traveling from northbound Deer Park Road into the intersection. The impact spun DeWitt's truck around twice before it hit a guardrail and came to rest.

Martin was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign. DeWitt was transported by Southern Rescue to the hospital, where he was treated and released.

Lake Concerns

problem, or that GPU might sell the land at inflated prices, or change the price from one land owner to the next.

In response to the concerns, Commissioner Chairman Ernest Gregg said there are numerous details to work out in the complicated deal.

"I think we should approach all these issues very tactfully," he said. "I'm not diminishing your concerns, and I agree these issues should be kept in the forefront, but we must proceed carefully at this point."

Myers agreed, but added that it is important to "think ahead." In a later conversation with her, she stated that the group does not intend to alarm lake residents over these issues.

"We don't want people to panic, because everything may be all right anyway," she said. "We just felt we had to alert the commissioners about our concerns and make sure we all are aware of what is happening."

The group also asked the commissioners to make sure the language of the document is well-defined before the June 30 formal signing. Words such as "developable" and "safety strip" have vague and differing definitions, Myers said, and should be clarified.

The individuals had several other suggestions for the commissioners to consider, such as making clear the selection and appointment of persons to be on the proposed Deep Creek Lake Management Board, and to make sure all meetings of this board are held in Garrett County.

In a conversation with Delegate George Edwards Tuesday, he said he felt the concerns are valid, but residents should not be alarmed.

"There are lots of technicalities to work out yet, and everyone involved knows that," Edwards said. He added that GPU has thus far been good to Garrett County in the proceedings, and that the state and GPU have, for the most part, been attentive to the county's best interests. "We do need to pay attention to this entire process, of course, but I think it would be good if everyone just relaxed a little bit," he said.

March Term Grand Jury Visits Schools, Courthouse, And Jail

The March Term Grand Jury for Garrett County convened two weeks ago and submitted a report on its findings at the county courthouse and jail and several local schools. The jury members divided into committees and met with numerous representatives of county agencies and offices, including the jail, courthouse, Northern middle and high schools, the board of education, the Ruth Enlow Library, and the county commissioners.

County Jail

The expansion of the county jail, which includes the addition of a juvenile detention area, women's quarters, quarters for those with physical disabilities, another eight-bed unit, and new fire escape route, is nearly complete and will greatly alleviate the space problems that existed in the jail, according to the jurors' report. The members were informed that one of the problems faced by the sheriff's office is the Y2K incompatibility of the computer system used for the booking of prisoners.

The jurors learned that the office has requested in its new budget funds for the purchase of new color monitors for its jail surveillance system. Members also saw the office's new fingerprinting technology, which was purchased via a state grant of $110,000 and which will greatly reduce the time it takes to verify fingerprints and identities during the booking process.

The jury commended Sheriff Richard Sanders for his successful pursuit of grant funds for the purchase of valuable equipment for the jail.

Courthouse

The tour of the courthouse was conducted by Gary Mullich, director of General Services, with Clerk of the Circuit Court David Martin leading the group through his office. Martin said that computer technology is being acquired for his staff to place onto computer discs all court records, deeds, and other information stored in his office.

Martin noted the ever-increasing workload in his department, but indicated that office space was not yet a major problem. He told the jurors that a substantial portion of revenue collected in his office is returned to the county. Also seen were the offices of the county treasurer, board of election supervisors, environmental health, and others.

Sheriff's Office

Sheriff P. Richard Sanders explained the duties and responsibilities of his office. He cited the success of several programs, including the DARE, SALT, Reality, and domestic violence prevention initiatives, which have been in place for at least a year. A relatively new and successful agency is the Garrett Bureau of Investigation (GBI), which includes personnel from the sheriff's office, Maryland State Police, and the State's Attorney's Office for Garrett County. The GBI has increased efficiency in terms of cooperation between these agencies, resulting in better communication, better flow of information,

Man Escapes Burning Truck Off Dry Run Rd.

A Grantsville man avoided injury on the night of March 31 when his vehicle reportedly caught fire in the New Germany area, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Marvin Russell Murphy, 54, was operating his 1995 GMC truck westbound on Murphy Lane just off Dry Run Road at 9:30 p.m. when he observed smoke coming from the dashboard area. Fire then ignited inside the vehicle, from which Murphy successfully exited with no harm. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department responded to the scene and extinguished the burning vehicle, which was reported to be a total loss.

Glimpse of The Past . . .

"KEMPTON JUNKSON" is what was written on this early photograph, but we assume the correct description would be Kempton Junction, where this group of rail workers was captured on film sometime early this century. The photo is from the files of the Garrett County Historical Society and is published here courtesy of the society and The Republican. It was learned this past week that the photo of the Mtn. Lake Park Livery that appeared as a recent "Glimpse of the Past" was located along D Street in the park and was later owned by the Eckard family, according to Forrest Welling, a native of the park and now a resident of Florida, who believes the photo was taken around 1900. The Garrett County Historical Society reminds readers that it will hold a benefit dinner at the Pleasant Valley Community Center on Friday, April 23, with guest speakers Rev. John Grant and Dr. Lawrence Sherwood. The dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. and tickets ($20) each may be obtained at Gregg's Pharmacy, Hershberger Insurance, and Gonder Insurance, or by telephoning the society at 301-334-3226.

MARY M. TURLEY

Mary Meleta Turley, 92, a resident of the Allegany County Nursing Home, formerly of LaVale, died Wednesday, April 7, 1999, in the Special Care (Hospice) Unit, Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

Born June 5, 1906, in Accident, she was a daughter of the late James Franklin and Elizabeth (Hoffman) Northcraft. She was also preceded in death by her husband, Harry Turley Jr., and four brothers, Leland Boyd, William Howard, Cecil James, and Carl Willard Northcraft.

She had been an active, long-time member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Cumberland, having been a member of L.C.W.

She was a life member of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary, where she served as president, financial secretary, and chaplain.

Surviving are one son, William D. Northcraft, Cumberland; two daughters, Patricia Graham and Donna D. Goldizen, both of Cumberland; six grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Friends will be received at the Upchurch Funeral Home, 202 Greene Street, Cumberland, from 7 until 9 p.m. today, Thursday, and from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. on Friday. A service will be conducted at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Washington and Smallwood streets, Cumberland, on Saturday, April 10, with the Rev. John J. Duffus officiating.

The body will be taken to the church one hour prior to the service time.

Interment will be in Sunset Memorial Park.

Memorial contributions may be made to either St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Washington and Smallwood Streets, Cumberland, MD 21502, or to the Memorial Hospital Special Care Unit, 600 Memorial Ave., Cumberland, MD 21502.

ROBERT L. GLOTFELTY

Robert Lee "Buzz" Glotfelty, 81, Grantsville, died Sunday, April 4, 1999, at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Born Oct. 19, 1917, in McHenry, he was a son of the late Ira and Florence (Niner) Glotfelty.

He was a retired construction worker for Local 616.

Surviving are his wife, Beula (Durst) Glotfelty; one daughter, Marlene L. Beachy, Grantsville; two sons, Marvin Lee Glotfelty and Clark David Glotfelty, both of Grantsville; one brother, William Glotfelty, McHenry; one sister, Lillian Thomas, Ohio; five grandchildren; and one great-granddaughter.

Friends were received at the Price Funeral Home, Meyersdale, where a service was conducted earlier today, April 8, with Pastor Lamar Bender officiating. Interment was in the Greenville Union Cemetery.

Memorials may be made to the New Hope United Church of Christ, Meyersdale.

Y2K Day Slated At GCC Campus

The Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College is sponsoring "Y2K Day" on Thursday, April 22. The event is geared toward business owners and managers who have concerns and questions related to Y2K compliance.

Topics to be covered in this three-hour seminar include: an overview of the Y2K situation, hardware and software issues, external reliance (electricity, telephone service), embedded chips (microwaves, VCRs), and finally, a presentation showcasing GCC's compliance plan and preparations for Y2K. Serving as presenters for the seminar are GCC President Dr. Steve Herman and GCC computer instructor Jim Davis.

For the convenience of business owners and managers, the seminar will be offered at two different times at different locations in the county. The first session will take place at the Oakland Armory from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. The second session will be held at Garrett Community College from 6 to 9 p.m.

For more information and to register, persons may call the Small Business Development Center at 301-387-3080.

Computer Literacy Class For Seniors Slated In Oakland

The Oakland Center of Garrett Community College will offer a hands-on computer literacy training class for senior citizens beginning Friday, April 16. This beginner's class, which will meet each Friday from 10 to 11:30 a.m. for four weeks, is designed to introduce participants to the basic operations of a computer. Students will explore the use and functions of a mouse, proper ways of shutting down their system, and gain a basic understanding of the desktop and Windows 95.

Pre-registration is required at the Oakland Center, which is located along Third Street in downtown Oakland. Interested persons may call Patricia Baer at 301-334-8304 for further information.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The next ladies' meeting will be held Saturday, April 10, beginning at 10 a.m. at the First Christian Church.

The first Christian Church will serve turkey dinners at the Friendsville Elementary School on Saturday, May 1, starting at 4 p.m. The menu will consist of turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes, noodles, green beans, rolls, beverage, and dessert. The price will be $5 for adults, $2.50 for children, with children 4 years and younger eating for free.

The next men's meeting will be held Sunday, April 11, at 4 p.m. at the Old Mill Restaurant.

A revival is scheduled for May 16-18 with David Bradfield and the Bradfield Singers, starting at 7 p.m. each evening.

Regular Sunday worship services are as follows: Sunday school at 10 a.m., worship and communion at 11 a.m., and Sunday night Bible study at 6 p.m.

RUSH BAPTIST

A regular business meeting will be held Sunday, April 11, following the morning worship service at the Rush Baptist Church.

The WMU retreat will be on Friday, April 16, and Saturday, April 17, at the Will O' the Wisp.

The Baptist Men's Rally will be held Saturday, April 17, at the Skycrost Convention Center near Hagerstown, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The rally is for men and boys, with a $10 registration fee for those over 12 years of age. Those interested should contact Pastor Steven Rose or Greg. Carpooling is available.

The next meeting of the WMU will be held Monday, April 19, at the home of Katie Lewis, beginning at 7 p.m.

The Baptist men will meet at Pastor Steve's home on Monday, April 19, at 7 p.m.

Prayer meeting and Bible study will continue on Wednesday, April 14, at 7 p.m. at the church.

Regular Sunday worship at the Rush Baptist Church is: Sunday school at 9:45, morning worship at 11 a.m., and Sunday evening worship at 6 p.m.

WOW RANGERS

The next meeting of the WOW Rangers will be Thursday, April 15, at the Sand Spring Fellowship Hall starting at 7 p.m.

FRIENDSVILLE CUB SCOUTS

Friendsville Cub Scout Pack #33 members will be participating in their annual Pinewood Derby on Saturday, April 10, starting at 10 a.m. at the Friendsville Elementary School. The Pinewood Derby is a much anticipated activity for the Scouts every year. Each Scout is given a kit with a 2" by 6" piece of pine to carve into a car of his own design. The Scouts paint and decorate it to their liking, but it also has to conform to a certain weight limit. The cars are judged on design and creativity, and are also raced on a track with four Scouts competing at a time. It is a double elimination and a race to the finish to see who wins. Trophies will be given to first, second, and third place winners of the entire day's event. A best-of-show trophy will also be given. A lunch will be provided to the Scouts after the derby.

FISHING MEETING SET

A public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, April 20, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the town hall for discussions about the proposed establishment of a delayed harvest fishery on the Youghiogheny River in Friendsville. Gary Yoder and Ken Pavel of the Department of Natural Resources will be on hand to give an overview of the project and to answer questions from the public. The mayor and town council will be there to take public comment. No decision about the delayed harvest fishing has yet been made, and all interested persons are urged to attend this informational meeting and to give their input into the proposal by the DNR.

TOWN NEWS

The groundbreaking for the Senior Citizens Center will be next week. The new center will be attached to the Friendsville Head Start Center, making it an "L" shaped building, while sharing the kitchen with the Head Start.

The town and organizational groups have scheduled Saturday, May 22, as a grand re-opening and rededication of the town park for the new equipment provided by Program Open Space. Among the events scheduled so far for the day-long event are: a fishing rodeo, flea market, music entertainment, horseshoe competition, and blood pressure screening. Persons, groups, churches, and organizations interested in setting up a booth are urged to contact chairpersons Shirley Metheny or Frani King.

SCHOOL NEWS

"Gabby's Gift," a musical play written by Dan Taylor, music teacher at Friendsville Elementary School, will be performed by the Friendsville Chorus students for the first time at the Student Arts Fair on Saturday, April 10, at Garrett Community College, starting at 4 p.m. Repeat performances will be given on the following dates: April 19 at Rt. 40 and Keyser, April 27 at Yough Glades and Dennett Road, and April 28 at Accident and Grantsville elementary schools. The chorus will travel to Washington, D.C., in May to perform "Gabby's Gift" for Senator Sarbanes.

At the Academic Pep Rally held on Friday, March 26, the following students were "on the right track" for the month: Kyle Rosenberger, Brianna Lowdermilk, Zachary Friend, Josh DeWitt, Eric Frazee, Sarah Friend, Lacie Schroyer, Derek Harding, Beth Wagner, Ashley Calhoun, Anel-Alison Slagle, Brittney Allen, Katie Lacey, Autumn Frazee, Adrienne Moats, Britney Friend, Jacob Redman, Henry Smearman, Tyler Harding, Brian Benedict, Nicole Fike, Jenny Hoover, Andrew Rodeheaver, Angie Nunez, Scott Fike, Maddi Sisler, Angie Umbel, Nathan Nugent, Roland Fisher, Ben Wyrick, Crissy Hovatter, Tommy Kovach, Jessica Sines, Brittney Johnson, Steven Frye, and Lincoln Lowdermilk.

The Virtue of the Month for April is teamwork/cooperation. Teachers are in charge of morning announcements during the month to encourage teamwork and cooperation.

National Breakfast Week will be celebrated during the week of April 12-16. Parents are invited to participate by eating breakfast with their child during the week. Anyone interested should notify the office a day in advance.

BIRTHDAY-EASTER BUFFET

Angela Evans, along with children Brian and Stephanie, hosted a birthday-Easter buffet on Sunday at their home. Birthday honorees were Angela's father, Robert Lowdermilk, her grandmother, Amanda Lowdermilk, her uncle, Gary Friend Sr., and her aunt, JoAnn Meyers. Those attending the celebrations were Michael Sines, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hinebaugh and sons Kenny and Nicholas of Aberdeen, Robert, Katherine, and Jeff Lowdermilk, Amanda Lowdermilk, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Friend Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Larry Meyers, and Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Sines and children Hannah and Patrick, all of the Friendsville area.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED

Ralph Bowser of Asher Glade celebrated his 89th birthday with cake and homemade ice cream at his home. Those also celebrating were Nicole Coddington, who celebrated her 10th, and his daughter, Susann Collins. Those in attendance were Ralph and wife Ruth, Todd, Mary, and Pie Sieler, Lori Sieler, Nicole Coddington, Susann Collins, Lynn, Cel, and Aaron Sisler, all of Friendsville, B.J. Detrick, friend Bridget Frazee, and her friend April.

BIRTH ANNOUNCED

Joe and Harmony Carr announce the birth of a baby girl born on Friday, March 5, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Morgan Anna-Rene was born weighing 8 lbs. 7 ozs.

She is the new granddaughter of Margaret Collins, and Joe and Robin Carr of Friendsville. Great-grandparents are James and Leona Ross, Friendsville, Marvin and Goldie Thomas, Big Bear, and James and Leona Shoemaker of Florida.

Morgan has a sister, Angel.

PERSONALS

Holiday guests of Joyce and Dale Schroyer were their son Dane, wife Erica, and daughter Laura from Hunt Valley, son Chipper, Jennifer and children Dia and Kirkland, son Vance, Mike and Kim Thomas and sons Jason and Chris, Janice and Bennie Frazee, all of Friendsville, and Scott and Carla Frazee and children Taylor and Tylor, of Frostburg.

Easter Holiday guests of Bud and Bernadine Friend were son Terry, Cumberland, and daughter Sherry of Friendsville.

Mrs. Eva Whiteman, Beth Anne, and Ron Schroyer of the Baltimore area spent the weekend at their farm at Oakhill. They were also Saturday evening dinner guests of Bud and Bernadine Friend. Weekend guests of the Friends were Gary Granchi and Vicki Porter.

Bud and Bernadine Friend attended a birthday dinner for Dawn Propst on Saturday, March 20, at Springs Mennonite Church.

Other recent callers of Bud and Bernadine Friend were Harold and Gladys Humberson, Grantsville, Barton Bartholomew and Charles Friend, Hazelton, Shirley and Bernard Friend, Dawn and Audie Propst, Friendsville, and Terry Davis of Addison. Tonja Dixon spent the past weekend with her mother Sherry and grandparents, Bud and Bernadine Friend.

Pearl VanSickle visited her brother, Mike Kahl, on Wednesday at the nursing home. Evelyn Uphold also visited Renee Durst. A Friday visitor of Pearl was Gail Dumire of Friendsville.

Easter Sunday guests of Ralph and Edna Sines were 23 family members and friend, Evelyn Sanner, of Accident.

SENIORS SHARE EASTER JOY - Seniors at the Mary Browning Senior Center invited children from the Oakland Head Start Center last week to share a morning of egg coloring and story telling, and to join in an Easter celebration. In the photo above, the seniors who guided the egg-dying process seemed to enjoy it almost as much as the children. Following this project, retired teacher Naomi Wolf, below, read a story about a "country bunny" to the attentive group of children to close out the morning's activities. The senior citizens who attend the Mary Browning Center may participate from a wide variety of activities, scheduled on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. For more information, persons may call 301-334-9431.

JWCC DONATES TO GCC FOUNDATION - The Junior Woman's Civic Club recently made a donation to the Garrett Community College Foundation. "The JWCC is pleased to support a scholarship to Garrett Community College. Higher education is important to our community," said Donna Sites, shown at the left above, as she presented the check to Bretta Reinhard, GCCF advancement officer. "The GCCF gratefully acknowledges the generosity of the JWCC, which has faithfully supported a scholarship to the college," Reinhard said. "The members of the organization volunteer their time and talent to make this scholarship possible, and our students have the benefit of this community-minded scholarship every year."

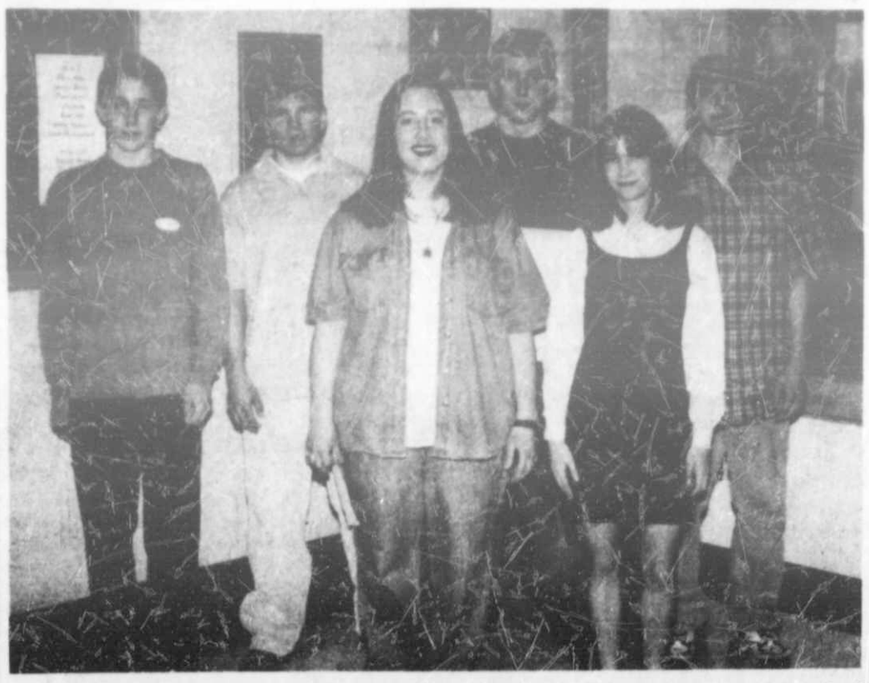
SHS Names Students Of The Month For March



SHS NAMES STUDENTS OF THE MONTH - The names have been announced of those selected at Southern High School as Students of the Month for March. The students chosen for this honor by the faculty of SHS are, from left, Bryan Schwalm, Jason Hershman, Julie Callis, John Andrews, Amanda Uphold, and Keith Steyer.

The student of the month winners for March 1999 as chosen by the faculty of Southern High School are as follows: Keith Steyer, math; Julie Callis, foreign language; Bryan Schwalm, social studies; Amanda Uphold, English, John Andrews, science; and Jason Hershman, vocational.

Keith Steyer, sophomore, is the student of the month winner for math. He is the son of Stan and Sarah Steyer of Oakland. A distinguished honor roll student, Keith has been nominated for Who's Who Among American High School Students, has received a Minds in Motion Award, and was also a student of the month winner for science. He is a member of the junior varsity basketball team and a varsity member of the soccer team. Keith helps with the service learning basketball league and has a leadership role in 4-H camp. After graduating, he plans to attend a four-year college and major in math and/or science.

The student of the month winner for foreign language is junior Julie Callis. She is the daughter of Wayne and Donna Callis of Mtn. Lake Park. Julie has received the United States Achievement Award in math, English, history and government, service and leadership, and science. Nominated for Who's Who Among American High School Students, Julie has also been a student of the month winner for both math and science. She is a member of the student council, attends the Faith Evangelical Free Church, and participates in the Garrett County Choral Society. In the future, Julie is considering going into foreign affairs or international business.

Bryan Schwalm, a freshman, is the son of Karl and Sharon Schwalm of Oakland. He received the Success in School award in the eighth grade and is an honor roll student. Bryan plays soccer and Arsenal football. He participated in Senior League and made All-Stars at ages 9, 10, 12, and 13. After high school, Bryan wants to either attend college or enter the Air Force.

The student of the month winner for English is freshman Amanda Uphold. She is the daughter of Lynn and Doris Uphold of Oakland. Amanda is an honor roll student and participated in the honor band in the eighth grade. She attends the Oak Grove Church, where she is a member of the youth group. Amanda participated in the Christmas play at White Church and is also in 4-H. In the future, she hopes to be a journalist.

John Andrews, a senior, is the son of Joe and Darlene Andrews of Oakland. John participated in basketball in grades 10 through 12. In the 11th grade, he was a co-MVP, All-WMIL, and placed on the second team All Area. He was also the area free-throwing champion. In his senior year, the basketball team was both area and WMIL champion.

Throughout his high school career, John has also played soccer. In his sophomore year, he was on the second team All Area. In the last two years, he placed on the first team All Area and All-WMIL. As a junior, John was named area offensive player of the year. In March, he was named student athlete of the month. A distinguished honor roll student, he has a grade point average of 4.0 and has been nominated to Who's Who Among American High School Students. John is a Maryland Distinguished Scholar finalist and also a commended student in the 1999 Merit Scholarship Program. John is a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church and plans to attend a four-year college after high school, where he will play basketball and soccer.

Jason Hershman, a junior, is the winner for vocational. He is the son of Craig and Debbie Hershman of Mtn. Lake Park. Jason is a member of VICA and won first place in the VICA regional competition for carpentry. He is an honor roll student and is also in the D&B Archery League. Jason is a member of the Corinth United Methodist Church. Upon graduating, Jason plans to attend a vocational technical institute and learn the trade of carpentry.

GCC Summer, Fall Registration In Progress Mon.-Fri.

Registration is currently under-way for summer and fall semester classes at Garrett Community College. Students may register weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Student Assistance Center through Friday, May 7. After a two-week break, registration will resume on Monday, May 25, and continue throughout the summer.

A seven-week summer semester is scheduled to run from June 7 to July 28 with both day and evening classes available. The fall semester will begin September 8 and end December 17. Schedules for fall 1999, and intersession and spring semester classes for the year 2000 are now available at the college and at branches of the Ruth Enlow Library.

Persons seeking further information on GCC registration may call the Student Assistance Center at 301-387-3044.

"Equipped To Serve" Training Offered By MTCPC

A training workshop titled "Equipped to Serve" will be offered for new volunteers at the Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center (MTCPC). The session will begin on April 13 at 9 a.m. at 111 Alderson Street in Loch Lynn.

The training will consist of eight three-hour sessions held over a four-week period. The session titles are as follows: Our Foundations, The Client, Counseling the Woman with an Unplanned Pregnancy, Connecting with Clients, Communication Skills, Office Procedures, The Negative Test, and Evangelism. Upon completion, each volunteer will be presented with a certificate.

MTCPC offers alternatives to abortion.

"MTCPC reaches out with love and compassion. We are never judgmental," said Director Nellie Ashby. "MTCPC educates on the development of a child after conception and on abortion so the client can make an informed decision. If we can help young people never need the services we offer, that is what we want to do."

For more information or to pre-register for the training, persons may contact Ashby at 301-334-1058.

First Safe Night "Party" Planning Session Slated

Anticipating Garrett County's first "Safe Night" event, people from all communities are invited to take part in a "party" planning session on Tuesday, April 13, at 6 p.m. at the Garrett County Extension office along Route 135. The event, sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department will be modeled on a national program that combines entertainment and education.

Project coordinator Nancy Brady described the Safe Night event as "a community party in a safe place, close to home." She said she would like to see people from all parts of the county participate in this event. "It would be really great to have this going on all over the county on the same night. So much has appeared in the media about the need for more activities for our youth. This would offer an activity free of alcohol, drugs, and violence," she said.

The national Safe Night project was originated as a community party, organized by both young people and adults to enhance awareness of crime prevention through peaceful conflict resolution.

Brady said she has worked with many groups in the county on projects. "It's good to have so many partners in the community who are interested in our youth," she stated.

CIVIC CLUB LENDS MANY EARS — The Civic Club of Oakland recently hosted its annual fund-allotting meeting, during which the members listen to various organization representatives make brief requests for donations. Money earned by the Civic Club at its annual Autumn Glory Festival Antique Show is then divided among the representatives, all of whom sent their letters of request before Dec. 31 of last year. See story. Pictured are the various speakers at the recent meeting, all of whom will receive some allotment of funds from the club for their special projects. In the front row, left to right, are Dorothy Leuba, Garrett Organization for the Handicapped; Dana Winters, Habitat for Humanity; Nellie Ashby, Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center; Martha Makosky, Ruth Enlow Library; Steve Schlosnagle, Garrett County Arts Council; Beth Johnson, Garrett Lakes Arts Festival; Betty Malloy, Garrett County Lighthouse; Martha Jachowski, club officer; and Ida Maust, Hospice of Garrett County. In the back, same order, are Bernadine Friend, Garrett County Humane Society; Elizabeth Biser, Family Violence Coalition; Elizabeth Gilbert, Our Town Theatre; Linda Spassil, Dove Center; Sandi Flockhart, NHS After-Prom; Dawn Riley and Deede Thorne, Yough Glades Elementary (playground equipment); and Alice Hevner, Garrett County 4-H program. Not pictured, but speaking in behalf of the SHS After-Prom and the Historical Society was Dorothy Cathell, and Jackie Johnson spoke for the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation.

Oakland Civic Club To Allot Annual Grants

The GFWC Civic Club of Oakland held its first meeting of 1999 recently, during which the members heard requests from 22 local organizations seeking funding for special projects. Each year the Civic Club invites organizations to apply for grant funding and then to send a representative to the March meeting. These representatives are given the opportunity to briefly describe their projects and explain how they would use any funding provided by the club.

Ballots are distributed to all club members for them to rate the organizations' needs. The ballots are to be returned within 10 days after the meeting, and the results will be announced at this month's meeting.

Bobby Andersen, president of the Civic Club, expressed the group's appreciation to the speakers who attended the March meeting.

"We appreciate them taking time from their busy days to explain their organizations and the wonderful work that they do," Andersen said, adding that informed members make better decisions. (See photo for the listing of representatives and their organizations.)

To be eligible for May 2000 donations, letters from requesting organizations must be sent to the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, P.O. Box 167, Oakland, MD 21550 no later than Dec. 31 of this year. Additional information is available upon request.

The club sponsors the Autumn Glory Festival Antique Show, held each year at the Oakland Armory. All proceeds from this event are donated back to the community, chiefly through this granting process, and also in other endeavors. The club conducts ongoing projects, such as the publication of the Quick Guide to Garrett County Resources, holiday gifts and trees for nursing home residents, and holiday favors for children at the Salem Trust. Club members also collect food for the House of Hope, provide meals for Habitat for Humanity workers, and "shower" the Dove Center with needed items.

SHS Names Students Of The Month For March

SHS NAMES STUDENTS OF THE MONTH - The names have been announced of those selected at Southern High School as Students of the Month for March. The students chosen for this honor by the faculty of SHS are, from left, Bryan Schwalm, Jason Hershman, Julie Callis, John Andrews, Amanda Uphold, and Keith Steyer.

The student of the month winners for March 1999 as chosen by the faculty of Southern High School are as follows: Keith Steyer, math; Julie Callis, foreign language; Bryan Schwalm, social studies; Amanda Uphold, English, John Andrews, science; and Jason Hershman, vocational.

Keith Steyer, sophomore, is the student of the month winner for math. He is the son of Stan and Sarah Steyer of Oakland. A distinguished honor roll student, Keith has been nominated for Who's Who Among American High School Students, has received a Minds in Motion Award, and was also a student of the month winner for science. He is a member of the junior varsity basketball team and a varsity member of the soccer team. Keith helps with the service learning basketball league and has a leadership role in 4-H camp. After graduating, he plans to attend a four-year college and major in math and/or science.

The student of the month winner for foreign language is junior Julie Callis. She is the daughter of Wayne and Donna Callis of Mtn. Lake Park. Julie has received the United States Achievement Award in math, English, history and government, service and leadership, and science. Nominated for Who's Who Among American High School Students, Julie has also been a student of the month winner for both math and science. She is a member of the student council, attends the Faith Evangelical Free Church, and participates in the Garrett County Choral Society. In the future, Julie is considering going into foreign affairs or international business.

Bryan Schwalm, a freshman, is the son of Karl and Sharon Schwalm of Oakland. He received the Success in School award in the eighth grade and is an honor roll student. Bryan plays soccer and Arsenal football. He participated in Senior League and made All-Stars at ages 9, 10, 12, and 13. After high school, Bryan wants to either attend college or enter the Air Force.

The student of the month winner for English is freshman Amanda Uphold. She is the daughter of Lynn and Doris Uphold of Oakland. Amanda is an honor roll student and participated in the honor band in the eighth grade. She attends the Oak Grove Church, where she is a member of the youth group. Amanda participated in the Christmas play at White Church and is also in 4-H. In the future, she hopes to be a journalist.

John Andrews, a senior, is the son of Joe and Darlene Andrews of Oakland. John participated in basketball in grades 10 through 12. In the 11th grade, he was a co-MVP, All-WMIL, and placed on the second team All Area. He was also the area free-throwing champion. In his senior year, the basketball team was both area and WMIL champion.

Throughout his high school career, John has also played soccer. In his sophomore year, he was on the second team All Area. In the last two years, he placed on the first team All Area and All-WMIL. As a junior, John was named area offensive player of the year. In March, he was named student athlete of the month. A distinguished honor roll student, he has a grade point average of 4.0 and has been nominated to Who's Who Among American High School Students. John is a Maryland Distinguished Scholar finalist and also a commended student in the 1999 Merit Scholarship Program. John is a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church and plans to attend a four-year college after high school, where he will play basketball and soccer.

Jason Hershman, a junior, is the winner for vocational. He is the son of Craig and Debbie Hershman of Mtn. Lake Park. Jason is a member of VICA and won first place in the VICA regional competition for carpentry. He is an honor roll student and is also in the D&B Archery League. Jason is a member of the Corinth United Methodist Church. Upon graduating, Jason plans to attend a vocational technical institute and learn the trade of carpentry.

GCC Summer, Fall Registration In Progress Mon.-Fri.

Registration is currently under-way for summer and fall semester classes at Garrett Community College. Students may register weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Student Assistance Center through Friday, May 7. After a two-week break, registration will resume on Monday, May 25, and continue throughout the summer.

A seven-week summer semester is scheduled to run from June 7 to July 28 with both day and evening classes available. The fall semester will begin September 8 and end December 17. Schedules for fall 1999, and intersession and spring semester classes for the year 2000 are now available at the college and at branches of the Ruth Enlow Library.

Persons seeking further information on GCC registration may call the Student Assistance Center at 301-387-3044.

"Equipped To Serve" Training Offered By MTCPC

A training workshop titled "Equipped to Serve" will be offered for new volunteers at the Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center (MTCPC). The session will begin on April 13 at 9 a.m. at 111 Alderson Street in Loch Lynn.

The training will consist of eight three-hour sessions held over a four-week period. The session titles are as follows: Our Foundations, The Client, Counseling the Woman with an Unplanned Pregnancy, Connecting with Clients, Communication Skills, Office Procedures, The Negative Test, and Evangelism. Upon completion, each volunteer will be presented with a certificate.

MTCPC offers alternatives to abortion.

"MTCPC reaches out with love and compassion. We are never judgmental," said Director Nellie Ashby. "MTCPC educates on the development of a child after conception and on abortion so the client can make an informed decision. If we can help young people never need the services we offer, that is what we want to do."

For more information or to pre-register for the training, persons may contact Ashby at 301-334-1058.

First Safe Night "Party" Planning Session Slated

Anticipating Garrett County's first "Safe Night" event, people from all communities are invited to take part in a "party" planning session on Tuesday, April 13, at 6 p.m. at the Garrett County Extension office along Route 135. The event, sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department will be modeled on a national program that combines entertainment and education.

Project coordinator Nancy Brady described the Safe Night event as "a community party in a safe place, close to home." She said she would like to see people from all parts of the county participate in this event. "It would be really great to have this going on all over the county on the same night. So much has appeared in the media about the need for more activities for our youth. This would offer an activity free of alcohol, drugs, and violence," she said.

The national Safe Night project was originated as a community party, organized by both young people and adults to enhance awareness of crime prevention through peaceful conflict resolution.

Brady said she has worked with many groups in the county on projects. "It's good to have so many partners in the community who are interested in our youth," she stated.

Local Cagers To Participate In McDonald's Game

Garrett County will be well represented in the 19th annual McDonald's/Frostburg Lions West Virginia-Maryland Basketball Classic, which will be played this Sunday, April 11, at Frostburg State College.

Among the members of the Maryland girls' team will be Jessica Saturday, Katelyne McBee, and Laura Friend all of Southern, and Jackie Brenneman of Northern. The Maryland boys' squad will include Dustin Long of Northern, a 6-3 center who finished second in the area in scoring (23.8 ppg), and 6-0 guard John Andrews and 6-2 forward Mike Pamepinto from area and WMIL champion Southern.

The girls' game will tip off at 2 p.m. and the boys' contest will get under way at 4 p.m.

The teams consist of senior high school players from Garrett and Allegany counties (Maryland team), and Berkeley, Hampshire, Hardy, Mineral, Morgan, Grant, and Tucker counties (West Virginia team).

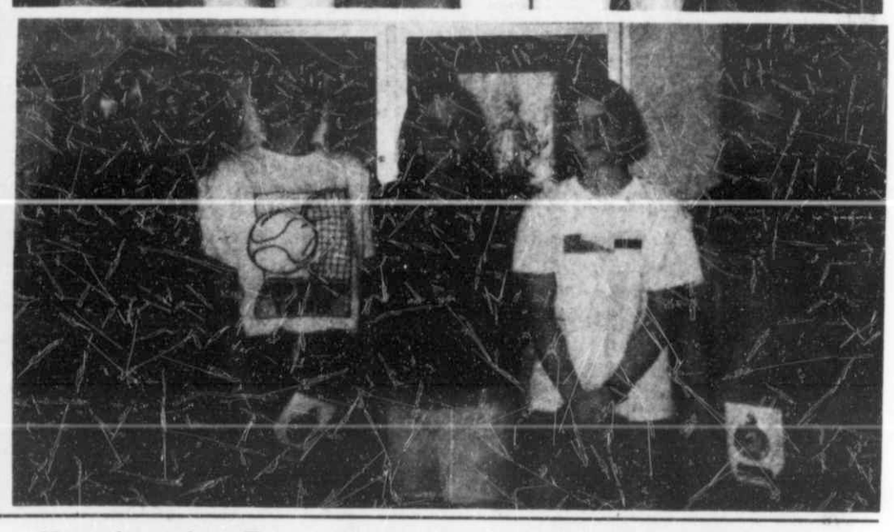
Inexperienced Huskies Drop Three Straight In Falling To 2-5 Record



It was a rough week for the varsity baseball team of Northern High School, as the Huskies dropped each of their three contests to drop to a 2-5 overall record and a 1-3 WMIL mark. The Huskies fell to Williamsport 8-2, Hancock 9-7, and third-ranked Fort Hill by a 10-5 margin.

"We're struggling a little," commented Northern head coach Phil Carr. "We play good ball for 4 or 5 innings then make a mistake, which the opponents capitalize on. It's a sign of a young team, but we'll overcome our inexperience as we mature. It's a matter of learning how to successfully cope with whatever obstacles come our way."

The Huskies traveled to Hancock High School on Saturday to take part in the Williamsport Easter Tournament, where they opened against Williamsport. Northern held close to Williamsport through the early going, giving up a run in the first inning and a pair of runs in the second on a two-run blast by Brad Anders before bouncing back in the third inning with two runs of its own and making the score 3-2. The tourney hosts scored a run in the fifth inning and four runs in the sixth inning to pull away and leave the Huskies down by the final six-run margin, 8-2.

Losing Northern pitcher Josh Hook pitched the first five innings until he was lifted in the sixth inning and replaced by Brant Green, who in turn was relieved by Keith Artice. Williamsport pitcher Josh Berger struck out 11 Huskies while walking only three batters for his complete-game victory.

Four of Northern's six hits on the day came as Levi Schmuck and Tim Umbel punched out a pair of singles apiece.

The Huskies put up a valiant effort against Hancock in the consolation game, but fell apart at the end as the home team mounted big sixth and seventh inning scoring binges to roar back from a five-run deficit and take the win.

Hancock had drawn first blood in the contest by tagging starter Matt Settle for a pair of runs in the opening stanza. The Huskies struck back with two runs of their own in the third inning and five runs in the fourth inning to take a 7-2 lead, unwittingly setting the stage for Hancock's titanic scoring efforts that began in the sixth inning, when the home team scored four runs to pull within a run, 7-6. Hancock followed that outburst with a three-run seventh inning to go up by the final 9-7 margin.

Settle struck out 10 batters before being lifted in the sixth inning. He was initially relieved by Jeff Carr, who finished the inning before giving way to P.J. Workman in the seventh. Carr and Josh Henderson each doubled and singled for the Huskies.

Brandon Flinch took a complete-game win for Hancock, striking out five and walking only two over the course of his seven innings. His teammates supplied plenty of firepower as Todd Miller tallied two singles and three RBI, Jacob Rhodes tagged a trio of singles, Sam Higgens and Dustin Yost punched out a pair of singles apiece, and Mike Dobranski whacked a double.

Yesterday at Fort Hill the Huskies jumped out to a 2-0 advantage in the lead-off inning. After Ryan Butler's double, a pair of two-out RBI singles by Workman and Adam Brenneman drove home two baserunners. The hosts struck back with two runs of their own in the third when a Brandon Jenkins homer brought home a runner who was perched on second base.

Fort Hill captured the lead in the fourth inning on a solo home run by Kevin Beem and an RBI single by Jenkins. An inning later they began building an insurance policy by scoring three runs, one of which came on an NHS fielding error, to go up 7-2.

The Huskies rebounded in the sixth inning, highlighted by a two-run bases-loaded double by Jeff Carr, which pulled them to within two runs, 7-5. Keith Artice then walked to re-load the bases, but Sentinel reliever Gabe Schaidt pitched his way out of the jam by striking out the next two Husky batters to leave all three runners stranded.

Not to be outdone, Fort Hill snapped back immediately with three runs of their own in the bottom of the inning, two of which came on a Mike Thomas home run, to finalize the result at 10-5.

Fort Hill banged out a total of 10 hits off the NHS pitching staff of Josh Hook, Matt Settle, and Workman, but four errors in the field did not help the Huskies'

Rams Win Tourney, Edge Preston, Lose To Allegany

The varsity baseball team of Southern High School won its own Easter Tournament on Saturday against Meyersdale and Petersburg, rallied to defeat visiting Preston County High on Tuesday, 7-6, but then saw its undefeated streak come to an end yesterday with a 4-1 loss to host Allegany, currently the top-ranked team in the area.

Winning the Easter Tournament required a two-run, seventh inning rally by the Rams against Meyersdale in their first game to eke out an 8-7 victory. In fact, it was on an error by the visitors that the Rams scored their winning runs.

With Meyersdale leading 7-6, Nathan DiSimone led off the Rams' half of the seventh with a single. Christian Warfield followed with a double to put DiSimone on third. Both of them came home when Jason Rohrbaugh reached on an infield error.

Getting two singles apiece for the Rams were Mike Shahan and Jordan Uphold, while Jason Troutman rapped a two-run homer for Meyersdale.

Warfield, who relieved Jason Finch in the seventh inning, earned the win over Reggie Weaver.

Meyersdale suffered its second one-run defeat of the day in game two, being defeated by Petersburg, 7-6 in 11 innings.

Jordan Uphold pitched all six innings of the second game for the Rams, which was called early because of the 10-run rule. He allowed seven hits, struck out eight, and issued no walks.

The Rams wasted no time taking control of the game, as they scored seven runs in the first inning. Leading their 14-hit effort were Mike Shahan with two home runs and a single for four RBI, and Keith Parks, Jason Weaver, Jason Rohrbaugh, and John Andrews with two singles each.

Ryan Lambert accounted for two of the Vikings' hits, a double and a single, which drove home two runs.

It was the first loss of the season for Petersburg against three victories. Meyersdale returned home with a 2-2 record.

Tuesday's game against Preston County was reminiscent of the contest with Meyersdale, as the Rams trailed by a run, 6-5, going into the bottom of the seventh inning, but scored a pair of runs, once again, on an infield error.

The Rams led 1-0, 4-2, and 5-3 in the early going, but Preston scored two runs in the fourth and another in the fifth to take the 6-5 lead.

It was a mis-handled infield grounder by Jason Weaver that brought home the two winning runs in the seventh. Weaver also had a double to account for two of the Rams' five hits off Nathan Pratt.

Chris Warfield earned the win for the Rams, as he went the distance, allowed nine hits, struck out 13, and walked three. Mike Shedd hit a home run and a single, while Nick Stawser hit a two-run blast to pace the Knights' hitting performance.

The loss evened Preston County's record at 3-3.

The Rams were ranked number two in the area going into last night's Western Maryland Interscholastic League contest against top-rated Allegany, and they met an outstanding pitching performance by Clint Panuska, who limited them to just two hits and one unearned run.

Meanwhile, Southern's pitching effort by Jason Finch and Todd Tasker was nearly as good, as the duo allowed just three hits. There was only one earned run in the game.

The Rams threatened with runners on base in the first and fifth innings, but the Alco defense pulled Panuska out of trouble on both occasions by turning double plays.

Southern took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Allegany committed a pair of errors and Jason Hinebaugh followed with an RBI single.

The Campers took the lead for good with two unearned runs in the bottom of the third, as Billy Crippen reached on an error and moved to second on a sacrifice by Stephen Bucy. Adam Schmitt and Jeremy Strother each drew walks to load the bases and Sam Long reached on an error that scored Crippen from third and Schmitt all the way from second.

Allegany added a run in the fourth on an RBI single by Schmitt which plated Crippen, who had drawn a walk. The Campers scored the final run of the game in the fifth on an error, two walks, and a sacrifice fly by Andy Wilson.

The victory upped Alco's perfect record to 7-0.

The Rams (5-1) will attempt to get back on track this Friday when they play at Bishop Walsh (5 p.m.). They will travel to Fort Hill on Monday and to Westmar next Wednesday.

MAKING CONTACT with the ball in the above photo against Preston County High School this week was Southern Ram Mike Shahan, helping the Rams earn a 7-6, come-from-behind victory. In Southern's Easter Tournament on Saturday, also won by the Rams, Shahan finished the day with two home runs and three singles in two games. Winding up on the mound for the Rams in the photo below is winning pitcher Christian Warfield, who went the distance and struck out nine batters for the afternoon. The win was the fifth straight for Coach Jim Bosley and his squad, but the streak was ended last night in Cumberland against top-ranked Allegany. See story. Photos by John McEwen.

Lakers Crush Frostburg Jayvees Before Falling To Anne Arundel

The Garrett Community College Lakers broke a multi-game losing streak by blasting the Frostburg State University junior varsity last week, 10-6 and 10-0, in their home opener, only to turn around and drop both ends of a twinbill on Saturday to visiting Anne Arundel CC, 6-3 and 3-1. The split left the Lakers with a 10-11 record.

The Lakers finished with a total of 32 runs on 25 hits last Thursday against FSU, with seven of the first game's 16 hits being home runs. Darnell Bratton smacked three homers, while Josh Pearson and Matt DiAngelo each rapped two.

DiAngelo also hit a double and scored four runs, and Bratton scored three times. Andy Blackwell hit a single and a double.

Tom Mace and Pat Atkins combined for a seven-hitter, with Mace given credit for the win over FSU starter Greg Erdman.

The Lakers took the lead with five runs in the first inning and never looked back, with the eight-run fifth inning being their biggest.

The Garrett players hit no home runs in the second game, but capitalized on nine hits and, once again, took a 5-0 lead in the first inning. They added four runs in the fifth and four more in the sixth.

Leading the Lakers' hitting was Joe Eisner, who went 3-for-5 with a double and three runs scored, while Lee Pennington hit a double and a single for two runs.

Coach Ed Wildesen gave three of his pitchers time on the mound, as Mike Maravich, Chad Ord, and Chris Nutter allowed only two FSU hits and no runs.

"After playing our first 17 games on the road, it felt great to finally play at home," Wildesen said. "We played well and with a lot of enthusiasm."

In Saturday's first Maryland JUCO game against Anne Arundel, the Lakers out-hit the visitors by an 8-6 margin, but two of Anne Arundel's hits accounted for five runs. Tony Caterna stroked a two-run blast in the third inning and Scott Simering blasted a three-run shot in the fifth.

Two Lakers also connected on a long ball, but both were solo shots. Josh Pearson had a homer in the fifth inning, plus a single, and Gary Lee hit a home run in the seventh. Eisner finished with two singles.

Brian Tarajack, who went the distance, took the loss on the mound.

Six of the seven innings in game two went scoreless, with all four runs scored in the fourth frame. Anne Arundel took a 3-0 lead in the top of the inning and the Lakers managed one in the bottom of the frame when Andy Blackwell singled and came home on another single by Pearson.

Laker Brian Melnyk and Anne Arundel's Chris Jackson both went the distance, with Melnyk allowing seven hits, striking out seven, and walking one. Jackson gave up just four hits to earn the win.

Getting two hits each for Anne Arundel were Charlie Killmayer and Chris Keane.

The Lakers are scheduled to play a doubleheader at home this Saturday against Essex CC, beginning at 3 p.m., entertain Chesapeake in a twinbill on Sunday, host the Frostburg State jayvees again for a single game on Monday, host Hagerstown next Tuesday in a doubleheader, and entertain the FSU jayvees again next Thursday.

cause. On offense, the bright stop was Carr's run-producing double, the double by Butler, a pair of singles by Workman (one of which drove home a run), and Adam Brenneman's RBI single.

Northern's upcoming slate for the week includes a road trip to Mapletown, Pa., on Saturday for a noon match-up with Mapletown, followed by a 4:30 p.m. Wednesday contest at home against Beall.

Former Husky Star Off To Big Start On CUP Diamond

McHenry's Kristen Heslop, a 1998 graduate of Northern High School, is making a big impact in her freshman season with the California University of Pennsylvania (CUP) softball team.

As of this Tuesday Heslop was third in the team's hitting statistics with a .352 average, amassing 25 hits in 71 at-bats, with four doubles, four homers, and 15 RBIs. She is her team's leader in slugging percentage at .577 and walks with nine. Heslop was recently named to the Wayne State University All-Tournament team.

CUP's Vulcans are seeking to three-peat after taking back to back Division II National Championships. They have gotten off to a slow 14-11 mark, but stand at 4-0 atop the PSAC-West region. Cal U. was slated to face Lock Haven at home today.

Northern Girls Win One, But Lose Four On Softball Diamond

Northern High School's varsity softball squad fell in four out of five contests over the span of this week's action, and the Huskies' record now stands at 2-5. After opening the week on Thursday with an 8-0 defeat at the hands of Southern, the Huskies rebounded in the opening round of Saturday's South Hagerstown Easter Tournament to beat St. Maria Goretti 11-4, before falling to the tourney hosts in the championship game by an 11-8 margin. NHS dropped an 8-7 heartbreaker to Fort Hill on Tuesday, then were demolished by Hyndman yesterday by a 16-1 score.

The Huskies opened their week's slate by falling to Southern 8-0. (See Southern coverage for details.)

The Huskies traveled to Saturday's South Hagerstown Easter Tournament and took a seven-run victory over St. Maria Goretti in a see-saw opening contest. Northern chalked up the game's first runs with a two-run first inning and Goretti answered with a single run in the second. The Huskies scored another run in the third to take a 3-1 lead, but Goretti responded with a three-run fourth inning to make the score 4-3.

Down by a single run, NHS broke loose for a big fifth inning, as 11 batters stepped up to the plate and the Huskies went up 9-4 on six runs on seven walks and two hits. Goretti was unable to get into the scoring column again, and Northern put the icing on the cake with a pair of runs in the sixth for the 11-4 win.

Husky hurler Heather Nugent took the complete game win, with help from three singles by Heidi Frazee. Starting Goretti pitcher Chambers was relieved in the fifth by Bockrath, who pitched for the remainder of the contest.

Advancing to the championship bracket to take on South Hagerstown, the Huskies wasted no time by erupting for three runs in the first inning and adding three more runs in the second to go up 6-0. Aided by five walks and five singles, the undaunted hosts roared back with a seven-run third inning to take a one-run lead. Four additional South Hagerstown runs in the next inning gave the eventual victors an 11-6 lead, and although Northern scored twice in the fifth to pull within three runs, it was too little, too late for the Huskies.

Melissa McKeever, making her varsity pitching debut in a Huskies uniform, was feted with the loss after being relieved by Nugent in the third inning. On offense, Frazee amassed three singles and Nugent added a pair of singles of her own.

South Hagerstown starter Higgs took the win, and aided her own cause by punching out a pair of singles at the plate. Middlekauff and Belin each added two singles of their own.

Tuesday's contest at Fort Hill went down to the wire, with the outcome not being decided until the final at-bat of the final inning, when the Sentinels' Angie Hines scored on a single by Carrie Liller to clinch the one-run victory.

Northern moved out front early, with three runs in the first inning and a single run in the third. The hosts answered with a lone run in the bottom of the third inning and four runs in the fifth inning to go up 5-4. Not to be outdone, the Huskies struck back with a run in the top of the sixth inning, but the Sentinels scored a pair in the bottom of that stanza to go up by a 7-5 margin.

The Huskies bounced back with a pair of runs in the seventh inning to tie the score at 7-7, setting the stage for Liller's game-winning heroics in the bottom of the eighth inning.

Liller finished the game with a triple and a pair of singles, knocking in two runs. Her Sentinel teammate, Stephanie Skidmore, added a triple. Kristie Stone took the winner's laurels with a complete-game pitching performance, striking out 10 while allowing seven hits.

Nugent, who had hit a triple of her own, went the distance on the mound, but was saddled with the pitching loss. Fellow Husky Brooke Butler tagged three singles.

Yesterday at Hyndman, the Huskies opened with a single run in the first inning, but were pelted for nine runs in the bottom of the inning. Five hits, including a two-run double by Laurie Frazier, and six walks helped account for the outburst.

Hyndman scored four runs in the third inning, and added four more in the fourth to go up by the final 16-1 margin.

Anne Shaffer tossed a complete-game three hitter for the hosts, while Husky starter Melissa McKeever gave up 13 hits as she went the distance.

Northern's coming action for the week includes a home game against Flintstone this afternoon, a trip to Keyser on Monday, and Tuesday-Thursday home stand against Westmar, Beall, and Allegany, respectively.

Ram Jayvees Sweep Keyser

The junior varsity baseball team of Southern High School opened its season with a doubleheader sweep of host Keyser on Friday at Stayman Field, 7-4 and 11-1.

Leading the Ram offense in the first game was Ricky Reams, who rapped a triple and two singles for two RBI, while Chad Panther hit a double.

All four of Keyser's runs were scored without the benefit of a hit, as three of them were recorded via walks and a fourth off a fielder's choice. Reliever Brian Hauser, who took the mound for the Rams in the third inning, was credited with the win.

The second game was called after six innings because of the 10-run rule. Chris Remley smacked a double and three singles for two RBI for Southern, and Panther added three singles and a pair of RBI.

Derek Tetenburn had one of Keyser's five hits off Jared Fike, which knocked in the Golden Tornado's only run. Fike went the distance and struck out eight.

The Rams had a game with Westmar scheduled for Monday postponed and will play a doubleheader at Beall this Saturday. They will play a single game at Preston next Tuesday.

Northern Girls Whip Frankfort

The girls' tennis team of Northern High School recorded a 5-2 victory over Fort Hill yesterday at Short Gap, W.Va.

Dana Braskey, Amanda Downton, and Tawnya Wilkens each captured singles victories for the Huskies, and the teams of Kristin Wright and J. Grove, and R. Meyers and Braskey each won in doubles.

Alyssa McAvoy was the only singles winner for the Sentinels.

Ram Softball Team Stands At 5-1 After Taking Three Of Four

Southern's varsity softball team took three out of four contests this week to take their outstanding record to 5-1. The action began as the Rams downed Northern 8-0 on Thursday, followed by an 18-3 throttling of Salisbury in the opening round of a Saturday Easter Tournament in Cumberland. SHS was set back in that tourney's championship round by Allegany, 18-5, but roared back on Tuesday to take revenge on the Campers by a 7-3 score.

The Rams vanquished Northern in their first outing of the week by an 8-0 margin, behind 14 strikeouts by Jennifer Bosley and three RBI by Jennifer Teagarden.

Southern scored its initial run in the first inning, and solo runs followed in the third, fourth, and fifth innings for the Rams. A three-run sixth inning and another run in the seventh inning closed out the scoring run.

Winning pitcher Bosley went the distance, allowing only one walk and five singles. She was aided on defense by batterymate Jennifer Sanders, who gunned down a pair of Huskies attempting to steal, and third baseman Mika Myers, who earned two assists and one putout.

Teagarden's fireworks at the plate came in the form of a doubie and two singles, an output that was matched by Ashley Liller. Sanders and Paula Glotfelty each singled twice.

Northern's Mimi Harvey singled twice in the losing effort, but complete-game Husky pitcher Heather Nugent gave up 13 hits while striking out three and issuing walks.

The Rams then traveled to Allegany for Saturday's Knippenberg Insurance Easter Tourney, where they downed Salisbury 18-3 in the opening round before falling to the hosts by an 18-5 margin in the championship match-up.

In the first game, a two-run first inning by Southern was answered by a pair of Salisbury runs in the bottom of the same inning. Southern countered with a run in the second, then exploded for 12 runs in the third to go up by a 15-2 margin. A single Salisbury run in the bottom of the inning went for naught as the Rams rocked Salisbury pitching for three more runs in the fourth inning.

Missy Simmons paced the SHS offense with three singles. Nicole Kitzmiller had a pair of singles for two RBI, and Stacy Scripp and Sanders provided two singles and two RBI apiece. Winning pitcher Bosley struck out nine Salisbury batters in just three innings of work while she walked only two. Simmons came on in relief in the fourth inning to pitch the rest of the way, striking out three batters in the process.

Amber Wall tripled for Salisbury, while Brittney Shumaker took the loss.

In the championship game, Allegany's Lori Winebrenner led her team to a 13-run victory as she tagged SHS pitcher Teagarden for a pair of home runs.

Winebrenner whacked a double and her two homers in the first two innings of the contest, which the Campers opened with a four-run first inning and a five-run second inning. Southern made it into the scoring column with a four-run fourth inning which included Bosley's two-run homer, but Alco responded with a seven-run fourth inning and a two-run fifth inning.

Teagarden gave up 16 hits in the losing effort, striking out three Campers while walking five. In addition to Bosley's home run and single, the Rams' offense relied on a pair of singles by Liller and a Pickle Reese's double.

Winning pitcher Stacey Walton, who struck out six Rams and gave up eight hits, helped her own cause by whacking three singles. Teammate Manda Widemyer belted three doubles and a single.

A trio of Rams—Liller, Kitzmiller, and Bosley—were named to the All-Tournament team.

Tuesday brought a rematch between the Rams and Campers as SHS traveled to Cumberland once again to take its revenge by a 7-3 margin. Bosley led the way to victory by amassing an outstanding 17-strikeout total, while also belting a fifth inning grand slam.

Allegany went up 1-0 in the third inning, but Bosley's bases-clearing shot in the fifth inning put the Rams up by four. Alco countered with a pair of runs in the bottom of the fifth inning, which was followed by a two-run Southern seventh inning.

Bosley drove home five runs on the day, punching out an RBI single in addition to her grand slam. Reese added a triple and a single for one RBI and Liller contributed a pair of singles.

Erin Rhodes whacked a triple and a double for Alco, and Kim Twigg added a double and a single for an RBI. Stacey Walton tripled in one RBI and Cassie Murray had an RBI single.

The Rams go on the road in the coming week, with trips to Preston tomorrow, Mt. Savage on Saturday, Beall on Tuesday, and Westmar on Wednesday. They close the week's action with a home contest against Westmar on Thursday.

Ram Net Teams Defeat Beall In Season Opener

The tennis teams of Southern High School swept visiting Beall yesterday in their season openers, as the girls' team recorded a 4-3 win and the boys won by a 6-0 margin.

Singles winners for the Southern girls were Desiree Spady, Sara Thomas, and Nicole Frazee. Spady then teamed up with Charlena Reeves to win a doubles match and give the Rams the one-point team victory.

Kirsten Getz and Kim Reidler were singles winners for the Mountaineers.

In the boys' match, Southern's Justin Stephens, Mike Pamepinto, Bryson Paugh, and Josh Stephens swept the singles matches. The doubles matches were forfeited by the Mountaineers.

The Rams will compete again today at Petersburg and travel to Keyser on Monday.

Bowl For Kids' Sake Event Set By Local BB/BS

Bowl For Kids' Sake, sponsored by the Garrett County branch of Big Brothers Big Sisters, will be held Saturday, April 24, at Par-Matt Lanes beginning at noon for individual and team bowling. The annual bowl-a-thon raises funds to support BB/BS services in the community, and serves as the main fund-raiser that helps to keep the much needed programming available in Garrett County.

"People think they have to be great bowlers to participate in the Bowl For Kids' Sake," said Linda Stephens, BB/BS board member. "The reality is that 100 points are guaranteed just for showing up, so even the novice bowler can relax and have a great time."

League and non-bowlers can participate by signing up sponsors and bowling at the event. Incentive and door prizes have been donated by local businesses and will be awarded to bowling participants. Bowlers who raise $50, $100, and $150 automatically receive their choice of prizes and do not have to compete to win. Door prizes will also be awarded every 15 minutes.

Grand prizes will be awarded to individuals who bring in the most money in their age group. In the adult category, the winning bowlers will have their choice of an off-peak pass at Wisp Resort, a weekend stay at cabin in Herrington Manor State Park, a color television from Treasure Island, or a gift certificate from the Silver Tree Restaurant. The youth prizes are for children in grades 6-12, who may choose between a portable CD player, a $25 gift certificate donated by Treasure Island, a Gameboy, or a Baby Pan pizza from Little Caesar's each month for a year. Children from preschool to 5th grade will compete for a free rental per month for a year from Reel Video, a McDonaldland party for 10, a month of classes at Brenda's Body Shop, or a Flurry every month between April and October from Oak Lee Dairyland.

A family of immediate or extended family members will raise money as a team, and prizes for this family category include: golf, Lazer Tag, and pizza party at Smiley's Pizzeria at the Fun Zone; a pontoon rental for a day sponsored by S & H Marina; four free movie passes and gift certificates from Uno's Restaurant and Garrett 8 Cinemas; four free 3-D archery passes from Potomac Garrett State Forest; or a Western Maryland Scenic Railway pass for four.

BB/BS serves children from primarily single parent homes between the ages of 6 and 16. The agency provides assistance to these families by matching a child with a special adult Big Brother or Big Sister. The staff supervise the "matches" which give guidance and support for the children. The one-to-one mentoring friendship is often thoroughly beneficial to the child, their family, and the adult volunteer, as well as the community at large.

The local chapter has a need for volunteers who could share three hours of their week with a child needing the help to make the transition to adulthood. Pledge sheets are available through the Big Brothers Big Sisters local office at 318 East Oak Street, Oakland, by calling 301-334-3591 for further information about the program, or at the Bowl For Kids' Sake event.

Huskies Coast To Victory In Quadrangular Track, Field Meet

The track and field season opened on a high note for the Northern High School teams yesterday, as both the girls' and boys' team coasted to victory in a quadrangular meet at home. The Northern girls finished with 121 team points to crush Hancock with 54, Clear Spring with 38, and Bishop Walsh with 14, while the boys earned 116 points to easily defeat Hancock with 65, Clear Spring with 45, and Bishop Walsh with 14.

Leading the Northern girls to victory were Kristin Lander, who won the 100 hurdles (17.74 seconds) and 200 dash (28.28 seconds) and was on the winning 400 and 800 relay teams; Jen Fickes, who won the 1,600 run (7:04) and 800 run (3:10) and was on the winning 3,200 relay team; Ashley Elliott, who won the triple jump (29'3") and the long jump (13'10.5"); Erin Neal, who won the 3,200 run (16:58) and was on the winning 3,200 team; and Jenny Goehringer, who won the high jump (4'6") and was on the winning 800 relay team.

The Huskies also captured eight second places and six third places.

Craig Kamp won three individual events for the Northern boys, capturing first in the high jump (5'6"), triple jump (38'8.5"), and long jump (19'1"). Craig Miller won the 100 dash in 12.1 seconds, Andy Bowser won the 300 hurdles and was on the winning 400 and 800 relay teams, and the Northern 3,200 relay team was also victorious.

The Huskies won nine second places and six third places to dominate the meet.

The Northern teams will compete again Monday at Beall.

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

Spring in Garrett County is the time when folks 'round here with an outdoor bent appreciate the many opportunities to pursue varied interests. A brochure on "Adventure Sports" in western Maryland has recently been made available by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. The phone number is 301-334-1948. They also maintain a web site at www.garrettchamber.com and can be e-mailed at info@garrettchamber.com.

TAKE A HIKE

One great way to shake off winter trappings is to take some time to hike the many miles of mountain trails right in our own backyard. In addition to the trails maintained in the park system that are available at the hiker's whim, there are organized activities that may be better suited for aspiring or novice trailblazers.

Coming up on May 22 is a wildflower hike in the Monroe Run area. This is a beautiful stream in the Savage River Forest. For more information on this event call 301-895-5759. Later this season, on July 17, a combined hiking/canoeing adventure will begin with a 4.5-mile hike down Monroe Run and culminate with a guided canoe trip on the Savage River Reservoir. Information is available from the number listed above.

If you are inclined to hiking on your own, the following areas have trails ready for exploration.

Savage River State Forest — 52,812 acres located south of Route 40 and surrounding the Savage River Reservoir.

Potomac State Forest — 10,416 acres of rugged mountain terrain off MD Route 135 near Deer Park.

New Germany State Park — 455 ares about 5 miles south of Grantsville in the Savage River Forest.

Herrington Manor State Park — 355 acres 5 miles south of Oakland.

Garrett State Forest — 6,781 acres 5 miles northwest of Oakland.

Deep Creek Lake State Park — 1,818 acres on the east side of Deep Creek Lake.

Big Run State Park — northern tip of the Savage Forest.

A map of the Potomac-Garrett State Forest trail system is published on the Maryland Department of Natural Resources web site. A number to call for information is 301-334-2038.

CANOE TRIPS ON THE SAVAGE RIVER RESERVOIR

The popular guided canoe trips on the Savage Reservoir will be continued this summer beginning in June. The scheduled dates are June 11, June 25, July 2, July 16, July 30, August 13, and August 27. Make your plans now. There is a $5 fee assessed. Canoes are provided. Call 301-895-5759 for information and reservations.

TROUT FISHING CONDITIONS

Recent rains and releases from area impoundments have put streams at fairly high levels and are impeding trout fishing a bit. These conditions should abate soon, and the trout should be more apt to take a bait since they haven't been pressured.

The Casselman has been stocked heavily, and even though the waters have been up, is certainly fishabie. The river is regulated as "delayed harvest, artificial lures only" until mid June. Fly-fishermen should be using beadheads and woolly buggers with caddis, midges, and stonefly imitations on warm days.

High flows on the lower Savage have made this area difficult so area casters may want to concentrate on the upper Savage.

The Yough also has been high. As it recedes fishermen will find the main river above the "catch and release" section loaded with fish as the weather has hampered harvesting the fish stocked for Put-and-Take. Fly-fishermen should try nymphs and woolly buggers of various colors with midges, caddis, and blue duns later this month. The North Branch, both upper and lower sections, has been running high. When it is fishable, the Put-and-Take section below the Jennings Randolph dam should offer lots of action. This high water is only temporarily delaying the excellent fishing. Productive fly patterns will be nymphs, woolly buggers, sculpins, and clousers.

PUBLIC MEETINGS ON FRESHWATER FISHING REGULATIONS FOR 2000

The DNR announced a series of public meetings to hear comments and discuss freshwater fishing regulations being considered for the year 2000. The news release from the DNR said these meetings are designed to offer an opportunity for the DNR to discuss the state of the state's freshwater fisheries with the anglers who use them and get suggestions on upcoming changes.

The closest meeting site for Garrett County fishermen will be at Frostburg State University. A meeting will be held there on May 12 at 7 p.m. in the Louis Ort Library. Some specific proposals that will be discussed are (1) changing the Yough River downstream from the I-80 bridge from Put-and-Take to Delayed Harvest, (2) extending the Deep Creek Lake spring walleye closure to the Youghiogheny River downstream of the Route 42 bridge, and (3) closure dates for Put-and-Take fishing in 2000.

Cumberland Raceway

The season opener at Cumberland Raceway will be Friday, April 16, with gates opening at 5 p.m. with hot laps at 7 p.m. and heats at 7:30 p.m. This will be the "Corey Walker Benefit Night" for late models, semi-lates, and pro-stocks. Points begin for all classes. The Grandstand admission will be $8 for adults, $1 for children 4 to 12, children under 4 get in free, and pit entrance will be $14.

Sunday, April 11, from 2 to 5 p.m. will see a practice session and swap meet and a new Rollover Contest at Cumberland Raceway. The gates will open at 12:30 p.m. Grandstand and pit admission will be $3 for adults, $1 for children 4 to 12, and children under 4 free. Cars entering to practice will be charged an additional $10. All cars and classes are welcome. Concession foods will be available.

Interstate 79 Speedway

The sound of racing engines will be heard this Friday evening, April 9, at Interstate 79 Speedway, as drivers are given a chance to test and tune their cars for the 1999 racing season. The practice session will begin with gates opening at 6 p.m. and practice following at approximately 7 p.m. Race fans will be admitted to the grandstand area free of charge. The pit admission will be $10. Concession stands will be open for all the fans to enjoy during the evening.

Drivers who plan to run in the May 2 Enduro will be drawing numbers for starting positions on practice night. This drawing will be held on the spectator side at 9 p.m.

Racing action gets underway at I-79 on Friday, April 16, when Coca Cola presents Grand Opening Night. General admission for spectators remains at $7 for adults, with children under 12 being admitted free of charge. Pit admission on regular racing nights is $18. Gates will open each Friday night from April 16 through the month of August at 6 p.m. and racing action will begin at 8 p.m.

Interstate 79 Speedway features late models, semi-lates, UMP modifieds, pure stocks, and 4 cylinders each Friday evening. The dwarf cars will make four appearances during the summer, the first being on May 14.

The first Enduro Race is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, May 2. Rules for the Enduro are available through the speedway office at 304-592-3200 or one may be picked up while visiting the track.

Interstate 79 Speedway is located at Exit 125 (Shinnston/Saltwell) just north of Clarksburg, W.Va.

and more rapid closure of criminal cases, according to the report.

The sheriff's office also now has an Accident Reconstruction Unit for serious vehicle crashes. Inmates availing themselves of drug and alcohol programs in the jail will soon be housed together.

Needs expressed by the sheriff include the upgrading of computer technology and the addition of deputies and correctional officers. He requested that the Grand Jury ask the commissioners to "take an honest, hard look" at his budget request before they cut it, adding that for law enforcement to work properly and effectively, it must be "proactive and not reactive."

The sheriff said he has strong working relationships with the office of the state's attorney, clerk of court, local judges, and the Maryland State Police. The members of the jury acknowledged that the sheriff provided a convincing argument in support of his request for additional personnel.

Board of Education

The jurors were divided into two tour groups. One group toured the Northern High School, Northern Middle School, and Friendsville Elementary School, accompanied by Assistant Superintendent Dr. Brenda McCartney. The second group toured Southern High School, Southern Middle School, and Dennett Road Elementary School, accompanied by Michael Sines, director of facilities.

Northern Middle School

The tour at Northern Middle School was conducted by Principal Bill Carlson. The jurors found the school to be well-maintained and in good repair. The staff appeared to be pleased with the school facilities and the administration, according to the jury report. The school is currently being wired for Internet access, which will also network with the board of education administrative offices in Oakland. It is anticipated that the wiring will be completed by the end of the school year.

It was noted that it is impossible for the middle school to schedule evening activities because the school's gym and cafeteria are being utilized by the high school Monday through Friday until approximately 7 p.m. each day. Carlson mentioned that some of the classrooms that came about as a result of building walls in the former open space facility are quite small.

Northern High School

Vice Principal Gary Reichenbecher gave the jurors a tour of Northern High School. This school also appeared to be well maintained and in good repair. Again the staff appeared to be pleased with the school facilities and the administration, the jury reported.

The high school is also being wired for Internet access. The members of the Jury reported that they were "quite impressed with the excellent vocational programs available in which students can participate, while at the same time attending academic courses."

As stated previously, Northern High is using Northern Middle for after-school activities because of a critical shortage of space at the high school. Approximately half of all after-school programs must be held at secondary locations, such as the middle school, or so late in the day that participating students must first go home and then return to the school in the evening. Numerous community organizations have been denied use of the facility, according to the jury report. The jurors suggested that an auxiliary gym be built to alleviate this problem that affects both Northern High and the middle school.

Friendsville Elemeutary School

The tour of Friendsville Elementary School was given by Principal Doug Gaither. The jury reported that the building is well maintained and in generally good repair, but that there are "obvious problems" with the tile floor in some locations and with the air exchange in the enclosed area that is now used for classrooms. Gaither indicated that these two problem areas are scheduled for repair during the summer months. There is ample space available to handle the current student population, with additional space available if enrollment should increase. The staff appeared to be pleased with school facilities and administration, the jury reported.

Southern High School

The jury members who toured Southern High School were led by Lynn Bell, school principal, and were accompanied on all three school tours by Sines. The members said they were impressed by the quality and variety of classes and equipment available to students. The school building was clean and quiet. Bell told the jurors that a new discipline policy instituted within the past year, which includes a specific code of conduct, has yielded dramatically positive results.

The major areas of concern with the facility are the physical condition of the main gymnasium, the gym lobby, the stage area in the cafeteria, and the media center. The jurors reported that they found the gymnasium in particular "in deplorable condition, with paint falling off the walls, poor lighting, and other problems." The stage is in great need of renovations and the space needed for theatrical and other music/arts performances is "grossly inadequate."

The jury reported that the media center is primarily in need of carpeting and having the large windows in the front of the building replaced with something more energy efficient. Bell explained that these spaces were originally intended to be part of the 1991 renova-

THE MATRIX

Rated R - Running time: 2:16

It's 200 years in the future. Man has been overpowered by the smart computers he has built, and the world is now run by machines, with humans struggling to regain control. The entire life we live is a computer program, a virtual reality game that shows us what we want to see, fooling us into thinking we're still in control. All this advanced technology, and we still can't think of a better way to settle our problems than with guns and fistfights.

This is basically the idea of The Matrix, an ultra-computerized sci-fi film by Andy and Larry Wachowski that has an excellent concept but squanders it by falling back on the same old tired action movie conventions. The Wachowski brothers (Assassins, Bound) have given us an hour's worth of excellent cinema, filled with fascinating ideas and effects reminiscent of Alien or Terry Gilliam's incredible 12 Monkeys. But then they welch on their promise of an intelligent science fiction thriller by filling up the movie's second half with the same bullet-whizzing we see every day (with a few interesting visuals thrown in to keep us awake). What's more, Keanu Reeves disappoints once again with a flat performance in the leading role. Luckily, we have an excellent supporting performance by Laurence Fishburne, and a few other gems in the rubble.

We start with a woman named Trinity (Carrie-Anne Moss), who seems to be on the run from a gang of Men In Black-types led by Agent Smith (Hugo Weaving). Luckily, she can leap tall buildings in a single bound, run around on the walls, and so on. So she gets away, but not before contacting a computer hacker named Neo (Reeves) by sending him a cryptic message on his monitor. Following her directions, Neo meets up with Morpheus (Fishburne), who is in charge of a ragtag team of humans from the late 22nd century.

After an extremely rude series of awakenings, Morpheus tells Neo about all the "us against computers" deal. The whole 20th-c. life that Neo had grown accustomed to is fake; it's really almost 2200 a.d., and the few remaining "real" humans are in a life-and-death struggle with the cyborgs. And why did Morpheus seek out Neo and bring him up to speed? Because Neo is The One; he's the messiah. He's going to save us all.

Better put your heads between your legs, folks.

The imagery in the first hour of The Matrix is astounding. References to Alice in Wonderland are combined with industrial futureshock and spectacular matte paintings (or their computerized counterparts). The exposition is solid, and there is a Kung Fu sequence between Morpheus and Neo, a sort of Luke/Yoda thing, that will definitely impress. Fishburne's cool detatchment and precise elocution gives him an aura of mystery, and another excellent (but short) performance is given by Gloria Foster as "The Oracle," a sort of all-knowing, all-seeing grandmother who explains Neo's destiny to him while whipping up a batch of her dynamite oatmeal cookies.

But soon it all degenerates into conventional armed combat, including an interminable scene in a train station lobby, where everything and everybody gets blown to smithereens. Never mind—I'll just go on living in my little deluded paradise. As long as the steak is juicy and the beer is cold, I don't mind if it's all make-believe. ★★★½

THE OUT-OF-TOWNERS

Rated PG-13 - Running time: 1:32

Steve Martin and Goldie Hawn have both made interesting career journeys. When I was in high school, I used to listen to Steve's albums about "getting small," and my parents had no idea what I saw in the man. After starting his film career in silly movies like The Jerk and The Man with Two Brains, Martin matured into such projects as Parenthood and Father Of The Bride. Now his stock character is the stuffy, old-fashioned conservative, the opposite of his former "wild and crazy" persona. Hawn has had a similar maturation process, moving from her beginnings as a giggling, bikini-wearing go-go dancer on Rowan & Martin's Laugh-In to an elegant, mature woman with something to say. And, it must be said, Martin and Hawn, both in their 50s, are still attractive and even sexy—perhaps more so than ever before.

These two have collaborated with some success before, in 1992's Housesitter. This time, in a revival of Neil Simon's The Out-Of-Towners (1970), the couple play Henry and Nancy Clark, a middle-class Ohio couple whose kids have gone to college and left them with nothing to do but each other. Henry has a job interview at a New York ad agency, and even though Nancy isn't sure she likes the idea of moving there, she goes with him on the trip to see the sights and get her mind off the empty nest back home. Henry is afraid to tell Nancy that his real reason for job-hunting is that he was downsized in favor of a younger model (as he puts it, "anyone who's over 40 is no longer cutting edge"), so he welcomes her on the journey, feigning excitement to cover his uncomfortable secret.

Before long, Murphy's Law has made its presence felt, subjecting the couple to a rerouted plane, a missed train, a rental car whose heater won't shut off, and various other annoyances. Then they are mugged by a man claiming to be Andrew Lloyd Webber, and they have no method of payment when they try to check into the posh hotel where Henry has booked a room. It is at this point that we meet John Cleese as Mr. Mersault, the hotel's manager, a performance that comes darned close to stealing the movie. Mustering their courage and pushing their newfound sense of adventure to its absolute limit, Henry and Nancy suffer through countless other misadventures, finally finding themselves on the run from the law.

This film, though it may not compare to Arthur Hiller's classic 1970 version with Jack Lemmon and Sandy Dennis, is still one hoot after another. Directed by Sam Weisman (George of the Jungle), and with the combined experience of these three veterans of comedy—I include Cleese as an equal partner here—the timing and delivery of almost every line and every take is right on. Simon's script has been updated by Marc Lawrence (Forces of Nature), and I'm not sure what material is his and what is Simon's, but Hawn, Martin, and Cleese do fine by it. Also on hand is Saturday Night Live alum Mark McKinney as an amorous hotel guest Nancy uses to get at some room service. McKinney has proven himself as a hilarious comic, but this time he's playing the straight man.

Martin and Hawn are perfect for these roles. They show that despite the fact that they're pushing 60, they're still full of energy and youthful exuberance. And Cleese, well . . . I haven't seen him doing high kicks like that since his days at the Ministry of Silly Walks. ★★★★½

10 THINGS I HATE ABOUT YOU

Rated PG-13 - Running time: 1:30

Lately in the teen movie column, we have seen many classics of literature: "Les Liaisons Dangereaux" (Cruel Intentions), "Pygmalion" (She's All That), and now Gil Junger's 10 Things I Hate About You. This is the first writing effort by Karen McCullah Lutz and Kirsten Smith, and it shows, but they've hired the best of collaborators: William Shakespeare. The bard's works have been updated to death, of course, but this high school version of The Taming Of The Shrew is fresh and light, and contains some nice work by several young actors. The script is peppered with cute little Shakespearean references—characters have last names like "Stratford" and "Verona"—but it is also full of the traditional high school stereotypes, as usual.

Padua High School's prom is rapidly approaching, and sweet-young-sophomore Bianca Stratford (Larisa Oleynik, The Secret World of Alex Mack) doesn't want to be left out. Her angry-feminist older sister Kat (Julia Stiles) is not only opposed to the "outdated ritual" of the prom, but against dating in general, since she can't find a boy who is anywhere near her intellectual equal. What's more, the girls' overprotective father (Larry Miller), an obstetrician who constantly deals with teen pregnancies, has a strict rule: no dating. Period. After some whining and cajoling, however, Bianca gets him to agree to a more lenient policy, but one that he still thinks is perfectly safe. Bianca may only attend the prom if Kat does. Naturally, this pits sister against sister and makes Bianca's happiness contingent upon Kat's selling out of her values system. Interesting parental choice.

Bianca is soooooooo attractive that she has two possible suitors for the big night: Ultra nice-guy Cameron (Joseph Gordon-Levitt, 3rd Rock from the Sun), who is new at the school and loves Bianca for more than just her looks—though, frankly, there isn't much else there; and rich, conceited Joey (Andrew Keegan), with whom she is enamored mainly because of his shiny red convertible.

Cameron and geeky-but-likeable Michael (David Krumholtz, who looks and acts exactly like a younger version of Bruno Kirby), conspire with Joey on a complex plan to make almost everyone happy: Joey will pay top dollar to school bad-ass Patrick Verona (Heath Ledger) if he can convince Kat to attend the prom with him. Then Bianca will be allowed to go with Joey. Joey agrees, but what he doesn't know is that Cameron plans to ask Bianca out himself. Bianca, who would be happy to go with either of the boys, willingly gets in on the plot, and so the payment is made and the plans are set. But when Patrick starts following Kat around and researching her likes and dislikes—you know, stalking her—the plan backfires and he becomes fully enamored.

Unlike many high school movies, 10 Things contains actors who are able to rise above the silly stereotypes and give their characters life. It's not a bad script; the main plot is intricate and clever, but that's Shakespeare's doing. It's the details by Lutz and Smith that are weak. The actors do as well as possible with what they have, though, with the help of director Junger. It must be said that they accomplish the difficult task of making both sisters protagonists, although they are generally at odds with each other throughout the film.

The decision to put out-takes during the end credits may be a mixed blessing: They're funny, but clearly illustrate that some of the movie's most lively exchanges never made it into the final print. ★★★★

tion project at the school, but were cut from the plans in order to save money. Each year the school administration has looked forward to having the renovation of these areas completed, Bell said, but funding has yet to be provided. She said that the request for this funding, with more emphasis than ever, has been made once again to the present board of county commissioners.

The members stated that they "strongly encourage the county commissioners to address this situation in the FY 2000 county budget, particularly the funds for the gym renovation, since these spaces are in such deplorable condition and are so widely used and needed, not only by the schools, but also by a number of worthy outside organizations, such as youth athletic leagues, and also for various programs (such as Autumn Glory Festival events)." The gymnasium and stage spaces combined are utilized an average of 4,000 hours per year, according to the report.

Dennett Road Elementary School

The jury's tour of Dennett Road Elementary School was conducted by Principal Gary Galloway. The members reported that this facility was also found to be in good order and clean. Two of the three boilers in the furnace room are in need of replacement, and this project has been included this year in the board of education's five-year capital plan. Galloway said he would also like to have renovation or replacement of the modular classrooms that were added to the building a number of years ago, but have many inadequacies. He said that the special education area of the school could also use additional space, as the addition of just one more student with specific needs could render the current space insufficient. Sines stated that the renovation/replacement of the modular rooms is not in the current five-year plan, but will be put in the next five-year plan.

The members of the jury stated that they support the request for the replacement of the furnace boilers.

Southern Middle School

The tour of Southern Middle School was conducted by Principal Jack Rickman. This facility was also found by the jurors to be in "excellent, well-maintained condition, especially considering its age (21 years) and the volume of students who attend it (nearly 700)."

Rickman commented on the success of a new code-of-conduct discipline policy, which has cut office-referred cases by over 90%. The jury members were impressed by the number of computers in this school (approx. 280) and the administration's efforts to see that every student in the school, including those in special education, receive instruction and access to computers.

Needs that were cited for this building were new carpeting, some additional furniture, and some painting. Problems cited were traffic flow outside during the arrival and departure times, plus the ever-growing need to improve the athletic fields on the property, which are being used at a much greater degree by both the school and outside youth athletic leagues. Sines told the jury that both of those situations are being addressed.

A final concern expressed by the jury was the accessibility of unwholesome material on the Internet, with a recommendation that the board of education take whatever steps are necessary (such as the purchase of necessary software) to help teachers monitor and restrict usage of the Internet by students.

Superintendent's Comments

Making a presentation to the Grand Jury was Dr. Wendell Teets, school superintendent, and Sines. Teets spoke about the extensive use of the school buildings in the county and the fact that he was pleased with the job his maintenance staff has been doing, with limited funds, in keeping the buildings in good condition. He stated that the construction of an auxiliary gymnasium at Northern High School and the renovation of the main gymnasium, stage area, and media center at Southern High School were at the top of the board's capital improvement budget requests. He said that he is "cautiously optimistic" that state funds

DOVE CENTER INSIGHTS

Incest: The Final Taboo

by Barbara Barrick,
The Dove Center Counseling Staff

Everyone reading this article probably knows an adult survivor of incest (ASI). This is a shocking statement, but accurate, and it underscores the continuing secrecy surrounding this very active sexual abuse.

Incest is an act of power and control, disguised by declarations of love and usually imposed against the will of a vulnerable human being. It is the most extreme form of oppression involving a totally powerless person — a child.

Originally described as any sexual activity occurring between non-married family members, incest has been redefined by the therapeutic community to include acts of a sexual nature with anyone who has close contact with the family. This encompasses neighbors, family friends, and babysitters.

Incestuous acts range from sexual innuendoes to intercourse. The median age of the victim is 8 years old and the abuse usually continues for five to seven years. Since these are average figures, it means that the incestuous abuse may begin in infancy and continue into adulthood.

The most frequent perpetrator of incest is the father or father figure. The majority of victims are female children, although many male children are also victimized.

Adult survivors are those who have lived through the horrors of sexual abuse and are now mature women and men. Though perhaps not physically damaged by incest, these adult children have been deeply scarred emotionally. Without helpful interventions such as appropriate counseling, these scars are a huge burden that they will carry throughout their adult lives.

For friends, family, and partners it may be extremely difficult to understand, tolerate, or empathize with the manifestations of these scars.

As children, the victims felt that the abuse must be their fault. They were also confused because the people they believed should keep them safe were the ones who were hurting them. This confusion led the victims to believe they were "bad," which resulted in feelings of guilt and shame. These young victims also experienced a lack of trust and anger, especially toward themselves.

The victims equated sex with love, which caused them great pain. In defense, the child-victims developed behaviors to protect themselves from pain. These they carried with them into their later years.

Adult survivors can be found in all social and economic groups. They are present in a continuum from "street people" to teachers, ministers, and politicians. These survivors carry with them their painful childhood feelings and their old protective behaviors.

The maturing victims also develop some additional behaviors in response to their pain, guilt, and confusion. Among these behavior patters are non-assertion, aggression, substance abuse, eating disorders, physical pain, sexual dysfunction, promiscuity, sexual identity problems, lack of parenting skills, problems with trust, avoidance of intimacy and emotional bonding, difficulty identifying and expressing feelings, phobias, self mutilation, perfectionism, and memory lapses.

Survivors exhibit several more behaviors that are noteworthy. Some people who have been abused become abusers; many marry physically abusive people; and some have children who suffer sexual abuse. These actions support the theories of generational abuse, which means that abuse in some form is passed on from generation to generation. This cycle can be ended through appropriate interventions, especially during childhood.

There is also help for adult survivors. It is called "the healing process." This process takes time and commitment, and can be both difficult and emotionally painful; but the result — a thriving survivor — is worth the effort.

If a friend, relative, or neighbor speaks of being a victim of incest, please do not respond by saying, "Why don't you just forget it. That happened a long time ago." Instead, listen to, support, and encourage that person to seek help.

For more information on services provided by the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence/sexual assault resource center, persons may call 301-334-9000 or 800-894-3872.

Note: The Dove Center will begin group sessions Wednesday evening, April 14, for Adult Survivors of Incest. For further information on time and location, persons are asked to call the Dove Center.

"Find Your Way To Y2K" Career Day Set At GCC

The annual Mtn. Top Career Expo for all Garrett County juniors is scheduled for Friday, April 16. The event, titled "Find Your Way to Y2K," is sponsored by the Garrett County Board of Education. The expo will offer a full day of opportunities for students to talk with people from the community about the educational requirements, the job market, and daily tasks involved in their careers.

Parents are asked to encourage their daughters and sons to attend and participate in this event.

Traffic Lights

traffic during peak times.

The cost to fully signalize this intersection would be approximately $60,000, Crozier said. The county would be responsible for 33% of that cost.

The study at the Mosser Road-Rt. 219 intersection was prompted by numerous requests from the public and various elected officials, Crozier reported. Multiple traffic counts were collected at the site because of the seasonal traffic volume fluctuations. Three signal warrants were met at the intersection, prompting the SHA's consultant to recommend a signal. As at the Glendale site, the traffic light would be installed in phases, first as a caution beacon and then as a full-functioning light. The stoplight could also be used seasonally, during events such as the Garrett County Fair or the July 4th fireworks display.

The cost of the proposed first phase of this project would be $50,000, Crozier reported, 50% of which would be paid for by the county.

The funding formula for the intersections is different because the Glendale site is a three-way crossing and the Mosser site is four-way. As per the state funding requirements, the county must basically assume responsibility for one-third of three-way sites and one-half of four-way sites.

The commissioners were scheduled to further discuss the traffic light projects during today's regular work session.

BLUEGRASS GOSPEL MUSIC SLATED - The Jennings Church of God will present the bluegrass gospel sound of Jerusalem Ridge on Saturday, April 17, at 6 p.m. The quintet will perform a combination of vocal and instrumental gospel songs. The public is invited to attend this concert, free of charge. There will be refreshments served, and a free-will offering will be accepted. The church is located four miles south of Grantsville, off Route 495, along Jennings Road. For information persons may call 301-245-4262.

graduates of the country's top college and university theatre graduates. The company has toured and performed in 35 states and 10 foreign countries, and at each place the young artists take part in all functions of the show by preparing the stage, raising the set, focusing the lights, presenting the play, and then striking the set. During their stay in Garrett County, the National Players will present two morning performances of Shakespeare's Twelfth Night for students at Northern and Southern high schools.

Tickets can be purchased in advance at the GLAF office (301-387-3082) Monday through Friday, 10 a.m.-1 p.m. by credit card, or by mailing a check payable to GLAF: P.O. Box 151, McHenry, MD 21541. Admission will be $8 for adults and $4 for youth 18 and under. For the evening performance, students of GCC will also be admitted for $4.

All GLAF events are handicapped accessible. Programs are funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Shreve Awarded Scholarship To Frostburg State

Ashley Shreve, Bethlehem Road, was recently awarded an Academic Excellence Scholarship to attend Frostburg State University.

Shreve is currently a senior at Southern High School, where she is in the National Honor Society. She plans to major in history with a minor in business.

She is the daughter of Charles and Patsy Shreve.

Man Charged

trict court commissioner.

Garrett County Sheriff's deputies arrested a McHenry man on March 28 after being called to a woman's apartment on Country Aire Lane near Accident.

William Dexter Levi, 21, allegedly entered the woman's apartment and refused to leave, according to a press release. He faces charges of two counts of second degree assault, three counts of disorderly conduct, and one count of trespassing.

Levi was subsequently released on his own recognizance after he appeared before a district court commissioner.

Larry Wayne Cooper, 56, Oakland, was arrested by sheriff's deputies at his Garrett Highway residence and charged with assault in connection with a March 20 domestic incident.

The assault allegedly occurred as Cooper was arguing with the reported victim and struck her. Visible injuries were observed on the victim's leg and wrist, according to a press release.

Cooper, who faces a charge of second degree assault, was released on his own recognizance after appearing before a district court commissioner.

DWI/DUI Arrests

Emphysema Causes and Treatment

Emphysema is a chronic lung disease that affects about 2 million Americans. Symptoms include coughing, wheezing, and having the sensation of not being able to get sufficient air into the lungs. In emphysema there is loss of vital lung function—the ability to take oxygen from the air and eliminate carbon dioxide from the body. The condition often results from years of assault on lung tissues by cigarette smoke and other environmental pollutants. Toxic chemicals in these pollutants damage tiny air sacs in the lungs, causing them to lose their sponginess and elasticity. With disease progression it becomes increasingly difficult for the affected person to breath. The chest wall may be extended into a barrel-like shape.

In smokers, smoking cessation is an important first step in managing emphysema. Quitting smoking at any point in the disease process can provide some benefit. Bronchodilator medicines such as albuterol, terbutaline, and theophylline relax the smooth muscles around the lung airways. Steroids such as prednisone relieve inflammation. Oxygen may be required if the damage to the lung tissue is severe. Only a small number of persons benefit from lung transplants due to risks and expense associated with the procedure.

Town Hall

ACCIDENT

The town meeting was held Monday, April 5.

•Charles Hahn and Tom Georg were sworn into office. The council selected Mike Smith to complete the term of Richard Carlson, who was elected mayor.

•Ron Petrella and Jeff Gilbert from the Garrett Sanitary District spoke to the council about some water and sewer issues and alternative options for handling them.

•Deputy Zimmerman spoke about youngsters on the town streets after dark. Parents are encouraged to aware of safety issues that can result from youngsters being unsupervised at night.

•The town will purchase material needed to establish a reed bed at the treatment plant.

•Residents are asked to place all leaves and branches for the town burn pile within the 30'x30' designated area.

•Service bids were reviewed. Rodeheaver and Associates will continue to provide accounting and LCIT will provide insurance.

•Tom Georg was elected president of the council. Town committees were reassigned. The chairs of committees are as follows: Streets, Charles Hahn; water and sewer, Mike Smith; and parks and recreation, Randy Nairn.

•The town is still accepting volunteers to work on the Christmas decoration planning committee. Interested persons may contact Town Hall at 301-746-6346.

The next town meeting will be held Monday, May 3.

FRIENDSVILLE

The town meeting was held Monday, April 5.

•A public informational meeting is scheduled for April 20 from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. at Town Hall to discuss the DNR's proposal for a delayed harvest fishery along the Youghiogheny River in Friendsville. No decision has been made by the Mayor and Town Council regarding this issue.

•Duane Yoder of Community Action informed the mayor and council that the groundbreaking for the new Community/Senior Center at the community park is scheduled for next week. The center is to be completed by the fall.

•Deep Creek Refuse Service was awarded a one year contract for mowing and trimming at the community park. The Friendsville Area Senior Citizens have donated $50 to the 1999 Town Christmas Activity Fund.

•Numerous complaints have been received concerning dog owners not cleaning up after their pets who are "dirtying" on other residents' properties. The mayor and council encourage dog owners to show courtesy to their neighbors.

•The Central Garrett Little League was granted permission to practice at the park ballfield on Tuesdays and Thursdays in April from 5:30 p.m. to dark.

•The Friendsville Softball League was granted permission to hold league games at the park ballfield on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays throughout the summer, beginning May 1.

•Interested persons are reminded to contact Alice Spear to reserve park pavilions.

•The Friendsville Community Park spring re-opening celebration is scheduled for Saturday, May 22. Many activities are being planned for the entire community, including a fishing rodeo for children, musical entertainment, food booths, a flea market, a ribbon cutting ceremony for the new playground, restrooms, and basketball court, and more. Chairpersons for this event are Shirley Metheny and Frani King.

•Several trees located on town property have been assessed as damaged or diseased. Trimming and/or removal of these will occur this spring. New trees will be planted where trees have been removed.

•New committees were assigned as follows: Shirley Metheny: buildings, trees, town hall sign, and safety; Robert Sines: buildings, trees, park and rec., and safety; Jess Whittemore: buildings, street lights, park and rec., and safety; Carroll Forsyth: streets, street lights, and cemeteries; Wayne Friend: cemeteries, streets, park and rec., and town hall sign; Frani King: streets, trees, park and rec., and town hall signs; and Alice Spear, member-at-large, cemetery. All members serve on the grants and loans committee and on the Christmas decoration committee.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, April 20.

LOCH LYNN

The town meeting was held Monday, April 5.

•Several residents addressed the council concerning town issues.

•Vaughn Sweitzer was hired as the town's maintenance worker and mechanic.

•The Loch Lynn Neighborhood Watch meeting will be held Tuesday, April 13, 7 p.m. in the town hall.

•The National Guard should begin work on the town ball fields later this month.

•Deputy Corley discussed issues related to citizen safety. All residents are reminded that the use of bicycle helmets is enforced in Loch Lynn. The 10 p.m. town curfew for anyone 18 years old and younger is in effect and will continue to be enforced.

•There was discussion of rental fees for use of a town park pavilion. Anyone interested in reserving a pavilion is asked to contact Town Hall for details.

•The council discussed some renovation ideas for the old school building. The facility continues to be used regularly for musical events by Hammers and Strings, exercise classes, and church groups. Anyone interested in using space in the building may contact Town Hall.

•On Monday, April 26, 6:30-8 p.m. at Town Hall, residents may register to vote in municipal elections.

•The council scheduled the spring town clean-up event for June 11-12. Council members expressed the hope that all would take pride in the town and be involved in the clean-up.

The next town meeting will be held Monday, May 3.

OAKLAND

The town meeting was held on Monday, April 5.

•The mayor and council met with the Garrett County commissioners to discuss the tax differential. Based on an average of the findings published in a study prepared by the University of Maryland on the subject of the county tax differential, the town is requesting $126,930.

•The new council member, Chis Todd, was sworn into office.

•Town committees were reassigned. The chair of these committees are as follows: Finance, Mary Lou Stemple; street, Jay Moyer; sewer, Peggy Jamison; water, Willard Ringer; building and cemetery, Chris Todd; police, Mayor Asa McCain; and park and recreation, Harold Cannon.

•The town is getting ready to annex High Street and will send letters to citizens who may be affected. A public information on this annexation will be held April 26, 7 p.m., at City Hall.

•A proclamation was signed in support of Municipal Government Week, April 19-23.

•Robert Watson will continue to serve as town attorney.

•Two town ordinances were amended following public hearings last week. Ordinance 099-01 allows for a definition of modular dwelling and amends the Table of Use Regulations to permit such dwellings in areas zoned CBA, TC, TR, and SR. Ordinance 099-02 amends subsection 44 subtitled fire station to fire station, emergency rescue squad or ambulance service facilities. These facilities will be allowed in areas zoned CBA, C, and EC and will be permitted in area zoned TC by special exception only.

The next town meeting will be held Monday, May 3.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT WORKS - In conjunction with other cities and town across the state, the mayor and town council of Oakland officially recognized April 19-23 as Municipal Government Week. During this designated week, all residents are invited to visit and tour City Hall. The town will fly the Municipal Government Works flag pictured above held by Oakland Police Chief John Sines, left, and Mayor Asa McCain Jr.

parents have a right to be informed that their children are receiving junk food from their teachers. Once informed, parents should be given the opportunity to prevent teachers from giving our children junk food.

My children are able to understand the importance of wise nutritional choices and just say "no" to junk food offered by their teachers. Presented with the overwhelming evidence by nutritional, medical, psychology and child development experts, the Garrett County school system must also be able to realize the importance of sound nutritional awareness and make the necessary changes to do what is right for our children. Across this county hundreds of schools have recognized the tremendous importance of this issue and are making nutritional knowledge available and demonstrated in their schools. Let us work together to make the Garrett County school system a leader in preparing children for healthy and successful lives.

To the Editor:

Boy, that danged I.M. Ann Irritant shure knows her onions (see letter to the editor, The Nacilbuper, volume 60 gallons No. 2, A.F.D., 1999). I couldna sed it better myself. The only thing I seen wrong wif her letter wuz she wuz too soft on em in her letter. She let them dirty, lowdown, whaledung (people?) off way too easy if ya ask me. Heck, if'n the only way you can get dere attenshun is ta play dere game den so bee it. Sometimes ya gotta jest git down in da dirt wif dem dirty dawgs. Also, I wanna say callin the paper "addlepated" (spoiled French food) wuz da coo dee grass!

An talkin' bout dirty dawgs; I recently seen a video of The Three Stooges called People Portraying Politicians. It wuz really good ceptin for one thing. Dere wuz only two stooges in it who wuz Larry an Curly. I couldin even think of the other ones name ceptin I always thought he wuz da funniest one of all. Does anybody know what happened to him an what his name is?

Alluding to the article illustrating allegorical alliteration; illuminating, enlightening.

My personal opinion about the new project for OTT is that "it's for the birds."

Oakland Police Note DWI Arrest

Oakland Police reported the arrest on Sunday at 4 a.m. of Milford George Tasker, 61, Ohio for driving while intoxicated.

The officers said that he had observed Tasker make a left turn onto Center Street from the far right northbound lane of Third Street. He also reported that Tasker was not wearing a seatbelt.

Upon stopping the vehicle, the officer stated that he could smell an odor of alcohol on Tasker. When asked to perform a field sobriety test, Tasker reportedly did not perform satisfactorily, arrested and held on a $5,000 bond.

Masons To Meet

Oakland Lodge No. 192, Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons will have a regular communication on Tuesday, April 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple. The Entered Apprentice Degree will be conferred on a qualified candidate. All Master Masons are invited to attend and share in refreshments after the meeting.

Garrett Resident Earns Honors As Teacher In W.Va.

McHenry resident Valerie Smith Morrison has been chosen as Monongalia County, W.Va., Teacher of the Month for March. A graduate of Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W.Va., Morrison has taught English at University High School in Monongalia County for 13 years.

Currently, Morrison teaches advanced placement (AP) English literature and composition, AP English language and composition, and English 10.

In addition to teaching at University High School, Morrison was selected this year to as one of 12 West Virginia English teachers to write on-line curriculum for a WVDE/IBM Reinventing Education web site.

Chosen as a faculty member for the West Virginia Governor's Honors Academy during the summers of 1996 and 1997, Morrison was also recognized in 1998 and 1999 as Ashland Oil Golden Apple Award winner for the state.

HawkTalk, the school's parent newsletter, is written by Morrison, who also works on the curriculum committee and Benedum Professional Development School steering committee at University High. She teaches an evening computer class to Monongalia County teachers and is an assistant GED examiner at Monongalia County Vo-Tech Center.

Morrison said she has enjoyed traveling with her students in Europe and is planning a trip to Greece and Italy in June with a group of students from UHS and Grafton High School.

Morrison lives with her husband Kyle and children Ryan, Ben, Kelsey, and Paige. She attends Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittinger.

PULLING FOR RONALD MCDONALD HOUSE — Oakland Main Street and several members of the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) are asking citizens to "pull for" the Ronald McDonald House in Morgantown, W.Va., by collecting pop can tabs and bringing them to the participating businesses, where they can be deposited in special storage banks. The House is a refuge for children and their families undergoing treatment at Ruby Memorial Hospital. Though each family is asked to donate $10 per night, this amount only partially covers the costs. Families are never turned away if they can't pay, according to Connie Margison, the local coordinator of this effort. The House management began collecting pop tabs several years ago, as they are more space-efficient than cans, they are easier to clean and store, and they are made of a special aluminum alloy that is more valuable than the metal used for cans. The value of the tabs varies from $.50 to $.55 per pound (about 1,300 tabs), and the House currently raises about $500 per month from the recycling effort. Marginson said this amount could double or triple if more people join in. Persons who would like to collect the tabs may pick up the storage banks at the Water Street Market Place. Skip Carr from the Lake Front magazine is also distributing banks to his advertisers and has volunteered to empty them once each month as he passes out his publication. In addition to the Market Place, banks are currently located at Trackside Restaurant, Marvin's Men's Wear, Gary's Shoe Repair, and MasterCraft Printers. Pictured with their storage banks, standing left to right, are Deb Georg, Decorator's Nook, and Louise Storey, Trackside. On the steps are Margison and Bob Ekholm, MasterCraft.

Grand Jury

will be made available for the Northern project and is hoping that the county commissioners will provide the extra funds needed to finance the renovation work at Southern.

Sines said that the county commissioners would help not only the board of education, but all county agencies in their respective budget process if they would establish a long-term capital expenditure plan for the county, so agencies would have advance notice as to what capital projects the commissioners were intending to finance in any given year.

Teets said he is also concerned that the teachers and staff of Garrett County remain the lowest paid in the state and that a teacher shortage will ultimately affect Garrett County. He said the compensation packages for teachers must be enhanced soon in order for the county to remain competitive in securing and retaining good instructors. He said that the board is in the third year of a three-year compensation package for the teachers, meaning that negotiations will begin this summer for what may or may not be another multi-year package.

Teets reiterated that the funds for school maintenance have been used wisely, and not unwisely, as had been suggested by the county commissioners in regard to the Southern High School gymnasium. He said that it was unwise to continue to spend money on repairs that would be extremely temporary, especially if the renovation project were to proceed, as has been expected each year for several years.

In the area of student success, the superintendent said that Garrett County students continue to score above the national average on the SAT and CTBS tests, and the success of local students who go on to college remains impressive. He said that the most recent MSPAP scores in the county were down, but he went on to note some of his objections to this particular test, such as ambiguity, inconsistency, and too many variables in the grading of the test. He said, though, that because the test is being used as the state standard, Garrett County must "play the game"; that is, must place an emphasis on bringing the scores up again, whether or not educators agree with the test itself.

Teets noted that the percentage of county budget devoted to education has decreased to 37%, whereas the percentage in most other counties is closer to 50%.

As was stated before in the school tours sections, the members of the jury have strongly urged the county commissioners to do all they can to fund the aforementioned high school renovation and construction projects, as well as the negotiated salary packages of teachers and staff.

Ruth Enlow Library

Martha Makosky, library director, made a presentation to the members of the jury which included detailed objectives for the Ruth Enlow Library and a strategic funding plan for satisfying those objectives. She commended the "outstanding commitment of the library board of directors, the dedication of her staff, and the overwhelming support of the library from the community," according to the jury report.

The needs and inadequacies Makosky noted included the low salaries/benefits of her staff and the disparities in benefits for these employees as compared to those on the county payroll, out-dated systems that need to be computerized/automated, and the inefficiencies in sharing resources among the various library locations in the county.

Her objectives include providing citizens with up-to-date library resources, maximizing accessibility of the collection to all citizens, providing excellent public service through motivated and trained staff, improving services to children, and improving the library facilities.

Funding requests for operations and addressing each of those objectives totals $430,050, with at least $92,000 expected from the state, $148,920 from the community (Friends of the Library and other donors), $130,250 in capital funds requested from the county, and another $58,880 in operating funds requested from the county.

The jury members supported Makosky's objectives and encouraged the county commissioners to do everything possible to meet these objectives.

Treasurer's Office

County Treasurer Patty Glover explained the history and duties of her office, including the billing for taxes, collection of revenue, and disbursements. She explained the new semi-annual payment option available to property owners for the payment of their taxes, and said that she wished more county residents would take advantage of this program. She also explained the constant yield tax rate.

Garrett County Roads Department

Lee Thorne, director of the Garrett County Roads Department, explained his operation to the jury members, noting that the department facilities consist of garages in Oakland, Accident, and Grantsville, which must maintain an estimated 703 miles of county roads. He described projects that are planned for this year, including the replacement/repair of several bridges, paving, and road reclamation projects.

Thorne responded to a number of questions from jury members concerning the abrasives used during the winter months, labor negotiations with his employees, paving priorities, conditions of the three garages, capital equipment purchases, and snow-plowing with sub-contractors.

The remainder of the March Term Grand Jury report will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

One Maryland

gram include Baltimore City and the counties of Allegany, Dorchester, Somerset, Worchester, and Caroline.

"This commitment from the Glendening-Townsend Administration will help economically depressed communities fully participate in the state's prosperity," Taylor said. "If we can create jobs and move the communities into the mainstream, we will truly have a healthy One Maryland economy for all citizens of the state."

Although Delegate George Edwards supports the One Maryland program (especially after he and Senator John Hafer were assured that Garrett County would be eligible for all the plan's benefits), he recused himself from voting on the cigarette tax bill. He said he did so because he sells cigarettes at his Grantsville store, but he also commented on what he sees as a pork barrel issue.

"I know people shouldn't smoke — we all know that. But this tax isn't about stopping kids from smoking. The loudest supporters are a lot more interested in the flow of dollars back to the state for all their special projects," Edwards said.

Several other legislators agree with Edwards's sentiment. Senate President Mike Miller (D-Prince Georges) said the very division noted by Edwards has created animosity in the debate.

"I have been sick to my stomach because a lot of what is happening is the kind of vote trading I find distasteful," said Barbara Hoffman (D-Baltimore). Edwards said several amendments that would have put the tax money expressly toward cessation programs have been turned down, which has also furthered his opinion that the proponents are more interested in the increased cash flow.

However, Glendening and the numerous supporters of the bill maintain that its passage will "save lives and change lives."

"A study by the Journal of the National Cancer Institute shows the genetic damage that smoking causes in teenagers is irreversible," Glendening said. "As governor and as a parent, I am thankful for each child who will choose not to smoke because of this 100% tax increase."

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

SOUP, SALAD DINNER

A soup and salad dinner will be served at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, Eglon, this Saturday evening, April 10, from 4 until 8 p.m. In addition to soup and salad, patrons will have homemade bread, beverages, and dessert.

Sponsored by the youth, donations asked are $5 for adults, $3 for children 12 and under, and those 5 and under may eat free.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

A memorial service is planned for James R. Myers, who died Jan. 9 in Florida. A son of the late Harold and Margaret (Becker) Myers of Aurora, his brothers, Homer and Harold J., and his sister, Jessie Federow, invite friends and family to share with them this 2 p.m. service on Saturday, April 10, at the Aurora United Methodist Church.

MAY FELLOWSHIP DAY

Church Women United will sponsor a May Fellowship Day at the Stemple Ridge United Methodist Church on Friday, May 7, beginning with a covered dish luncheon at noon. The host church will provide bread and beverage plus table service. Area women are invited to the luncheon and the program following on "Angels, Mentors and Friends," which will begin at 1 p.m.

GOSPEL SING AT BROOKSIDE

A gospel sing will be held at the Brookside Church of the Brethren at 7:30 p.m. on April 11. Everyone is invited to share in these regularly scheduled sings which include stories, testimonies, and open mike sessions. They are also scheduled for May 2 and June 6.

BIRTHDAYS

Homer Fike of Eglon will observe his 98th birthday on April 17. Cards may be addressed to him at P.O. Box 44, Eglon, WV 26716.

Another Eglon native, Artenis Harsh, will be observing his 90th birthday on April 16. Cards may be addressed to him c/o Windy Hills Manor, Rt. 1 Box 167, Kingwood, WV 26537.

VFW 100TH ANNIVERSARY

The Aurora-Terra Alta VFW will celebrate its 100th anniversary of the organization during all of 1999. On April 17, a free breakfast of sausage gravy and biscuits will be served to veterans of the U.S. armed forces — Army, Navy, Coast Guard, Air Force, Marines — with any of those invited to attend from 8:30 until 11:00 a.m. Donations will be accepted, but there is no charge for the meal. The meal will be served at the post home, Washington Street, Terra Alta, and served by the VFW auxiliary of Post 578.

PARSONS BIRTH

A second son was born March 29 to Leonard and Tammy Parsons of Aurora in Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Weighing 7 pounds, the little boy is named Michael Steven. He has an older brother, Daniel.

Maternal grandparents are Jack and Brenda Cassidy of Horse Shoe Run. Paternal grandparents are John and Shirley Parsons of Aurora. Great-grandparents are Eugene and Bernadine Bachtel of Eglon, Mabel Cassidy of Oakland, Bernice Winters of Horse Shoe Run, and Ronald and Avenell Parsons, Eglon. Mrs. Grace Roth of Horse Shoe Run is a great-great-grandmother.

PERSONAL MENTION

Herb and Jean Starr of Stemple Ridge recently spent 12 days visiting with Herb's mother, Annie Starr, and their children, Debbie Krites and Ginny Casto and their families in Ohio and Indiana. Easter holiday guests of the Starrs were local relatives Harold Harsh, Arlene Lantz, Eldean and Claud Poling, and Linda Liston; and Shirley and Danny Thomas of Springfield, W.Va., her son, Billy Jamison, and friend Chris and children, Megan and John, all Ohio; son Jay Jamison and friend Paula; Jay's daughter, Devin; Paula's children, Charlie and Matthew; Ginny and Al Casto and their grandchildren, Katie and Jacob, Ohio; Terry and Missy Starr and Adam of South Carolina; Debbie Krites and son Billy, and her fiancé Bob of Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Kevin and Michelle O'Connor and their children, Kurt, Michael, and Daniel, have moved from Eglon to the former Alverta Edwards residence at Aurora.

Dick and Mary Lou Miller of Goldsboro, N.C., were weekend visitors with her parents, David and Wilma Mae Teets, at Horse Shoe Run.

Eileen Rembold of Pittsburgh was a weekend guest of her son and family, Bruce, Mary, Shawn, and Craig Rembold, Eglon, and other relatives.

Shawn Sisler, son of Stacy and Amos Sisler, Terra Alta, was treated last Monday evening at the Garrett Memorial emergency room when he reportedly became very ill.

Shirley Harsh returned last Wednesday to her home after an infection caused a delay in her surgery.

Charles Grove is recuperating at his home from a recent heart attack. Cards for this former resident of Eglon and Aurora may be addressed at 954 Johnson Mill Road, Berkeley Springs, WV 25411.

Virginia Watring of Mtn. Lake Park has recently been ill and would appreciate hearing from friends here.

Doyle and Helen Roth of Ohio visited a few days last week in Eglon at their home and with relatives here.

Earl Edward and Alice Roth of Renick were visitors in Horse Shoe Run last week with his mother, Virginia Roth, and their son and family, Larry, Lisa, and Caitlin Roth.

Hancell and Mildred Teets of Aurora made a business trip to Lewisburg on Monday.

Bea Ball of Horse Shoe Run visited in Elkins with her uncle, "Brownie" Denver Fike.

George Alan and Helen Lipscomb were vacationing in Texas when he became ill and had gallbladder surgery. He is now recuperating, expecting soon to return to his home in Aurora.

Tatoo Incident Marked By Four-Month Jail Term

An Oakland man was handed four months in jail in last week's Garrett County District Court proceedings during a sentencing hearing that stemmed from a conviction for second degree assault involving a tattoo needle, alcohol, and a juvenile.

William Thomas Sachs, 38, who had been arrested by Garrett County Sheriff's deputies after the July incident, pleaded guilty to plying a 16-year-old male with liquor at his Oakland apartment. He then allegedly inscribed a tattoo on the boy's arm after the victim was too intoxicated to be aware of what was being done to him.

Judge Ralph M. Burnett handed Sachs a one-year sentence, suspending all but eight months, placed him on one year of supervised probation, and ordered that he pay the juvenile $2,500 in restitution.

In other district court news, Kenneth Eugene Lake III, 27, Grantsville, was sentenced after pleading guilty to a charge of felony theft scheme. Lake was handed a 60-day suspended sentence, fined $300, placed on six months of supervised probation, and ordered to make a restitution payment of $1,135 to the victim.

Maryland state troopers had arrested Lake in December in connection with several November thefts from a guest room at the Casselman Hotel. He told the investigators that he was carrying out renovation work at the Grantsville business when he came upon cash in what he had thought was an unoccupied room.

A felony theft charge faced by Michael Matthew Tressler, 19, Springs, Pa., was placed on the stet docket with the stipulation that he complete 100 hours of community service. Tressler had been arrested by sheriff's deputies in January in connection with the October theft of an amplifier, a set of speakers, and several CDs from a parked car in Mtn. Lake Park.

Jason Cory Larman, 21, Riverdale, was handed a stet ruling with an order to complete 30 hours of community service in connection with charges of possession of marijuana, drug paraphernalia, and fireworks without a legal permit.

Larman's September arrest followed a traffic stop by state troopers on I-68, when a search carried out with his consent uncovered the materials in his vehicle.

Harvey Joe Dilley, 20, Friendsville, was found to be in violation of probation that had stemmed from a theft conviction. A 90-day jail sentence was reimposed, and his probation was revoked.

Jerry Lee Tasker, 28, Oakland, was found not guilty of assault, destruction of property, trespassing, and disturbing the peace, each of which had stemmed from a February arrest by sheriff's deputies in connection with an incident in Mtn. Lake Park.

DWIs/DUIs

Several traffic hearings encompassing charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI) were heard by Judge Burnett recently.

Lisa Ann Layton, 37, Swanton, pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $200, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on six months of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Evan Christopher Sloanaker was convicted on a DWI charge and fined $455, handed a six month jail sentence with all but 45 days suspended, and placed on two years of supervised probation.

Kenneth Ray Tressler, 39, Oakland, pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), fined $255, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

DWI cases were placed on the stet docket involving several individuals: Barbara Elaine Guthrie, 30, Mtn. Lake Park, with the stipulation that she complete 40 hours of community service; David Edison Stewart, 34, and Rodney Gene Guthrie, 32, both of Oakland; and Harold Dean Michaels, 46, Swanton.

Chad Allen Ward, 19, Grantsville, was found in violation of DWI probation. A 26-day jail term was reimposed and his probation was revoked.

Gary Lee Duff, 43, Corinth, W.Va., was found in violation of DWI probation. Although sanctions were withheld, a PBJ ruling was revoked.

A DWI conviction of Brenda Joyce Grimm, 50, Corinth, was revised to reflect a DUI conviction.

DWI convictions were revised to reflect PBJs in the cases of Nathaniel Gene Grimm, 24, Terra Alta, W.Va., and Sheila Kay Hauser, 46, Larnark Village, Fla.

Betty Jean Mink, 44, Deer Park, was found in violation of probation that stemmed from a DWI conviction, and sanctions were withheld.

Fund-Raiser For Head Start Set

"Spirit Night" to benefit the Accident Head Start program will be held next Monday, April 12, at the McDonald's Restaurant at Keyser's Ridge. A portion of the income from food sales between 4 and 7 p.m. that day will be donated to the program. Persons desiring more information about the event may contact Bonnie Haenftling at 301-746-8741.

Beneath the image each of us must present as we climb the career ladder, there is a vulnerable child. There is a child behind our strong facade who wants to confide fears and anxieties to someone he or she can trust to understand. Let someone else provide the answers for a change. The child wants to laugh. It has been said..."Joy is the echo of God's life within us." As a pacemaker is a mechanical boost to a weak heart, God living within us is the spiritual boost each of us needs for our soul. He hears our fears and anxieties and always understands us, for our Heavenly Father indeed created us and all that we feel. In Matthew 11:28, our Lord assures us, "Come to me, all who labor and are heavy-laden, and I will give you rest."

This week, visit God's House. Trust the Father with your troublesome thoughts. Unload the burdens on your heart, for you are a child of God...and He wants His child to laugh.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

By Lawrence W. Althouse

IS 'SEEING' 'BELIEVING'?
April 11, 1999

Background Scripture:
John 20:19-29
Devotional Reading:
Mark 9:14-24

I've always thought that the Apostle Thomas has gotten a 'bum rap' from many people who have judged him from the comfort and safety of 20/20 hindsight. Without justification, I believe, he has been saddled with that unfortunate sobriquet, 'Doubting Thomas' and held as a negative example of how not to respond to the Good News.

Then, in John 11:16, when Jesus resolves to go to Jerusalem, Thomas' response is one of both pessimism and intense loyalty and courage. In John 14:5, when Jesus assumes that the disciples know the 'way to the Father's house,' Thomas alone is humble and honest enough to confess that he doesn't know what Jesus is talking about. Are we to assume he was the only one who didn't 'know'?

Consider Jesus' reactions to Thomas on these two occasions. He was not angry, impatient or disappointed with Thomas. In fact, his expressed doubts gave Jesus the opportunity to clarify what he was saying. When, at last, Thomas does understand, he is one of the most loyal disciples.

THE OTHER ELEVEN

We need to look at the other eleven apostles on the night when Jesus first appeared to them. Were they a group of fervent believers waiting for Jesus to appear? No, John tells us they were meeting behind locked doors "for fear of the Jews." (What fears put us behind closed doors?) They were in hiding when "Jesus came and stood among them and said, 'Peace be with you.'" Having heard those words, did they jump up and greet him joyfully? John doesn't say that. Instead he says that Jesus then showed them "his hands and his side." "Then the disciples were glad when they saw the Lord" (20:20).

Notice, too, Jesus's message: "Peace be with you." Twice he says this because he knows that, shattered by sorrow and dispair, they have been without peace in their hearts (20:19, 21). Is that not what we often need to hear him say to us, too: "Peace be with you"? Most of the negativity that haunts my life comes from fear. And fear often manifests itself as hostility, faithlessness, and despair. I have no quarrel with those who constantly pray to be saved from the Devil. For me, it is enough to be saved from my fears. With Christ's peace in my heart the Devil doesn't stand a chance.

When Thomas enters the room where the rest are in hiding, they tell him, "We have seen the Lord." It is then that Thomas speaks those words that have marked him through the centuries: "Unless I see in his hands the print of the nails, and place my finger in the mark of the nails, and place my hand in his side, I will not believe" (20:25).

Once again Thomas is open enough to admit his doubts. What the other apostles were asking him to believe was the very thing that up until his appearance before them they had not believed either! The consequences of this belief are profound: Jesus was crucified and buried, but he has risen from that grave and was here with us! That is so earthshaking in its implications that no one ought to accept it simply because someone else says "We have seen the Lord."

"UNLESS I SEE..."

Their experience can open the door and point the way for us, but each of us must be able to say with Thomas "Unless I see...I will not believe." The resurrection of Jesus can mean nothing to any of us unless we too can say that in some way we also have 'seen' the Lord. The resurrection is too vital, of too great consequence, for us to accept it as a second-hand belief.

Jesus appears to the apostles again, but this time Thomas is with them. Instead of rebuking Thomas for his reaction to the report of his fellow apostles, Jesus invites him to actually touch his wounds. Note that John does not tell us that Thomas accepted Jesus' invitation. Apparently, without touching Jesus' wounds, Thomas now personally believes he too has seen the Lord and, quite unlike his fellow apostles on their first encounter with the risen Christ, he exclaims, "My Lord and my God!"

Still not rebuking Thomas, Jesus says: "Have you believed because you have seen me? Blessed are those who have not seen and yet believe" (20:29). We do not have to 'see' Jesus physically, but we do have to encounter him spiritually and, when we have, we join Thomas in proclaiming, "My Lord and my God!"

WEPCO Holds Annual Meeting

ROBERT ALKIRE

RAYMOND MILLER

FRANKLIN WOY

PETER PAMEPINTO

WEPCO Federal Credit Union, Bloomington, held its 49th annual membership meeting on Saturday, March 6, at the Victory Post #155 American Legion in Westernport. A baked steak dinner was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Chairman of the board James Weasenforth opened the meeting by introducing the invited guests: Rev. Tom Brackett and his wife from the Piedmont Pentecostal Holiness Church; Bob Steils, president of the Maryland Credit Union League; Harold Fike, CPA, of Whitacre & Fike, CPA, and wife Kathy; and Alan Elliott, photographer, and wife Freda.

Discussion took place concerning the credit union's work with the Year 2000 problems. Rick Warnick, president, and David Lucas, vice president, spoke on the specific issues that have been addressed. They also presented documentation of test results and discussed their contingency plans. Both expressed a positive position concerning the credit union's Year 2000 plan, stating the credit union is "Y2K ready." They said that issues out of the credit union's control, such as electrical power and telephone service, could have an impact; however, contingency plans are being made.

Bob Steils, president of the Maryland Credit Union League, encouraged members not to withdraw money in preparation for the Year 2000. Credit unions within the state of Maryland are well prepared and have tested their systems, he said. He added that he does not expect much of an impact from the date rollover. Harold Fike, CPA, also expressed a positive position with regard to the year 2000. He assured members that WEPCO is prepared and should experience no real problems.

Voting for board of director seats took place at both credit union offices prior to the meeting, as well as during the meeting. Elected to three-year terms on the board of directors were: Robert Alkire, Raymond "Doc" Miller, and Franklin Woy, all incumbents; and Peter Pamepinto.

Alkire has been a director for approximately 20 years. He is retired from Westvaco and resides in Lonaconing with his wife Marion.

Miller has been a director for 18 years and is a planning to retire from Westvaco in April. He currently resides in Barton with his wife Doris.

Woy has 29 years of service as a director. He is retired from Westvaco and resides in Westernport with his wife Boots.

Pamepinto is employed as a security officer at Westvaco. He currently resides in Piedmont, W.Va.

Tickets were drawn for the door prizes, with Bill Mayles winning the grand prize of a 19" RCA color television. Other winners were: Bob Steiling, Doc Miller, Carol Duncan, Randy Fazenbaker, Jeff Hester, Marshall Stacy, Betty Jackson, Lana Smith, Harry Taylor, Brenda Shields, Sharon Dawson, Boots Woy, Bill Paitsel, Ralph Moyer, David Wildesen, Holly Fazenbaker, Freda Elliott, Mary Wagoner, Frances Miller, Heather McKenzie, Bob Dorsey, Pete Pamepinto, Joe House, Joe Beckner, Kathryn Conroy, Kathy Black, Donna Moyer, Jessie Fike, William Paistel, Jackie Lucas, Wayne Baker, JoAnn Bever, Glenn Shaffer, Louise Warnick, Nancy Sudine, Naomi Dellinger, Frank Bartlett, Don Bland, and Jean Taylor.

WEPCO Federal Credit Union, which has offices in Bloomington and Oakland, has $73 million in assets and serves more than 14,500 members.

Northern GOP Women Convene, Hear Granados

The Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club met March 30 at Hill Top Restaurant, Grantsville, and the guest speaker for the evening was Ann Horner Granados, president of the Maryland Federation of Republican Women.

A resident of Ocean City, Granados has served on various boards in Ocean City, including those involving noise control and fire safety. She spoke about a variety of topics, including health care, slot machines, whether or not the English language should be adopted as the official language of the United States, club membership, and future programs.

The business meeting followed, conducted by club president Carolyn Ganoe. Get-well cards were signed for Stella Edwards, Leanna Layman, and Helen Keller. The Lincoln Day Dinner, slated for April 29 at the Wisp in McHenry, was discussed. Carolyn Ganoe and Brenda Butscher attended the state convention, held recently at the Ramada Inn in Hagerstown. Joan Holliday, wife of Garrett County Commissioner Fred Holliday, joined the club. Gifts were presented to the speaker, and future club programs were discussed.

Attending the meeting, besides those already named, were: Lois Rowe, Louise McKenzie, Lillian Crowe, Orpha Miller, Zeola Robeson, Cora Bowser, Mary Hebb, Sheila O'Neill, Diona Broadwater, Twila Mae Fike, Mildred Hasselbaugh, and Cleda Baker.

Brennemans Attend Seminar

Steve and Lisa Brenneman, owners of Unique Decor in Oakland, recently returned from Tennessee, where they participated in upholstery seminars and furniture repair sessions conducted by La-Z-Boy chair company.

Steve Brenneman is now an authorized repairman for La-Z-Boy furniture and any other brand of furniture.

Leader Training Open To Public

"Medicare and HMOs" will be the topic of a leader training session conducted by the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service on Friday, April 16, from 1 to 2 p.m. at the Extension office in Mtn. Lake Park. Lois Ford and Donna McClintock, both from the Garrett County Health Department, will be the instructors.

According to Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Extension educator, the leader training sessions are usually held "in-house" for members and officers of local homemaker clubs. "Because of the importance of this particular topic, we have opened the session to the general public," she said.

Persons planning to attend are requested to contact the Extension office at 301-334-6960 so that sufficient handouts can be prepared.

ELKS PRESENT CITIZEN OF THE YEAR AWARDS - Several Garrett County residents were recently honored by Oakland Elks Lodge #2481 as Citizens of the Year. Representing a number fields in the community, the recipients were selected after nominations were received from the general public. In the above pair of photos, presentations denoting dual awards in medicine awarded to Dr. Karl D. Schwaim and Dr. P. Daniel Miller are shown. Above left, Dr. Schwaim is flanked by Elks Exalted Ruler Russell E. Eddy, and his wife Sharon Schwaim. The physician was noted for his involvement with youth through the Garrett County team addressing child abuse and neglect, his membership with the Adult Guardianship Review Board, and his service as physician representative with the Garrett County Memorial Hospital board, chairman of the 2000 Task Force Committee on Maternal and Infant Health, and as the Maryland contact for obstetrics for the Maryland Academy of Family Physicians. In the above right photo, Eddy presents Dr. Miller's daughter Stephanie, center, and the doctor's father, Dr. Paul B. Miller with the award for medicine. (The Millers were on hand to accept the award for Dr. Miller, who was out of town.) Dr. Miller was cited for his work with young people, including providing physicals to high school athletes free of charge, and serving as physician in attendance at many athletic events in the county and as president of the Oakland Little League. In his written response, Dr. Miller said that he wished to dedicate the award to the numerous volunteer coaches and parents who work many hours for the benefit of the county's youth.

Food Sanitation Certification Training Offered

A training course in food safety certification offered through the Garrett County Cooperative Extension and the county's Department of Environmental Health recently highlighted the importance of proper food handling.

Participants from the Garrett County School Food Service, Head Start program, and several restaurants and other businesses attended the training at Garrett Community College, and those who passed the culminating exam were awarded Safe Food Handler certification as provided by the National Restaurant Association.

"Food safety is on everyone's mind, especially with spring bringing warm temperatures, picnics, church dinners, and many other occasions where groups get together to eat and socialize," said Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Extension educator and nationally certified food sanitation instructor.

"Even though foodborne illness is not reserved for spring nor group eating, the opportunities for food poisoning increase. Many people hope for the best, but are unsure about measures that increase food safety such as selective shopping, proper storage, meal preparation, cooling, re-heating, and freezing."

Koscielniak, who teamed up with Tina Buckel, Environmental Health Department food sanitarian, to provide the instruction, also noted that the course will be repeated as demand warrants. The 16-hour course is offered over the span of four weeks, in two-hour sessions that meet twice a week. For further information or to register, interested persons may call Koscielniak at 301-334-6964 or Buckel at 301-334-8980.

Martin Awarded Scholarship To Frostburg State

Ruth Martin, Mountain Lake Park, recently received an Academic Excellence scholarship to attend Frostburg State University.

Martin is currently a senior at Southern High School, where she is listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students and is a member of the National Honor Society. She plans to major in early childhood education at FSU.

She is the daughter of Martha Martin.

Tourism Office Has Web Page For Students

Information for book reports about Maryland is now just a "point and click" away. The Maryland Office of Tourism Development, a part of the Department of Business and Economic Development, recently added a student web page to the Kids' Corner of its popular web site to provide on-line help to the nearly 10,000 students who study the state each year.

The student web page is a colorful guide to Maryland that includes information about the state's topography, history, and symbols, along with facts about each county and Baltimore City. The text for the web page was developed in cooperation with the Maryland State Department of Education's Division of Instruction and Division of Career Technology and Adult Education. Graphic design was created by Herrmann Advertising and Design in Annapolis.

According to the Department of Education, 95 to 100 percent of Maryland's schools have access to the Internet. Twenty-one percent have classroom access, and the remaining 79 percent can access the web from the school library or multimedia center. The schools were brought "online" through the state's "Maryland Connected for Learning" initiative, a program created by Governor Parris N. Glendening to ensure that all Maryland students have an "open door to the technology of the future."

To find the student web page, users should go to the Maryland Tourism web address, http://www.mdisfun.org, click on the Kids' Corner option, and then click on Maryland History and Facts.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland

An American Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the National Guard Armory in Oakland on Friday, April 16, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

To donate blood, individuals must be at least 17 years of age, weigh a minimum of 105 pounds, and be in generally good health. Donors may donate blood as often as every 56 days. Donors who donated blood at the February 19 bloodmobile at the Oakland Elks Lodge are eligible to donate at the upcoming April 16 visit at the armory. Donors who donated at the March 31 visit at the Oakland Legion will not be eligible on April 16.

All blood types are needed.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Navy Fireman Justin E. Helbig. son of Cathy S. and Eugene D. Helbig Sr., Oakland, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command. Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Helbig completed a variety of training, which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, fire fighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis is also placed on physical fitness.

Helbig and other recruits also received instruction on the Navy's core values — honor, courage, and commitment — and how to apply them in their military performance and personal conduct.

Men and women train together from their first day in the Navy just as they do aboard ships and at shore commands around the world. To reinforce the team concept, Helbig and other recruits also were trained in preventing sexual harassment and ensuring equal opportunity.

Helbig, a 1997 graduate of Southern High School, is now stationed in Charleston, S.C., where he is receiving training on nuclear-powered aircraft carriers.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

SAFE DEBRIS BURNING

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service, in cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department, and the Garrett County Emergency Management Office remind residents that spring is traditionally a time of high forest fire danger in Maryland. Garrett County Emergency Management received 30 natural fuels or woods fire calls in 1998. These fires burned 51 acres.

Typically, spring is the time of the year when many property owners are conducting outdoor burning of leaves and other debris. Unfortunately, many people do not burn safely, resulting in wildfires. Seventy-three percent of the natural fuels fires in Garrett County were caused by unsafe debris burning, and 60 percent of these fires occurred Thursday through Sunday.

In order to prevent wildfires from occurring and causing destruction to private homes and woodlands, the state of Maryland has established open-air burning regulations. These regulations apply to activities in woodlands and within 200 feet of woodlands, or activities adjacent to or within an area where flammable materials could ignite and carry fire to woodlands. These regulations are:

1) A natural or constructed fire break at least 10 feet wide must completely surround the material to be burned.

2) Adequate personnel and equipment must be present to prevent the fire from escaping.

3) At least one responsible person must remain at the burning location until the last spark is out.

4) Permissible burning hours are between 5 p.m. and 1 a.m.

5) All open-air burning requires a permit from the Garrett County Health Department. Open-air burning prior to 5 p.m. also requires a burning permit from the DNR.

Open-air burning of any type not in accordance with these regulations is subject to citations and fines ranging from $70 to $260.

Landowners interested in conducting open-air burning are encouraged to burn after 5 p.m. when a burning permit from the MD DNR Forest Service is not required, and the air is generally moister and calmer, reducing the chances of the fire escaping.

If a landowner wishes to burn before 5 p.m., the Garrett County Health Department and the Maryland DNR Forest Service have entered into a cooperative agreement to issue a combined burning permit. The landowner should contact the Forest Service office at Mt. Nebo, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., at 301-334-3296. Landowners are encouraged to contact the office several days before they plan on burning in order to arrange a site visit with one of the forest rangers.

Prior to doing any open-air burning, the landowner should contact Garrett County Emergency Management at 301-334-1929 to let that staff know about the controlled burning. This reduces the chances of the local volunteer fire departments being dispatched on false alarms.

When conducting open-air burning, it is the landowner's responsibility to make sure the fire doesn't escape and to make sure the fire is out cold before leaving it.

COVER STORY

Couch, Williams vie for top slots in NFL Draft

By Kerouac Smith
©TVData Features Syndicate

Ricky Williams

In football, teams are expected to build through the NFL Draft. Sure, free agency has evened the playing field for those not as savvy at rating young talent, but it continues to serve as a foundation for the elite teams.

Coverage of the 1999 NFL Draft airs Saturday, April 17, and next Sunday, April 18, on ESPN and ESPN2.

The Cleveland Browns hold the first pick this year. Players acquired in the draft will be an integral part of the Browns this season and for years to come. The question now is, whom will they take?

The smart money is riding on Kentucky quarterback Tim Couch. Couch led the Wildcats to a 7-4 regular-season record – only to lose 26-14 to Penn State in the Outback Bowl.

The role of underdog goes to Texas running back Ricky Williams, who became the all-time Division I rushing leader in 1998 with 6,278 career yards. The Heisman Trophy winner carried his team to an 8-3 record during the season and a decisive victory over Mississippi State in the Cotton Bowl.

Browns President Carmen Policy has had plenty of success pinning his hopes on quarterbacks while providing only marginal running support. Policy, who joins the team after several years with the San Francisco 49ers, used the arms of Joe Montana and Steve Young to make the 49ers one of the dominant teams of the '80s and '90s. Whether he can duplicate that feat in Cleveland remains to be seen.

The Cincinnati Bengals have the third pick in the draft. While the Bengals aren't going to cure all their ills through this draft, one option might be to take Georgia's Champ Bailey, who doubles as a wide receiver and cornerback. The Bengals also could opt to pick a quarterback, but they already have four mediocre QBs under contract.

As always, there are a number of underclassmen who have declared themselves eligible for this year's draft. Couch and Bailey certainly aren't alone, and they won't be alone in the first round, either. Other prominent early entries are Southern Cal linebacker Chris Claiborne, Miami running back Edgerrin James, Ohio State linebacker Andy Katzenmoyer and Florida linebacker Jevon Kearse.

Teams are increasingly willing to take chances on these youngsters who have decided the lure of NFL dollars outweighs the climax of their college careers.

While the top two players taken will be high-profile, skill-position players, the biggest trend in the first round might be the guys who protect them: offensive linemen.Today's NFL teams are more aware of the importance of a strong offensive line, especially when inexperienced runners and passers are in the backfield. Look for as many as eight offensive linemen to be drafted in the opening round, with UCLA's Kris Farris leading the parade.

After Williams goes, this year's crop of running backs grows thin. Miami's James is the most attractive of the remaining ball carriers, having vaulted himself to the top after leading the Hurricanes to an amazing upset of then-No. 1 UCLA at the end of the regular season.

TRIVIA

Don Adams, the actor best known as agent Maxwell Smart in Get Smart, got his start by winning a talent contest run by Arthur Godfrey.

TRIVIA

Steven Spielberg is the current owner of the "Rosebud" sled used in Citizen Kane. He bought it at auction for $20,000.

TRIVIA

As All in the Family ended, Archie Bunker (Carroll O'Connor) bought a bar. As The Jeffersons ended, the leads in that series also bought a bar.

TRIVIA

In 1984's The Flamingo Kid, Richard Crenna sits Matt Dillon down to watch TV. They tune in The Real Mr. Coys, starring Crenna.

Executive takes on mob in taut 36 Hours to Die

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

The Oscar-nominated screenwriter of Saving Private Ryan pens a taut, thoughtful thriller about a man battling to save his family business from the mob in 36 Hours to Die. The TV movie premieres Sunday, April 11, on TNT.

Treat Williams (The Deep End of the Ocean) stars as Noah Stone, a brewery executive who is recuperating from a near-fatal coronary when he receives an urgent yet cryptic phone summons from a colleague.

Shortly after the man fails to show up for their meeting, Noah makes a terrifying discovery: His brother, Frank (Alain Goulem), who has been overseeing the brewery in Noah's absence, has involved the business in some shady dealings involving a ruthless gangster (Saul Rubinek, Daphne's attorney boyfriend on Frasier).

Frank has only one weekend to save his brewery – and his wife (Kim Cattrall) and children – from this tangled and potentially deadly situation, with the help of his wife's uncle (Carroll O'Connor), a retired cop.

"I wanted to put a character in a situation with seemingly no escape, and then let him try to figure his way out," screenwriter Robert Rodat says. "I also liked the idea of an action drama with an unusually vulnerable lead.

"Noah is bright and resourceful, but he's not Superman. He's weak from his heart attack, and he's never fired a gun in his life. He's an easy guy with whom to identify."

If you have a couple of hours to kill, 36 Hours to Die is nifty entertainment all around.

Sunday on TNT, Carroll O'Connor, Kim Cattrall and Treat Williams (from left) star in 36 Hours to Die, the story of a man whose family business develops ties to the mob.

TV-PIPELINE

Q: What do you hear killed Cupid? Or is it, I hope, being revamped to return? –Virginia in Pocatello, Idaho.

A: Cupid died of anemic ratings, although Dorothy Swanson of Viewers for Quality Television, which heartily endorsed the series, holds ABC accountable for not working harder to nurture an unconventional show.

Swanson also urges viewers who are feeling powerless to join her national organization by writing to VQT, P.O. Box 195, Fairfax Station, VA 22039. I share her belief that individual letters of support seem to matter less and less to network programmers these days.

By the way, former Cupid star Paula Marshall returns to ABC next fall in the new David E. Kelley series Snoops.

Q: Is the actress playing Georgia in As the World Turns the daughter of Barbara Mandrell? –Athalene Klein, Evansville, Ind.

A: Yes, that's Jaime Nicole Dudney, Mandrell's 23-year-old daughter.

Q: I saw William R. Moses in a movie a few weeks ago. What series did he use to play in? –Mildred Smiley, Lancaster, Pa.

A: Moses co-starred as Cole Gioberti in Falcon Crest. He also played Keith Gray, Alison's married lover, on Melrose Place and David Graysmark on the syndicated Fame L.A.

Q: Please tell my stubborn co-worker that Penny Marshall is the sister, not the daughter, of Garry Marshall. –J. Currier, Hampton, N.H.

A: Garry is only seven years older than his sister Penny.

Q: Is that the guy who played Dewey in the Scream movies in those 1-800-Call-ATT commercials? –Brandon McCain in McKean, Pa.

A: Yep, that's David Arquette.

Q: When the Saturday night NBC "Thrillogy" lineup premiered, there were three shows. Now there are only The Pretender and Profiler. What was the third one, and why was it canceled? –Janie via e-mail.

A: In the fall of '96, NBC unveiled the "Thrillogy" concept with Pretender and Profiler in their current time slots, preceded by Dark Skies, a series about aliens among us.

Skies, with Eric Close and Megan Ward, limped through most of a season before being canceled due to low ratings. The following fall, NBC tried Sleepwalkers as a third link in its "Thrillogy." That show tanked almost immediately.

Since then, extra Pretender episodes and Dick Clark "bloopers" presentations have filled the third hour, which briefly was the home last fall of Wind on Water.

SWINGIN' INTO SPRING - Frostburg State University theater department students Sean Cercone and Heather Lindstrom, above, share their energy and skill on the dance floor giving lessons in swing dance. Each Tuesday afternoon the couple swings across the floor of the Northern High School cafetorium from 3:45 to 4:45 p.m. Students and members of the community are invited to get into the fun and take a spin around the room. Student council advisor Michelle Harman, below, and David Higdon strutt their stuff to the quick stepping beat of swing music. Sponsored by the NHS student council, classes will continue for three more weeks, April 6, 13, and 20. Anyone interested in attending is invited. The cost is $4 per person per lesson. One need not attend all sessions. For more information persons may call 301-895-5434.

Maryland State Comptroller William Donald Schaefer reminds late tax filers that there's only one week left until the April 15 filing deadline, and if getting a refund quickly is one's goal, then electronic filing is recommended. "If you request direct deposit, you can have your refund deposited in your bank account within a couple of days of filing electronically even if you file on April 15," said Schaefer. "Filing a paper return — this late in the filing season — means you will have to wait several weeks for a refund if you are due one."

The comptroller's office had received more than 1,258,000 state and local income tax returns by last week, slightly more than half of the returns expected to be filed by Maryland taxpayers this year. That means more than 1 million returns will be filed during the last two weeks. "Processing such a large volume of paper returns is very labor-intensive and delays the issuance of refund checks," said Schaefer.

"Electronic filing bypasses the normal processing required of the paper returns by putting the data directly into our computers," said Schaefer. "Since it is all done electronically, there are virtually no errors and the returns can be processed overnight."

More than 248,000 of the returns received this year were filed electronically — about 30% ahead of last year's pace. Of those, more than 14,800 were filed from home computers — a service available for the first time to Maryland taxpayers.

"If you choose to file electronically from your home computer, you can have easy access to the software," said Schaefer. "You'll find links to all of the approved software providers when you visit our website at www.marylandtaxes.com."

The comptroller's office has issued 1,008,652 refunds so far, including 161,129 that were deposited directly into bank accounts at taxpayer request. Refunds are averaging $534 — up 14% from last year. About 75% of Maryland's 2.25 million income tax returns generate refunds.

Taxpayers can send state tax questions to the comptroller's taxpayer service e-mail address at taxhelp@comp.state.md.us 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The comptroller's office has received more than 6,200 e-mail inquiries this filing season — more than twice as many as last year.

Taxpayers can download Maryland tax forms and other information from the state comptroller's web site at www.marylandtaxes.com 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Maryland tax forms and publications are also available by fax, 24 hours a day, from the comptroller's Forms-by-Fax system at 410-974-FAXX (974-3299).

Maryland income tax forms are also available at local libraries, from the comptroller's 20 local taxpayer service offices, and by telephone at 410-260-7951.

Maryland tax assistance is available at all taxpayer service offices Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. The offices will also provide extra hours of help on the next two Saturdays, April 3 and 10, from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. In addition, the offices will remain open to help last-minute filers on the filing deadline, Thursday, April 15, from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m.

"We'll be happy to complete your Maryland return free of charge, as long as you bring a completed copy of your federal return and all W-2 statements to one of our offices," said Schaefer.

The telephone numbers of all of the taxpayer service offices are listed on the back of the Maryland state and local income tax booklet and in the blue pages of most local telephone directories.

Anyone needing help can call the statewide toll-free number for Maryland tax assistance at 1-800-MD TAXES from 8 a.m. until 11 p.m. Monday through Friday. Taxpayers can also check the status of their state tax refund by calling 1-800-218-8160 any time 24 hours a day, seven days a week, or by visiting the comptroller's website at www.marylandtaxes.com.

Gospel Concert Set At Glendale Assembly Of God

The southern gospel music duo Last Generation will present a concert at the Glendale Assembly of God Church this Sunday, April 11, at 6 p.m. The performance is open to the public, said Pastor Paul Goldizen.

Last Generation is a husband and wife duo of Mike and Karen Matieszyn, who hail from Berlin, Pa. They began performing together in 1982. Over the succeeding years their group has ranged from a trio to a quartet, and four years ago the Matieszyns began performing strictly as a duet. Last Generation has released six recordings, one of which included the single "Attitudes," which became a popular request with Christian music radio stations and which remained on the Singing News top 80 chart for five months.

The Glendale Assembly of God Church is located along Glendale Road between Routes 219 and 495, near Deep Creek Lake.

Dunkard Church Re-Slates Revival

The Swallow Falls Dunkard Church revival for March was canceled because of weather conditions and a flu epidemic. It has now been rescheduled for April 17-23, with services slated for evenings at 7:30.

The speakers will be evangelist Frank Shaffer and wife Janet of Greencastle, Pa., missionaries to Kenya, Africa. The public is invited.

Mini-Grants Offered By Arts Council

Senior art exhibits, afternoon concerts, special after-school programs, children's theatre projects, and poetry readings are just some of the activities that could be funded through the Maryland State Arts Council's (MSAC) Fiscal Year 2000 Mini-Grant Program. MSAC is an agency of the Maryland Department of Business & Economic Development.

The Mini-Grant Program is open to not-for-profit organizations such as after-school programs, civic groups, libraries, museums, religious organizations, schools, social clubs or other community-based groups that present programs which are open to the public and accessible for persons with disabilities. The program, which awards grants of up to $1,000, is designed to assist community-based organizations in producing and presenting arts activities in their communities.

Mini-grants are awarded four times a year, and organizations may submit only one application per deadline and may receive only one mini-grant per fiscal year. The first grants for fiscal year 2000 will be awarded for activities taking place between July 1 and September 30, 1999. The deadline for applications is April 22, 1999.

Grant applications may be obtained by calling the Maryland State Arts Council at 410-767-6555 or TDD/FIY 410-333-4519. Applicants are encouraged to contact the Maryland State Arts Council to speak with the appropriate staff member before an application is submitted. Completed applications for the July 1 mini-grants must be postmarked on or before April 22, 1999, or hand-delivered by 5 p.m. that day to the Maryland State Arts Council offices at 601 N. Howard Street, Baltimore.

For more information about the Mini-Grant Program, persons may call the Maryland State Arts Council at 410-767-6555.

Sacred Dance Program Set At Frostburg State

The Frostburg State University Women's Forum invites the community to "A Gathering of Women in Sacred Dance" next Tuesday, April 13, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Leake Room of the Harold J. Cordts Physical Education Center. Norma Blacke-Bourdeau, a lay minister, singer, poet, dancer, and professor of cultural studies at FSU, will lead the gathering.

Ms. Blacke-Bourdeau sees a close connection between gratitude, dance, and grace. She believes gratitude "enables the spirit to sense the grace available to all and frees the spirit to dance joyfully (whether or not the body can follow)." Ms. Blacke-Bourdeau will provide background information on sacred dance from an African-American perspective, show video excerpts of dance, and invite audience participation.

For more information, persons may contact Dr. Phoebe Wiley, chair of FSU Women's Forum, at 301-687-4066. Persons with disabilities may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office at 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

Scholarships Are Offered By Cancer Society

The Mid Atlantic Division of the American Cancer Society is offering scholarship opportunities exclusively for students with a history of cancer. The program gives young cancer survivors a chance to pursue higher education from an accredited school.

The ACS scholarship is worth $1,000 toward tuition, dependent upon the number of hours taken. All scholarships are awarded at the discretion of the ACS's volunteer scholarship committee, based on scholastic performance, community service, and leadership. Because of limited resources, the society is not able to award scholarships to all young cancer survivors who apply.

U.S. citizens who have had a diagnosis of cancer before age 21 are eligible. Applicants must be under 25 at the time of application and must attend an accredited school. The application deadline is April 30, 1999.

For more information, persons may contact the American Cancer Society at 1-888-227-9979.

4-H Achievement Program Slated

The annual 4-H Achievement program will be held this Saturday, April 10, at 7 p.m. at Northern High School. The program is designed to recognize youth and adult 4-H participants from across the county as club members will be recognized for completed projects, leaders for years of service, and members and clubs for their accomplishments during the past year. All members who submit a record book will be recognized as well.

"The public is invited to join 4-H members, leaders, and their families for this special evening, including a reception which will follow the awards ceremony," said Alice Hevner, Extension educator, 4-H Youth Development.

For further information interested persons may call the Extension office.

Shakespeare Play For Children Set At Frostburg State

Frostburg State University's Roundabout Theatre will present A Midsummer Night's Dream for Children, an adaptation of William Shakespeare's play, this Saturday, April 10, and Sunday, April 11, at 2 p.m. in the FSU Performing Arts Center Studio Theatre.

Written and directed by FSU senior theatre major Kathryn Hnatio, the colorful and bright production features the antics of the mischievous elf Puck, who "leads the audience through a fun adventure of mayhem and magic" on midsummer's eve.

"Brought to life are Shakespeare's lovers and a band of merchants led by Nick Bottom. Full of mishaps and escapades, the story is humorous, charming, and endearing," stated an FSU spokesperson.

Admission is $1 for children of all ages. For more information, persons may call 301-687-4145.

Panelcraft Building Systems

The time to be concerned about how to keep from using so much heating fuel is when you build. Use Panelcraft's Structural Insulated Panels (SIPs).

SIP structures are known for their structural integrity. Nature's storms, earthquakes, tornados, etc., just need a little greater force to do the same amount of damage to SIP structures versus conventional.

Faster - Stronger - Warmer

SIPs consist of Polystyrene laminated between two pieces of structure board, thus creating a very rigid, super insulating panel which is used for Walls, Roofs, Ceilings and Floors, virtually any aspect of your project!

GARRETT COUNTY NOTICE OF A PROPOSED PROPERTY TAX INCREASE

The County Commissioners of Garrett County propose to increase property taxes.

1. For the tax year beginning July 1, 1999, the estimated assessable base will increase by 3% from, $785,056,316 to $809,089,480.

2. If Garrett County maintains the current tax rate of $2.59 per $100 of assessment, property tax revenues will increase by 3%, resulting in $622,460 of new property tax revenues.

3. In order to fully offset the effect of increasing assessments, the property tax rate should be reduced to $2.51, the constant yield tax rate.

4. The County is considering not reducing its property tax rate enough to fully offset increasing assessments. The County proposes to adopt a tax rate of $2.59 per $100 of assessment. This tax rate is 3% higher than the constant yield tax rate and will generate $622,460 in additional property tax revenues.

A public hearing on the proposed property tax increase will be held at 11:00 a.m. on April 20, 1999, at the County Commissioners' Meeting Room, County Courthouse, Oakland, MD. The hearing is open to the public, and public testimony is encouraged. Persons with questions regarding this hearing may call 301-334-8970 for further information.

HELEN KELLER: DARING ADVENTURER

"Life is a daring adventure or nothing," said Helen Keller. Although she was deaf and blind, she lived an active sports-filled life, wrote 14 books and countless articles, lectured and hobnobbed with presidents.

As recounted in May's Biography magazine, Keller was a normal child until 19 months when an illness robbed her of speech, sight and hearing. At 6, her parents took her to Boston's Perkins Institute for the Blind, which recommended Annie Sullivan, who was almost blind herself. Sullivan painstakingly pulled Keller out of her "netherworld" by teaching her how to communicate through spelling words in her hand.

The two spent time in Boston where Helen learned to vocalize, although never easily understandably. She also learned to read lips by touch and claimed she could tell the difference between a twang and a drawl. Accompanied by Sullivan, she graduated cum laude from Radcliffe, the first deaf-blind person to receive a college degree.

Before graduating, she wrote her first book, "The Story of My Life." Sullivan married editor John Macy but the union didn't last. Two years later, when Keller became involved with Peter Fagan, an aide, her mother whisked the 36-year-old back to Alabama, declaring it unseemly for a severely handicapped woman to marry.

Keller became increasingly radical, championing the underdog, embracing woman1s suffrage, labor unions and socialism. Even when Macy was still there, money was a problem. Keller and Sullivan began giving lecture tours. Both attractive, they were a hit. In 1918, they traveled to Hollywood to make a silent film "Deliverance," describing Keller's life. Keller would not cross a picket line to attend the opening.
In 1924, Keller began working for The American Foundation for the Blind, and was a ceaseless fund-raiser and ambassador until she suffered a stroke in 1961. She died in 1968 at 88, an inspiration to the world.

Antiques

At the turn of the century, many French companies were making cameo glass, which is made from layers of different-colored glass. An artist etched away parts of the top layers to form a color picture with the remaining glass.

Prices of antiques are determined by their rarity, quality and availability. The signature of the company or artist is a plus that almost always adds to the price.

Cameo-glass pieces made by Galle, Legras, Daum, D'Argental, DeVez, Degue and others appear to be similar to the novice. Fortunately, most of the pieces are signed with the maker's name.

Look on the sides of a cameo glass vase for a signature that seems to be part of the design. Often the names are written vertically in oddly shaped letters.

Unfortunately, since the 1970s, there have been copies of cameo glass that are signed with similar names. Instead of the name "Galle," for example, some new glass is marked "Galli." When an auctioneer reads the name to a crowd, it sounds as though the vase were made by the famous artist, not a new company.

There are ways to sandblast a mark on an old piece so the mark is raised and appears to be original.

If you have a family heirloom cameo vase with a signature, it is valuable.

TIP: Reducing the size of a necklace or bracelet? Save the links, pearls or stones removed from the piece. Someday you might want to make it bigger again.

Home Tips

IRON TIP – When you are ready to buy a new iron, think of getting one with a retractable cord. It is much safer because the cord doesn't hang off the ironing board. It prevents the danger of someone tripping over the cord and knocking the iron off the board.

After ironing, it is important to remember to unplug it and let it cool in an area where there would be no hazard of it falling over, just in case children are playing nearby. Sandy P., Oakland, Maine

SPARE CHANGE – We have found a way to eliminate the squabbling that often occurs over loose change found in the house, car or elsewhere.

We decided on a cause we will support – new books for our church – and keep a container in the kitchen. Any unidentified change goes there. Every few weeks we count it up and deliver it. It isn't a huge sum but it adds up over a year to $20 or so. It is well worth the price in household peace and gives us the chance to help others.

Now the kids even watch for loose change wherever we go to add to the fund. Camille W., Simi Valley, Calif.

PACKING UP – I pack foam peanuts in the plastic sleeves my newspapers come in and tie the end. I pack some loose, some tight and all sizes.

When I put them in a package, there is no mess for the people opening the box. They have commented that they will also do this. Rita K., Orem, Utah

Secretary's Day Phone Etiquette Seminar Slated

The Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College and the Four Seasons Restaurant at Will O' the Wisp have joined forces to provide a Secretary's Day celebration on Wednesday, April 21, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Will O' the Wisp.

The three-hour program, titled "Don't Hang Up on Business," will be presented by motivational speaker Sandi Flockhart of Flockhart & Company. "The telephone is the most misused piece of equipment in a business," Flockart said. "Participants in the seminar will be exposed to numerous ways to become more effective while using the telephone." Business owners and managers are invited to send their support staff to this event, designed to energize and motivate participants.

In addition to the seminar, participants will share a specially prepared luncheon buffet by the Four Seasons Dining Room staff.

The cost of this seminar includes the seminar, luncheon, beverage, tax, and gratuity. For more information, or to register for the event, persons may call the GCC Small Business Development Center at 301-387-3080.

Youth Dairy Weekend To Be Udderly Awesome

All youth with dairy projects or an interest in dairy between the ages of 8 and 18 are invited to attend a weekend of fun and education about the dairy industry.

The "Udderly Awesome Adventure," or Maryland Dairy Youth Weekend, will be held Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, June 18 to 20, at the Frederick County 4-H Camp and Activities Center.

The weekend is open to all Maryland dairy youth. Registration time is Friday from 6 to 7 p.m., and departure time is set for Sunday at 1 p.m.

Throughout the weekend, dairy leaders will speak on show preparation, show ethics and sportsmanship; dairy judging, dairy breeds, and dairy products; and dairy promotion. There will also be motivational speakers and much more, plus the Junior Dairyman's Contest, where participants can win $1,000 in prize money.

The three-day program will also include meals, snacks, a swimming break, a videotaped dairy promotion commercial, a pizza party, a dance, and a movie.

The cost of the all-inclusive dairy adventure is $20 each for the first two family participants and other siblings will be $15 per registration postmarked by May 20. Late registration cost will be $25 per person after May 20. The fee includes a T-shirt, food, materials, and many extras. Checks should be made payable to the Maryland Dairy Youth Weekend and sent along with the following information: participant's name, address, phone number, county, age as of Jan. 1, dairy breeds owned, parents' names, T-shirt size (XS, S, M, L, XL, XXL, XXXL), and names of desired cabin mates. The above information and check should be mailed to Rebecca Long Chaney, 2047 Dennings Road, New Windson, MD 21776, by May 20.

Those seeking more information may contact Long Chaney at 410-775-7041 or Susan Summers at 301-865-1045.

Sheep Producers Marketing Meeting

I would encourage all area sheep producers to attend a very important meeting on exploring a potential new market for lamb meat products. For the past few weeks we have been working through the Mountain Pride Cooperative building a relationship with the U.S. Muslim Chamber of Commerce based in Washington, D.C., of which the cooperative is now an official member. The Chamber has agreed to assist us to introduce lamb, goat and rabbit meat products that have the Halal stamp of approval to the Muslim communities. There are several thousands of Muslim east of us.

As an initial step in exploring this marketing relationship, we would like to invite you to attend a meeting of shepherds on Wednesday, April 28, 1999, at 7:30 p.m. at the Pleasant Valley Community Center south of Oakland, MD. At this meeting we will discuss the market potential and what we have to do to pursue a business arangement. We will need to address such questions as how many lambs will be available throughout the year, price expected, and producer commitment.

The meeting is open to anyone in the area that would be interested. For additional information you may call my office (301-334-6960) or Bill Shockey at the Preston County Extension Office (304-329-1391).

"Hot Line" for Poultry Litter

I have been receiving several calls on where to find poultry litter. The Potomac Valley Soil Conservation District has a telephone "hot line," 1-888-354-8837, that you can call for information on litter availability. How much is the litter worth? The average nutrient analysis of broiler litter per ton is 68 pounds of nitrogen, 52 pounds of phosphorus and 28 pounds of potash. Approximately one-half of the total nitrogen will be plant available the first year of application. All of the phosphorus and potash is generally available to the plants. With that information you can push your pencil to compare the cost of litter verses commercial fertilizer. Remember, there is considerable more management required to make optimum use of litter.

Sign Up for the Dairy Assistance Program

USDA has announced that $200 million is being made available to dairy farms through the farm disaster relief legislation passed last year. USDA will make payments based on your first 26,000 cwt. (2.6 million pounds) of milk produced in 1998 or 1997, whichever is the highest. How much can you expect to receive? Nobody will know until after the sign-up period. Sign up at the Farm Service Agency office between April 12 and May 21, 1999. Watch for more information from FSA.

Beware — the Telephone Chemical Salesman!

It is that time of year that many farmers receive telephone calls from people wanting to sell "miracle" chemicals. If there was such a miracle chemical, I am sure our local agriculture business would have the product on their shelves. My advice is that you respond to this call by asking the person to send you a copy of the product label. In most instances this will end the conversation. If you receive a label and are not familiar with the chemical content, please do not hesitate to contact me for advice.

MDIA Says Mid-Atlantic Dairy Producers May Be Harmed

Mid-Atlantic-area dairy producers will probably suffer a double whammy on their milk prices, as a result of two recent USDA announcements. That's the warning of the Maryland Dairy Industry Association (MDIA), representing the state's dairy producers and allied industry.

MDIA joined representatives from major dairy organizations on Capitol Hill on March 31 for USDA's release of the new Federal Milk Marketing Orders. MDIA had strongly urged that USDA retain the Option 1-A differential pricing structure in its announced milk marketing restructuring.

But USDA opted to take a middle ground between the two proposed restructuring plans, adopting only part of MDIA's preferred Option 1-A. The result is that Maryland and Mid-Atlantic dairy producers will suffer an 89-cent reduction in the currently paid differential price, from $3.09 to $2.20 per hundredweight of fluid milk. This is on top of USDA's recently announced reduction in the base milk price formula (BFP) from the current $16.70 down to $10.27 per hundredweight, a 40 percent reduction.

"USDA's actions made no net gain for farmers," says MDIA president Myron Wilhide, a Detour (Carroll County), Maryland, dairy producer. "If left in place, these new pricing provisions could be a real blow to dairy producers across the nation. MDIA believes that USDA's middle course between Options 1-A and 1-B could place many local dairy operations in serious jeopardy. Maryland dairymen already face financial challenges from declining market prices and increased environmental regulations. These new pricing regulations will make it even more difficult for Maryland dairymen to provide consumers with an abundant supply of quality fluid milk."

"USDA chose lower differentials and a reduced incremental price embodied in Option 1-B," adds MDIA executive director Paul Weller. "While USDA did not fully embrace Option 1-B, MDIA believes that this proposal does not adequately reflect the total cost of moving fluid milk from the farm to the marketplace. We would have preferred the pricing structure of Option 1-A."

Weller noted that USDA's latest milk marketing order proposal seems to be a compromise combination of items encompassing both Options 1-A and 1-B. "MDIA believes that this new proposal does not fully address the needs of Maryland's dairy farmers. By diluting Option 1-A's differential pricing structure, the goal of helping dairy producers to remain in business at a profit could be in serious jeopardy."

Weller added that if current trends continue with the declining number of local dairy producers, American agriculture could lose a vital segment of its economy, and consumers will be forced to pay more for fluid milk.

USDA Announces Reforms Of Dairy Market Orders

The Agriculture Department last week announced the long-awaited overhaul of the federal milk marketing order program. The new plan will replace a system that has been entrenched for more than 60 years.

The reforms, required by the Federal Agricultural Income and Reform law of 1996, are intended to streamline the regulation of dairy pricing and the milk industry.

"We're glad the reforms are finally out," said Dr. Ken Olson, a dairy specialist with the American Farm Bureau Federation. "They did make some modifications that are consistent with suggestions we have made. But it will take a fair amount of time to go through the reforms and determine what the final outcome will be."

AFBF was active in the reform process. A study group, chaired by Michigan Farm Bureau president and AFBF board member Jack Laude, helped formulate AFBF's position on the issue.

The USDA reforms appear at first glance to offer a compromise to industry groups that were split over which direction the reforms should take.

"These reforms will help make sure that America's dairy farmers receive a fair price and that American consumers continue to enjoy an abundant, affordable supply of milk," said Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman. "Our changes will also simplify the wholesale milk pricing system, making it more market-oriented and more equitable."

Among the reforms are a reduction in the number of milk marketing areas from 31 to 11, changes to the method of determining the price movers, changes to the level and manner in which milk is priced according to its use, changes in the transportation differentials, and standardizing and consolidating certain details in orders to provide uniform definitions of key terms and reporting requirements across the country.

According to USDA, producer prices would be lowered slightly under the new plan. Cash receipts to producers would be reduced by $2.5 million. Another option the department could have adopted would have lowered income by $128 million. Also, consumers can expect prices for drinking milk at the supermarket to decline by 2 cents a gallon.

"This is the most extensive reform of the federal milk marketing orders ever undertaken," said Olson. "It will take a significant amount of time to assess the impact of the proposed changes on producers."

Producers, expected to vote on the referendum in August, probably have no choice but to accept the reforms, according to Olson. "My guess is basically that producers will vote for it because they want to have orders," he said. "They may not be satisfied with everything in the reforms, but for most producers, it is better than no orders at all.

"I've got some initial concerns, but right now, it's at the point where producers will have the option to accept this or have nothing at all. USDA's assessment is that net impact on producers will be negligible. But, there will be differences, depending on the region of the country."

If approved, the reforms will take effect Oct. 1.

Sen. Decision Could Make Or Break Ethanol

What at first appeared to be a plum deal for ethanol could turn out to be a lemon for a corn industry already besieged by low prices and weak exports.

The recent decision by California governor Gray Davis to phase out the use of the gasoline additive methyl tertiary butyl ether (MTBE) had ethanol supporters cheering over the prospect that their product could be used as an alternative to the additive burned by most of the state's 22.5 million cars and trucks. But now Davis has come out in support of legislation that would prevent the use of ethanol as a replacement for MTBE — a move that could have serious repercussions for corn growers.

"The very future of the nation's ethanol industry is at stake," said Gary Goldberg, chief executive officer of the American Corn Growers Association. "It cannot survive without the continued incentives of an oxygen requirement in reformulated gasoline."

Both ethanol and MTBE are oxygenates, substances that add oxygen to gasoline to make it burn more cleanly. In 1996, the federal government began requiring states to blend gasoline with oxygenates to help fight smog in certain parts of the country. California is the largest single market for MTBE, accounting for 11 percent of the 30 million gallons of gasoline used there each day.

Davis ordered the ban on MTBE when studies revealed that it posed significant threats to the state's water quality. Refineries have until the end of 2002 to discontinue the use of MTBE in California gasoline.

The decision was heralded by ethanol producers who were eager to expand into California's lucrative fuel market.

After announcing the ban, however, Davis called for a temporary waiver that would exempt California from federal laws requiring the use of smog-fighting oxygenates, including ethanol, so long as the state can effectively meet emission standards without oxygenates.

Davis also pledged his support for legislation (S. 645) introduced by Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-Calif.) that would end the federal oxygenate requirement in reformulated gasoline. A companion bill (H.R. 11) was introduced in the House by Rep. Brian Bilbray (R-Calif.).

John McClelland, director of energy and analysis for the National Corn Growers Association, and others are concerned that the legislation, if passed, could deal a lethal blow to the ethanol industry.

"The problem is MTBE in water, not oxygen in gasoline," said McClelland. "Therefore, eliminating the oxygenate requirement is not the answer. Ethanol is."

According to NCGA, a California Energy Commission study concluded that ethanol is a more cost effective alternative to MTBE than non-oxygenated fuel, and will save money for California consumers in the long run.

Of course, any new market for ethanol would be a boon to corn growers. If ethanol were used as a replacement to MTBE in California gasoline, it could add approximately 10 cents to the value of every bushel of corn grown in the United States, according to NCGA.

"This is especially significant at a time when farmers are facing record-low commodity prices," said NCGA president Roger Pine.

Farm Bureau has long been a proponent of ethanol because of its many documented benefits.

"Numerous studies have demonstrated that the use of ethanol is good for the economy, for the environment, and for farmers and rural communities," said American Farm Bureau Federation president Dean Kleckner.

Meanwhile, California's governor has asked the state's air resources board to conduct a comprehensive study of the effects of ethanol on air and water quality. Davis also has expressed some concern that adequate supplies of ethanol are not available to replace MTBE in California, but industry officials disagree.

"Ethanol supply is simply not an issue," said Eric Vaughn, president of the Renewable Fuel Association. "With new plants, existing excess capacity, and migration from undervalued markets, there is at least 500 million gallons of ethanol currently available for the California market. That capacity will quickly expand ... with growing demand to replace MTBE."

Crop Progress Reporting For Season Begins

The first crop progress report by the Maryland Agriculture Statistics Service begins this week as farmers across the state are actively planting vegetable crops. One quarter of the potatoes in the state were planted and green peas are once again off to an excellent start because of the mild weather. Green peas were at 40% planted for the state, 17 points ahead of planting progress from a year ago. For southern Maryland farmers, 80% of tobacco beds were being prepared, slightly ahead of last year's average and well ahead of the five-year average of 47%. Snap beans and sweet corn were planted at comparable rates and both crops were ahead of their respective previous year averages and their five-year averages.

Small grains appear to be in good shape for the state, as winter wheat was rated 4% poor, 18% fair, 63% good, and 15% excellent. Barley condition was 5% poor, 13% fair, 56% good, and 26% excellent. Rye condition followed closely to wheat in that 1% was very poor, 5% poor, 14% fair, 68% good, and 12% excellent.

Peaches were at 25% bloomed, quite comparable to last year's average of 27%. Apples were reported at 10% bloomed and strawberries were at 15% bloomed.

Topsoil moisture was 10% short, 82% adequate, and 8% surplus. Subsoil moisture was 14% short, 85% adequate, and 1% surplus. There were 4.5 days suitable for fieldwork for the week which ended April 4. Ten percent of the acreage has been prepared for planting of spring crops.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended April 4, listing the item, and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, is:

Planting progress: field corn 2, —, 2, 1; potatoes 25, —, 18, 26; green peas 40, —, 23, 25; tobacco beds 80, —, 77, 47; snap beans 5, —, 0, 0; sweet corn 6, —, 2, 2.

Fruit crops blooming: apples 10, —, 12, 6; peaches 25, —, 27, 19; strawberries 15, —, 7, 6.

National Hog Numbers Down

According to a recent USDA report, hog producers are cutting their breeding stocks, a move that could signal higher hog prices later this year. The report showed that U.S. hog numbers totaled 59.9 million head in March, down 1 percent from a year ago and down 4 percent from the previous quarter. Analysts predict that producers ought to see break-even prices by late May.

Norma Beckman Earns Hospital Employee Award

Norma Beckman was selected as the March Employees' Choice Award recipient at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Beckman began her employment with GCMH in June of 1974 as a nursing assistant. In 1982 she became one of the first unit secretaries at the hospital. In April of 1994 she fulfilled the credentials requirement to become a certified health unit coordinator (CHUC). Her co-workers describe her as "someone who shows wonderful compassion for the patients and a team player always willing to help out when needed."

"I think we give excellent care at GCMH and I enjoy being part of the health care team," Beckman said upon receiving this honor. She resides in Oakland and is the mother of two children, who live in Dover, Del., with their families. She has three grandchildren and is expecting a fourth in April.

Harvey will be presenting demonstrations at the next monthly meeting.

Oakland VFD Will Sponsor Explorer Post

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department is going to sponsor a Boy Scouts of America Explorer post, known as Fire Explorers Post #40, and the first meeting of that organization is scheduled for next Tuesday, April 13, at 7 p.m. at the fire hall. The post is open to all youth ages 14 to 20 years old who have an interest in fire and emergency services.

Participants will learn CPR and other first aid and fire-fighting techniques, and will have various opportunities to work with and assist the fire department. Parents will be permitted to participate on the post committee to assist with projects, field trips, and events.

"One of our goals is to help prepare young people to consider becoming fire fighters and/or emergency medical service personnel in the future," stated Jim Walkling, OVFD member who is coordinating the post.

The annual membership fee to join the post is $10 for registration and insurance coverage. Youth planning to attend next Tuesday's meeting or obtaining more information about the organization may contact Walkling at 301-334-5295.

4-H Club News

COUNTRY KIDS
by Anissa Jamison
Reporter

The March Country Kids 4-H Club meeting, brought to order by Sarah Pysell, began with pledges which were led by Vanessa Logan.

Several members made presentations, including Sarah Rexrode, who spoke about the recent 4-H public speaking contest at Garrett Community College. Brandon DeWitt had spoken on the same topic at last month's meeting. Ashley Tuck presented a short report on a trip to Clear Brooke to purchase fabric for a sewing project. Sarah Pysell spoke about the Garrett County 4-H Council meeting, where the upcoming Achievement Night was discussed. Scott Harvey presented a report on the livestock association meeting.

Alicia DeWitt provided members with information on the club getting its steers for this summer's County Fair.

The annual 4-H Achievement Night program will be held Friday, April 10, at 7 p.m. at Northern High School. Members selected Sandy DeWitt for the club's alumni honor, and the Pysell family as the club's family of the year. County-wide selections will be announced at the Achievement Night.

Garrett County. Staff Assigned: Sean McKewen. Case Number: 199960363/98-NT-3292.

The Garrett County Commissioners seek to expand the Southern Garrett Industrial Park. The project would result in 7,000 square feet of temporary wetland impacts, 8,750 square feet of permanent wetland impacts, and 12,250 square feet of buffer impacts. The impacts stem from placement of a new road culvert, installation of a utility line and construction of stormwater management ponds. The project is located in Mtn. Lake Park and adjoins the Little Youghiogheny River. Comments must be received by April 22, 1999. For further information, please contact Sean McKewen at 301-689-8299, extension 310.

AT 1:00 P.M.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from Randolph Plummer Owens and Ruth Elizabeth Owens dated October 27, 1995 and recorded in the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland in Liber No. 765, folio 280SC, the Substitute Trustees will sell at public auction, at the premises, on Friday, April 16, 1999 at 1:00 P.M., all that parcel of ground and improvements, easements, and appurtenances thereunto belonging and situate in Garrett County, Maryland and more fully described as follows:

BEGINNING at a 20" chestnut oak found in an eastern line of the lands of the State of Maryland, said 20" chestnut oak also being in the western line of the parties of the first part property of which this parcel now described is a part, said chestnut oak being the beginning corner of the 2.12 acre parcel conveyed by the parties of the first part to Robert Lester Burton, et ux, by deed dated November 11, 1978 and to be recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland thence the following bearing and distances, North 37 degrees 40'00" East 584.96 feet along the lands of the State of Maryland to a ½" iron pin set, thence South 52 degrees 20' 01" East 96.27 feet to a ½" iron pin set, thence South 29 degrees 52' 49" West 546.10 feet to a ½" iron pin set, thence North 66 degrees 47' 25" West 175.82 feet to the beginning containing 1.74 acres, more or less, and being part of the same property conveyed to the parties of the first part by two deeds from Nettie M. Broadwater, the first dated December 8, 1976 and recorded in Liber No. 373, folio 387, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, and the second dated October 10, 1977, and recorded in Liber No. 382, folio 426, one of the said Land Records.

Being the same property described in a deed dated November 11, 1978 and recorded at Liber No. 394, at folio 389.

The property is improved by a two story Mountaineer log home, with wrap-around deck, constructed in 1988. The home contains a living room, dining room, kitchen, bedroom and bath, on the first floor, 2 bedrooms and bath, on the second floor, lower level with family room, bedroom and half-bath; electric and propane heat; well and septic. Three-car detached garage has a 2 bedroom and bath efficiency apartment above. Outstanding private site.

TERMS OF SALE: This advertisement, as amended or supplemented by any oral announcements during the conduct of the sale, constitutes the terms upon which the premises described above are offered for sale. The Substitute Trustees reserve the unqualified right to withdraw the premises, at any time prior to the sale or release the premises from the effect of the Deed of Trust. If the Substitute Trustees determine that any bid is not commensurate with the value of the premises, they may reject the bid and withdraw the premises from sale. The highest bidder acknowledged by the Substitute Trustees shall be the purchaser and, in the event of any dispute among the bidders, the Substitute Trustees shall have the sole and final discretion to determine the successful bidder or to resell the premises.

The premises are sold in an "as is" condition with purchaser responsible for any housing and/or zoning violations, and neither the Substitute Trustees nor any other party makes any warranty or representation, either expressed or implied, of any kind or character, with respect to the premises' physical condition. The premises are sold subject to any and all convenants, conditions restrictions, easements, rights-of-way and limitations of record, including, but not limited to, any restrictions arising under the state and county laws. The premises are sold subject to the rights of persons, other than the Substitute Trustees, in possession of all or of any part of the premises as tenants under recorded or unrecorded leases, if any. Neither the Substitute Trustees, nor any other party guarantees or covenants to deliver or in any way obtain possession of the premises for the purchaser.

A deposit of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will be required to bid upon the premises. All deposits shall be in the form of cash, certified check, cashier's check or some other form of exchange acceptable to the Substitute Trustees, in their sole and final discretion, and will be required from the purchaser (if other than the noteholder) at the time of sale. The balance of the purchase price, together with interest on such balance at the rate of 13.5% per annum from the date of sale to the date of settlement, must be paid in cash, or equivalent current funds, on the date of settlement.

The property will be sold subject to a prior mortgage from March 11, 1994, in the original amount of $81,000.

All state and local real estate taxes, other public charges, regular or special assessments and the like, shall be adjusted to the date of the foreclosure sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. The purchaser shall pay all state, county and city transfer taxes, recordation taxes and fees, title examination costs, attorney's fees, conveyancing fees, notary fees and all other costs incident to the settlement.

The purchaser shall settle and comply with the sale terms within ten (10) days after the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland finally ratifies the sale; TIME BEING OF THE ESSENCE. If the purchaser defaults, in addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to them, the Substitute Trustees may declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the premises at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. In such event, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney's fees and all other charges. Conveyance of the property shall be by Substitute Trustee's Deed, without covenant or warranty, express or implied.

If for any reason the Substitute Trustees are not able to convey good and merchantable title as advertised or announced at sale, or if any exceptions to the sale are sustained, the purchaser's sole remedy shall be a refund of the deposit, without interest. Upon refund of the deposit, the sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees.

Friendsville Bloodmobile Reaches Goal

The Red Cross Bloodmobile at the Friendsville fire hall netted 40 pints of blood this past Friday, April 2, with 46 donors participating, including two first-time donors. Belinda Beitzel became a three-gallon donor, while Virginia Beitzel reached the one gallon mark. Volunteers assisting at the bloodmobile were Pauline Fawcett, Robin Sines, Mathew Swartzentruber, Josh Fike, and Esther Benedict.

The next Friendsville bloodmobile is set for Friday, June 18, from noon to 6 p.m. in the fire hall.

CLUB PRESENTS BOOK - The Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club recently presented a copy of the book The Dragons are Singing Tonight by Jack Prelusky to the Ruth Enlow Library in memory of the late William Crawford. The club recognized Crawford, who died earlier this year, for "sharing his political expertise, and his contribution of talent, time and energy to the club, to the Garrett County Republican party, and for his devotion toward the education of children." The book is an illustrated collection of children's poems. Presenting the book were Nita Roberts, left, club president, and Ann Rebele, center, club vice president. Accepting it was Ann Leighton, manager of the Oakland library. The next meeting of the club, at which Garrett County Commissioner Ernie Gregg will be the guest speaker, will be held next Thursday, April 15, 7 p.m., at the Mountain Glade Adult Day Care Center. All interested Republican women and men are invited to attend, and may telephone Nita Roberts at 301-387-4026 for more information.

Young People's Poetry Week To Be Celebrated

The Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland will host six days of reading, writing, and Internet web site exploration of poetry for elementary-age children as an observance of Young People's Poetry Week, April 12-18. Participants will act out poems, have qualified instruction in poetry composition, and submit poems in competition. In addition, there will be a poetry display in the library.

The daily schedule is as follows: Monday, April 12, poetry reading, 5 to 6 p.m.; Tuesday, April 13, poetry packet, self-guided, all day; Wednesday, April 14, performing poetry, 11 a.m., for pre-school youth; Thursday, April 15, poetry contest, 4 to 5 p.m.; Friday, April 16, poetry on the Internet, self-guided, all day; and Saturday, April 17, poetry writing workshop, 1 to 3 p.m.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

As part of the celebration of Easter Sunday Service at Emmanuel Lutheran Church, a group of children received First Communion, including Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty, Ruth Knupp, Nathan McCrobie, Tyler Southerly, David Vagnetti, Mariel Hady, Carolyn Maxim, Ben Morrison, and Caitlin Sussman. Scott Bass was absent because of his spending the holidays in South Carolina. Taking their first communion at Zion Lutheran Church were Mitch Frost and Sarah Shawley.

Robert Tyler Smith was baptized as an infant. His parents are Bonnie Kay and Todd Smith. Bonnie Kay was taken into the church as a baptized adult. Sponsors for the baptisms were Bob and Mary Lou Smith, parents of Todd.

The joyful celebration of the risen Christ was saddened by the loss of a faithful member of Emmanuel, Rose Buckel. Rose's service was held on Wednesday at Emmanuel.

Susie Teets, mother of Russell Teets, and whose age was 99 years, also passed into Life Eternal last week. Her service was on Monday at the Newman Funeral Home, McHenry.

Ruth Beitzel Martin, former resident of Bittinger, also passed away and was buried on Tuesday. She was a daughter of Rosie and John Beitzel.

We all grieve the death of these deceased loved ones.

ON A MORE CHEERFUL NOTE

The clan of Ruth Glotfelty DiPaolo enjoyed an Easter feast at the home of Rodney and Marci Glotfelty on Sunday. They also celebrated the 10th birthday of their twin sons, Darryl and Elliot. The traditional Easter egg hunt was held outside, in spite of the somewhat blustery weather. Besides the immediate family, also in attendance were Pappy Dale Glotfelty and Courtney Englar.

Following our Christian celebration on Sunday, the Sussman family looks forward to next week's visit with Lloyd's parents from Silver Spring to celebrate Passover. They have planned a Seder dinner on Saturday night.

Mr. & Mrs. Kevin Bass and children visited Kevin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bass, Anderson, S.C., over the Easter holiday.

Thirty-some members of the family of Mrs. Edna Beitzel celebrated her 90th birthday at the home of her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Beitzel, on Sunday. Out-of-town family present were Mr. and Mrs. Mayard Beitzel, Allensville, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Terry Beitzel, Lancaster, Pa., and were overnight guests of Mrs. Leora Yaste.

Recent overnight guests of Mrs. Leora Yaste were Mr. and Mrs. George Montour of Florida, who represented the Mission Builders Group of the ELCA who will be instrumental in constructing the new church at Emmanuel. Mrs. Kathy Glotfelty, Pittsburgh, was also an overnight guest.

Monday dinner guests of Leora Yaste were Mr. and Mrs. Mayard Beitzel, Mr. and Mrs. Clelland Beitzel, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Beitzel.

Aaron and Lea Stanton are spending the Easter holidays with their parents, Cindy and Sam Stanton. They were honored with a birthday dinner on Sunday at their home. Also attending were Ferne Beachy, Sally, Lenny, and Torrey Poholosky, Lucretia and Clay Stanton, and Blair Buckel.

Phyllis Mazer, Glenelg, was a Monday guest of the Stantons and Ferne Beachy.

Mark Buckel, Hershey, Pa., visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Buckel, over Easter.

I heard a welcoming sound the other evening with the choruses of spring peepers coming from the glades and the bogs. Spring must really be here.

MARLANA BEITZEL WINS THE NATIONAL GOLD — "Electrifying" is how local aerobic coach Brenda Brosnihan described Marlana Beitzel's performance in the 1999 Youth Sportaerobic National Championships, where the Southern High School sophomore captured the gold medal in the varsity individual competition. Beitzel, the daughter of Robert and Rayetta Beitzel, came into the final competition slightly behind her competitor, but her over-the-top performance sealed her victory. Marlana's workout, as well as that of Junior Trio Champions Courtney DiSimone, Katie Nichols, and Kelly Taylor, will be among those featured on the adult National Aerobic Championships, to be aired on ESPN on April 20 at 9 p.m. The entire local team achieved great success at the national competition last week and will now represent the United States in the World Cup competition. See related story and photos.

GOING FOR THE GOLD, and winning it, in the recent United States Association's National Snowboarding Championships in Telluride, Colo., was Oakland resident Holly Kuhn, who earned her gold medal in the giant slalom event. She also earned a silver medal in the carving competition and a bronze for combined events of halfpipe, slopestyle, boarder cross, slalom, and giant slalom for her age group. Holly, who is the 15-year-old daughter of Dennis and Diane Kuhn, practiced this season at the Wisp in McHenry and trained at Seven Springs Resort in Pennsylvania with her coach, Ross Hindman. Also a nationally ranked mountain biker, Holly will attend the junior national team's snowboarding camp in Oregon this summer and vie for the world snowboarding title next season. Her sponsors are Sims Snowboards, Spy Goggles, and Revolutions Snowboard Shop.

Oakland Hearing Set To Address Annexation Issue

A public hearing will be held this Monday, April 19, at 7 p.m. at the Oakland Municipal Building to discuss the town's proposed annexation of a number of land parcels located north of town along both sides of Garrett Highway.

The annexation concept has been under discussion for several years, town officials said, noting that several businesses located in that area requested the annexation, which has met all the criteria as set forth in the Maryland Municipal Annexation Procedures Handbook to date.

The annexation proposal was put in motion when a minimum of 25 percent of the residents in the annexation area who are registered Garrett County voters and the same percentage of owners of assessed property in that area consented to the concept, sources said.

The town council passed a resolution afterwards agreeing to continue the process, and Monday's hearing will likely result in either the passage or the rejection of the matter by the council. If the resolution passes on Monday, it would either become effective after 45 days or a citizens' petition could force the issue to referendum within 45 days.

Tire Amnesty Day Set For April 24 At GC Fairgrounds

A Scrap Tire Amnesty Day event will be conducted by the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling on Saturday, April 24, from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. During that one day only, Garrett County residents may bring up to 10 tires per vehicle free of charge to the Garrett County Fairgrounds for disposal. No commercial tires will be accepted.

Persons interested in submitting scrap tires should remember the following important guidelines:

- Garrett County residents only.
- No refuse permit is required to participate.
- No commercial vehicles.
- 10 tires per vehicle maximum.
- Multiple trips per vehicle will not be permitted.
- Tires must be free of dirt, mud, and water.
- Tires may have rims.

The 10-tires-per-vehicle rule will be waived for roadside, stream, or community tire clean-up projects. Interested organizations, municipalities, or community groups must call 301-387-0322 prior to the event to receive an application form and advance approval.

"Tire Amnesty Day will provide a direct benefit to citizens of the state," a spokesperson said. The project was originally conceived to aid county residents by providing a responsible disposal alternative, substantially free of charge, for homeowners who had accumulated a small number of scrap tires prior to the adoption of Maryland's Scrap Tire Law. Through a ban on land filling of tires, that law had forced most local jurisdictions in Maryland to impose a disposal fee for

Garrett Sportaerobic Team Wins Gold; Now To Vie For World Cup

The Garrett County Sportaerobic Team is now also known as Team USA in the wake of the members' overwhelming success at the first ever Youth Sportaerobic National Championships. Held last weekend in Los Angeles, Calif., the competition was dominated by the local team, which consists of 25 local athletes ranging in age from 7 to 17. Out of eight individual, trio, and team categories, the Garrett athletes captured gold medals in six and silver medals in two. The team is trained by Brenda Brosnihan and Lexi Frey.

By winning the gold and silver, the athletes earned the distinction of being the first ever national champions in their divisions and will now represent the United States in the World Cup Sportaerobic competition, to be held in Las Vegas this summer.

"We are proud to have achieved our goal, which was to qualify for the World Cup," said Brosnihan. "Our victory is about much more than a routine on stage or the competitors we face. The team has learned so much from the journey leading up to the contest.

"Now our training will move to the next level, which includes perfecting skills, developing interviewing expertise, and learning how to interact with athletes from other countries. Being the first youth aerobic national champions will provide us with many more opportunities to promote the sport nationwide," she said.

In the varsity division, the Garrett County team swept all three categories, winning gold in each. The team, consisting of Amanda Bell, Andi Bender, Heather Hanline, Brianne Meyers, Sheila Nolan, Bethany Savage, and Kristen Spurrier, outscored all opponents on the way to the gold. The trio team of Amanda Bell, Andi Bender, and Marlana Beitzel proved to be too much for the competition and also captured the gold.

Coach Brosnihan reported that in one of the most exciting categories, the varsity individual, Marlana Beitzel came from behind in the final round of competition to earn the championship.

"We are all so proud of Marlana. She took the stage for the final round in second place and her performance was electrifying," Brosnihan said. "She experienced her personal best and the gold medal is icing on

State Park To Remain Open As Entry Is Rebuilt

Paving and other work at entrance road of Swallow Falls State Park will begin on April 19, according to a release from the Department of Natural Resources. The project, being completed by Frank Arnold Contractors, will include the repaving of the entrance and camp access roads, the construction of a new parking lot entrance, and a permanent contact station.

Some phases of the construction will require the closing of the entrance road, for which a detour will be arranged. The park will remain open for both day use and camping during the entire construction period, which is to be finished by June 17, according to the release.

Road closings and project updates can be obtained by calling the park at 301-334-9180 or by e-mail at hmsp@mail.gcnet.net.

BOE Hears Grant Request, Fine Arts Funding, Teacher Certification Info.

Information on grant proposals to fund technology literacy and early college intervention program was presented to the members of the Garrett County Board of Education Tuesday night during their regular monthly meeting. In addition, the board was informed on local candidates for national teacher certification and a fine arts grant.

TECHNOLOGY GRANT

Charles Trautwein, computer specialist for the board of education, reported on the application for "round three" of the Technology Literacy Challenge Fund grant. The TLCF, providing federal money which is administered by the state, focuses on giving up-dating and enhancing computer use for instruction.

Trautwein outlined for the board the goals set for recipients of TLCF money. They include providing teachers the training and support they need to help all students use computers for education; placing "modern" computers in all classrooms; connecting all classrooms and library media centers to the "information superhighway"; and making effective and engaging software and on-line resources an integral part of every curriculum.

He explained the local program goal for this grant application. "Students will use technology to work collaboratively with other students in and out of their classroom to complete a project or product that meets some curricular end," Trautwein noted.

The objectives and budget for his proposed program were also stipulated for the board in Trautwein's report.

Objective 1 is to continue

NHS Students Take 37 Awards At Science Expo

Northern High School students who participated in the 1999 Western Maryland Regional Science Expo walked away with over half of the awards presented in the seven-school match held last Friday among students from Allegany County and Northern High in Garrett County. The 19 NHS competitors took 37 of 69 honors.

The winners are as follows:

Joshua Neubert earned the overall grand prize of the Regional Science Expo, first place in earth and science, the Navy-Marine Corps science Achievement Award, the Army Certificate of Achievement and backpack, the TAM Award, and the U.S. Meteorological Society Certificate.

Josh Resh was awarded first place in engineering, the AES Warrior Run Young Edison Award $500 scholarship, and the TAM Award.

Shane Russell earned second place in engineering, the AES Warrior Run Young Edison Award $1,000 scholarship, and the TAM Award.

Lisa Beeman was awarded second place in engineering, a U.S. Meteorological Society Certificate, and a Navy-Marine Corps Science Achievement Award.

Others award winners were Audrey Friend, second place in behavior and social science and the Army Top Winner medallion; Taylor Glotfelty, second place in earth and space science, and a TAM Award; and Wendell Beitzel, third place in engineering category and the TAM Award.

Man Arrested On Assault, Deadly Weapon Charges

A Cumberland man was arrested near Deep Creek Lake Friday night and charged with second degree assault and possession of a deadly weapon. The incident occurred at midnight in the parking lot of the Garrett 8 Cinemas on Garrett Highway.

According to a report by Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack, the suspect, Aaron Jay Labutka, 24, Cumberland, argued with the victim, Jenny A. Moran, while in the theater parking lot. Labutka verbally threatened to hurt the victim with a knife, police said.

The suspect was located after having traveled southbound on Route 219 to Paul Friend Road. A buck knife, model 119, was found under the driver's seat in

House Destroyed After Lightning Strike Friday

Lighting was blamed for the cause of a fire that destroyed an unoccupied house along North Ridge Road off Mosser Road on Friday.

Fire fighters from Deep Creek, Accident, Bittinger, and Friendsville responded to the 6 a.m. blaze and found the wood-frame structure and adjoining two-car garage, owned by Pat Roach, practically on the ground. Severe thunderstorms had moved through the area just prior to the discovery of the fire by a neighbor.

Phil Workman, deputy fire chief for the Deep Creek VFC, said that the loss was estimated at $150,000.

The Northern Rescue Squad also sent a unit to the scene. There were no injuries reported.

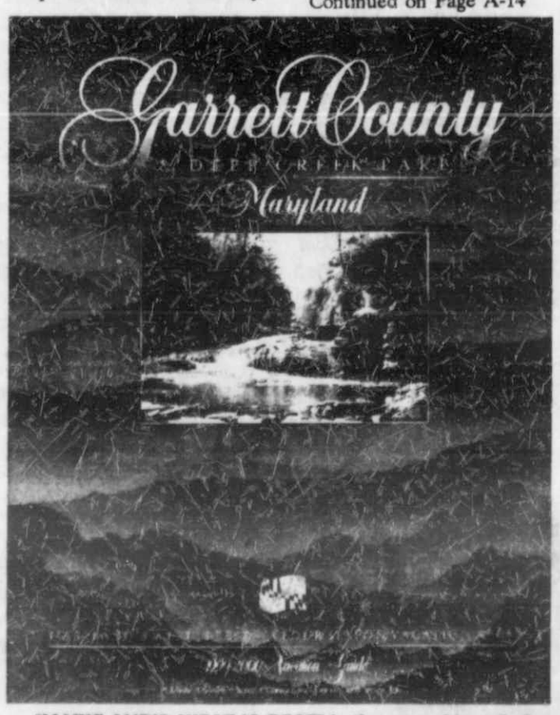
Stop At Finzel Scale Results In $13,129 Fine

The driver of an overloaded truck, stopped at the Finzel Scale House last Friday, was cited for multiple violations and fined a total of $13,129.

A report from the Maryland State Police, Barrack C, Cumberland, stated that at approximately 11:30 a.m. the driver/owner of a vehicle from Freddie Stewart Trucking, West Memphis, Ark., was apprehended at the Finzel facility. The previous day he had reportedly been denied a permit for his load by the State Highway Administration, special hauling permits section.

Weighed at the Finzel scales, the superload (any load over 65 tons) was found to be 190,200 pounds — 95 tons — and 148 feet long. The maximum allowed weight for a non-permitted load in Maryland is 80,000 pounds.

The vehicle, bound for Delaware, was placed out of service temporarily. Scale house supervisor Sgt. Terry Fischer reported that earlier this week the truck was under way again. On Monday a conditional permit was issued and a state police officer escorted the truck to Frederick County, where it awaited another conditional permit, she explained.



"MARYLAND'S WEST IS BEST" is the new slogan being touted by the Garrett Chamber of Commerce, which has announced the arrival of this year's Vacation Guide. The chamber-produced publication opens with 50 pages of advertisement-free informational articles and photography focusing on the many recreational and historical attributes of Garrett County. Chamber executive director Ken Wishnick and the officers of the organization offered high praise for Lance Bell and his staff at Advertising Art Design Inc., which designed and laid out the 164-page book. Advertising sections are this year grouped by business type, and each section includes a reference table of pertinent information about each listed business. The directory of services has this year been placed at the front of the book, a change to allow for easier reference, Wishnick noted. Persons may obtain a free copy of the guide by writing to the chamber at 15 Visitors Center Drive, McHenry, MD 21541 or by calling the office at 301-387-4FUN. The office can also be reached by e-mail at info@garrettchamber.com.

THE FIRST-EVER NATIONAL CHAMPS in youth aerobic competition are Garrett County's very own sportaerobic athletes. The Garrett County Sportaerobic Team, coached by Brenda Brosnihan and Lexi Frey, is now also known as Team USA, having obtained outstanding success at the first ever Youth Sportaerobic National Championships, held last weekend in Los Angeles, Calif. The local group, consisting of 25 local athletes ranging in age from 7 to 17, captured gold medals in six categories and silver medals in two. With this accomplishment, the athletes earned the distinction of being the very first national champions in their divisions. Now the local team will represent the United States in the World Cup Sportaerobic competition, slated in Las Vegas this summer. See story. The photo above was taken shortly after the contest last weekend. In the front, left to right, are Kasie Fratz, Kira Farley, Courtney DiSimone, Melissa Ray, Tara Devine, Kelly Taylor, Katie Nichols, Rachel Margroff, Zak Brosnihan, and Megan Margroff. In the second row, same order, are Coach Brosnihan, Leslie Gaither, Melissa Patterson, Kristen Schefft, Andrea Beachy, Jessie Railey, Jessica Crosco, and Amanda Ray. Third row: Sheila Nolan, Brianne Meyers, Heather Hanline, Bethany Savage, Kristen Spurrier, Marlana Beitzel, Amanda Bell, Andi Bender, and Coach Frey.

Educators Join Employers For PIVOT Meeting

Community business owners and representatives sat down with educators from the Garrett County Board of Education and Garrett Community College to celebrate and discuss the past successes and future possibilities of PIVOT (Partners In Valuable Ongoing Training), now in its 10th year. This partnership project is co-sponsored by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Centering on the School-to-Careers program concepts, employers who participate in the PIVOT program provide hands-on, interactive, customized training for high school students. Present for the meeting held Tuesday at Will O' the Wisp Restaurant were the students from this year's PIVOT experience and their employer-supervisors.

The meeting opened with initial remarks by Dr. Wendell Teets, school superintendent. Also addressing the group were JoAnn Vent, supervisor of Career and Technology Education; Sandy Major of GCC's small business development program; Sandi Flockhart, PIVOT classroom teacher; and David Moe, president of the chamber of commerce.

Each PIVOT student took the podium to outline his or her experiences and outcomes from the program. Students were placed in banking, computer, food service, education, legal, and marine work environments linked to their chosen school pathways.

The program is facing the end of its current 3-year funding stream.

A MAJOR GIFT was contributed recently by a Garrett County resident to the Johns Hopkins University Medical Institutions in Baltimore for research and treatment of heart disease. Frank R. Lancelotta Jr., a resident of Deep Creek Lake and owner of Garrett County Self Storage, presented a check for $25,000 to the hospital's Dana and Albert "Cubby" Broccoli Center for Aortic Diseases. Describing himself as "a very satisfied patient" of Hopkins, Lancelotta underwent open-heart bypass surgery, performed by John Conte, M.D., this past winter. The gift came from the Frank and Josephine Lancelotta Foundation Inc., of which Lancelotta is president. In the photo above, from left, are: Baltimore businessman Lou Grasmick, chairman of the Broccoli Center board and a friend of Lancelotta; Lancelotta; Dr. William Baumgartner, chief cardiac surgeon at Hopkins; and Dr. Vincent Gott, Hopkins surgeon and co-director of the Broccoli Center.

Burglars Strike Glotfelty's Tire Over Weekend

A garage door was apparently forced open by burglars at Glotfelty Enterprises this weekend and numerous tires and a truck were stolen from the Garrett Highway business, according to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation. The truck was subsequently recovered, slightly damaged, after a citizen reported seeing it abandoned along a road in the Keysers Ridge area.

The burglary, which reportedly occurred sometime between 4 p.m. Sunday afternoon and 2:30 a.m Monday morning, took place from a large pole building situated directly behind the main shop. Although further information is pending, the police report indicated that numerous specialty tires were taken with an unknown cumulative value.

The truck, which bore Glotfelty's logo on its door, was recovered on Monday along Devil's Half Acre Road, 100 yards from its access point to Route 219. The ignition was damaged and the dome light was tampered with.

In another burglary investigation, detectives are seeking leads in the theft of stereo equipment from the Jehovah's Witnesses Kingdom Hall at 325 Weber Road. The incident occurred in mid-February when thieves apparently gained entry by breaking in through a back door, and stole a JVC single CD player valued at $200 and an unknown brand dual cassette player valued at $150. A locked office file cabinet was pried open causing $30 damage, and the damage to the back door was estimated at $25.

Hearing Set For Man Charged With Firing At Subjects

An Oakland man arrested last month for allegedly firing a shotgun in the direction of a party of snowmobilers will face charges brought by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation in district court this coming week.

Daniel Thomas Gnegy, 45, is charged with two counts of first degree assault and five counts of reckless endangerment which stemmed from the March 7 incident. Five snowmobilers riding three vehicles through a field off LeMoyne King Road reported that Gnegy fired a shotgun in their direction from his residence. One pellet allegedly hit one of the subjects in the leg and another pellet reportedly struck a second subject in the back of the helmet.

Following an investigation Gnegy was arrested by GBI personnel on March 19 and subsequently released on a $25,000 unsecured bond.

A pair of Swanton men were arrested on assault charges by sheriff's deputies Saturday after separate domestic-related incidents at their respective homes.

Rodney Gene Guthrie, 32, faces a second-degree assault charge for allegedly striking his wife during an argument at their residence. The sheriff's report cited alcohol as a factor in the incident. Guthrie was released after posting a $300 bond.

William Henry Collins, 31, was arrested after reportedly striking his wife during an argument at their home. He was also charged with second-degree assault, and was released on his own recognizance.

A fistfight between two inmates in the Garrett County Detention Center on Sunday led to second degree assault charges being filed against each party. Kenneth William Hawkins, 32, Oakland, and Jeffrey Lee Lape, 19, Frackiville, Pa., were separated without injury to either combatant.

Oakland MVA Office To Close For Remodeling

The Oakland office of the Maryland Vehicle Administration, located along Maryland Highway next to Browning's Foodland, will be closed today, April 15, Tuesday, April 20, and Thursday, April 22, for remodeling renovation work. The MVA office will reopen for normal business at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, April 27.

The MVA On Wheels bus will be available to customers on Monday, April 19, and Tuesday, April 20, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Oakland MVA parking lot, located at 400 Weber Road. The bus provides driver licensing services, including license and registration renewals, tag returns, photo identification cards, and motorists with disabilities placards.

The motor vehicle administrative hearings scheduled at the Oakland office on Wednesday, April 21 will be held at the Garrett County government building at 203 South Fourth Street.

MVA's Oakland office provides driver's licensing services and is normally open Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

1999 Legislative Issues Wrap-Up Slated April 22

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce will co-sponsor a 1999 legislative issues wrap-up breakfast for the Garrett and Allegany county region on April 22 at 7:30 a.m. at the Downtown Holiday Inn, Cumberland.

The breakfast meeting will feature a panel of local legislators, Speaker of the House Casper Taylor, Senator John Hafer, Delegate George Edwards, and Delegate Kevin Kelly. The guest speaker for the event will be Champe McCulloch, the executive director of the Maryland Chamber of Commerce. He will be accompanied by his policy team.

Topics of discussion are to include the results of the Maryland Business Agenda during the recently ended Maryland General Assembly. All business representatives in Garrett and Allegany are encouraged to attend.

The cost for the buffet breakfast will be $10 per person. For reservation information, persons may contact Charlene Pullias at the chamber office, 301-387-4386.

If annexed, Oakland would extend services, including water, sewerage, and police protection, to the area, and would potentially benefit from an expanded tax base. The property is designated as Town Center, and is expected to experience accelerated development.

"Many commercial interests find it more attractive to locate in an area that provides services," commented Oakland town council member Jay Moyer.

ARTS COUNCIL SETS SUITE FOR CELTIC HARP — The Garrett County Arts Council is taking reservations for a free performance of Heartstrings and Friends in a performance of Sylvia Woods' Brandiswhiere Suite for Celtic Harp to be presented at Our Town Theatre in Oakland on Sunday afternoon, April 18, at 2 p.m. The musical suite features four celtic harps, two flutes, snare drum, synthesizer, tin whistle, and bells. The presenters include, from the left in the front row, Chrisina DeFusco, Elizabeth DeFusco, and Lydia Lechliter, and in the back row Amanda DeFusco, Johanna Wendall, director Lynne Barnes, Abby Maloy, A.J. DeFusco, and narrator Roger Dale. Reservations may be made by calling the arts council at 301-387-3121.

CYRANO DE BERGERAC SHOW SLATED — The romantic drama Cyrano de Bergerac will open Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's 1999 season on Friday, April 23, at 8 p.m. in the Garrett Community College auditorium. The play was written by French playwright Edmund Rostand over 100 years ago. This show is a production of the National Players, the resident touring company of the University of Maryland, and is being presented as part of the troupe's 50th anniversary tour. Actors Bill Gillett (Ragueneau), Patrick Bussink (Ligniere), and Joe Hoover (Marquis De Cuigy) are pictured as they present the classic in which a man, self-conscious of his enormous nose, tries to court a woman he adores by using a stand-in boyfriend. Tickets can be purchased in advance at the GLAF office (301-387-3082) Monday through Friday, 10 a.m.-1 p.m. by credit card, or by mailing a check payable to GLAF: P.O. Box 151, McHenry, MD 21541. Admission will be $8 for adults and $4 for youth 18 and under. For this performance, students of GCC will also be admitted for $4.

March Grand Jury Report Continues

The April 8 issue of The Republican contained the majority of the March Term Grand Jury report. The following is the remainder, held out of last week's issue because of space problems.

County Commissioners

Garrett County Commissioners Ernest Gregg, Wendell Beitzel, and Frederick Holliday met with the Grand Jury. The commissioners are currently going through the budget review process. They said it is difficult to attempt to meet $10 million in additional budget requests with only $2 million in additional revenue.

Although information publicized prior to their elections concerning the county's financial picture was accurate as to its operating expenses, the financial picture is not so good when reviewing the county's current debts, the jurors were told. The county has approximately $18 million in debt, $4.5 million of which is guaranteed monies borrowed by and for the hospital. Although the county is not repaying this last amount, the fact that the county guarantees the debt impacts the county's bond rating, according to the report.

The commissioners cited economic development as their number one priority, with benefits including both an increase in jobs and an increase in the county's tax base. The commissioners said they want to pay special attention to the businesses already located in the county, as well as attract new business. They have restored $250,000 to the county's revolving loan fund for business development, which will be matched by the state.

School construction was addressed next. While acknowledging that the auxiliary gym at Northern High School is needed and renovations to the Southern High School gym and cafeteria are desirable, they said they cannot fund all of these projects at the same time. Looking to the state for construction money for Northern High School is a good possibility, they noted.

The renovations at Southern High School will have to be completed over a number of years. The commissioners said they desire all of the work to be done during their four-year terms.

There was discussion concerning issues surrounding domestic violence and the funding for the Dove Center. The major reason the commissioners have declined to provide funding so far is the precedent this would establish for other non-profit organizations to make similar requests, they said. Before they would fund this agency, the commissioners would look to existing county agencies to fulfill some of the functions of the center, they said.

The commissioners cited the receipt of $850,000 in state monies to build a new building for the health department that would allow all of its offices to be under one roof. A steering committee headed by health officer Rodney Glotfelty is considering a variety of sites for the building, including two in the Oakland area and one near Garrett Community College. (The committee has since recommended the GCC site.)

When discussing the Dove Center and health department, the commissioners noted the difficulties they face when grant money that is used to start programs ends and the agencies look to the county to include the program in the county's budget.

The commissioners at this time are not planning to phase out or abolish personal property tax. The former board voted to do this, but it is not feasible at this time when they are attempting to limit county debt, they said.

The Deep Creek Lake sale, which has since come to fruition, was then discussed by the commissioners and jury members.

Beitzel expressed his concern for the local family farms in the county and the difficulties they continue to face. He is proposing some agricultural preservation measures. This led to a discussion of county-wide zoning. The commissioners indicated that they have mixed thoughts on this issue and mentioned the possibility of including this as a referendum issue in an upcoming election.

The Grand Jury members extended gratitude to Judge James L. Sherbin; Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney; Stephen Russell, court bailiff; David Martin, circuit court clerk; Brian Schlossnagle, deputy clerk; Ruth Warnick, court stenographer; Kim Becker, secretary to Welch; Willard K. Hayden, foreperson; William F. Robinson, clerk; Donald W. Sincell, clerk; Kenneth S. Romie, doorman; and all other officials for their cooperation.

MAKE WAY FOR THE YOUNG CHILDREN — The Garrett County commissioners gave up their seats for a little while Tuesday to make room for three smallish guests who were on hand to help the county celebrate the Week of the Young Child, sponsored each April by the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC). The purpose of the designation is to focus public attention on the needs of young children and their families and to support the early childhood programs and services that meet those needs. The NAEYC established the Week of the Young Child in 1971, recognizing that the experiences of early childhood years (birth through age 8) lay the foundation for youngsters' success in school and later life. Representatives from Head Start, the health department, the Office for Children, Youth, and Families, and other child advocate organizations met with the commissioners for the signing of the proclamation to designate the week of April 18-24. The theme of the celebration is "Early years are learning years . . . Make them count!" Pictured left to right as they sign important county documents (perhaps mandating snack time) are Blake Dever, 5, Lauren Hawtin, 5, and Kimberly Hawtin, 3. Standing in the same order are Pamela Masters, owner/director of Little Tykes Day Care; Patrick Damon, child care manager for Community Action; Commissioner Wendell Beitzel; Earleen Beckman, health department's Healthy Families; Commissioner Fred Holliday; Suzanne Ryan, early intervention teacher; Debra Barnard, licensing specialist for the Child Care Administration; Mary Beckman, director of Head Start; and Commissioner Ernest Gregg.

Man Sentenced For Driving Boat While Impaired

In a Garrett County Circuit Court trial last week, Judge James Sherbin found 31-year-old David Ray Bumgarner, McHenry, guilty of operating a motor boat while under the influence of alcohol. The judge sentenced the defendant to 30 days in the local jail and fined him $500.

Bumgarner had been charged last July by Natural Resources Police, who were investigating an incident in which Bumgarner was the operator of a boat that nearly struck a woman water skiing in the southern part of Deep Creek Lake.

Bumgarner was also charged with reckless operation, to which he pleaded guilty in district court and subsequently paid a fine.

Oakland is Best Site...

We have worked hard over the past few decades to be a Garrett County newspaper, and not just an Oakland newspaper, but we feel obligated to state the following opinion about the location of the new Garrett County Health Department building even though we may be blamed for showing favoritism to Oakland.

We have read and listened to all of the reasoning cited by the health department building project steering committee appointed by the county commissioners, which has concluded that the best site for the new health department building is in McHenry adjacent to Garrett Community College. We have also listened to the ideas and thoughts of others who believe it should remain in Oakland, and we have concluded that the commissioners should reject the recommendation of the committee.

Like it or not, Oakland is the county seat, and like it or not, well over two-thirds of the county's population resides south of the Deep Creek Lake bridge. Plus, nearly every other county agency that has connections with or requires the services of the health department is based in Oakland, including the hospital, the sheriff's office/jail, the Garrett County Lighthouse, the Office for Children, Youth, and Families, Area Agency on Aging, Hospice, social services, and a number of county offices/agencies located in the courthouse. Within the health department itself, the Addictions and Mental Health office reports that over 70% of its clientele resides in the Oakland area. A McHenry location would mean extensive extra travel problems, for the majority of both staff and clients. Even with a McHenry location, transportation problems would still exist for persons residing in Friendsville and Grantsville, even though the site would be closer for them.

We call our readers' attention to the letters on this page written by Oakland's Main Street Program coordinator citing major problems with grant funding opportunities if the health department is pulled out of a municipality.

We also have concerns about the future expansion possibilities of the college being severely limited by its giving up property for the health department.

The following is an idea that is not ours, but one we like. The county commissioners should ask Governor Glendening to give the National Guard Armory to the county. The $875,000 that the county has received for use toward the project could be used to renovate the armory and make it the new health department. The site has parking space, all services (water, electricity, etc.), covered space for county vehicles, and room to expand, plus is central to all of the aforementioned agencies/offices.

Further, out of concern for our northern Garrett County residents who are currently having to travel to Oakland for health department services, we believe the county should pursue additional state funding (we're told it's available) for a building in the Accident area that could house not only various staff from the health department, but also many other county offices (treasurer, planning and zoning, clerk of court, etc.), at least one or two days per week. Equipment such as telephones, copiers, conference space, as well as some staff (receptionists) could be shared. This would far better serve the northern area residents for a variety of needs, not just health department related.

The logic of placing the county health department in McHenry would be similar to that of pulling the Smithsonian Institution out of Washington, D.C., and placing it in the middle of Kansas, so that it would be equidistant for all citizens in the contiguous 48 states.

We hope the county commissioners reject the recommendation of the steering committee.

P.S. How about Garrett County's young people, who have won a number of national championships in the past few weeks?!: Amanda Stewart on trombone, Holly Kuhn in snowboarding, and Marlana Beitzel and the rest of Brenda Brosnihan's young athletes who won lots of gold at the national aerobics championships. Also, Scott Wildesen has qualified for the eastern nationals in youth wrestling. This level of accomplishment from a rural area like Garrett County is nothing short of astounding, and the parents, friends, and various other support personnel in the lives of these local children should be commended. You make us so incredibly proud!

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Once again I write on behalf of Western Maryland Citizens Against Lawsuit Abuse to applaud the efforts of Chief Judge Robert M. Bell, of the Court of Appeals of Maryland, to address issues of concern with the justice system in Maryland. His recently announced formation of the Council on Jury Use and Management is to be commended.

The fact that the council will be headed by Allegany County Circuit Court Judge J. Frederick Sharer gives Western Maryland a greater stake in the outcome.

We at WMCALA have often stated that jury duty is service to our country. It supports the checks and balances framed by our three branches of government. Enhancing the system to make jury service more participatory and user friendly may well also solve a long-standing problem with voter registration.

Sincerely,
Linda C. Irvin-Craig
Executive Director

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Northern Garrett Band Boosters, I would like to thank those individuals who made our Rock-A-Thon a success. We really appreciate the support shown by the community in helping our children in fund raising activities.

We would like to ask for continued support from the community by informing them of another activity being held this Saturday, April 17. Our local Deep Creek Lake, Friendsville, and Grantsville Lions clubs are sponsoring a Las Vegas Night at the Grantsville American Legion. Doors will open at 8 p.m. and the fun will continue until 1 a.m. The proceeds from the evening will be applied towards our "New Uniform Fund" which is a top priority this year, as our uniforms have seen better days. Please mark your calendars and plan on attending. Support the Lions clubs as they support us!

To the Editor:

There are a lot of people in Garrett County who volunteer their time to various clubs and organizations. The week of April 18 to the 24th is National Volunteer Week. Without volunteers there'd be a lot of things left undone. These people work hard and they all deserve a heartfelt thank you.

As with many clubs, the Grantsville 4-H Club has been blessed with wonderful volunteers. They give their time and energy so freely. They are there for us anytime and are willing to go that extra mile to help us succeed. They take pride in what they do and set a good example. Our hats go off to Mary Ann and Bob Rizer, Sally Weimer, Karen Hutzel, and Alice Hevner. Thank you all for being such caring people. We'd also like to thank our parents, who help with our club activities, and the Casselman Valley Sportsman's Club for letting us use their club to hold our meetings.

Thank you,
Grantsville 4-H Club members Sara Green, Dan Garlitz, Crystal Colmer, Joey Colmer, Bobbi Beitzel, Doug Weimer, Autumn Rizer, Ben Rizer, Kelly Wilhelm, Aaron Wilhelm, Amanda Wilhelm, J.D. Hardesty, Becki Bowser, Kimmie Bowser, Kriana Adams, Lauren McIntosh, Tanya McIntosh, and Derek Hummel.

To the Editor:

One way to boost the winter economy of Garrett County is with an interconnected snowmobile trail system. More than one million dollars could be brought into the county by 500 snowmobilers spending $150 per day on food, gas, room, and parts over a 20-day rideable winter season.

What is needed is an interconnected series of snowmobile trails that would run through several state parks, across some private property (with consent), and along county roads at several points. There are few extensive snowmobile trails in the county. A snowmobile club is needed in Garrett County to organize this venture and to gain the cooperation of the parks, the landowners, the business community, and the legislators. As an example, there are 1,200 miles of interconnected snowmobile trails in Ontario, Canada.

At present, although there are large numbers of snowmobiles in the three-state area, there is no place to ride for a day in Garrett County. We need a club, and persons from motels, restaurants, state parks, and snowmobile dealers to show interest and become involved.

I will be pleased to organize the club and the interconnected snowmobile trails in Garrett County and can be reached at: Frank J. Vandall, 1787 Stonecliff Court, Decatur, GA 30033, or I can be reached in Swanton this summer.

Yours very truly,
Frank J. Vandall

To the Editor:

All right, I've had enough. I've been skateboarding frequently for going on four years now. My friends and I have been kicked out of every possible location. Why? We are all "bad seeds." This public opinion is ignorant. All groups have a few bad seeds. Do football teams get punished for the actions of one individual? Or, better yet, for the actions of a fan?

On Monday, March 29, after school my friends and I decided to skate out in front of the school. We were forced to skate here because, once again, there is no where else to go. (Despite any rumors, we were not kicked off the Oak Park Church parking lot. We were forced to leave because of insurance reasons.)

Anyway, as the skateboarders skated, spectators came along and watched. We skated for approximately 15 minutes and then the principal kicked us off the grounds. Prior to this we had been given permission, by her, to skate there. She said the reason that we had to leave was because someone was playing basketball in the gym during softball and that there had been smoking on school grounds. Neither of these offenses had involved any of the skateboarders. It was the "followers"; the ones who came to watch. They are not our guests; we didn't break any rules, so why punish us?

There is only one way for us to solve this, and it is costly. We need a facility, a spot for us, where insurance is not a big issue or where insurance can be paid. In order to do this, we need support. We have made some progress, but this procedure is very complex. We need a place with supervision so others can't ruin it for us.

If anyone has any advice, comments, or wants to help, you can reach me by mail and I'll get back to you.

Thanks for your time,
Tim McDaniel

To the Editor:

On March 26 of this year, I, along with James Zimmerman, Tim Clark, James Cuppett and Drs. Karl Schwalm and Daniel Miller, were recognized by the Oakland Elks Lodge #2481 as Citizens of the Year. I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to the Elks for their thoughtfulness and generous support in this endeavor. The Elks are a fantastic organization and a great asset to our community. They themselves are deserving of recognition.

I would like to clarify a statement that was previously reported. The Dove Center is, without a doubt, a necessity within our community, one that provides countless vital services to victims of domestic abuse. These services are specialized and cannot be found at any other agency within the county. I have been fortunate to have worked closely with the center's professional staff, and I will continue to assist in any way for the continuation of services to victims of abuse. However, I was not involved in the establishment of the Dove Center and I can attest that its operations are under the most capable and professional staff available. The center has been extremely beneficial to the police and other county agencies, but most of all, to victims of abuse.

I am extremely honored to be recognized by the Elks. I am, however, convinced that there are no less than a dozen other police officers in Garrett County who are just as deserving of this recognition. The police in Garrett County are the most professional, well trained. dedicated police in the state. We are proud to serve the citizens of this county. National Police Memorial Day, May 15, is one day of the year that we should all reflect upon the ultimate sacrifices made by police. Thank you.

To the Editor:

We are writing in regard to the letter to the editor from T.M. Lazar published in the April 8, 1999, issue of The Republican. We were in attendance at the PTA meeting held on March 8 and would like to express our thoughts on the presentation to the PTA by T.M. Lazar.

1. The information presented was, unfortunately, lacking in clear detailed facts as to what occurrences were being challenged.

2. It was unclear as to what Lazar demanded of the PTA as to immediate action to take, based solely on apparently Lazar's self-appointed investigation which appeared to be carried out with emotional passion not proportionate to the alleged issue at hand (school teachers occasionally giving snacks to their elementary students as treats/incentives/rewards). It also appeared that the cause was pursued personally without much tact, regard, or respect to the teachers, principal, or parents — which naturally led to a skeptical audience.

3. We were advised that Lazar was appointed to the school nutrition committee (prior to this issue at hand). We wonder what constructive input has occurred and if school lunches may be improved upon, which would benefit a multitude of the public school children.

4. At the meeting, a committee of responsible educated people was appointed to study Lazar's concern. Evidently, Lazar did not have the patience or trust to await the committee's findings and subsequent recommendations, but chose to seek a public forum such as the letter to the editor. We believe that Lazar's letter may cause unnecessary concern by and for various school parents and faculty.

In closing, we feel that anyone pursuing school-related issues should do such in a responsible caring manner, with respect for others and their positions, trusting that democracy will bring acceptable outcomes. This, too, may be an example to our school children.

Thank you, Mr. Editor, for printing this letter.

and other concerned parents

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to the Garrett County Commissioners requested that it appear in this column.

Garrett County Commissioners:

Please consider this as a sincere letter of concern about recent recommendations made regarding the proposed site for the Garrett County Health Department. It is my feeling, and that of many others with whom this subject has been discussed, that any decision to build this facility away from the county seat would be a disservice, not only to the greater Garrett County Community, but especially to the very people whom the health department is designed to serve. In addition, the move could make Oakland's efforts at revitalization all the more laborious.

As you are aware, the majority of the clients to be served by the health department reside in the 21550 zip code area, which primarily consists of the Oakland, Mtn. Lake Park, Deer Park and Loch Lynn area. Locating the health department in the Oakland area makes sense to the department's clients, not only because of distance factors, but also because of existing infrastructure to support those clients. Located in the Oakland area are the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and Garrett County Community Action Inc., as well as most of the county's ancillary medical services such as physician and dentist offices.

Any developing relationship with Garrett Community College (GCC) can be readily accomplished by the use of technology designed for such matters. In this regard, please consider the fact that the Armory in Oakland possesses a full service, distance learning facility. This high-tech equipment has been specifically designed to interface with similar equipment at the college and would readily supplement the easy and relatively traffic-free drive from Oakland to the school. It would be utilization of the Armory's and GCC's expensive technology in exactly the manner for which it was designed.

A final concern about removing the health department from the Garrett County seat is that it works

Building Permit Process Explained

by Scott Winters
Garrett County Planning & Zoning

With warm weather just around the corner many home owners will be thinking of adding that new room or deck to their homes while first-time home buyers will be looking to build their dream home. The Office of Building Permits and Inspections, part of the Garrett County Planning & Zoning Office, would like everyone to know that since August 1, 1997, building permits and inspections have been required by law for new construction as well as remodeling projects. Work done by the homeowner does not eliminate the need for a permit and inspections.

The information described below will need to be submitted before a building permit can be processed and will help speed up the application procedure.

1. The applicant's full name, mailing address, and home phone number.

2. Address at the project location or enough information to develop a new address if one does not exist; ie., distance to next driveway and setback distance from the road. A site plan of the property with proposed driveway and structure location will be acceptable.

3. The lot number or parcel number if one is assigned.

4. If this project is a new structure what is its intended use?

5. Dimensions and square footage of building (from building and/or floor plans supplied to the Permits office at the time of application).

6. Type of exterior on the structure; ie., siding, brick, stone, etc.

7. Contractor(s) name(s) and license numbers(s). Work not done by the homeowner must be done by a licensed contractor, electrician, or plumber.

8. Will the structure have a basement? A garage?

9. What type of heat? Any air conditioning? How about a fireplace?

10. How many bathrooms? Multiple bathrooms may require more than one water heater.

11. What's the contract price?

12. Did you buy the property you will build on within the last year? If so, whom was it purchased from and when?

Several other agencies may be involved in the building process such as the Health Dept., Roads Dept., etc. Approval and/or permits will need to be obtained from the other agencies prior to issuance of a final building permit.

Typically, new construction will require a minimum of five structural, three plumbing, and three electrical inspections. Remodeling projects may require the same number of inspections, but in both cases these can vary, depending upon the complexity of the job and other agencies involved.

To apply for a building permit, come to Room 307 on the third floor of the "old" Courthouse in Oakland, Monday through Friday, 8:30-4:30, or for more information call 301-334-1920.

GC Job Fair To Feature Over 40 Employers At GCC Saturday

Firms Considering Grantsville Locations On Hand

by Stacie Haskiell
GCC Career Placement Coordinator

The eighth annual Garrett County Job Fair will be held this Saturday, April 17, from noon to 3 p.m. at Garrett Community College. Participants may arrive for registration beginning at noon in the GCC Student Assistance Center. This year's Job Fair brings over 40 employers from four states, with a variety of full-time, part-time, and seasonal positions available.

Two new employers, Merkle Response Services and Robosson Supply, are considering locating in northern Garrett County and will be attending the Job Fair for possible recruitment.

Merkle Response Services is one of the largest response processing centers serving the non-profit community in the country. The company processes over 22 million documents yearly and utilizes both scanning and keying methods for updating files. Merkle Response has a strategic alliance with First National Bank of Maryland, which offers its clients assistance in managing the fiscal side of their organization. Merkle Response will be recruiting for possible positions related to full-time and part-time mail processing as well as 10 key and data entry operators.

Robosson Supply is a manufacturer and distributor of aluminum and vinyl building materials. The company plans to service the area with custom shutters, aluminum gutters with matching accessories, and vinyl railing. Robosson Supply will be recruiting for possible positions as managers, manufacturers, delivery drivers, and outside sales positions.

"We are hopeful that active participation from students and community members will have a positive impact on the decision of each company as to whether or not they choose Garrett County for their expansion efforts," said Stacie Haskiell, GCC career placement coordinator.

Other participating employers in this year's Job Fair are: U.S. Air Force, AmeriCorps/GC Health Department; Pressley Ridge Schools; Woodmen of the World; U.S. Navy; U.S. Army; Financial Computer Support Inc. (FCSI); Mid Atlantic Challenge School; Savage River Lodge; Garrett Home Care; Wisp Resort Hotel; Hallmark Engraving; Black Bear Tavern; Sheetz; TDEC; Wisp Food Beverage; GRIC Community Integrated Systems; MicroWorks; McClive's; Goodwill Mennonite Home; Point View Inn; Food Lion; Deer Valley YMCA; Lake Pointe Inn; Smiley's Pizzeria; Diesel Institute of America; First United Bank & Trust; Deep Creek Outfitters; Silver Tree Inn; Dr. Willy's Seafood Restaurant; TARGET (Lodge at Sawmill Hollow); Hobby House Press; Deep Creek Brewing; Western Correctional Institution; ACT Personnel; Railey Mountain Lake Vacations; Girl Scouts of America, Pennsylvania; and Garrett Community College.

Those attending the Job Fair are encouraged to dress for an interview and arrive with an application or résumé. Applications will be available at the Job Fair and can be copied at a cost of 5 cents per page. For more information interested persons may call 301-387-3132 or 301-387-3080.

JIM AND JESSE McREYNOLDS and the Virginia Boys, legends of the Grand Ole Opry, will be among the performers at a bluegrass and gospel music concert slated for 8 p.m. on Friday, May 7, at Southern High School. "Paradise," "Diesel on My Tail," "Better Times A'Coming," "Cotton Mill Man," "Memphis," and "Sweet Little Miss Blue Eyes" are among the top-of-the-chart hits recorded by the duo during their 35 years of performing. Nominated for a Grammy award was their album, Sons From the Home Place. The concert will also feature the Lewis Family (who will be pictured next week) and Luke McKnight. The program is being sponsored by the Southern Garrett Band Boosters. Advance tickets are now available at Englander's Pharmacy in Oakland, Bill's Marine Service at Deep Creek Lake, the Plaza Drug Mart in Kingwood, and Cannon's Ace Hardware in Keyser, or by calling 301-387-9275.

Children's Book Donations Sought By Health Dept.

Donations of children's books for age levels up to 5 years old will be sought beginning next week for the "Books U Recycle Project." (BURP). Donated books will be made available for participating families in the Healthy Families Garrett County program.

Coordinated by AmeriCorps members at the Garrett County Health Department, the BURP program operates in cooperation with several county elementary schools and is open to donations from the public as well. Books will be accepted from Monday, April 19, through Monday, May 10.

Healthy Families Garrett County is a home visitation program of the health department that provides parents with assistance and support as they raise their young children. The free program is available to all expecting parents and covers a variety of topics including nutrition, breastfeeding, and ensuring child safety.

"The donated books will be given to children in the Healthy Families Garrett County program," a spokesperson said. "Research shows that parents who read to their children improve their child's ability to talk and understand language, and increase their child's memory and listening skills, giving them a foundation for success in school and in life."

A collection box for the BURP book drive will be available at the following elementary schools: Accident, Broad Ford, Dennett Road, Friendsville, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, and Yough Glades. Students from both Northern and Southern middle schools wrapped the collection boxes and made posters, and additional assistance was provided by the Ruth Enlow Library, which made a donation of books.

Interested persons can drop off book donations at the health department's offices located along Garrett Highway north of Oakland and along Maryland Highway east of Mtn. Lake Park. For further information interested persons can call Jacqueline Ross at 301-533-0001 or 301-895-5017.

Team Wins

the cake."

"Entering the finals in second place was actually an advantage because it freed me up to give it my all. I had nothing to lose," said Beitzel.

In the junior varsity category, the team consisting of Andrea Beachy, Jessica Crosco, Leslie Gaither, Melissa Patterson, Jessie Railey, Amanda Ray, and Kristen Schefft easily outscored the competition, earning the gold medal. Brosnihan said another extremely exciting contest was that of Jessie Railey, who was barely edged out for the gold by .002 (two one-hundredths) of a point. Jessie did win the silver, which also qualifies her for the World Cup competition.

The junior category was also swept by the Garrett County athletes. A trio with members Courtney DiSimone, Katie Nichols, and Kelly Taylor captured the gold with a thrilling performance, the coaches reported. Placing second and winning the silver in the trio division was the group of Zak Brosnihan, Kasie Fratz, and Megan Margroff. The junior team of Tara Devine, Courtney DiSimone, Kira Farley, Megan Margroff, Rachel Margroff, Katie Nichols, Melissa Ray, and Kelly Taylor easily defeated its competitors on the way to earning the national championship.

The top scorers in each division earned the right to perform their routines during the adult National Aerobic Championships, which will be shown on ESPN at 9 p.m. on April 20. The local athletes attaining that honor were Varsity Individual Champion Marlana Beitzel and Junior Trio Champions Courtney DiSimone, Katie Nichols, and Kelly Taylor.

"This dream was realized by not only the competitors this weekend, but all the past Aerobic Diehards who paved the road for this success," stated Coach Lexi Frey. "Their hard work promoting this sport in the past has led us to this point. We really owe all our success to the tremendous support we received from family, friends, and the community. Without their support, the fund-raisers, and all the donations we received, this trip would not have been possible."

"When our buses pulled into Accident on Monday and all our family and friends were there to greet us, it was really special," said team member Bethany Savage.

"Our team had so much support," varsity member Brianne Meyers added. "The parents were wearing T-shirts and spirit buttons, and they were waving signs and cheering fiercely. We had the best and loudest fan support and it really helped us during the competition."

Brosnihan said the trip was more than competition — it was a life experience. For many of the young athletes, it was the first time they had flown in a plane. More excitement for the local entourage came as the famed Dr. Patch Adams (the real one) sat on the plane next to team member Sheila Nolan.

"Not only did he have a great personality, but he stressed the importance in loving each other and pursuing our dreams," Nolan said.

"Patch Adams was very good with our kids," Brosnihan added. "They were all star struck and insisted on pictures, autographs, and conversation. He was very patient and understanding.

"It was a great experience for all the athletes and the journey has just begun," the coach continued. "The World Cup in July is the ultimate event in this sport, and Garrett County will be proudly representing the United States."

GOOFING WITH PATCH ADAMS — Kelly Taylor and the rest of her teammates on the winning Garrett County Sportaerobic Team had an added bonus to their recent trip to California, as they happened to be on the same airplane as the famous Dr. Patch Adams. Adams and his unconventional approach to the doctor-patient relationship were the subject of a recent movie, starring Robin Williams as the Adams character. Taylor and the physician are pictured as they conjure up their best goofy faces. Brenda Brosnihan, coach of the team, said the doctor was kind to the local youth, giving them ample opportunity for some silly photography as well as some serious talk about being good to one another. See story.

Motorcycle Ride Ends In Jail For Grantsville Man

A Grantsville man arrested on Sunday is charged with taking a motorcycle from a McHenry residence, according to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Dewayne Anthony Holliday, 19, faces charges of third degree burglary, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, malicious destruction of property, and driving an unregistered and uninsured vehicle.

Holliday allegedly entered the residence of James Eston Sherbin and removed a motorcycle from the home's garage. While driving without the owner's knowledge Holliday reportedly wrecked the vehicle, then returned it to the garage in an apparent attempt to portray that nothing had happened.

Holliday was released from the Garrett County Detention Center after posting a $10,000 bond.

The family requests that memorials be directed to St. Mary's Catholic Church, Pocahontas.

Adorable Adoptables

"IF YOU ADOPT US, WE'LL ADOPT YOU!" - This trio is among the current residents of the Garrett County Animal Shelter looking for human companionship.* The male mixed breed mutt (and we mean that in a nice way) shown at the top, who bears a striking resemblance to Benji of film fame, is tan colored with black markings, has shaggy long hair, and is described as very obedient. The mixed collie and malamute male at the below left is black with tan markings and is 2 to 3 years old. The domestic short-haired cat is gray with white trim and is between 7 and 11 months of age. (*Potential owners must be housebroken and get along well with animals.)

STEVEN R. SCHUSTER

A memorial service for Steven Richard Schuster, 68, Gormania, W.Va., who died Wednesday, March 24, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, is set for Saturday, April 24, at St. Peter's Catholic Church, 208 S. Fourth Street, Oakland. Father Parsons will officiate at the 11 a.m. service.

COMMEMORATING HOLY WEEK - Faith communities around Garrett County commemorated the events of Holy Week during the Easter season. In addition to the Easter egg hunts for children and visits with the Easter bunny, were dramatizations of the moments most sacred in Christianity. The last supper that Jesus shared with his followers on the night before his death was depicted by members of seven different congregations in the Kitzmiller community, under the direction of Carol Sweitzer, Diane Paugh, and Vickie Fletcher. Between the hours of noon and 3 p.m. on a chilly, gloomy Good Friday, members of the Cherry Grove Church of the Brethren, near Grantsville, participated in a re-enactment of the crucifixion of Jesus.

Missionary To Present Program About Bosnia

Don Stephens, a musician and missionary, will provide an evening of music and storytelling at Faith Evangelical Free Church in Mtn. Lake Park on Saturday, April 24, at 7 p.m. Stephens will focus on his recent mission trip to Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The former Westernport resident has served as a missionary with Hawaii-based Youth With a Mission (YWAM) for the past four years, traveling in Japan, Indonesia, Brazil, Costa Rica, Philippines, Mexico, and, most recently, Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Stephens is a graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan College, where he majored in music ministry. Having been a professional musician since the age of 13, he has been able to use music extensively in his missions work, according to a spokesperson.

"Don views his music both as a tool for evangelism and as a gift for worship," the spokesperson said.

The performance is free and open to the public.

Senior Assistance, Information Free At Outreach Sites

Flowery Vale Senior Center, Accident, and Grantsville Senior Center have been designated as Senior Information and Assistance (I&A) outreach sites. Lynda Weeks, Senior I&A program coordinator, will be available from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. on the first Tuesday of every month at Flowery Vale Senior Center. She will be at the Grantsville Senior Center on the second Thursday of every month from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

The dates for the May visits will be May 4 in Accident and May 13 in Grantsville.

In addition to providing general information about programs and services available to seniors, Weeks will help fill out applications and forms. This service is not limited to those who attend the centers on a regular basis. Everyone over the age of 60 is encouraged to take advantage of this free service.

I&A services are also available to the homebound elderly. Anyone who is unable to get out to the centers to access this assistance may call the number listed below to request and be qualified for a home visit.

Anyone in need of specialized information or needing forms delivered to the center may call 301-334-9431, ext. 140, or toll-free 1-800-877-8403.

The Senior Information and Assistance program is a part of the Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., Area Agency on Aging.

PRESENTING THE PAST - A retrospective of Oakland's history, 150 Years of Oakland, has been published to commemorate the town's sesquicentennial anniversary. The past is brought to life in the pages of old photographs of familiar landmarks and the well-researched documentary by Rev. John Grant, local historian and editor of the Garrett County Historical Society's publication The Glades Star. Thumbing through the book one may reminisce on the centennial celebration of 1949 and daily life in a bygone time. Stories of homes, businesses, residents, and visitors of long ago come to life for today's readers through the words of Rev. Grant. One year in the writing, the book has at last been published by the Garrett County Historical Society and is currently on sale at the museum along Second Street in Oakland for $20. In the photo Rev. Grant, left, presents "a first edition" of the publication to Mayor Asa McCain Jr.

The board of directors of the Bittinger Cemetery organization will meet Sunday, April 18, at 2 p.m. at the Bittinger fire hall.

BUCKWHEAT-PANCAKE DINNER

The Bittinger 4-H Club will be sponsoring another buckwheat, pancake, and sausage dinner at the fire hall on Friday, April 23, from 5 to 8 p.m. Cost of the dinner is $4.50 for adults, $2.50 for children 12 and under, and free for children 5 and under. Mark the date on your calendar and come support our local 4-H club.

WOMEN OF EMMANUEL MEET

The women of Emmanuel's ELCA met Friday evening at the Educational Building with eight women attending. Jenny Hady, president, presided over the business meeting and Beulah Moon was leader of the topic. Seven members are planning to attend the spring meeting in Fairmont on Saturday. Twenty-five comforters have been made for Lutheran World Relief, and school kits are being assembled by the women. Two dinners were served by some of the members following the funerals of Rose Buckel and Susie Teets.

PERSONALS

A visitor of Lenny, Sally, and Torrey Poholsky was Pam Poholsky, Murrysville, Pa., over the weekend.

Lucretia Stanton, Ferne Beachy, and Sam and Cindy Stanton took a bus trip to New Jersey over the weekend.

Peggy Chapell and Denny Buckel went to Amboy, W.Va., to help celebrate the 74th birthday of Peggy's father, Stan Harsh. It was a big family gathering for Peggy's family.

Lesa Whittemore, Greg and Maddy returned home safely from an Easter visit with family in Las Vegas in spite of several problems with their plane before take-off on the way home.

Robbie Glotfelty, son of Rodney and Marci Glotfelty, will participate in the Regional 4-H Public Speaking Contest in Hagerstown this Saturday. Robbie was the first-place winner in the Extemporaneous Speaking Category in the Garrett County contest.

Bob Opel, son of the late Simon and Annie Opel, who lives in Alaska, has been visiting family and friends around the Bittinger area last week. He returned to Alaska on Saturday.

Darryl and Elliott Glotfelty are now ready to resume there fishing expeditions, thanks to their grandmother's gift of "waders." They have their gear intact and, along with their cousin, Scotty Bass, are back to the river as soon as it opens again. A gang of the Bittinger 4-H kids were on hand for the County 4-H Achievement Night at Northern High School on Saturday evening. They included Robbie, Blakely, Darryl, and Elliot Glotfelty, Matthew and Scott Bass, Claire and Caitlin Sussman, and leaders Vicki Taliaferro and Don Sealing. Meredith Sussman also accompanied the group of 4-H'ers. Rodney Glotfelty, Bruce Taliaferro, and Dale Glotfelty also attended. Ruth DiPaolo presented the Dr. Scott A. Glotfelty 4-H Humanitarian Memorial Award in the form of a plaque and $50 savings bond to Arthur Pysell, member of the Country Kids 4-H Club.

Jimmy Glotfelty reported to me that the sheep disaster at his farm was very bad. Five lambs plus two adult sheep were killed. I feel so bad for all those sweet little lambs that were killed. Jimmy reported that he broke a few ribs in a confrontation with an unruly calf several weeks ago.

The daffodils and crocuses put in a brave show for the brief snow on Monday. We had hoped that this was the service snow. It is traditional to get at least one snow after the service blooms. The service is the white trees along the edges of the woods that bloom in early spring. But so far there is no sign of service blooms. This is the "daffodil's snow." My bed of daffodils have just some buds on them, but my mother and my sister Carol have tons in full bloom. I begged a few from Carol for our Passover dinner on Sunday evening. My mother-in-law cooked her family's traditional meal and brought it up, along with Lloyd's dad, Al Sussman, and Lloyd's sister, Vicki Sussman. As usual, my girls smothered them with affection and attention. We just wanted a small event so we could enjoy Lloyd's family, and our only guest was my mother, Ruth DiPaolo. So the good news for our family is that we have plenty of leftovers.

A small emergency disrupted interim pastor Doug Knupp during his sermon at Emmanuel Lutheran Church on Sunday. Still recovering from his fall last year and the following resulted surgery, Ralph Buckel made it out to his first service since his fall. He had a brief fainting spell, but we were more than prepared for a little thing like that. A number of the Bittinger Fire Department members were on hand, and we have a lot of experienced nurses in our congregation. Sharon quickly checked his vital signs and waited by his side until the fire department rescue team and the Northern Rescue Squad responded. He was taken to the hospital by the squad, even though he protested that he was "OK." The hospital reported that he has a touch of pneumonia, and they admitted him for a few days. Ralph has been and is a faithful member of Emmanuel for all his years, and his faithfulness to his church should be an inspiration to all. It is rather ironic, as my mother had a call from a friend who attends St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Cumberland, and they had the same situation happen at their church service on Sunday.

Ida Reckner entertained with an Easter covered-dish dinner at her home Sunday. Present were Chris Carey, Frostburg; William and Linda Oester, Salisbury, Pa.; Lisa and Amanda Platter, Smithsburg; Jim and Donna Glotfelty; and Tom, Cheryl, Taylor and Tim Glotfelty. Amanda Platter remained here to spend Monday and Tuesday with the Glotfeltys. Sheli and Ashlin Gray, Hanover, also spent several days last week with relatives here.

SETS EXAMPLE

The Bittinger 4-H Club has set an example for everyone. Concerned about the World News, they voted to contribute $100 to the Balkan refuge crisis. They saw a terrible problem and want to do something about it. Hats off to the Bittinger 4-H Club.

RECOGNIZING EXCELLENCE - Michael Pula, computer resource teacher at Northern Middle School, was recognized by Maryland Instructional Computer Coordinators Association as the Garrett County Public School Computer Educator of the Year at a recent conference. Pula was nominated for this honor by Chuck Trautwein, supervisor of computer resources for the Garrett County Board of Education. Trautwein praised Pula's "excellence leadership" and "instructional impact on teachers and students." At the meeting of the board of education Tuesday, Pula was presented with a plaque and congratulated for his accomplishments. In the photo, school superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets, left, hands the plaque to Pula, while board president Jim Ralley and Trautwein look on.

Top Students Are Honored At Frostburg State

Jacqueline Brenneman

Frostburg State University's Office of Admissions recently held a reception to honor distinguished scholars in Allegany, Garrett, Washington, and Frederick counties. The scholars are high school seniors nominated by their high school guidance counselors based on academic achievement or talent in the arts. Jacqueline Brenneman of Northern High School was among the honored students.

Three categories of distinguished scholars exists — finalist, semifinalist, and honorable mention. The finalists are awarded $3,000 annually if they attend a Maryland college or university.

All categories of scholars from the four Maryland counties who applied to FSU were invited to attend the dinner on campus with their parents or guardians. Each student was presented with a dictionary for his or her scholastic achievements.

Also in attendance at the dinner were guidance counselors and principals from each of the represented high schools. Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of schools for Garrett County, was also present.

FSU Provost Dr. Christine Grontkowski gave welcoming remarks, while FSU senior Christia Pritts was the featured speaker.

The Admissions Office has been hosting this dinner since the inception of the Distinguished Scholars Program in 1978.

TOP REGIONAL DONOR HONORED - At a recent recognition luncheon for apheresis donors at Camden Yards, Baltimore, Beulah Miller, formerly of Grantsville, became the charter member of the Mt. Hope Hall of Fame, having made the most lifetime donations for this region — 200! Miller, now living in Baltimore, is shown in the picture above at Mt. Hope Red Cross Center with Red Cross field development manager Shawn Garner, apheresis manager Carlton Phillips, and apheresis recruitment manager Sue Ellen Malone, all of the Red Cross Greater Chesapeake and Potomac Region. Apheresis is a process where whole blood is drawn into a centrifuge, the desired components are separated and collected, and the remaining blood is returned to the donor. These components are usually platelets, but can be white cells or whatever products are needed for this donation. These single donor platelets are used for bone marrow, cancer, and leukemia patients. The average leukemia patient uses over 20 platelet transfusions in a six-month period. Miller is the sister of Boyde Miller and Mary Beitzel, both of Grantsville. Garner is also a Garrett County native. He is the son of James and Charlotte Garner, Oakland, and Sarah and Eddie Cornelius of Lindale, Texas.

News from Preston, Tucker, Grant and Mineral Counties.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

AURORA CEOS

The Aurora CEOS met March 16 at the Union Ambulance Service squad hall with Ressie Conrad, Delores Douglas, Mary Jane Hanline, Kathy Hardesty, Virginia Martin, Opal Myers, Alice Penzo, Mary Radford, Deloris Slawter, Wilda Stemple and Janice Tackett, members, and Cory Conrad, present.

"The Purpose of the Cross" and prayer were presented by Ressie Conrad for the devotional period and the meeting was called to order by Delores Douglas, president.

Janice Forman of the Terra Alta Bank, who was introduced by Ressie Conrad, spoke to the group about maintaining a bank account and answered questions from the members. She distributed information titled "Understanding Your Bank Account" and "Truth In Savings."

Mrs. Conrad reported that she had consulted with Tracy Waugh, 4-H Extension agent, concerning a gun safety class at the county 4-H camp. Alice Penzo said that funds received from the first grant are to be used to provide display space at the community building for community artifacts. Volunteer hours will be due September 1.

For Ladies Night Out, Mrs. Douglas provided a fruit tray, and Mrs. Conrad and Mrs. Myers participated in the style revue spoof. The club also donated $25 to the Preston County 4-H Foundation.

The vice president's feature concerned a quiz on famous women in keeping with Women in History Month. A seated snowman made of batting on salt box base was displayed as the special feature and was made by Opal Myers at craft session. She also was winner of the pig-in-the-poke.

April 30 is the date of the next meeting at the squad hall. Martha Bolyard will be in charge of the program, and Ressie Conrad will have devotions.

CMU

May 7 is the date set for Aurora Area Church Women United-sponsored May Fellowship Day, and it will be held at the Stemple Ridge United Methodist Church. The day begins at noon with a covered dish dinner, the host church providing table service, bread and beverage. The theme this year, "Angels, Mentors and Friends," will be proclaimed with a special program beginning at 1 p.m. All women are welcome.

90TH BIRTHDAYS

Homer Fike will celebrate his 98th birthday at his Eglon home on April 17 to help him to celebrate this milestone, cards may be addressed to him at: P.O. Box 44, Eglon, WV 26716.

Artenis Harsh, former Eglon resident, will celebrate his 90th birthday on April 16 at Windy Hill Manor. Cards may be addressed to him there at Rt. 1 Box 167, Kingwood, WV 26537.

John Teets of Eglon will observe his 90th birthday at his farm home on April 27. Cards for this former farmer and teacher in Preston County schools may be addressed at Rt. 1 Box 328, Eglon, WV 26716.

VFW CELEBRATES 100TH ANNIVERSARY

In observance of the 100th anniversary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 578 Aurora-Terra Alta VFW is sponsoring a breakfast for all veterans on Saturday, April 17, at the post home on Washington Street, Terra Alta. The sausage gravy and biscuit meal will be served from 8:30 until 11 a.m. There will be no charge, but donations will be appreciated. All veterans are welcome.

CRAFT FAIR

A craft fair is set for May 8 at the Union Ambulance Service squad hall from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Vendors from many different areas will be participating. There will also be food, a silent auction, and other activities.

AURORA RAMP DINNER APRIL 25

The Aurora Volunteer Fire Department is sponsoring its annual ramp dinner on April 25 at the fire hall. Serving will begin at noon and continue through 3 p.m. Charges will be at $5 for adults and $2.50 for children 12 and under. The menu includes ramps, ham, potatoes, dessert, and other goodies.

The Aurora VFD also wishes to recognize those who have made recent donations: George and Helen Lipscomb, Columbia Gas, Walter and Kathy Shaffer, Josephine Lambert, and Charlotte Ernest.

PERSONAL MENTION

Shirley Harsh remains a patient in Monongalia General Hospital, where she is recovering from recent valve replacement surgery.

Polly Engel (Mrs. Wilhelm) of Stemple Ridge was a patient in Monongalia General Hospital, where she also recently underwent valve replacement surgery.

Bill Conrad of Aurora was a patient last Saturday until Monday at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he underwent tests.

Jessie Winters had her family with her on Easter Sunday, all gathering at her Eglon home for dinner or an afternoon visit. Those present were Neil and Bonnie Winters, Scott and Dana Winters, Kevin and Carrie Winters, Henry and Kim Hostutler, plus Kayleigh and Brittany, David and Lois Layman and Aaron, Brendan Haley, and Larry, Rhonda, Christopher, and Ryan Channel.

Lois Layman of Eglon underwent surgery Thursday at Ruby Memorial Hospital and returned Friday to her home.

Pastor John Crowe returned his son Andrew to Taylor University in Indiana and escorted his daughter Julie to several college campuses last week. On Sunday he, his wife Linn and daughter Julie took his parents, Ross and Opal Crowe, to Somerset, Pa., where funeral services and burial were held for Ross's brother, George Crowe, 76, who died there on April 9.

Word was received here of the April 7 death of former Garrett County resident, Ruth Huffman Montgomery, 77, who died at the home of her daughter in Hagerstown. Her services and burial were on April 10 in Hagerstown, where her husband, George Montgomery, is also buried. Ruth had lived with the Nelson Harsh family at Eglon for several years when young.

Easter guests in the home of Jackie and Alma Snyder at Brookside were Hancell and Mildred Teets, Kenny and JoAnn Helton, Doris Shillingburg, and the couple's children and grandchildren: Jack and Barbara Snyder and Freddy; Justin, Rickie, Tabby, and Anthony; John, Sue, and Jessica Shillingburg; and Alan, Lesa, Wyatt, and Emily Snyder.

George and Helen Lipscomb have returned to their Aurora home after a winter vacation in the Southwest.

Ashley Crowe returned last week to Columbia Bible College in Columbia, S.C., after spending spring break with her family, John and Linn Crowe and Julie, at Eglon.

Garland Lewis of Aurora was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital last week for treatment.

Visiting Ruth Teets Wednesday to Saturday were her cousin and husband, Leora and John Hall, Goldsboro, N.C. Her son, Bradley Teets, Stroudsburg, Pa., came to her Eglon home on Friday for a weekend visit.

Richard, Mary, and Caitlin Norwish vacationed three days last week in eastern West Virginia and Virginia and spent Wednesday night with her niece, Emily Lewis, in Martinsburg. They returned Friday to their home at Eglon.

Linda and Sara Lewis visited last week in Virginia Beach, Va., with the former's daughter and family, Julie, Gary, and Grayson Baker. On Sunday they were met at Martinsburg by her husband, Tom Lewis.

Weekend guests of Carl and Betty Fint at Aurora were Betty (Garrett) Antilla and her children, Kristen and Karmen, friend Bob Warham, all of Calumet, Mich., and a son, Kevin Antilla, and his wife Julie of Appleton, Wisc. On Saturday a celebration was held at the Fint home honoring their daughter, Carla Fint, on her 21st birthday. In addition to the above guests, others who attended were Mike and Kathy Mullenax, Brent, Blaine, and Braden of Tunnelton; Mary and Billy Allman and Pam Garrett of Eglon; Joe and Stacy Fint, Becca, and Joey, John and Connie Fint, and Sandy and Jessica Callahan, all Aurora; Dave, Kathy, David, Kimberly, and Debbie Collins of Horse Shoe Run; Tina Fint, Morgantown; and Julie Kapustina and Kevin Wang, local.

A New York trip for foreign students in this area was sponsored by the International Students, Belington area, and local students who accompanied the group were Julia Kapustina, who lives with Carl and Betty Fint, Camilla Lima and Britta Lehmann, who live with Iris Myers Simmons, and Viola Antosava, who stays with Bob and Peggy Spaid. Also accompanying the March 30-April 3 look at the big city were Betty, Carla, and Tina Fint.

The Maple Spring choir participated in the West Marva District Song Fest held Sunday afternoon at the Keyser Church of the Brethren.

Lectie Bonner received word of the death of Pauline McDermitt of Davis, a sister of Grace (Mrs. Asa) Pennington of Dry Fork.

Those who did not keep the address for Tina (Knight) DeBaggis, former Lantz Ridge resident and daughter of Clair and Lois Knight, who is undergoing treatments for cancer, may send her cards at 248 Bradford St., Pittsfield, MA 01201.

In Aurora on Easter Sunday to entertain his sister, Peggy Myers, at dinner were John and Barbara Myers, Michelle and Lacy Neff and daughters Spencer and Devin, all Fairmont; and Tom and Stephanie Dane, Laurel, Madison, and John of Parkersburg. All had a dinner at Blackwater lodge. On Saturday evening, Peggy was taken for dinner at Oakland by her brother and sister-in-law, Ben and Opal Myers and family of Aurora and Oakland.

Friends Of Terra Alta Library Slate Fund-Raiser Raffle

The Friends of the Terra Alta Library (FOTTAL), a non-profit group founded to raise funds and help publicize the library's offerings and activities, is raffling off a handmade quilt to benefit the library.

The umbrella design quilt, made by Gerda Barry, is currently on display at the library at 102 East Washington Street. Raffle tickets may be obtained for a $1 donation each or six tickets for $5. All proceeds will go to the library.

FOTTAL is also planning a chili cookout on Sunday, June 13, at the Terra Alta community park. Details on the event, which will include a chili recipe contest for monetary prizes, will be forthcoming.

Free Computer Classes Set In Preston County

Free computer training classes covering basic and intermediate level training will be available at both Preston High School in Kingwood and East Preston Junior High School in Terra Alta beginning in late May or early June, according to the Preston County Technology Opportunity Center. (The exact starting dates will be determined as class registration proceeds.)

The 10-week courses will meet in the evenings, one night a week for three hours per session. The basic class will include an introduction to Windows 95 and 98, the Microsoft Office Suite, the Internet, and basic spread sheets. The intermediate course will expand upon those topics, as well as provide an introduction to computer graphics and desktop publishing.

The classes are open to all interested persons of all ages, with no residency restrictions, although participants under 15 years of age must be accompanied by an adult, who may either take the class or observe.

These classes are offered four times a year through the West Virginia High Technology Consortium Foundation. For further information or to register, interested persons may call 1-800-862-0505 or consult the foundation's web site at www.wvhtf.org/education.

RAMS ROLL ON - Southern High School's varsity softball squad took all three of its outings this week, crushing Keyser 13-7 last Wednesday, bombing Beall 16-1 Tuesday, and pelting Preston 7-1 yesterday. Mika Myers is shown above punching out a base hit against Preston, under the watchful eye of coach Dave Bosley, center, and as Missy Simmons prepares to head home from third base. Jennifer Teagarden, pictured below with second baseman Ashley Liller, tossed the complete-game win. Boasting an 8-1 record, the Rams are in the midst of a nine-game homestand, including contests against Westmar today, Allegany on Wednesday, and Flintstone next Thursday.

Pen Mar League Meeting Tonight

The Pen Mar Baseball League will conduct a meeting this evening, April 15, at 7:30 at the McDonald's Restaurant at Keyser's Ridge. The primary agenda items will be to continue discussions on whether or not to adopt an all-wood bat policy and to expand the number of teams in the league.

"Last year was an exceptional season, with seven solid teams and about 65% of the players being college players," stated league president John Culp.

The league will begin its 51st consecutive year of operation, with Cumberland, LaVale, Oakland, Hyndman, Morgantown, Fairmont, and Bridgeport returning from last season.

The semi-pro league is open to players of all ages. Anyone wishing to enter a team or to find a team to join should contact Culp at 301-334-6023 or league officer Terry Helbig at 800-662-6573.

Rams Continue Winning Ways, Top Keyser, Beall, Preston

It was three up, three down for the Southern High School varsity baseball squad this week, as the Rams killed Keyser 13-7 last Wednesday, belted Beall on the road by a 16-1 margin on Tuesday behind a two-hit pitching performance by Jennifer Bosley, and pounded Preston yesterday at home, 7-1. The Preston contest kicked off a nine-game homestand for the Rams, including matchups against Westmar today, Allegany Wednesday, and Flintstone this coming Thursday. With an 8-1 overall record and a 5-0 WMIL mark, SHS is rolling through the year toward a possible title run.

A late-game rally brought the Rams from behind to take the win from Keyser, which had scored seven third-inning runs on four hits, three walks and two errors to go up by a 7-3 margin. Down 7-4 in the sixth inning, Jennifer Teagarden whacked a two-run triple and then scored on a single by Jennifer Bosley to tie the game. Amber Uphold led off the seventh inning with a single and scored the first of the stanza's six runs, which sealed the SHS win.

Pickle Reese and Teagarden each had a triple and a pair of singles to lead Southern's 16-hit attack, while Ashley Liller added a double and two singles. Teagarden and Bosley accounted for three RBIs apiece.

Bosley came on in relief of Teagarden in the fourth inning to ace the win over Keyser's Lindsay Staggers.

A standout complete-game pitching performance by Bosley led the Rams to victory at Beall, as the freshman notched 12 strikeouts in hurling a two-hitter. Two walks served as evidence of her impeccable control.

Bosley's bat proved a pitcher's poison for her Mountaineer counterpart Abbey Workman, as the two-way Ram standout pounded out a double and two singles to lead Southern's 13-hit attack. Reese contributed a homer and a pair of doubles, Teagarden a double and a single, and Paula Glotfelty punched out two singles.

Amber Ballases doubled and Becky Peterson singled for Beall's only hits off Bosley.

The Rams pelted Preston yesterday with six runs in the first inning, and added another run in the fifth. Preston managed a lone run in the seventh inning. Starting pitcher Teagarden gave up seven hits for the win. (Further details on the contest were not available.)

Annual Waffle Run Slated For This Saturday

The annual Waffle Run, which is the second race of the Queen City Striders' Racing Circuit, will be held this Saturday, April 17, in McHenry, regardless of weather conditions. The event will feature a 5-kilometer run and a 1-mile fun run, beginning at 8:30 a.m. in the Wisp Resort parking lot.

Registration for the race will open at 7:30 a.m. on race day (there is no pre-registration). The entry fee is $7, which will include a breakfast at the Wisp after the race. Awards will be presented to the top male and female finishers of the course, which will be out-and-back along Marsh Hill Road.

For more information, persons may telephone Mike Kozier at 301-387-7114.

Pitchers Sought For Accident Horseshoe Play

The Mt. Top Ringer Slingers Horseshoe Club has announced its tournament schedule for the upcoming horseshoe pitching season. All are invited to participate in the events, which will begin at 2 p.m. on each Sunday appearing on the schedule, at the Accident Community Park, located behind the Flowery Vale Senior Center.

Singles tournaments will be held on April 18 and 25, May 16, June 6 and 27, July 11 and 25, and Aug. 1, 8, 22, and 29.

Doubles tournament play will occur on May 2, June 13, July 18, Aug. 15, and Sept. 12.

Pitchers are classed by points accumulated in the qualifying round held before each single tournament.

For further information interested persons may call Tracy Shahan, Mt. Top Ringer Slingers club president, at 301-334-9503 or club vice president Joe Lewis at 301-387-4948.

HUSKIES MAULED BY WILDCATS - It was a tough week for the Northern High School varsity softball team, as the home team was downed twice, 12-7 by Flintstone on Thursday and 11-1 by Westmar on Tuesday. Heather Nugent, shown above with first baseman Melissa McKeever in the background, pitched a complete game against the Wildcats but was tagged for 10 hits. Heidi Frazee is pictured at right executing a perfect drag bunt—note that she is already making her break for first base as the ball dies in the ground at her feet. Northern hosts Allegany this afternoon, travels to Mt. Savage on Tuesday, and will host Beall a week from today.

Huskies Continue To Struggle, Fall To Aggies And Wildcats

Northern High School's varsity softball squad fell in a pair of home contests this week, 12-7 to Flintstone this past Thursday and 11-1 to Westmar on Tuesday. The Huskies' record stands at 2-7 overall and 1-5 in the WMIL, with an upcoming slate composed of a home contest versus Allegany today, a road trip to Savage on Tuesday, and a home contest against Beall this coming Thursday.

The Huskies fell to Flintstone by five runs, although only one hit separated the totals for each team—14 for Flintstone and 13 for Northern. Both pitchers tossed complete games, Heather Nugent in the losing effort, and the Aggies' Corey Reed, who struck out nine Husky batters.

Flintstone struck early and often with a three-run first inning, a seven-run second inning, and added solo runs in the fourth and sixth innings. Northern responded with a single run in each of the first four innings and a three-run burst in the seventh inning.

Nugent accounted for two RBI for Northern on a pair of singles, while Mimi Harvey and Heidi Frazee each punched out a pair of singles as well. A triple by Mandy Gallion and a double by Reed led the Aggies' attack, which was aided by four NHS errors.

The Huskies met much the same fate at the hands of Westmar, as the Wildcats pounded out 10 hits for the day to Northern's seven. Westmar jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first, added a pair of runs in the third, a single run in the fourth, and six runs in the fifth. Northern's lone run came in the fifth inning on an RBI single by Melissa McKeever.

Ashley Kitzmiller and Angie Johnson each drove in a pair of Wildcat runs, on a double and a single and a pair of singles, respectively. Mandi Beaver singled twice as well. Northern's Bridget Frazee tagged Westmar pitcher Jennifer Barb for a triple.

Husky Track Teams Finish Third In Multi-Squad Meet

Finishing third in a multi-team track and field meet held Tuesday at Beall High School in Frostburg were the girls' and boys' teams of Northern High School. The Northern girls finished with 57 team points to finish behind Keyser with 143 and Frankfort with 116, and ahead of Beall with 36 and Mount Savage with 7. The Northern boys amassed 41 points, while Beall won with 108, Keyser was second with 96, and Frankfort was fourth with 20.

Leading the Northern girls was Kristin Lander, who won both the 100 meter hurdles (17.8 seconds) and 200 meter dash (28.4 seconds). Ashley Elliott was second in the triple jump and the long jump. The Northern 800 meter relay team was also second.

For the Northern boys, Craig Kamp tied for first place in the high jump with a leap of 5'8" and was second in the triple jump. Craig Miller finished second in the 100 and 200 meter dashes, and Rob Dozier finished second in the long jump.

Sorry, Hubers

Inaccurate information about the wrestling accomplishments of Blake and Seth Huber, members of the Northern High School team, was published in last week's issue of The Republican.

Blake Huber, a sophomore, finished the 1998-99 season by finishing second place in the state in the 103-pound division, was awarded Minds in Motion honors, and received the Doug Carey Memorial Award at the recent NHS winter sports awards ceremony.

Seth Huber, who wrestled at 125 pounds for the Huskies, also won a Minds in Motion award and was named the Outstanding Wrestler of the Week during the regular season by WJAC Television, Johnstown, Pa.

Husky Jayvees Trounce Bishop Walsh, 23-12

Northern High School's junior varsity baseball team battered Bishop Walsh by a 23-12 margin in a road game shortened by the five-inning rule on Tuesday.

The Huskies amassed 12 hits in the slugfest, including three hits and a triple by Greg Speicher, two hits by Jeremy Frazee, one of which was a double, and a bases-loaded double by Trey Brenneman. Speicher drove home seven runs to lead the Northern RBI tally.

On the mound, Speicher pitched the first four innings until being lifted for Frazee in the fourth inning. Frazee notched the victory.

The NHS jayvee squad takes to the field today at Fort Hill in a make-up contest.

Carr's No-Hitter, Northern's Bats Power Huskies To Three Straight

One would wonder if Northern High School varsity baseball head coach Phil Carr posts articles from The Republican in the locker room, for just a week after he stated in print that his young team would rebound from three straight losses, his squad proved him right by roaring back to take three consecutive wins by big margins.

Northern struck first in a twinbill at Mapletown, Pa., on Saturday, downing the hosts 15-5 and 7-1. That action included a no-hitter tossed by NHS ace Jeff Carr in the second game. Yesterday the Huskies demolished Beall at home 17-7. The sweep gives Northern a 5-5 overall record and a 2-3 WMIL mark, with scheduled games coming up this week at Southern tomorrow, home contests against Hancock on Saturday and Flintstone on Monday, a visit to Beall on Wednesday, and a home match-up against Westmar on Thursday.

Northern's first win of the Mapletown doubleheader came on the long ball as Adam Brenneman, Ryan Butler, and Levi Schmuck each belted home runs to account for eight of the Huskies' 15 runs.

After Mapletown scored twice in the leadoff inning, Brenneman came to the plate in the bottom half of the inning with the bases loaded and blasted a grand slam off host starter Jason Ockee. Butler's solo shot came in the third inning to account for one of three NHS scores in that stanza, and Schmuck sent the ball over the fence in the next inning on a shot that scored three of Northern's four runs in that inning.

Other standouts in the Huskies' 13-hit attack included run-scoring doubles whacked by Josh Hook and Matt Settle, and an RBI single by Schmuck, a pair of singles by Butler, and a single by Brenneman that came in addition to the trio's homers.

P.J. Workman pitched the distance to take the victory, striking out four and giving up five hits, including a homer run by Ken Sell, the hosts' lone extra-base hit for the contest. Ockee took the loss after being was relieved by Dave Boone in the fourth inning, who in turn was lifted for Jake Dias in the sixth.

Carr's no-hit gem of the second half of the twinbill included five strikeouts by the Husky hurler. His hopes for a shutout were stymied by a Mapletown score in the seventh inning, when a runner walked, advanced to second base on another walk, to third base on a ground out, and came home on a sacrifice fly.

A double by Josh Henderson in the third inning for the first hit of the game drove home one of two runs scored by NHS in that stanza. The Huskies followed those scores with two more runs in the fourth inning, and closed their scoring book with three runs in their final at-bats in the sixth inning.

Brenneman tallied three RBI on two doubles, and Tim Umbel added a two-run single.

Mapletown starter Matt Moser, who was replaced by Tony Corso in the fifth inning, took the loss.

Northern cranked up the power again yesterday at home against Beall, as Josh Hook, Carr, and Beitzel each cleared the fences in an 11-run game-clinching fifth inning. Hook's shot came with the bases loaded, and Carr's homer brought home two runs.

The contest had opened with the Mountaineers scoring a pair of leadoff-inning runs off NHS starter Matt Settle, who put in four strong innings of pitching on the day. The Huskies countered with a run in the second, Beall sent two runs home in the third, and Northern did likewise in the bottom of the same inning to pull with a 4-3 margin.

Three more Husky runs in the fourth inning, including a pair on Schmuck's bases-loaded double, put the Huskies up 6-4. Beall answered with a three-run homer by Jeremy Smith off Hook, who had come on in relief of Settle in the same inning.

Down by two, Northern showed its composure and growing maturity by mounting its 11-run rally in the bottom of the fifth inning. The fireworks started as NHS took advantage of a tiring John Koppel, who had given up only three hits until the final stanza, and the Huskies continued teeing off on reliever Jason Shaw to end the game on the 10-run rule.

Beall's Smith drove in four runs for the day on his homer and an RBI single, while teammate David Schrock whacked a two-run homer and punched out an RBI single of his own.

McHenry's Heslop Noted For College Conference Play

McHenry native Kristin Heslop, a graduate of Northern High School, was named PSAC-West softball player of the week for her outstanding play during the second week of April. The shortstop for the California University of Pennsylvania (CUP) Vulcans, Heslop led her team to a 5-1 mark for the week by batting .500 in a 9-for-18 performance at the plate, scoring four runs and sending home four RBI.

"Kristin Heslop means a lot to our ball club," commented CUP head coach Rick Bertagnolli, in his sixth year at the Vulcans' helm. "Her hard work is starting to pay off and I hope it continues to do so." To date, Heslop has started all 29 games, and currently leads the team with four home runs and 20 RBI, and has tallied a .369 average while also successfully nabbing three stolen bases in as many attempts.

Heslop and her teammates have compiled a 17-12 overall record to this point, and hold a 7-1 record in the PSAC-West. Their 88-game conference winning streak ended last week with a 6-2 loss to Lock Haven.

The Vulcans will host Point Park tomorrow in a 3 p.m. doubleheader before traveling to Allegheny (Pa.) for a weekend tournament.

Rams Dropped By Fort Hill Before Blanking Westmar, 7-0

After dropping their first game of the season last week to the area's then top-ranked team, Allegany, the Southern Rams had to meet this week's number one team, Fort Hill, and they came away with a 4-1 Western Maryland Interscholastic League defeat Tuesday on the Sentinels' diamond. The Rams got back into the win column yesterday, though, with a 7-0 WMIL victory over host Westmar.

The split left the Rams with an overall record of 6-2 and a 2-2 mark in the WMIL standings.

Brandon Jenkins was the Rams' major nemesis in Tuesday's game against Fort Hill, as he accounted for all of his team's runs with a pair of two-run homers. His first blast gave the Sentinels a 2-0 lead in the first inning.

Southern cut the lead in half with a run in the third inning when Keith Parks smacked a solo homer.

Jenkins gave Fort Hill two insurance runs in the bottom of the fifth to conclude the scoring.

The Rams had their opportunities, but strong defense by Fort Hill kept them from scoring. A double play halted one opportunity in the fourth inning, and then in the sixth, with Jason Weaver and Mike Shahan on base, the Sentinels' Josh Logsdon turned another double play to stop that chance for more Southern runs.

The Rams finished with five hits off Mike Thomas, with Christian Warfield recording two singles, while Jason Finch allowed only six hits in going the distance for the Rams. Thomas struck out seven batters and Finch fanned eight and walked none.

Jimmy Barrett had a double and a single for Fort Hill. The victory upped the Sentinels' overall mark to 9-1 and their WMIL record to 6-0.

Christian Warfield fired a two-hit shutout for the Rams last night against Westmar. He struck out three in going the distance.

Leading Southern's nine-hit effort were Mike Shahan, Jason Weaver and Nathan DiSimone. Shahan rapped a triple and a single for two RBI, Weaver hit a run-producing double and a single, and DiSimone added an RBI double.

Warfield allowed just two singles, one each by Jamie Clark and Josh Broadwater.

The defeat dropped Westmar to 1-4 in the WMIL and 4-5 overall.

The Rams will play again this Friday when they host Northern in a 4:30 p.m. contest. They will entertain Keyser on Monday and host Allegany next Wednesday.

SHS Jayvees Sweep To Up Record To 6-0

The junior varsity team of Southern High School swept a pair of doubleheaders this past week to up their perfect record to 6-0. The Rams, coached by Tom Bosley, took a pair from host Westmar last Thursday, 4-2 and 10-5, and then crushed Beall on Saturday, 15-2 and 12-1, in Frostburg.

Ricky Reams paced the Ram offense in both games against Westmar, collecting two triples and scoring three runs in the first game, while Jared Fike rapped a game-winning RBI single. Brian Hauser upped his personal record on the mound to 2-0.

Reams smacked a pair of doubles and scored three runs in the second game, Chad Panther contributed a double and a single, Justin DiSimone singled twice, and Bryson Meyers and Steve Eiswert each chipped in with a triple.

DiSimone also got the win on the mound, as he struck out 10 in six innings in his first outing as a pitcher.

Ryan Ewing was the big hitter for the Rams in the first game against Beall on Saturday, as he hit a double and three singles, and scored twice. Chris Remley recorded two RBI with a double and a single, DiSimone also hit a double and a single, and Joel Helbig and Jared Fike each provided two singles. Fike improved his personal record to 2-0 in pitching his second complete game.

Fike hit two singles for two RBI and scored three times in the second game, Eiswert had a pair of singles, two RBI, and two runs scored, DiSimone hit a pair of singles and scored three times, and Brad Palmer contributed a double and scored once. Getting his first start on the mound was Ricky Reams, who fanned a dozen Mountaineer batters.

The Rams were slated to play a single game at Preston County High School in Kingwood Tuesday, but results of that contest were not received. They will host Fort Hill in a doubleheader this Saturday and entertain Preston for a single game next Tuesday.

GCC Softball Program Debuts

The Garrett Community College women's softball team made its diamond debut yesterday at Westmoreland, but managed only one hit in falling by a 4-1 score.

Catcher Anna Shelton scored the Lakers' first run in the sixth inning, after reaching first base when hit by a pitch and advancing to third on a pair of stolen bases. She scored on a fielder's choice when Erica McBride connected at the plate. Susanne Albright singled for GCC's only hit of the contest.

Amanda Sekely pitched Westmoreland to the win, striking out 10 along the way, while teammates McCullough and Hooper each rapped out a pair of hits off GCC's hurlers. Starting Lakers pitcher Jenny Thomas took the loss and was relieved by Lana Groves in the fifth inning.

A bright spot for the inexperienced Garrett squad was its fielding performance, as the Laker nine committed only one error on defense. GCC takes to the field today at Potomac State at 3:30 p.m.

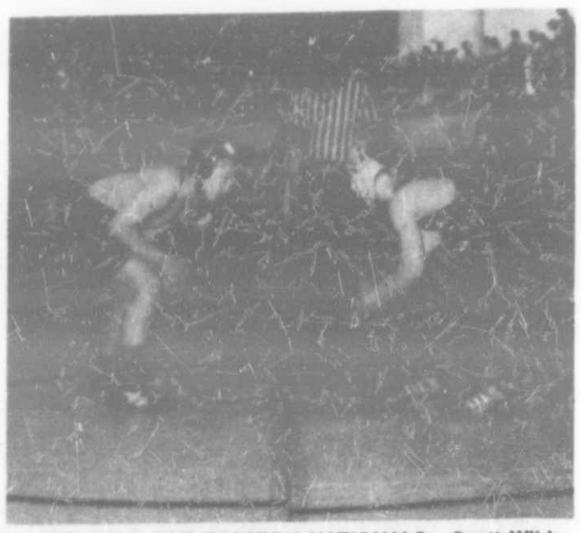
Wildesen Earns Spot In Nat'l Wrestling Event

Scott Wildesen, son of Ed and Jane Wildesen, Mtn. Lake Park, has qualified for the Eastern National Wrestling Tournament by virtue of his performance last Saturday in a qualifying tournament at Millersville (Pa.) State University.

Wildesen, a sixth grade student at Southern Middle School, will be one of only 1,000 wrestlers to attend the Eastern Nationals, to be held in Scranton, Pa. Some 11,000 youth grapplers attempted to reach this level, starting the process three weeks ago at district tournaments.

Wildesen wrestles in the 91-pound, age 10-11 classification, although the majority of his matches this season have been in the age 11-12 and 13-15 bracket, as he selected to double enter on numerous occasions. His overall record for this season is 47-20.



QUALIFIES FOR EASTERN NATIONALS - Scott Wildesen, a member of the Southern Mat Club and son of Ed and Jane Wildesen, Mtn. Lake Park, captured first place in the 91-pound, age 10-11 division at a qualifying tournament in Millersville, Pa., on Saturday. His victory will send him to the Eastern Nationals, to be held in Scranton, Pa. He is pictured above right in his final match against Mack Lewens, whom he defeated by decision. See story.

This is Wildesen's second trip to the nationals, matching former Southern High School standout Nathan Rickman, who placed first in the national event and is now a successful member of the James Madison University team.

Scott is coached by Dave Taylor, assisted by Darrell Ozias.

Southern Boys Win A Pair Of Matches, Girls Lose Two

The boys' and girls' tennis teams of Southern High School each played two matches this past week, with the boys defeating host Petersburg last Thursday, 5-2, and then being edged by Keyser on Monday, 4-3, on the Golden Tornado's courts. The Southern girls were blanked by both Petersburg and Keyser, 7-0. The results left the Southern boys with a 2-1 record and the girls with a 1-2 mark.

Justin Stephens, Mike Pamepinto, and Josh Stephens each recorded singles victories for the Southern boys against Petersburg, and then Justin Stephens and Pamepinto, and Bryson Paugh and Josh Stephens each teamed up to win their doubles matches.

Tyson Riggleman was a singles winner for the Vikings, who dropped to 4-3 with the loss.

Southern's Amy Suess had the best opportunity to earn a team point for the Ram girls, but she was edged, 9-8, by Jaimah Musser. Other Vikings winning in singles competition were Sarah Kuhn, Jennifer Arnold, and Kandy Turner.

Justin and Josh Stephens were singles winners for the Southern boys against Keyser on Monday, and the doubles team of Dustin Slider and Boo Jonson also won.

Todd Keplinger and Jonathan Kalbaugh won in singles for the Golden Tornado, which upped its team record to 7-1.

The Keyser girls had no trouble making their season record 8-1, as they dominated all four singles matches and three doubles matches, with the closest game score being 8-3 between Juli Woy and Laura Friend. Other Keyser singles winners, besides Woy, were Stephanie Criser, Mollie Lemon, and Julie Pritts.

GC Cagers Shine In Lions Classic Sunday At FSU

Several Garrett County athletes helped Maryland sweep West Virginia in the annual McDonald's/Frostburg Lions Classic Sunday at Frostburg State University's Bobcat Arena. The Maryland boys' all-star team walloped West Virginia by a 113-84 margin, while the Maryland girls held on for a two-point victory over the girls of the mountain state, 64-62.

Southern High School's Jessica Saturday scored 10 points for the Maryland girls, going 4-for-6 from the field and hitting 2 out of 3 free throws. Saturday took third-place scoring honors for her team behind 18 points by team MVP Lauren Zapf (Bishop Walsh) and 11 points by Amy Bennett (Hyndman, Pa.). She was joined on the all-star squad by Ram teammates Katelyn McBee and Laura Friend, and Northern High School's Jackie Brenneman.

The boy's contest was marked by three Garrett County players who hit for double figures. Northern's Dustin Long tallied 16 points as he hit six field goals out of seven attempts, and went 4-for-6 from the free throw line, while Southern's Mike Paesani connected on six of nine field goal attempts, including one from three-point range, and one of two foul shots to account for 14 points.

Fellow Ram Mike Pamepinto hit a pair of three-pointers along with a pair of field goals out of a total of eight attempts to account for 10 points. Southern's John Andrews scored five points on six field goal attempts, hitting on a three pointer and a field goal. Ram Jonathan Price rounded out the Garrett County representation.

The charity basketball gala, proceeds from which go toward Lions' community projects, is the major fund-raiser for the Frostburg Lions Club.

Rams Roll By Allegany In Track, Field

The track and field teams of Southern High School whipped host Allegany on Tuesday at Greenway Stadium, with the boys winning by an 85-57 margin and the girls recording an 89-54 victory. There were no other details received.

The Rams are scheduled to host Beall, Hancock, Frankfort, and Northern at 4 p.m. today, travel to Preston County next Tuesday, and host Northern in the county meet next Thursday.

Chapman Edges Underwood In League Finale

The Wednesday Civic League held its 1999 final roll-off last Wednesday to determine the league champion, with top-seeded Chapman Logging holding on to edge upset-minded Underwood Landscaping in the finals, 1,050-1,041.

Underwood, seeded fourth with a wild card spot, worked its way to the final roll-off by defeating third-seeded First Mortgage, 1,055-938, and then topping second-seeded Uno's Restaurant, 1,072-1,038.

Chapman's had 89 handicap pins against Underwood's 96 in the final match, which remained close every frame. The title was determined on the last ball of the last bowler in the 10th frame.

The Uno Restaurant and Bar squad included Jeff Friend, Mike White, Hugh Schrier, Charlie Harsh, Gary Friend, and Doug Ratliff, while First Mortgage consisted of Larry DeBerry, John Golden, Randy DiSimone, Dave Sweitzer, Rick DiSimone, Bill Yant, and Bob Broadwater.

Maryland's Spring Turkey Season Opens Saturday

Maryland's 1999 spring turkey season opens this Saturday, April 17, and continues through Saturday, May 15, Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin announced recently. "The spring turkey hunting season continues to grow in popularity across Maryland," said Griffin. "Our wild turkey population continues to increase across Maryland, and hunters should find ample opportunities to take one of America's truly great game birds."

Turkey populations are at near record levels throughout most of Maryland, and this year's hunting season may again produce a record harvest. Although turkey reproduction in Western Maryland was less than desired during 1998, there are excellent numbers of turkeys available for the spring hunter, and harvests are expected to increase in many areas of the state.

"With the growing popularity of wild turkey hunting across Maryland, hunters should remember to use recommended safety procedures, properly prepare shotguns, and exercise caution while hunting in wooded areas," said Natural Resources Police Superintendent Col. John Rhoads.

Hunters also are encouraged to share their turkey hunting experiences with younger hunters. Resident junior hunters (under 16 years of age) are entitled to a free one-year hunting license upon successful completion of a Hunter Safety and Education Course. All turkey hunters, including youths, must possess a valid hunting license and have completed a Hunter Safety and Education Course (excluding those who have held a hunting license prior to July 1, 1977).

DNR strongly recommends hunters follow basic turkey hunting safety procedures while pursuing the wily game bird. The National Wild Turkey Federation, in conjunction with the Natural Resources Police, asks hunters to do the following:

- Positively identify your target. Be absolutely certain that you identify the beard on the turkey, thereby verifying that the turkey is a legal bird.
- Make your position known to other hunters by speaking loudly to them. Do not wave a handkerchief or your hand at other hunters.
- Never shoot at a noise that you think is a turkey. It may be another hunter calling a turkey. Always identify your target, and be aware of a safe shooting background.
- Eliminate red, white, and blue from your clothing. These colors are naturally found on wild turkey gobblers.
- Wear blaze orange while entering and leaving wooded areas, especially if carrying a turkey.
- Obey and support all wildlife laws and report any violations that you may encounter. Please keep your sport honorable and promptly report any violations to the local Natural Resources Police.

Many public properties across Maryland have excellent wild turkey populations, said Griffin, who added that because of heavy use on opening day, hunters may encounter pressure on public lands. Many heavily hunted public lands receive little hunting pressure as the season progresses, especially in the latter two weeks of the season. Garrett County hunters are encouraged to contact the Mt. Nebo Wildlife & Heritage Division Office at 301-334-4255 for more information.

Lakers' Schedule Shows 29 Games In Next 26 Days

The Garrett Community College baseball team, currently 13-11, will be extremely busy over the next month, as the Lakers are slated to play 29 games in the next 26 days. Foul weather has forced a major rearrangement of the Lakers' schedule.

GCC is slated to host the Frostburg State University junior varsity in a doubleheader today, entertain Montgomery-Rockville in a twinbill this Saturday, host Germantown for two games on Sunday, and entertain Allegany College next Tuesday, also in a doubleheader.

The Lakers were slated to play a pair at Hagerstown Community College yesterday, but no results of those games were received.

LEUKEMIA SOCIETY OF AMERICA
TEAM IN TRAINING
YOU'RE HELPING ME RUN DOWN LEUKEMIA

I've been running, running, running. You've been helping me so much with your contributions and your good-luck notes and kind wishes.

Now I've gone and done it...sprained both(!) ankles and have to sit out for a while before I can resume training for the marathon. But I fully expect to lace up my shoes and run this marathon. I miss waving to you on the road. And it's a long road...

But you know what?

WE'VE MADE IT!! WE'VE DONE IT!! WE'VE RAISED $4,000!!

My assigned goal was $4,000 and we've done it, all of us. Together.

But you know what...

Although I've met my goal, the Leukemia Society has not. We have not yet found a cure for leukemia. That's why I'm now working on raising an extra $1,000. I need about $500 more to meet this goal. If each of the 60 Maryland marathoners participating in this event would raise an additional $1,000, that would be $60,000 more towards fighting leukemia.

Please help me achieve my NEW personal goal of $5,000

We made it! We raised $4,000, you and I, and my doggies, all of us. Thank you, thank you!!!

Fishing Regs To Be Discussed At Public Meetings

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources will hold a series of public meetings to hear comments and discuss proposed freshwater fishing regulations being considered for the year 2000.

"These meetings offer an opportunity for the department to discuss the state of our freshwater fisheries with the anglers who enjoy them," stated DNR Secretary John R. Griffin, "and to get their suggestions on upcoming regulatory changes."

The public meeting for Garrett and Allegany counties has been scheduled for Wednesday, May 12, in the Frostburg State University Louis Ort Library, Frostburg, beginning at 7 p.m.

Among the specific proposals to be discussed are: change the designation of the Youghiogheny River from the 1-68 bridge in Friendsville downstream to the Youghiogheny River Reservoir from Put-and-Take to Delayed Harvest to provide extended trout fishing opportunity; remove Broadford Lake from the special striped bass fishing areas list because it no longer has striped bass; reduce the sunfish creel limit of 15 in the Potomac River because of heavy fishing pressure; extend the Deep Creek Lake spring walleye closure (3/1-4/15) to the Youghiogheny River downstream of the Rt. 42 bridge; establish for yellow perch a 9-inch minimum size and 5-fish creel in all tidal waters, except reservoirs, lakes, ponds, and impoundments, and upstream thereof, to protect Chesapeake Bay stocks; and suggested closure dates for Put-and-Take areas for 2000, which are: March 5-25, March 19-25, April 9-15, and April 16-22.

The DNR's Freshwater Fisheries management activities are supported by federal Sportfish Restoration Program funds and fees from the sale of freshwater fishing licenses and trout stamps.

CASTING THE FISH UPON THE WATERS - A rainbow of trout fall from the net of Department of Natural Resources fisheries employee Mike Wolford as he tosses a netful into the pond at Oakland's Glades Park. DNR personnel stocked the pond with 250 fish last week in its second stocking of the spring season. The rainbow trout were raised at the Bear Creek Hatchery, and fishing is currently open at the Liberty Street pond for adults possessing a valid fishing license, while children under 16 do not need to purchase a license. Some of the 16-month-old rainbows are shown below, which weighed in at an average of 8-10 ounces and sported a 9-12 inch length. DNR also stocks the Accident town pond, lakes at Broadford Park and Herrington Manor State Park, and Deep Creek Lake, as well as numerous flowing waterways in the county. After a short closure period, many Garrett County streams will reopen for fishing this Saturday at 5:30 a.m. (Proving once again that the early worm gets the fish.)

against the significant progress being made towards revitalizing Oakland. As you know, the town is in the midst of rebuilding itself. This effort includes the revitalization of the historic train station that will soon become a new town center, and the Main Street program that is bringing new attention and economic expertise which are just beginning to show real results. It may also be important to note that this project comes at an outlay of state and local effort and expenditure. It is essential that during this process Oakland does not have significant portions of its visitors and workforce removed from the area. After adjusting to the departure of the Bausch and Lomb workforce, the 21550 zip code area should not be burdened with yet another major departure of a significant portion of the working population.

Furthermore, it is my understanding that several very affordable sites, as well as development options, are being offered in the Oakland area to the health department. It is for all of these very significant and logical reasons that you are being asked to reconsider recommendations made by your appointed committee that the Garrett County Health Department be removed from the Oakland area.

Sincerely,
Glenn P. Tolbert
Oakland Main Street
Program Manager

Note: The following is an addendum to the preceding letter.

Commissioners:

This correspondence is a follow-up to a fax sent Friday, April 9, and comes after a discussion with Garrett County Health Director Rodney Glotfelty. Mr. Glotfelty felt it was important that the following information be conveyed in addition to the reasons outlined in the earlier correspondence for your consideration in any decisions regarding the location of a new health facility;

1) The fact that Oakland is a designated National and State Main Street Community can be of importance when grants are applied for through state and federal funding sources;

2) The fact that Oakland is a designated neighborhood revitalization area is also significant to access any funding through the Department of Housing and Community Development;

3) The fact that Oakland is one of the county's priority funding areas is also of significance in funding concerns;

4) The fact that the Oakland Main Street program and its highly organized committees would be willing to assist the Health Department in any grant and proposal writing.

This last factor is more significant than it may initially seem because these committees are composed of members who have a great deal of experience in grant and proposal writing and who also have many years of professional service in various financial arenas.

Thank you for your consideration, and should you have any questions please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,
Glenn Tolbert
Oakland Main Street
Program Manager

To the Editor:

I really don't think I want a Wal-Mart. Our town doesn't need a Wal-Mart. It doesn't kill people to go to Keyser. It's not that far. Our town puts 80% of its profits back into the community. Wal-mart would only put about 20%. So many businesses would have to close down. Grocery stores wouldn't do as much business and neither would places like Rudy's, Gregg's Pharmacy, Englander's, Treasure Island, and several others.

I do realize that it will give a lot of people jobs, but what happens when Wal-Mart doesn't get enough customers to stay open? You are going to have a lot of people out of work.

I think that if we get one it's going to create a lot of problems. I really don't see why we need a Wal-Mart.

Rachel Paugh
Junior, SHS

To the Editor:

I do not think a Wal-Mart would benefit our community much. It will take out a lot of land and small shops in town. I, coming from Baltimore, have seen what Wal-Marts do to communities — they suck the life right out of all of them. In my old town, we were a bit bigger than Oakland, but a Wal-Mart came in and then so did the Giant and other new shops. When I left Baltimore, there was talk of a shopping mall coming in.

I came from a town called Sykesville/Eldersburg, about 10 minutes away from Baltimore County. Our population doubled and our schools were over-crowded. More and more developers came in, building more and more houses for more people to come and move in on our small town. We moved to Oakland for the nature, atmosphere, and the small town life. If you put a Wal-Mart in, that will be taken away.

the Technology Resource Teacher (TRT) program by providing stipends for TRTs. Objective 2 is to continue the TRT program by providing a long-term substitute for one teacher to serve as "countywide" TRT to work primarily in elementary schools.

Objective 3 is to provide staff development for TRTs and teachers at schools served by TRTs. Objective 4 would provide access to up-to-date computers for all TRTs; and the final objective, 5, is to provide an additional computer per classroom at Broad Ford and Grantsville elementary schools.

The total budget for Trautwein's proposal is $175,000, which is the maximum grant allowed.

GEAR UP PROPOSAL

JoAnn Vent, supervisor of career and technology programs for the schools, presented the vision and goals of Gear Up grant request.

The proposal was developed by a group comprising writers from the Garrett and Allegany county boards of education, Garrett Community College, Allegany College of Maryland, Frostburg State University, and RESA. The purpose of the collaborative plan is "to give students the skills, encouragement, and preparation needed to pursue post secondary education," Vent stated.

She described the tools that would be used to put college within the grasp of many capable students. "The Gear Up vision is to make college possible through early intervention, increased parental involvement, community support, academically challenging courses, and providing the person, academic and financial support for the students," Vent outlined.

Long-term goals that Vent listed in the Gear Up proposal included increasing the number of students who are prepared to go to college and succeed; strengthening academic programs and student services; building an "academic pipeline" from school to college; increasing parent involvement; and raising standards of academic achievement for all students.

Vent explained that the new program would be significantly expanded over the current early college intervention program. "The Gear Up grant monies would be used to expand services to all students in a grade level," she said.

Among the activities of the program would be college visitations, cultural enrichment activities, parental involvement activities, remediation, and academic enrichment activities. "The parental involvement is so important. The more the parents are involved, the better the chances are for success," Vent emphasized.

Funding requests quoted by Vent will be $500 per seventh grade student for a 5-year period. "This would be equal to approximately $200,000 per year for Garrett County," she concluded.

To the Members of St. Mark's Lutheran Church:

As a member of St. Mark's Building Committee, I will say I am not a well understood person. My assessments and statements are rather fast and right to the point. I am not afraid to say what I feel and where I am going, or what I stand for. My company demands decisions every day. Ninety percent of our work comes from bids. Some bids take two hours, some take a couple of days, and some more than two weeks. Some can make or break the company, and there are many who want their jobs done yesterday!

As for St. Mark's church (the building, and not the people), I have great difficulty in calling it my home, even though my children went to Sunday School here, were married here, and it has been our place of worship since 1972.

From the first service in our present church building in 1975 and from my first solo, the problems were obvious; the acoustics, the poor choir facilities, no rest rooms on the main floor for the congregation, a Sunday School in the basement with no windows and classes separated by folding walls that are sound transparent, a narthex with just enough room to hang your coat and for the choir to stand before the service, no social hall with adequate facilities for wedding parties, funerals, and dinners on the main floor, no parking, and, above all, no room to grow.

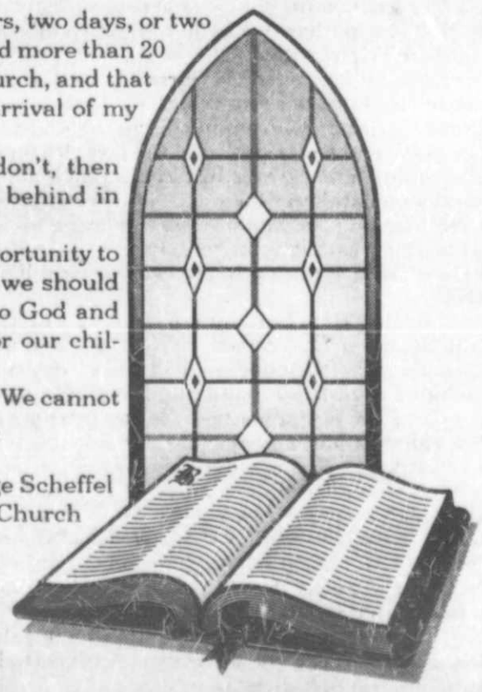
My decisions are not based on two hours, two days, or two weeks when my church is the subject. I have had more than 20 years to know that there is a need for a new church, and that need has been growing, especially since the arrival of my grandchildren and more coming.

If you want to grow, you will. If you don't, then don't do anything. But you will surely be left behind in this new-style world.

We stand at the threshold of a great opportunity to expand and grow. When we leave this world, we should leave knowing that we gave something back to God and our church, a church which can then grow for our children and grandchildren.

Say a prayer; make something happen. We cannot predict the future, but please look at the signs.

George Scheffel
Member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church



P.S. Please attend this Sunday's congregational meeting after the 10 a.m. church service. Also, sometime soon, pay a visit to our Sunday School while in session. Thanks.

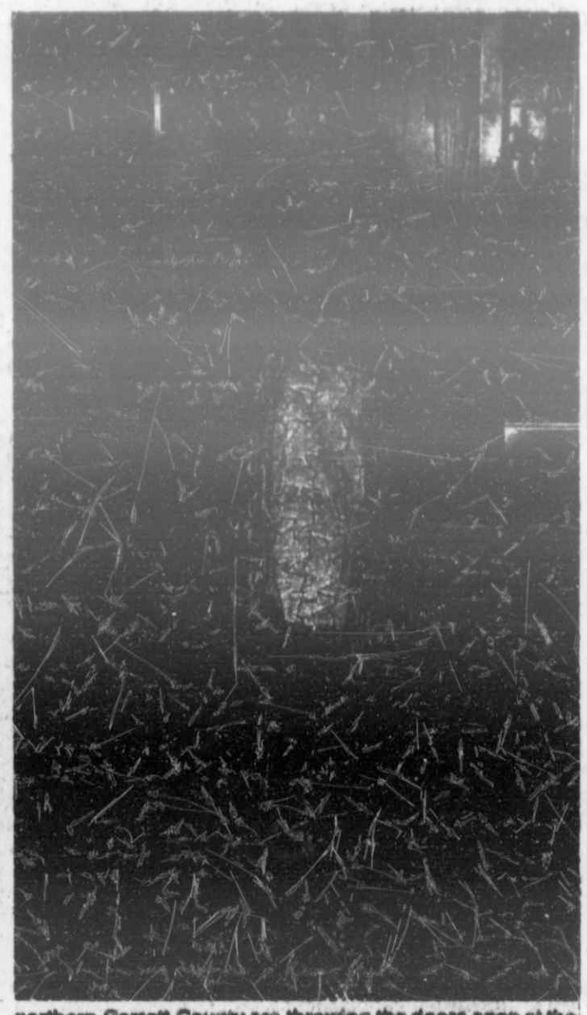
Las Vegas Night To Help Buy NHS Band Uniforms

A Las Vegas Night is scheduled Saturday evening at the Grantsville American Legion to benefit the Northern High School band's uniform fund. The event is being offered by the NHS band in cooperation with Northern Garrett Lions Clubs. Members from the Deep Creek, Friendsville, and Grantsville clubs will help stage this fund-raiser.

The NHS band boosters, who help support band activities, sought the help of the Lions clubs to raise the money needed to update the uniforms. "Those currently worn just concluded their 12th season covering NHS band members. And the wear is showing," said band director Bill Robinson.

The band is presently the reigning State Champion Group I marching band, as well as Chapter 13 TOB champion. In addition to school presentations, the band performs in the local area throughout the year, presenting concerts and participating in community parades during the summer months.

"The band needs to raise $25,000 to purchase new uniforms and hopes that the Las Vegas night will contribute greatly to the fund," Robinson concluded.



HAVING A FIT? Not exactly. These Northern High School band members are demonstrating the need to re-outfit the marching musicians. The current uniforms in the band wardrobe were purchased when these students were pre-schoolers. The price tag for this new clothing will run about $25,000. The band and its supporters have raised nearly half of this amount already. To help raise the remaining monies to pay the tab, several service clubs in northern Garrett County are throwing the doors open at the American Legion Post 214 in Grantsville for a gala Las Vegas Night on Saturday at 8 p.m. Members of the community are invited to join in the fun and help the band suit up with a little more style than the fashion statements made by junior Stacy Stein, left, and freshman Randi Beller. Stacy really doesn't want to have to grow to fit these pants.

DOVE CENTER INSIGHTS

Child Molesters

by Linda Spassil
Executive Director, The Dove Center

Contrary to popular opinion, the child molester is a relatively young, heterosexual man who is neither insane, nor retarded, nor sexually frustrated. He seeks to control the child more than to injure him/her and most of the time poses more of a psychological than a physical risk to the child. His behavior is highly repetitive, often to the point of compulsion, rather than seeing the result of a temporary lapse of judgment while in the state of intoxication. His is a symptom and imprisonment alone is insufficient to remedy the underlying causes for his behavior problem.

Child molesters, or pedophiles, can be classified according to their pattern of molesting as either fixated or regressed. Some child molesters (fixated) have from an early age been sexually attracted to persons younger than themselves. They avoid relationships with adults, fearing rejection. They find children less demanding than adults and more likely to be accepting of them as persons. They experience no sense of regret or of the inappropriateness of their behavior with children. Other child molesters (regressed) preferred adult sexual partners until adult relationships began to present difficulties and conflicts. Faced with this stress, they turned their attention to children. They feel inadequate to deal with adult responsibilities, and so retreat and use children as an emotional and sexual outlet.

The child molester gains sexual access to a child in one of two ways. He may pressure the child by offering a reward, telling the child that all girls and boys do this, offering instructions ("Let me teach you a new game"). The offender wants approval and affection from the child, and so seeks out a cooperative victim. Any resistance on the child's part will often discourage him. Other child molesters will use verbal or physical force to gain access to the child. A child's resistance in this situation is not likely to be effective. In any child molesting situation, the offender uses his position of authority, power, or physical strength to take advantage of a child's vulnerability.

The child molester is usually known to his victim. He may be a family member, family friend, neighbor, babysitter, teacher or pastor. The molester who is known to his victim also takes advantage of whatever trust relationship may have developed between them.

The vast majority of child molesters (whether they offend against males or females) identify themselves as heterosexual. Occasionally, they are bisexual, and rarely they are homosexual. The all-too-common belief that child molesters are homosexuals "recruiting" young children has no basis in fact.

Offenders who approach young boys indicate that they are attracted by the boy's feminine characteristics, i.e., the absence of secondary sex characteristics like body hair, and are repulsed by the thought of sexual contact with an adult male. It appears then that the heterosexual adult constitutes more of a threat of sexual victimization to the underage child than does the homosexual adult. Then, in an effect to protect children effectively from child molesters, attention should be focused on the heterosexuals or homosexuals who are offenders, rather than homosexuals as a group, who are least likely to be offenders.

Incestuous assault represents at least 50 percent of the sexual abuse of children by someone they know. The offender is a family member, usually father or step-father, and sometimes uncle, grandfather, brother, live-in-boyfriend or foster parent. In less than 1 percent of reported cases, the offender is a female relative. Child sexual abuse within the family may be a part of a pattern of family violence which may also include other forms of child or spouse abuse by the offender. His feelings of inadequacy, low self-esteem, and isolation, coupled with poor impulse control and ready access to children in the family, create a potentially abusive situation. The incest offender is often a very rigid and authoritative person who espouses a strict moral code, especially in regard to sexual matters. Somehow he accommodates his moral code in his pattern of sexual abuse of children. While he would never seek out a prostitute, he does not question the morality or appropriateness of using a child as sexual outlet. He prefers to "keep it in the family."

A majority of sex offenders experienced physical and/or sexual abuse as children, most frequently by someone known to them. These early experiences, in which there was probably no intervention or assistance for the child victim, contribute significantly to poor self image, lack of trust in relationships, and anger. Understanding that some aspects of the offender's own early experiences may contribute to his assaultive behavior in no way excuses his attacks, but it can enable more effective rehabilitation which benefits all members of society. It also clearly points to the need to provide effective intervention and counseling for both male and female victims of abuse. This is one way to begin to break the cycle of abusive behavior which seems to be so easily passed from generation to generation.

On the Death of Our Mother... Charlotte May Arbelada

I would like to express gratitude on behalf of my brother, Jose N. Arbelada Jr., and myself for the friendship, kindness and generosity afforded our mother during her eleven-year residence in Friendsville.

My mother moved to Garrett County at the age of 73, after a two year search for a retirement home. Our goal was to remove her from the crime, the noise and the pollution of the city. My input was to find a house on a hill with a porch and a view of mountains or the sea. I said, "You should want to go to your window every morning to see what the weather is in the sky, the hills and below." We found that home on Blooming Rose Hill.

At that time her house stood alone on the hill. So, her first friends were the birds and the animals of the surrounding fields. (One day this included some stray cows on her lawn.) Next the people of the post office and the library came to her aid. Soon the shopkeepers and store owners were among her acquaintances. Finally, she attended Grace Lutheran Church of Friendsville. Here she came to share her oldest and best friend that she brought with her from Baltimore. That friend, of course, was her music. And the fact that so many people wanted to share her music with her gave her a reason to live.

Once again, I want to say thank you for the love and support given my mother, my brother and me through these years.

John R. Arbelada

Allegheny Power Y2K Drill Said To Be Successful

Allegheny Power announced that it successfully completed a year 2000 (Y2K) drill last Friday, as part of its Y2K contingency planning effort. Coordinated by the North American Electric Reliability Council (NERC), the nationwide drill tested electric utilities' ability to operate the electric system with limited voice and data communications.

"The drill was successful because we were able to meet our goal of transmitting data through our back-up communication systems," said Ken Jones, vice president and Y2K project manager. "Allegheny Energy has made Y2K readiness a top priority, and we plan to continue our testing program throughout the year to ensure a smooth transition into 2000. We are on target to meet our June 30 deadline to have all systems that directly affect safety and the production and distribution of electricity ready for operation in the year 2000."

The primary purpose of the drill was to demonstrate how Allegheny Power would continue to generate, transmit, and deliver electricity if its usual communication channels were disrupted. As part of the drill, back-up communications, such as two-way radios and company-owned microwave telecommunications systems, were used to transmit critical operating data.

"We will use lessons learned from Friday's drill to refine our Y2K contingency plans," said Jones. Officials from Allegheny Power, NERC, and other electric utilities will summarize, share, and learn from drill results.

To prepare for Y2K, Jones said Allegheny Power will devote around 80,000 employee hours to the project, spend as much as $20 million, and participate in two industry-wide Y2K drills. The company's contingency planning will include significantly increased staffing in critical areas on New Year's Eve 1999. Key personnel will be on the job at power stations, substations, and other important locations.

Headquartered near Hagerstown, Allegheny Energy Inc., with public utility subsidiaries doing business as Allegheny Power, provides electric service to approximately 3 million people in parts of Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia.

FSC Technology Programs Linked To GCC, High Schools

New educational opportunities for Northern and Southern high school students who want to pursue degrees in engineering or aviation technology have been made possible by an agreement recently articulated between Garrett Community College, Fairmont State College in West Virginia, and the Garrett County Board of Education.

Students who have successfully completed courses in Electronics I, II, III, and Electronics Lab with a grade of "B" or better in high school will be eligible to have these courses articulated with college courses at GCC, according to Dr. Lillian Mitchell, GCC's dean of academic affairs, thereby earning 12 college credits for their high school studies. These articulated credits will be transferred to Fairmont State College in the Electronics Engineering Technology and Aviation Technology programs.

This articulation agreement becomes effective in the fall semester of 1999. Effective in the fall semester of 2000, Mechanical Engineering Technology, Civil Engineering Technology, Architectural Engineering Technology, and Manufacturing Engineering Technology will be articulated and accessible to students under the same format.

Garrett County students enrolling in these programs will have the opportunity to take the equivalent of one year of course work at GCC before transferring to Fairmont State College under the Academic Common Market. Students entering the program under the Academic Common Market are granted West Virginia in-state tuition rates and must have their admission approved by the Maryland Higher Education Commission and the West Virginia Department of Education. Upon enrollment at FSC, faculty and advisors will guide students in their career path and course work. Both programs offer students the opportunity to attain a bachelor of science degree.

"Using the resources of all three institutions, we will be able to provide Northern and Southern high school students with a seamless path for academic progression through these specialized career studies," Dr. Mitchell said. "This agreement will make the completion of a four-year college degree affordable to Garrett County residents."

New Members Of Hospital Board Are Announced

Joyce Bishoff, chairman of the board of governors for Garrett County Memorial Hospital, has announced that Carl O. Roberts, Frances Gnegy, and Brenda J. Butscher are the newest members of the governing board.

Carl Roberts holds a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from North Carolina State University. Over a 30-year employment with NASA, Roberts was responsible for systems integration for the NASA Project Mercury ground network and played a major role in the Gemini/Agena communications network, the Apollo Tracking Ships, and the Apollo Range Instrumentation Aircraft. He served as the network director for the Apollo 11 mission and was responsible for communications and tracking systems for many other NASA projects.

During his career with NASA, Roberts received numerous performance and achievement awards. Prior to retirement, he served as the director of telecommunications at Goddard Space Flight Center at Greenbelt. Upon retirement, he established Roberts & Associates, a telecommunications consulting firm.

Roberts is vice president of the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, vice president of the Millhouse Manor Homeowners Association, member of the Oakland Elks, and a counselor in the AARP Income Tax Counseling Program in Garrett County. He and his wife Nita reside along Mayhew Inn Road at Deep Creek Lake.

Frances Gnegy resides in Pleasant Valley with her husband Troy, and they are the owners of Gnegy Construction. She is a housewife/homemaker and is the mother of five children. She is a member of the Garrett County Historical Society and the Mountain Laurel Garden Club. She attends the Faith Evangelical Free Church, where she is a deaconess and also serves on the Building Committee and Ladies Mission Committee.

NEW GCMH BOARD MEMBERS - The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board of Governors, the governing entity for the hospital, added three new members recently. They are, pictured from left: Carl O. Roberts, Frances Gnegy, and Brenda J. Butscher. Each was named either an appointee or designee by the three Garrett County commissioners. See story for details.

Brenda Butscher is presently the executive director of Hospice of Garrett County Inc. She is chairman of the Garrett County Republican Central Committee, a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, the Garrett County Historical Society, the Oakland Civic Club, Northern Garrett Republican Women, Grantsville Area Business & Professional Women, the Garrett County Farm Bureau, and an associate member of the Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge #99, and the National Hospice Organization.

Butscher has had an active political career, having served as a former Garrett County commissioner (elected in 1990). She has served on many boards, including the GCMH Board of Governors, Community Action Board, ex officio of the Board of Education, Western MD Health Systems Agency, Emergency Management Planning Committee, Yough Advisory Board, Social Service Board, and the board of directors for the Hospital Network of MD.

Butscher has received the honor of "Woman of the Year" in 1994 by the Business & Professional Women; was inducted into the GC Women's Hall of Fame 1997; and most recently selected for inclusion in the book Woman of Achievement in Maryland History in the chapter on "Law and Public Service," to be published soon. She is married to Harry Dunkin, and is the mother of two children, James Butscher and Lisa Butscher Friend.

On the GCMH Board of Governors, Roberts serves as designee for Commissioner Fred Holliday; Frances Gnegy serves as an appointee of Commissioner Ernest Gregg; and Brenda Butscher serves as designee for Commissioner Wendell Beitzel.

Appalachian Lab Sets Open House In Frostburg

The new Appalachian Laboratory, one of three laboratories within the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science (UMCES), will host an open house with tours, exhibits, and other activities on Saturday, April 24, from 2 to 4:30 p.m. The Appalachian Lab is located in Frostburg along Braddock Road.

The open house will provide an opportunity for people of all ages to tour the new building while learning about the forest, landscape, stream, and wildlife research that takes place within. UMCES scientists, students, and staff will highlight current environmental challenges from the damage that gypsy moths cause to the role of forests in protecting the Chesapeake Bay. Visitors can talk with experts about controlling the effects of acid mine drainage and acid rain, explore some of the high tech equipment used to measure the importance of soil in a forest, and learn more about fish farming and wildlife behavior.

"We are delighted to welcome everyone into the marvelous, new Appalachian Laboratory," stated laboratory director Dr. Lou Pitelka. "With its modern instrumentation and controlled environmental facilities we can greatly expand our research on the forests, streams, and wildlife of the Chesapeake Bay watershed."

UMCES is the lead institution for coastal environmental research within the University System of Maryland. Its three laboratories — Appalachian Laboratory in western Maryland, Chesapeake Biological Laboratory in southern Maryland, and Horn Point Laboratory on Maryland's Eastern Shore — are strategically located to provide access to Maryland's principal environments and their natural resources. UMCES faculty members conduct research on coastal environmental problems locally, nationally, and worldwide.

Refreshments will be available at the open house. For more information, interested persons may call 301-689-7102. For further information on the UMCES the center's web site can be accessed at www.umces.edu.

Info Meeting On Fishery Canceled In Friendsville

The meeting originally scheduled for Tuesday, April 20, in Friendsville to discuss the delayed harvest fishery on the Youghiogheny River has been canceled.

Proposed by the Department of Natural Resources at last month's town meeting, the concept of a delayed harvest project met with opposition from town residents, according to the town clerk. As a result of response to the delayed harvest fishing site, the mayor and council members decided against the proposal.

Walk For Hospice Set Saturday At Deep Creek Park

Hospice of Garrett County will sponsor the Fourth Annual "Walk For Hospice" Saturday, April 17, at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. and the walk will start at 10 a.m.

The top three prizes for walkers will be an RCA Camcorder, with a 3-inch color display panel and 32:1 zoom electronic image stabilization full function remote; a Sanyo 25" TV/VCR; and a basket of Beanie Babies. Many prizes of Nike and Adidas sports apparel will also be awarded.

Sponsor collection prizes will include: a pair of tennis socks for a $25 collection; a ball cap and tennis socks for a $50 collection; and a travel clock, ball cap, and tennis socks for a $100 collection. In addition, each walker will receive a 20 oz. bottle of Aqua Fina water.

Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice, said she hopes to find many residents taking the challenge to help Hospice. "We are looking forward to having a large turnout. This is our fourth annual walk, and we appreciate the support we have received and the many people who give their Saturday morning to help raise money to care for the terminally ill in Garrett County," she stated.

For information on the event persons may call the Hospice office at 301-334-5151, or from the Grantsville area, 800-521-5252.

Refreshments will be served following the walk.

STEPPING OUT FOR HOSPICE - These smart stepping striders will join many other county residents on Saturday for the fourth annual Walk for Hospice at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Those who put on their walking shoes and step lively to collect pledges will also be in the "running" for some mighty nice prizes. Getting their leg muscles in shape for the event in the foreground are Melissa DiSimone from Browning's Foodland and Susan Newton of College and Me. In the background are Carole Walker of Deep Creek Lake State Park and Hospice volunteer Floesie Roy.

Student Named By USAA As National Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy (USAA) has announced that Sean Buckle, a student at Southern Middle School, has been named a national award winner in the category of science. The USAA recognizes fewer than 10% of all American high school students for its awards.

The student is the son of Terry and Gillian Shreve, Oakland, and the grandson of Audrey Neale of Rubery, England. He was nominated for this award by teacher Bill Janoske.

The USAA selects winners upon the recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors, or other qualified individuals. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, motivation, dependability, and other positive attributes.

Town Hall

FRIENDSVILLE

The informational meeting on the delayed harvest fishery, originally scheduled for Tuesday, has been canceled.

DEER PARK

The town will pick up tires from residences within the town limits prior to the county's tire amnesty day, April 24. To arrange pick-up, residents must call town hall Monday through Friday, 4-7 p.m., to make arrangements.

MTN. LAKE PARK

The town meeting was held Tuesday, April 13.

- Ron Petrella from the Garrett Sanitary District met with the mayor and council to discuss the possibility of managing water and sewer services on behalf of the town. The council will consider this matter for review at a later date.
- Several residents voiced concern about a vacant fire-damaged neighborhood property. The town will contact the property owners.
- Spring paving projects and installation of a storm drain on Pensinger Blvd. were discussed.
- Building applications for three residences were approved. Two will be build by Habitat for Humanity.
- Town attorney Robert Watson is pursing the annexation of the Parkwood.
- The council will give residents a tax discount of 3% for July and August.
- Tires will be picked up at residences on April 23 for tire amnesty day.
- The town will not participate in the summer youth project this year.
- The mayor signed a cable community cooperative agreement, along with Loch Lynn, Deer Park, Mtn. Lake Park, and Oakland. The towns will work together for program provider selection.
- The council confirmed that the town regulations stipulate that any absentee ballot must be picked up in person and delivered to the town hall seven days prior to a municipal election. There will be no exceptions made.
- Bids will be requested for town trash collection.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, April 27.

VISITING THE GARRETT COUNTY AIRPORT last month, Head Start students from the Oakland center were treated to a tour of the facilities and airplane rides by Ron and Brenda Dolan of Plane Aviation. The children and the parent volunteers who accompanied them also had the opportunity to look at a helicopter owned by Buzz and Peggy Goenell, Buffalo Coal Company. This was one many community field trips the children take throughout the year.

SEBOLD SERVES AS PAGE — Ann Sebold, a senior at Northern High School, recently spent two weeks in Annapolis serving as a page. The student, who is the daughter of Don and Charlotte Sebold, McHenry, reported that she ran errands for the delegates and organized bill books. She also had the opportunity to work in committee. "The second week I was there was very interesting because the tobacco tax, assisted suicide prohibition, and electricity deregulation were voted on," she said. "I appreciated the opportunity to represent Garrett County in Annapolis." Ann is pictured with Hafer at left and Edwards at right.

OTT's Saturday Kidstuff Classes To Recommence

Our Town Theatre will resume Kidstuff Children's Classes for three Saturdays, according to Jane Avery, artistic director.

"Kidstuff was very well attended in January and February," Avery said. "We offered so many activities during March for women's month that we weren't able to continue with our classes, but now we have a little more time freed up."

Avery went on to explain that the 90-minute classes feature stories, movement, creative dramatics, and some sort of craft or art project for children from kindergarten through fifth grade.

"The time flies by, and the children are wonderful to work with — exceptionally creative and very well-behaved," Avery said.

The three classes will be offered on April 17, April 24, and May 8, from 1 until 2:30 p.m. each day. Adults must make reservations for their children for each class and may do so by calling 301-334-5640 and leaving a message, which will be confirmed.

"We need to know how many children to plan for," commented Avery. "I'd hate to run out of materials or have groups that are so large that not all of the children would have the chance to perform."

Reservations should be made as soon as possible and will be taken until 10 a.m. on the day of the class. To participate in the classes, students are asked to give modest donations to the theatre.

Man Arrested

Labutka's vehicle. He was arrested and taken to the Garrett County Jail pending a hearing. He has since been released on his own recognizance.

Drug/Driving Violations

An arrest for traffic and drug violations was reported by police on Sunday at 12:25 a.m. on Route 219 near Bumble Bee Road.

Joseph Allen Harper Jr., 20, Parsons, W.Va., was operating a Chevrolet S-10 truck when he was stopped by a trooper from the McHenry barrack for an equipment violation. A check of the driver's license revealed that Harper's privilege to drive in Maryland had been suspended for driving while intoxicated, the police reported.

Prior to his arrest, a search of the suspect's vehicle produced a plastic canister described by police as containing suspected marijuana.

Harper was placed in the Garrett County Jail pending a bond hearing. He has since been released on his own recognizance.

Stikes Deer

Patricia Ann Michaels, Swanton, was injured last evening when a deer entered the roadway in front of her vehicle as she was traveling on Broadford Road around 8 p.m. Her vehicle reportedly swerved, struck a culvert and overturned.

Southern Rescue Squad transported Michaels to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. No charges were filed by police.

Amnesty Day

tires to cover costs associated with shipping and disposal at alternative processing facilities.

Sponsored by the Garrett County commissioners and the Maryland Environmental Service, the event will be funded through the Maryland Department of the Environment's Tire Fund. The fund was established by the General Assembly in 1991 as part of the Scrap Tire Recycling Act. It is funded by the collection of a $1 per tire fee on the sale of each new tire in the state.

Interested persons may obtain more information on the tire amnesty event by calling the Solid Waste and Recycling Office at 301-387-0322. Information concerning the event to be held in Allegany County can be obtained by contacting Jim Williams, recycling coordinator, at 301-777-5857.

Board Hears

nationwide board accreditation involves nearly a year of preparation and compilation of materials for a portfolio, Neal explained.

To become eligible to participate in the program teachers must apply to the state board of education for acceptance into the program. Three Garrett County educators have taken the initial step of applying. "The names of three of our science teachers are being forwarded to the state board, along with the names of other teachers from across the state," Neal explained.

Michelle Harman, Bruce Taliaferro, and Gayle Farrar have started "rigorous" procedure for acceptance into the certification program, she reported.

FINE ARTS GRANT

Dr. Donald D. Forrester, director of curriculum and instruction, PreK-5, informed board members of a recently approved $25,000 fine arts grant. The Maryland State Board of Education approved the funding based on the recommendation of the Arts Education In Maryland Schools Consortium, he reported.

These funds will be used to support activities including the summer rewriting of the current fine arts program by eight high school teachers of physical education, music, theater, and dance. Under the direction of a staff facilitator, this writing team will evaluate, revise, amend, and rewrite the fine arts program for grades 9-12.

In addition eight fine arts teachers from the two county high schools will participate in a five-day in-service workshop to develop units and lesson plans to support the implementation of the revised high school program.

A fine arts advisory committee will be established to oversee for the implementation of the new fine arts program.

Dr. Forrester also explained that the same developmental steps would be followed for the middle school during the summer of 2000.

LIFE IS BEAUTIFUL (LA VITA E BELLA)

Rated PG-13 - Running time: 1:54

Most movies attempt to fulfill the simple goal of providing the audience with a few hours of entertainment. This is a perfectly adequate objective. But occasionally there is a film that reaches farther; that plumbs the depths of the human soul and shows us what we are capable of, both good and bad. La Vita è Bella, a masterful interweaving of comedy and tragedy which reminds us of this duality in life, is such a film.

We've become familiar of late with Italian actor/writer/director Roberto Benigni, watching his enthusiastic, barely intelligible speeches at the awards ceremonies where he has been honored. As well as starring him, La Vita è Bella was written and directed by Benigni (co-written by Vincenzo Cerami), based partly on his father's stories of life at Bergen-Belsen concentration camp during World War II. We have seen other great films dealing with this subject, such as Sophie's Choice and Schindler's List, but Benigni's decision to introduce comedy to the subject is different. It is risky; one is in danger of making a Hogan's Heroes-style mockery of such a tragedy, and there are traces of this problem evident in this film. But mostly it is a masterpiece.

La Vita è Bella is presented in two acts. The first half is funny and lighthearted, reminiscent of an early Bob Hope film. Benigni plays Guido Orefice, a poor but friendly Jewish man in 1930s Italy. He and his brother Ferruccio (Sergio Bini Bustric) move to a small city and Guido gets a job as a waiter in a fancy restaurant. With his wit, charm, and a propensity for quick thinking, he makes many friends despite the growing anti-Semitic feeling of the time under Mussolini's fascist regime. He repeatedly runs into (and I mean that literally) an attractive young woman named Dora (Nicoletta Braschi) who teaches at the local elementary school. Dora is not Jewish, and she is engaged to an important man in the town, but she is unhappy with the arrangement and finally Guido wins her heart and they are married.

Act two begins several years after Guido and Dora are married. He now owns a small bookstore in town and they have a young son named Giosué (translated as "Joshua" in the subtitles). Though the fascist grip is tightening, Guido manages fairly well and Giosué (Giorgio Cantarini) often helps out at the store. Then one day Dora comes home to find that Guido and Giosué have been taken away. She goes to the local train station where Jews are being loaded into cattle cars, and decides to go along rather than be separated from her family.

From this point, as can be expected, the film takes a decidedly morose turn, but this is where Benigni's genius comes into play. In order to protect his son from the horror of the situation, Guido makes up a fantastic story that they are involved in some sort of complex game, that the Nazis are the other team, and following certain rules (like staying hidden and never talking) will allow them to rack up points. Meanwhile, he makes every effort to communicate with his beloved wife, whom he knows is imprisoned elsewhere in the camp.

As has been seen in the awards ceremonies, Benigni seems to have unlimited energy. His buoyant delivery is reminiscent of Chaplin, and the love that makes him deceive his boy is evident, as is his love for Dora, played elegantly by Braschi (Benigni's real-life wife). Adding to the bittersweet charm of this film is the music, featuring Offenbach's "The Tales of Hoffmann," with additional original music by Nicola Piovani.

The choices we make, the crimes we commit, the depth of love we feel. All are represented with energy and passion in this excellent film. All are masterfully conceived and touchingly portrayed to represent Benigni's statement about the complex beauty of life and the elegant symmetry of its joys and hardships. ★★★★½

NEVER BEEN KISSED

Have you ever been in the position of trying to fit in, to be cool and impress your peers, when really they all think you're a loser who can't do anything right? Well, that must be the way Drew Barrymore feels at the completion of her first producing effort, Never Been Kissed. Written by Abby Kohn and Marc Silverstein, Never Been Kissed stars Barrymore as a 25-year-old Chicago journalist who has the chance to go back to high school and pretend to be a student—and maybe even fit in this time. But Barrymore's first production is neither fresh nor interesting, and is only another reiteration of the adolescent clash between the cool and the uncool.

Perhaps Barrymore's first mistake was hiring an inexperienced creative team. Director Raja Gosnell is really an editor with only one other directing credit to his name: the abysmal Home Alone 3. Writers Kohn and Silverstein collaborated before on the award-winning 1997 short film Fairfax Fandango. But if Never Been Kissed is the best they can do with a full-length feature, then perhaps they should stick to their shorts. Besides the half-baked premise, it's full of lame jokes, characters no deeper than a mud puddle, and a cloying "message" speech that is painful to sit through. Barrymore is at her cutesiest, again making liberal use of her famous dimples.

We all know the Chicago Sun-Times; it's where Roger Ebert works. Well, the Sun-Times is about to go out of business because it doesn't do enough high school stories. Editor-in-chief Mr. Rigfort (Garry Marshall, who belongs behind the camera, not in front of it) decides to send mousy city editor Josie Geller (Barrymore) undercover to South Glen South High School, posing as a student. Apparently there is no definite plan; she is just supposed to find something to write about.

Josie has never been one of the "in crowd," as we learn through recurring flashbacks of her own high school days, but she bravely prepares for the assignment. Attempting to blend in, she wears an all-white outfit (including a 6-foot feather boa) to school. She drops her books; she spills her chocolate milk, she trips over her high heels . . . you get the idea. She does make friends, but it's with the school brain (Leelee Sobieski). In order to really score the big story, she is told by her boss Gus (John C. Reilly), she must break in to the popular clique.

To the rescue comes Josie's brother Rob (David Arquette). He always wanted another try at a baseball career, so he enrolls, joins the team, and starts a propaganda blitz about how cool Josie is. While Rob is impressing the coach, Josie is impressing her classmates and developing a crush on English teacher Mr. Coulson (Michael Vartan). Also on hand is SNL's Molly Shannon, for no other reason than to give the cast list a little extra star power. Shannon plays Josie's co-worker who accidentally wanders into school and ends up giving the teens a lecture on sex.

Have you noticed yet that there's really no point to this story? You're right. There's something about Josie being pressured to do an exposé on Mr. Coulson's untoward affections, there's the old "popular versus unpopular" axe, and the love triangle between Josie, Mr. Coulson, and an amorous boy who is thought to be more her age (Jeremy Jordan). But from where I sat, Never Been Kissed should have Never Been Produced. There is one interesting thing to note, though: At Josie's high school, the colors are red and white, the mascot is the ram, and the uniforms have "SG" on them. Did anyone notice a film crew in Oakland within the last year? ★★

State, County Jobless Rates Both Increase

Seasonal employment declines, coupled with an increase in the number of job seekers entering the labor market, caused Maryland unemployment to edge up from 4.0 percent in January to 4.4 percent in February. Even with this increase, Maryland's unemployment rate is significantly lower than the 5.4 percent level a year ago, and employment was at a record high level for February.

"The seasonal increase in Maryland's unemployment rate is overshadowed by a significant rise in base employment levels," said John P. O'Connor, secretary of the Maryland Department of Labor, Licensing, and Regulation. "We are optimistic that record high employment levels will continue, and job opportunities in several industries will continue to increase as spring weather approaches."

Maryland's unemployment rate continues to be lower than the national rate which was reported at 4.7 percent in February.

Meanwhile, Garrett County's jobless rate increased from 12.4 percent in January to 13.1 percent in February, but was well below last February's rate of 17.0 percent.

Locally, labor force increases caused unemployment rates to rise, while each jurisdiction also recorded over-the-year declines in unemployment. During February, 11 jurisdictions reported unemployment rates at or below the statewide level. Howard County had the state's lowest unemployment rate of 2.1 percent. Significantly low unemployment rates also included 2.2 percent in Montgomery County, 3.1 percent in Charles County, 3.3 percent in Calvert County, 3.4 in Frederick County, and 3.5 percent in both Anne Arundel and St. Mary's counties — all more than a full percentage point below the statewide average.

During February, nearly 7,600 job seekers entered the labor market, raising the labor force to a record-breaking total for the month of 2,780,011. At the same time, lingering post-holiday layoffs pulled employment down from 2,661,370 to 2,658,701 and caused the number of unemployed people to increase to 121,310.

Employee recall activity boosted employment in a number of industries during February, including educational services, state and local education, and manufacturing. These upturns, supplemented by hiring in construction, at restaurants, and in a number of services industries, held down the impact of continuing post-holiday reductions in retail trade.

Local Students Attending Youth Leaders' Forum

Two Garrett County students will be among more then 250 young men and women from schools across the state attending the 1999 Maryland Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership (HOBY) Seminar. Sophomores Donna Schmidt, Northern High School, and Jared Fike, Southern High School, will participate in the four-day seminar in Columbia.

Students chosen for their demonstrated leadership and potential for continued leadership growth will meet with leaders in business, government, education, and the media to discuss present and future issues. The goal of the seminar is to provide the students with a forum for learning about the American incentive system and democratic process while broadening their understanding of their leadership potential and quest for self-development.

HOBY was established in 1958 by actor Hugh O'Brian, who said he was inspired to do so after meeting with Dr. Albert Schweitzer. "One of the things Schweitzer said to me was that the most important thing in education was to teach young people to think for themselves. From that inspiration, and with the support of others who believe in youth and the American dream, I started HOBY to seek out, recognize, and develop outstanding leadership potential among our nation's youth," O'Brian said.

HOBY is a non-tax supported foundation for youth leadership development in which all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and 30 different countries participate. The Maryland program is in its 21st year.

Readiness Urged For Storms And Power Outages

Severe thunderstorms, common throughout the spring season, can lead to disruption of electric service and cause power outages. Maryland residents are urged to plan ahead and be prepared in case they lose their power, said State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele.

"Prior to a storm, electrical devices such as computers, fax machines, and televisions should be turned off," the Fire Marshal said. "Also, everyone should keep away from downed wires of any kind and report them immediately to the power company or the police."

There are also several easy steps which residents can take to protect themselves from a home fire related to thunderstorms and power outages: Have several flashlights, a portable radio, and spare batteries in easily located places; do not use candles, open flame devices, or camping stoves indoors; turn off as many devices as possible during an outage; keep the power company's telephone number handy; and install and maintain battery operated smoke alarms in addition to hardwired units.

PLEASE DON'T EAT STRANGE LEAVES

Many plants and seeds can be very harmful if chewed or swallowed. Children especially are prone to this danger and should be cautioned to avoid them. Castor beans, poinsettia leaves, mistletoe, daffodils, hyacinth and narcissus are particularly dangerous. Some of them will cause vomiting and diarrhea and all of them have been known to be fatal.

If you suspect that someone has chewed or has swallowed a potentially harmful leaf or seed, get them to a physician without delay. Time is of great importance to avoid a possible tragedy.

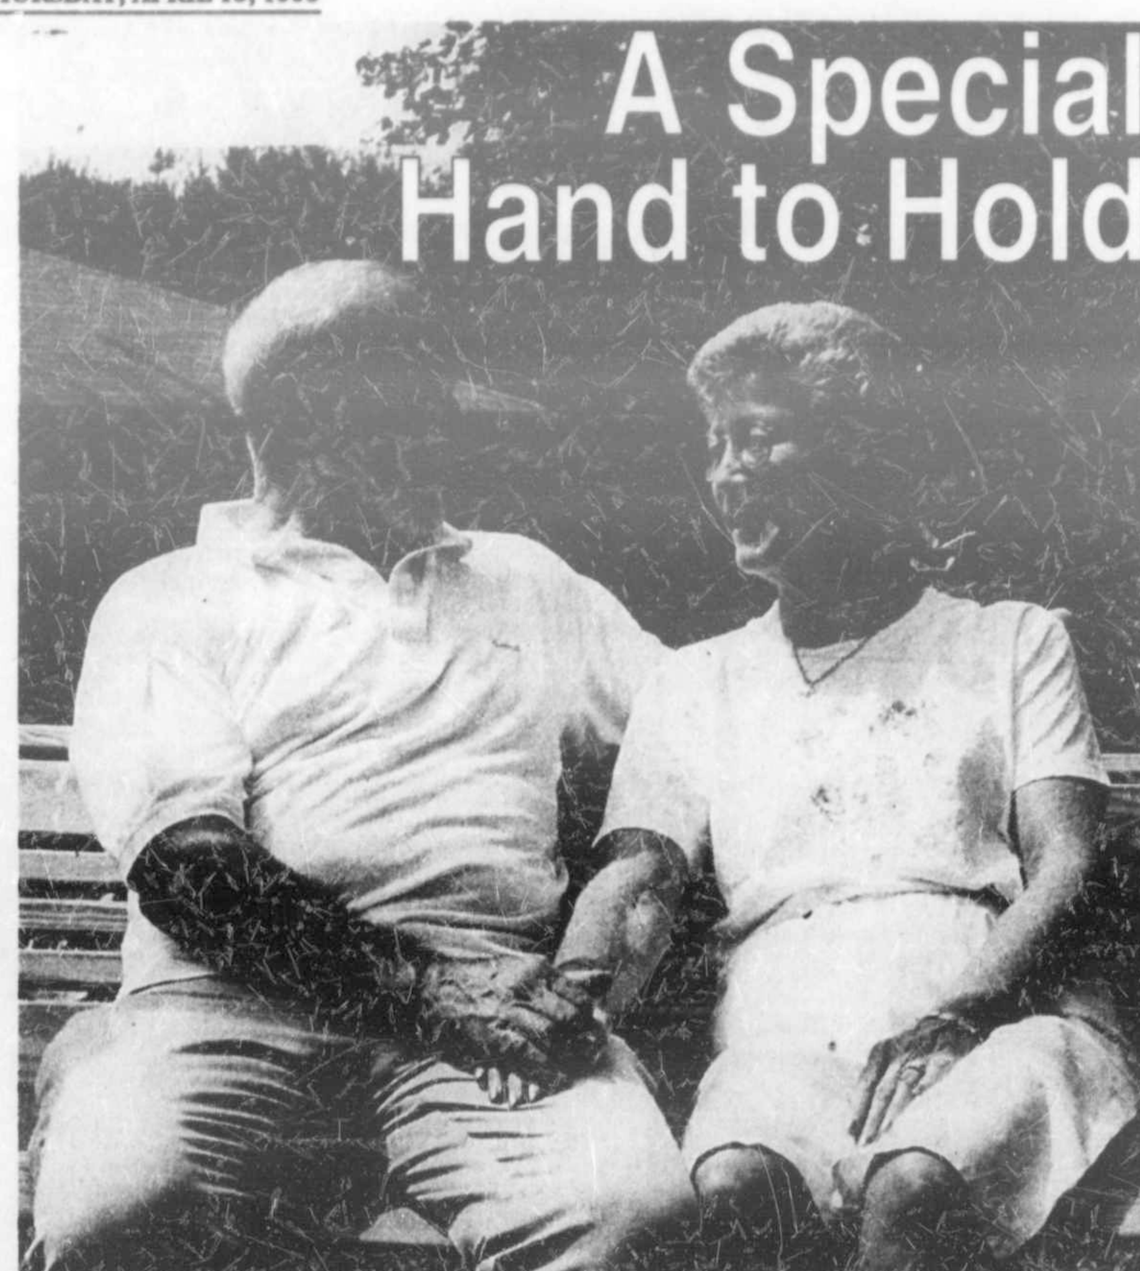
A Special Hand to Hold



Copyright 1999, Keister-Williams Newspaper Services, P. O. Box 8005, Charlottesville, VA 22906

From infancy, we need a hand to hold. The infant has fingers so tiny that all of them cannot encircle its mother's pinky. Then, we grow older, scampering alongside our parents, palm to palm…looking up with trust in young eyes.

A decade passes. Young love ensues. Fingers and hearts intertwine. Marriage comes; then children come…and go. The cycle repeats as grandchildren are born. We hold little hands that remind us of years past; once again palm against palm they look up at us with trust in young eyes.

An older couple sits on the porch. Their hands may have some wrinkles and spots, with fingers a bit stiff, but their love is fresh and exciting. Their hands hold the love born of years of yesterdays and the hope of more tomorrows.

One hand is gone now. The memorial service is over. The children and grandchildren are gone. Yet, there has always been God's hand through every moment. How good it is to reach out to Him now with trust in your eyes.

Hold God's hand as you worship this week.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

CHECK THE EXPIRATION DATE!
April 18, 1999

Background Scripture:
John 6:1-59
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 55:1-11

Thirty-one years ago I purchased and read a remarkable book, Twelve Baskets Full, by Margaret T. Applegarth. It is a book of unique and profound story-meditations based upon the account of Jesus feeding the 5,000. Few books have excited and inspired me as this book, the obvious intention of which is to help us see deeply beyond the raw details of the story.

This sixth chapter of John is written to help us look to the deeper and abiding meanings lurking below the surface of the obvious. We know the facts. Jesus and his disciples are beside the Sea of Galilee where they have been hunted down by a large multitude of people who have witnessed or heard about Jesus' signs. But these people will be hungry, and neither Jesus nor his little band have the bread to feed them or the money to buy it.

Then Jesus performs another sign: using a lad's five barley loaves and two fish, he is able to feed the whole crowd of 5,000 people. More significantly, when all have eaten their fill, there are enough fragments left over to fill twelve baskets. This is the only so-called "miracle" (Jesus called them 'signs') to appear in all four gospels.

A GREATER 'SIGN'

Despite the spectacular nature of this "sign," the deeper significance is an even greater 'sign' and 'miracle.' If the evangelists were simply telling us that Jesus had the power to feed 5,000 people with five barley loaves and two fish, that's pretty impressive—but I'm not sure what it has to do with me and my life. The real meaning is so much more spectacular and mind-boggling than the mere multiplication of matter.

The next day people, finding him and his disciples gone, get into boats to find him on the other side of the lake. Puzzled, they want to know: "Rabbi, when did you come here?" But, as he so often does, Jesus ignores the superficial level of their question and cuts to the heart of the matter: "Truly, truly I say to you, you seek me, not because you saw signs, but because you ate your fill of the loaves" (6:25,26).

This response by Jesus always puzzled me, because it seemed to me that they followed him to the other side precisely because they did see his 'signs.' But today it occurred to me for the first time that he is really saying that, although they saw the signs they didn't really see that toward which the signs were pointing. These people had seen only the multiplication of loaves and fishes. But this was only the medium, not the message.

NO EXPIRATION DATE

Then Jesus says what they had apparently missed: "Do not labor for the food which perishes, but for the food which endures to eternal life…" (6:27). We are no less blind than they were, for we too labor for food which perishes, instead of that which nourishes us to eternal life. So, the first thing Jesus says to them and us is that there is a bread, a source of nourishment that, unlike the things of this world, does not perish.

Actually, Jesus is talking about all material things. No matter how wonderful they may taste or feel, they are fleeting in their satisfaction and sustenance. If you look carefully there is an expiration date on each one of them! Again and again they need to be replenished. "Your fathers ate the manna in the wilderness, and they died" (6:49). So it is with the things we buy to eat and drink, the playthings we get to amuse ourselves, the objects we accumulate to persuade ourselves that we are getting somewhere in life.

Not only is there a bread which does not perish, Jesus tells them: "I am the bread of life...if anyone eats of this, he will live forever..." (6:48,51). You and I know today that Jesus was speaking figuratively about himself, but many who heard him were outraged to hear him say that they must "eat" this "bread." They could not stretch their minds to think of anything except the blatantly material which could not satisfy them or sustain them. But they could not be induced to look at the spiritual behind the material.

So, whatever it is that you desire and set your heart on, check the expiration label before you spend too much for it. There is only one reality that has no expiration date: eternal life with Christ.

Going Wild! celebrates Earth Day on Disney

By Jacqueline Cutler
©TVData Features Syndicate

Jeff Corwin

On the day set aside to honor our planet, the Disney Channel offers a prime-time mini-marathon of its educational nature-adventure series Going Wild! With Jeff Corwin. Disney is airing four consecutive episodes, covering areas from Costa Rica to California, on Earth Day, Thursday, April 22.

Speaking from his home on an island off the New England coast, Corwin says the first three shows are a "best of" from his series' first two seasons. In the first, "Costa Rica: Corcovada/Two-Toed Sloth," the peripatetic biologist visits Central America, where the show's "feature creature" is the two-toed, tree-dwelling mammal.

In the next episode, "Florida Manatees," Corwin travels to the Sunshine State to visit with the gentle sea cows in Homosassa. And in "Olympic National Park, Washington," Corwin switches from sea to air to showcase the endangered bald eagle.

The marathon culminates with "Monterey Bay," a new episode shot for the show's third season on the Ano Nuevo State Reserve, an island off the central California coast. There, huge elephant seals mate each year, and males stake out their territory, fighting over harems that can have as many as 100 cows for each bull.

Corwin says that while filming, he and his crew make an effort not to disturb the wildlife he's intent on preserving. He manages to get dangerously close to the huge elephant seals, which, up close, look like something invented by Dr. Seuss and sound like a car dying.

"It was very exciting," Corwin says. "You just sit there, and a 5,000-pound creature goes undulating past you. You feel the earth shimmer as they go by." He seems genuinely transfixed watching a cow give birth, and talks about the rich milk as the new pup nurses.

A biologist by training and an environmentalist concentrating on preserving the rain forest, Corwin has traveled around the world to shoot his 30-minute show. Its goal is "to expose our audience to natural history and get them to think about exploring something, whether in a natural ecosystem or through a book at the library," he says, adding that he would like children to "look at themselves as a global citizen, and how do we make that impact as positive as possible? I want to do that by having fun and an intimate sense of adventure."

In the elephant seal episode, Corwin's high boots get mired in the mud, and as he frees himself, he asks the audience, "Is there anything I won't do for you guys?"

This is minor compared to some of his real brushes with danger. "I haven't felt terrified as of yet," he says. "We did a show in the Rocky Mountains and were looking for Rocky Mountain elk. We came across a bull weighing about 1,000 pounds." The bull charged the intrepid host, but stopped in time – and Corwin got it all on film.

Corwin says he picks locales because of their indigenous animals. "Essentially, we want to go to an ecosystem and explore it in a way that it has not been explored before," he explains.

Telefilm on Jordan's life isn't anything like Mike

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

From the studio that gave birth to Power Rangers comes Michael Jordan: An American Hero. Fox Family Channel cashes in on a legend with the unauthorized movie biography airing Sunday, April 18.

This is not to say there aren't some mighty nice people involved: Debbie Allen and Ernie Hudson play Jordan's parents, Lou Rawls has a two-scene cameo, and Michael Jace plays the NBA's greatest star as an adult. Robin Givens co-stars as Michael's wife, Juanita.

Movies depicting the accomplishments of extraordinary athletes are almost never satisfactory, but Michael Jordan isn't simply a sports hero; he is an inescapable part of American culture. Hero fails on two fronts: fact and art.

First, the facts: There is nothing in Hero about Jordan's Olympic outings, the broken foot that benched him for months, his movie career, his Nike endorsement deal or his staggering influence on youth.

Hero fudges on points any Jordan fan would know, such as the fact that he was married after his first child was born, not before.

Artistically, the cast exudes sincerity, reduces a legend to a "common man" in an uncommonly predictable soap opera.

Jordan is the most extraordinary athlete of his generation. A movie about him should grapple with the phenomenon of his talent instead of suggesting he is the product of practice, ambition, positive thinking and mulitvitamins.

To paraphrase F. Scott Fitzgerald, Michael Jordan is different from you and me. That's where Hero misses its shot.

Q: While discussing '70s TV shows with a friend, I vaguely remembered a ridiculous series about a junk dealer developing his own space program. Do you have any information on what it may have been? –K. Niekamp via e-mail.

A: I suspect you may be thinking of Salvage 1, which aired on ABC in 1979. Andy Griffith played junk dealer Harry Broderick, who liked to think big. Every week he and his crew, led by former space jockey Skip Carmichael (Joel Higgins), would undertake a major salvage expedition, such as journeying to the moon to retrieve junk left behind by astronauts. Trish Stewart and Richard Jaeckel also starred.

Q: I recently saw A Woman of Independent Means on TV. Who played Sally Field's husband, Sam Garner? –S.C., Broadway, Va.

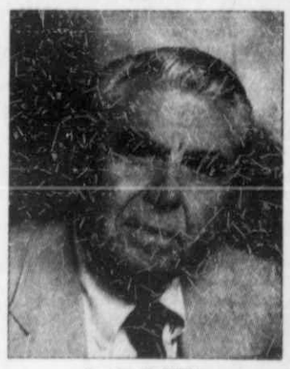
A: Sam was played by Australian actor Jack Thompson, who may be best known for his roles in the critically acclaimed feature dramas Breaker Morant and The Chant of Jimmie Blacksmith, among many others.

Q: My husband insists that the Clarence Gilyard Jr. from Matlock and the Clarence Gilyard on Walker, Texas Ranger, are father and son. I say they are the same actor. Who is right? –Mrs. A.D. in Manchester, N.H.

A: You are.

Q: A friend insists that Pernell Roberts is older than Lorne Greene, his father on Bonanza. Can you please clarify? –Bill Halfacre, Schenectady, N.Y.

A: Roberts, last seen in a ~~recent guest~~ appearance on Diagnosis Murder, was born on May 18, 1928. Greene, who died of pneumonia in 1987, was born on Feb. 12, 1915.



Andy Griffith

Q: I dimly recall a Suzanne Pleshette-George Hamilton movie called The Power, but no one else does. Does this movie exist, and what is it about? –Carolyn Dockey, Newton, N.C.

A: Pleshette and Hamilton starred in this nifty 1968 thriller about a team of researchers who discover that one of their own is using diabolical mental powers to kill the others, one by one. Richard Carlson and Yvonne De Carlo co-starred.

Q: Which Murphy Brown character did Pat Corley play? And aren't the themes to Murder, She Wrote and Newhart the same tune? –M. Cartwright, Ellwood City, Pa.

A: Corley played Phil, who owned Phil's Place. And no, John Addison wrote the Murder theme, while Henry Mancini composed the Newhart music.

Hospice Offers Program About Women's Safety

Hospice of Garrett County Inc. will sponsor a program titled "Public Awareness of Women's Safety" on Thursday, April 22, at the Community Service Building, adjacent to Garrett Memorial Hospital. The event will begin at 6 p.m. with a covered-dish dinner, to be followed at 7 p.m. by the program.

Lt. Larry Gnegy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office will explain techniques of crime prevention and self-protection. He will also explain ex parte and protective orders and the response of law officers to domestic assaults.

Linda Spassil, executive director of the Dove Center, will speak on definitions of domestic violence, characteristics of an abusive relationship, why victims stay with abusers, forms of abuse, and procedures to deal with abuse.

The program is open to the public at no cost. To register persons may call Hospice at 301-334-5151 or 1-800-521-5252 or TTY 1-800-735-2258. Hospice volunteers and staff are urged to attend.

MLP Crime Watch Meeting Slated

The monthly meeting of the Mtn. Lake Park Crime Watch organization is set for Tuesday, April 20, at 7 p.m. at the town hall, located at the corner of Maryland Highway and Allegheny Drive.

"The public is invited to come and meet some of the most interesting people from the community at our meetings," said Crime Watch member Louis DiCarlo, who also serves on the Mtn. Lake Park town council. "This is an excellent opportunity for people to ask questions of our local police, who always attend our meetings."

The Mtn. Lake Park Crime Watch organization meets at the town hall at 7 p.m. on the third Tuesday of each month. For further information interested persons may call DiCarlo at 301-334-8222.

VISITING THE FIRE DEPARTMENT - Children from the Oakland Head Start Center took a field trip this week to the Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department. There was much to see and learn about! The children saw a firefighter in his gear with a mask over his face, and he talked to them about fire safety. The children also got a close look at the huge trucks used by firefighters to carry all the equipment they need when going on a call. In the photo above, the children gathered around one of the enormous fire engines. From left are fire prevention officer Charlie Harvey and assistant teacher Barb Holler. At the right, firefighter Richie Wildensen accepts a $100 donation on behalf of the children from Head Start parent Bob Fike. Not only were the fire engines really big, but so were the firefighters' protective clothes. In the photo below, Wildesen helps Brittany Knots try on some firefighter turn-out gear. Brittany will need to grow a bit if she wishes to join the department.

FSU Schedules Math Symposium For Educators

The Frostburg State University Department of Mathematics will sponsor its 29th annual Mathematics Symposium on Friday, April 30, from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the FSU Lane Center. The theme of this year's symposium, which focuses on mathematics education, is "The Mind's Eye: Viewing Our World Through Mathematics."

The program will emphasize applications of mathematics to environmental concerns with discussion on other topics such as classroom activities and educational issues. Educators from throughout the tri-state region will be able to choose from over 22 presentations aimed at the elementary, secondary, and college levels. Presentation topics include application of mathematics to the Chesapeake Bay, global warming, acid rain, Frostburg weather, solar storms, and others.

The symposium is partially funded by an FSU Faculty Development grant. For information and registration, interested persons may contact the FSU Department of Mathematics at 301-689-4384.

Garden Club Sets Meeting

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club will hold its monthly meeting and luncheon at the Will O' the Wisp on Tuesday, April 20. A business meeting will begin the proceedings at 10:30 a.m, with lunch scheduled for 11:30 a.m, followed by a program at approximately 12:15 p.m.

The meeting's program segment will feature a presentation by local wildflower authority Clara Fitzwater titled "Enjoying and Conserving our Wildflowers." Her presentation will highlight the purpose of every variety of wildflowers, and the responsibility of maintaining a safe environment for their continued growth.

A resident of Pleasant Valley, Fitzwater has had a lifelong interest in wildflowers and has been propagating and protecting the delicate plants, common throughout Garrett County, for the past 12 years.

Club Schedules Benefit Dinner

The Bittinger 4-H Club will be holding a buckwheat cake, pancake, and sausage dinner on April 23, from 5 to 7:30 p.m. at the Bittinger fire hall. Prices are $4.50 for adults, $2.50 for children under 12, and free for those 5 and under. All proceeds will benefit the Bittinger 4-H Club.

FSU Schedules Two Ballets By Visiting Company

Frostburg State University's Cultural Events Series will feature performances of Peter and the Wolf and A Midsummer Night's Dream by the renowned Ballet Florida this coming week.

A children's performance of Peter and the Wolf will be held on Monday, April 19, at 7:30 p.m. in the FSU Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre. The ballet tells the story of young Peter and his friends, the cat and the little bird, as they go off to hunt the wolf in Sergei Prokofiev's 1936 musical classic.

The ballet company returns Tuesday, April 20, at 8 p.m. in the Drama Theatre to perform Shakespeare's Midsummer Night's Dream. "In a night of magic and madness, the character Puck creates elfin havoc and heartache, captivating hearts and reminding us all, 'The course of true love never did run smooth,'" an FSU spokesperson said.

Ballet Florida, directed by Marie Hale, is considered among the top 20 dance companies in the nation and consistently earns national recognition for its work in dance and education.

For information and ticket reservations, interested persons may contact the FSU Cultural Events Box Office at 301-687-4411 on weekdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

These events are made possible in part by a grant from Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation in partnership with the Maryland State Arts Council, the National Endowment for the Arts, the Corning Incorporated Foundation, and the Capezio/Ballet Makers Dance Foundation.

GREAT CONDITION!
The house is only 12 years old, has had only one owner, and has been kept in immaculate condition.

GREAT SPACE!
This 2,320 sq.ft. house boasts a large kitchen, family room, living room, dining room, up to five bedrooms, two full bathrooms, laundry space, deck, and a two-car garage, all on one level.

GREAT PRICE!

Heart Association To Benefit From Phone Fund-Raiser

The American Heart Association is the beneficiary of a telephone fund-raising event slated for Wednesday, April 21. The sixth annual First United Bank and Trust "TeleParty," chaired by bank employee and county resident Judi Pownall, will involve phone calls made to area residents by volunteers from the bank, who will be calling area residences between 5 and 8 p.m. that evening. Businesses will be contacted during day hours soon afterwards.

"We want to let the public know that these calls will indeed be coming from AHA volunteers," remarked Jay Jack, area director for the Heart Association. These days there are many calls that come in asking for dollars from residents who want to give in good faith.

"We want to assure our friends and family members that these calls are legitimate and funds given go to support the mission of the American Heart Association to reduce disability and death due to cardiovascular disease and stroke."

For further information on becoming involved in the activities of the AHA in Garrett County interested persons may call 800-684-1000.

Nichols Offering Techniques For Managing Stress

Debora Nichols, B.S., wellness coordinator for Garrett County Memorial Hospital, will offer stress management techniques to two Head Start parent support groups. During the sessions, slated for later this month, Nichols will facilitate relaxation through movement and music.

Each meeting will also include a "tea time" — an opportunity to talk and relax, with refreshments of herbal teas and muffins.

A health education specialist and massage therapist, Nichols emphasizes the importance of aromas, tastes, sounds, and exercise to assist in the relief of stress in an individual's life.

A spokeswoman for Head Start said that the parents involved in the program are often stressed by financial problems along with the difficulties of raising small children. "We know Ms. Nichols will give them something they will be able to practice with their families. It is quite a privilege to be able to host someone with such expertise," she said.

As part of the stress management agenda, Head Start staff will provide a "make and take" project, allowing the parents to create two stress relievers to take home with them. Soup and sandwiches will be served for lunch.

The support groups are scheduled from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Tuesday, April 27, at the Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland, and on Friday, April 30, at Flowery Vale Senior Center, Accident. To ask questions or to register, persons may call Community Action's Head Start program at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403, ext. 126. The deadline to register is Friday, April 23, 1 p.m.

DIVING INTO SCIENCE - Students at Grantsville Elementary dived right into their science unit on water, thanks to a special program held recently called Water Olympics. This "hands-on" science experience was developed by Eric Savage, a naturalist for the Maryland Forest and Park Service at New Germany State Park. The participants in the Olympics were 53 students from Carol Warnick's and Marlene Perkins' third grade classes. At various stations set up in the cafetorium, 14 parent volunteers helped the children to investigate the properties of water and learn about Garrett County's influence on the quality of the water that flows into the Chesapeake Bay. The study unit will culminate in a trip to Sandy Point State Park, on the bay, where children will use their newly acquired investigative skills. This performance task develops writing and other skills needed to be successful on the Maryland school performance test (MSPAP) and the Garrett County Program of Studies. In the photo above, Ranger Savage sets up a water experiment while Ethan Broadwater, center, asks questions. In the foreground are classmates Chris Wood and Shawn Uphold. Below, parent volunteer Carole Uphold helps students Blair Silbaugh, Brittany Stein, Carrie Maust, and Carl Sherburne set up an demonstration on flotation. The project was made possible through a grant from the Chesapeake Bay Fund.

Earth Day Festival Scheduled At FSU

The 1999 Earth Day Festival, sponsored by the Frostburg State University Sierra Student Coalition and The Wildlife Society, will be held on Friday, April 23, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the upper quad of the FSU campus. In addition to the event's educational focus, live music will be featured beginning at 4 p.m.

"The purpose of the festival is to promote awareness of issues relating to humans living responsibly in the natural world," a spokesperson for the event said. "Such areas of concern include the environment, social problems, recycling, cultural perspectives, outdoor recreation, natural art, and native crafting.

"Individuals and organizations are encouraged to have displays, activities, or fund-raising tables at the event. It is requested that each table have a theme related to the event's purpose."

The Earth Day Festival is free and open to the public. For more information, interested persons may call Elaine Raesly at 301-689-2116.

Eastern Star Chapter Meets

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star held its April meeting recently at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple in Oakland. Worthy Patron Ted Raynovich called the meeting to order, and those present joined in the pledge of allegiance and singing of the national anthem.

Worthy Matron Deborah Raynovich opened the meeting with a reading titled "Angels Hear the Tiniest Prayers." She then greeted Mildred Martin, General Grand Chapter Ambassador to the Republic of China/Taiwan, and Past Grand Matron of the Grand Chapter of Maryland; Joy Lou Fogle, Isabel Moses, and Wilda Hile, Deputy Grand Lecturers of Maryland; and the Past Matrons, Past Patrons, officers, and members of the Oakland Chapter who were on hand.

The meeting also included the installation of Wilda Hile as Conductress and Denzil Hile as Sentinel, and the presentation by the Worthy Matron and several officers of an Easter program titled "Symbols of Holy Week." Members were reminded of the upcoming Grand Chapter sessions set for April 25-28 at the Ramada Inn in Hagerstown.

Ms. Raynovich closed with a reading titled "Where There is Hope," and the Worthy Patron closed with a reading titled "The Cross." Refreshments were served by Bette Welch and Helene McCauley.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, April 20, when signs and passes will be reviewed.

Md. State Police Notes Stats On Family Violence

The Regional Family Violence Unit of the Maryland State Police has released the statistics on its criminal investigations during the month of March.

Tfc. James B. Hovis stated that in Garrett County three incidents of domestic violence or abuse were reported to his unit for investigation. All three cases led to the arrest of the abuser, and victims of all incidents were referred to community resources for counseling, shelter, or advocacy.

Hovis is assigned to respond to incidents of family violence against children, youth, adults, or the elderly in both Garrett and Allegany counties. To report concerns, persons may contact the state police barrack in McHenry at 301-387-1101 or 301-895-1101.

Q. I have eight framed prints of dogs playing poker. Each one measures 12 by 16 inches. The artist's signature is "C.M. Coolidge." The prints were made by Brown & Bigelow of St. Paul, Minn.

A. Cassius Marcellus Coolidge (1844-1937) grew up on a large farm near Antwerp, N.Y. Coolidge moved to Manhattan in the 1870s and started painting caricatures of dogs doing human activities.

He signed a contract with Brown & Bigelow, a printer and advertising agency that printed thousands of posters, calendars and prints.

The caricatures have become known as the "poker dogs." The company gave the prints away as gifts for clients in the 1930s and '40s.

Some versions of the dog pictures are still being made.

Q. My green glass figural bottle is in the shape of a robed, bearded man holding a stick. It has a metal screw cap and stands 10 1/2 inches tall. The label on the front of the bottle says "Poland Spring Gin, Lawrence & Co., Lewiston, Maine."

A. Many variations of your bottle have been made since it was first produced in 1885 for water from the springs at Poland, Maine.

The bottles, first made near Hartford, Conn., depict the Biblical figure of Moses and are known to collectors as "Moses Striking the Rock" bottles.

The Moses bottle was used by several firms, including Hiram Ricker Co. and Lawrence & Co. It was made in clear, green or amber.

Some bottles made before 1914 have turned slightly amethyst from the sun.

Your bottle would sell for about $35.

KEEP TABS – Keeping a journal is age-old advice but sometimes seems like a chore, and play is crucial for creativity. My fun begins with clipping out my daily astrological trio of sun, moon and rising signs. After taping it into my journal, I add the day's events, thoughts and ideas in words and art. It's a wonderful launching pad with insight. Tess B., Arlington, Texas

PUPPY POWER – My husband and I recently purchased puppies. We contemplated how we were going to keep them in the house confined to a box in the kitchen.

After much thought, my husband had a brilliant idea. We have a $10 baby pool in the garage that we use in the summer to help keep the older dogs cool. We brought this pool in the kitchen, lined it with newspaper and placed their food and water bowls and their toys in it.

Now all we have to do is remove the paper as it is soiled, replace it with new paper and take it outside and clean it thoroughly every other day. What a wonderful idea! No more puppy potty pads or spilled food bowls all over the kitchen floor! Florence L., Youngstown, Ohio

LIAM NEESON: GIANT TALENT

Liam Neeson, the 6'4" broken-nosed Irishman who was unexpectedly lifted to stardom in "Schindler's List," has definitely made the A-list. Typically playing large, dominating characters who are happy to subordinate themselves, often to women, the unpretentious star has provided support for half the leading ladies of Hollywood. Featured in May's Biography magazine, Neeson is now appearing in "Star Wars Episode 1," playing Ewan McGregor's Jedi teacher Qui-Gon Jinn. Also coming up: "Gun Shy," where he plays a DEA agent opposite Sandra Bullock and "The Haunting of Hill House."

Neeson grew up in a large Irish working class family. His small town only had one cinema. Neeson was a steady customer. As a teen, he was most serious about boxing (where he broke his nose). After dropping out of school, he took a dare to try out for a play.

The company was specifically looking for a large actor and hired him. Predictably, he later played Lenny in "Of Mice and Men," which led to a part in the film "Excalibur" as Sir Gawain. There he met actress Helen Mirren, playing Morgana, and went home with her to London. She was the first in a long line of actresses, including Julia Roberts, Barbra Streisand, Brooke Shields and Sinead O'Connor, leading to his reputation as a ladies' man. In 1987, he left Mirren, headed for Hollywood, where he played a steady stream of small roles until Natasha Richardson entreated him to play opposite her in Broadway's "Anna Christie." Not only did the two fall in love and marry but Steven Spielberg saw the play and cast him as Schindler. Still, Neeson admits he suffers from typical Irish doom and gloom. Richardson says he "always sees the dark cloud over the silver lining." But with a solid marriage and career, he's entitled to be taken for a happy man.

County United Way Appeal Coming To End

The community has contributed more financial support to the participating human services agencies of the County United Way than ever in the 42-year history of the charity. Donations total $729,129 to date, 97 percent of the $750,000 goal for 1998-99. The County United Way facilitates the coordination and delivery of human services in Garrett and Allegany counties in Maryland, and Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Mineral, and Pendleton counties in West Virginia.

CUW volunteers will be making a final push to go over the goal before the end of this month, when the annual appeal ends. On Tuesday, April 20, the volunteers will be telephoning persons who contributed last year but haven't as of yet contributed to this year's campaign. Those donations could total $62,143 and put the CUW over its goal.

UNITED WAY SETS FUND-RAISING PUSH - The 1998-99 County United Way fund-raising campaign is in its final month of a record-setting year as it closes in on its goal of $750,000. The charity will mount a final push toward reaching that figure with a phone-a-thon scheduled for Tuesday, April 20, when volunteers will be calling people who have a history of contributing but who have not yet given to this year's appeal. Shown above from the left, Harry King, CUW executive director, accepts a donation of telephones for the volunteers from Tina Llewellyn, sales manager for United States Cellular.

"This would be a magnificent positive statement for the community," said Lisa McIndoe, CUW campaign chair and a senior training specialist at Westvaco Corporation. "This would come during a campaign when the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company announced the closing of its corporate office. This is a time when human services may be more in demand.

"We could make this goal because companies whose business was dependent upon Kelly still contributed to the County United Way. Kelly employees themselves pledged $44,640 as a parting gesture. Since the announced closing of Kelly, 107 new donors have stepped up and pledged $19,091 to the campaign. Another 144, who have a history of participating, increased their 1998-99 gifts by $89,176 over a year ago.

"When volunteers telephone people on Tuesday, April 20, who have not yet made their annual pledge, we hope they will be as generous. If people have been thinking about a gift to the County United Way, this is the time to do it," McIndoe said.

Contributions to the County United Way assist with prescription medications, help offer affordable counseling, employ physically and mentally disabled people, assist mentally ill individuals, prevent child abuse and domestic violence, serve orphaned children and those at risk, expand elderly care, assist children born into poverty, offer child care, feed the hungry, and provide assistance with rent, heat, and clothing.

Local Businesses Holding Benefit Pool Tournaments

The Black Bear Tavern, McHenry, and www.deepcreektimes.com are currently sponsoring a series of pool tournaments that will benefit various local organizations. Scheduled for every Wednesday evening at 6 p.m., the tournaments will take place at the tavern, which is located in the Fort, along Route 219 at Deep Creek Lake.

Event coordinator Mike Schroyer said he hopes to get businesses involved in the pool tournaments. "I'd like to see businesses challenge each other or sponsor their best players," he said.

Schroyer said that as a businessman he is often approached by representatives of various organizations seeking financial support. "There are so many worthy causes right here in the county. It's hard to do something for all of them," he explained.

The tournaments offered him a opportunity to make contributions on an ongoing basis. The first two organizations slated to receive donations from the tournaments will be the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company and the Dove Center, Schroyer said.

Two professional pool tables will be dedicated to tournament players, who will be selected through blind draws. There will be $20 entry fee for each player, who will then be eligible for prizes, including cash, T-shirts, or free entry in the next tournament. Unclaimed Prop. Ads Generate 42,000 Inquiries

Maryland State Comptroller William Donald Schaefer has announced that nearly 1,300 people have been reunited with money they didn't know they had. The rediscovered cash was found as a result of an advertisement the comptroller's office placed in 29 Maryland newspapers, including The Republican, over the last few weeks advertising the names of unclaimed property owners. The effort to find owners of unclaimed funds got an added boost at the end of March when the Comptroller's Unclaimed Property Unit was highlighted during a segment on a nationally syndicated television talk show.

"If you missed the ad inserts, you can still find out if you are the owner of unclaimed property by calling our office at 410-767-1700 in central Maryland or toll-free 1-800-782-7383 from elsewhere," said Comptroller Schaefer. "You can also check my web site at www.marylandtaxes.com, which has more than 40,000 recently reported names of unclaimed property owners." The office has records on 300,000 accounts worth more than $100 million.

Unclaimed funds worth millions of dollars are claimed every year. In calendar year 1998 alone, the comptroller's office honored 9,986 claims totaling $14,236,759. The average claim was $1,426.

The individuals calling the Unclaimed Property Unit as a result of the ads are referred to the financial institutions and corporations holding their funds. About 80 days after the publication of the ads, businesses that hold accounts that remain unclaimed will turn the money over to the state.

Financial institutions, utilities, insurance companies, and other corporations are required to report to the state comptroller any banks accounts, security deposits, wages, insurance benefits, and contents of safe deposit boxes that have been unclaimed after five years.

However, that money remains the property of the owners or their legitimate heirs and they can claim the funds any time. There is no statute of limitations.

The comptroller's office advertises recently reported names of unclaimed property owners each spring and fall. Other outreach efforts include computer file matches with Internal Revenue Service and other government agencies and setting up computers at the state fair, local fairs, trade shows, and shopping malls to allow people to check the unclaimed property files.

GCC Schedules Earth Day Event

The first Spring Fling/Earth Day celebration at Garrett Community College is set for Thursday, April 29, at the McHenry campus from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. The event, which is planned to be held annually, will include a variety of games and other activities, seminars, food vendors, and "lots of fun," according to Sarah Crouse, president of the Student Government Association.

"Our goal for this celebration is to create an awareness of our natural surroundings, in such a way that will be memorable," said Crouse, who extended an invitation for members of the community to come and share their talents, knowledge of the environment, and artistic abilities.

Local businesses and individuals have been contacted for donations of prizes. All interested persons are invited to join the GCC students, faculty, and staff in this celebration. Persons wishing to provide assistance are encouraged to contact Crouse at 301-387-4186.

DELIVERING SPRINGTIME CHEER - This smiling group of students from the Grantsville after-school program paid a visit to the residents of Goodwill Mennonite Home last week. The visitors brought along cheery smiles and special gifts — brightly colored paper butterflies that they had made. Similar springtime gifts were taken to the senior center and delivered with Meals on Wheels. In the photo from left in row one are teacher Karen Wood, Stephanie Merrill, Cristy Orner, Vanessa Fazenbaker, Amanda Wilhelm, Christine Bradshaw, and Corey Tressler. In row two are Mouzer Coelho, Corey McKenzie, Tiffany Wilt, and Vince Fazenbaker. In row three are Stephanie Fazenbaker, Amber Maust, service learning student Samantha Flanagan, and Jennie Orner.

State Police Accept Chief's Challenge 1999

Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack have joined with other troopers across the state to accept a challenge to increase highway safety. On the 11th anniversary of the first Maryland Chief's Challenge Campaign, the Maryland Chiefs of Police Association, the Maryland Committee for Safety Belt Use and the Maryland State Highway Administration are jointly sponsoring Maryland's 1999 Chief's Challenge.

This program challenges Maryland's law enforcement community to increase the public's awareness and use of safety belts and child safety seats. This campaign began on April 1 and will conclude on May 31.

In cooperation with the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems and other local law enforcement, troopers of the McHenry barrack will assist in providing child safety seat check points. These check points will be utilized to educate the motoring public on the proper installation of child safety seats, and also to identify child safety seats that lack proper installation capabilities and safety features.

Troopers will place additional emphasis on the correct wearing of safety seat belts and restraints by integrating this enforcement into routine traffic enforcement activities on all Garrett County roadways. Enforcement of state seat belt and child safety seat laws will be a priority in order to educate those who choose not to provide appropriate safety restraints for their children and themselves.

The goal of this campaign is to educate the public by raising public awareness in the life-saving capabilities of properly utilized restraints, as well as the cost-saving benefits of seat belt and child safety seat use. Through education and active enforcement, the goal of this campaign is to achieve a 90 percent safety seat and safety belt compliance by the end of 1999.

The superintendent of the Maryland State Police and troopers at the McHenry barrack encourage everyone to comply with Maryland's safety belt and child safety seat laws. "Through compliance, many more will have a safer and more enjoyable summer in 1999," a campaign spokesman said.

W.Md. READS, AmeriCorps To Give Free Books

A Star in Western Maryland, the Garrett/Allegany Co. Branch of AmeriCorps, the Western Maryland READS Alliance, and the Country Club Mall, Lavale, will sponsor a community book give away during National Volunteer Week, April 18-24.

The event, which will be held at the Country Club Mall between the Roy Rogers Restaurant and the Deb Store, will include a community story time for children April 24 from noon to 3 p.m.

Everyone is welcome.

Awarded Three Academy Honors

Jennifer Sanders, a junior at Southern Garrett High School, has been notified by the United States Achievement Academy that she has been named a United States National Award Winner in history and government, band, and science. The USAA recognizes fewer than 10% of all American high school students for these awards.

The daughter of Dennis and Linda Sanders, Jennifer was nominated for the awards by Tom Woods, AP United States history teacher; Richard Clever, band director; and Sarah Steyer, chemistry teacher. Her name will appear in the respective USAA yearbooks.

Sanders, an honor roll and distinguished honor roll student, is a member of the school's marching, concert, and stage bands, chorus, varsity softball team, and National Honor Society. In addition to receiving the USAA honors, she has also been recognized by Who's Who Among American High School Students, was named an All-American Scholar, and was awarded the National Leadership and Service award.

The academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors and upon various criteria, such as academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, and citizenship.

Sanders resides in Oakland and is an active member of the Bear Creek Church of the Brethren in Accident. She plans to attend college and major in computer science, with a minor in music.

FSU Theatre Will Present Ives Comedies

The Frostburg State University Theatre will close its 1998-99 season with "All in the Timing," six 1-act comedies by David Ives. Performances are scheduled for April 23, 24, 29, 30, and May 1 at 8 p.m. in the FSU Performing Arts Center Studio Theatre. A Sunday matinee will be held on April 25 at 2 p.m.

In these "wacky and witty" works by Ives, the audience will meet such characters as three chimps locked in a room in order to recreate "Hamlet" and a con artist attempting to teach a phony language, who instead learns about love.

These, and other characters comprise the comic revue said to "test the boundaries of the English language and the audience's capacity for astonishment and delight."

For ticket reservations and information, persons may contact the Theatre Box Office between 1 and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, 301-687-4145. Tickets for all University Theatre productions may be purchased at the door prior to performances.

Persons with disabilities may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

Soybean Checkoff Grant Supports Johns Hopkins Breast Cancer Study

by Maryland Soybean Board

Can the protein in soybeans decrease the risk of breast cancer? A research physician from Johns Hopkins Hospital intends to find out. And he'll launch his study with $14,486 from Maryland soybean farmers.

Dr. William Dooley, director of the Johns Hopkins Comprehensive Breast Center and the hospital's Oncology Center, was one of 11 applicants for grants approved by the Maryland Soybean Board for fiscal year 1999-2000. The all-farmer board administers the national soybean checkoff program in the state.

Soybean protein contains isoflavones, Dr. Dooley told the board members. "These isoflavones have been used in many laboratory animal models as potential chemoprevention agents for breast cancer. The effect of this soybean protein derivative has been to decrease the growth rate of pre-malignant lesions in laboratory animals and to increase the death of cells in such lesions."

But what about in humans? Dr. Dooley is hopeful.

"Epidemiologic data suggest that soy protein may have a substantial role in developing the risk of breast cancer," he continued. Witness, for example, the marked decrease in the instance of both invasive and non-invasive breast cancer in Oriental populations.

"It is our objective," Dr. Dooley told the Maryland soybean farmers, "to test the short-run effects of soy protein on the growth rate of pre-malignant conditions of the breast prior to surgical therapy in human patients."

To do that, Dr. Dooley and his associates will determine the feasibility of measuring effects of soy protein dietary supplementation in human patients at risk for breast cancer.

"This has been proposed but never implemented in human patients," Dr. Dooley said.

John Saathoff, a Caroline County farmer who chairs the Maryland Soybean Board, characterized Dr. Dooley's project as "perhaps the most far-reaching research ever to come before our board.

"On behalf of all Maryland soybean producers, we are privileged to be able to support it," he said.

Checkoff grants approved by the board for the coming year totaled $90,730. Here's a rundown on the other projects.

* $14,700 to Steven Hughes, an associate professor at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, to continue his search for a soy-based ration and diet for tilapia, the fish which dominates the Maryland aquaculture industry. After two years of study, Hughes confirms that diets based on 48 percent protein soybean meal supported optimal weight gain in the fish in experimental conditions. The next step for the coming year will be to give the research a practical application, he said, using the diet to raise fish from fingerling to market size and to compare the cost per unit weight gain to the standard diet based on fish meal.

* $5,680 to Dr. Mark Holland, Salisbury State University biologist, to continue to evaluate the effect of the nonpathogenic bacteria PPFM, known as the "pink bacteria," on the growth rate and yield of soybean plants. Over the past three years, Dr. Holland has successfully demonstrated "close correlations between soybean germination and the presence of viable PPFM bacteria." In the coming year, he will take his experiments out of the greenhouse and into the field.

* $15,392 to Dr. Galen Dively, University of Maryland Extension entomologist, to continue, for a second year, his evaluation of new miticides in controlling spider mites, which he describes as "the number one pest problem of soybeans in Maryland." Dively contends that new control products need to be tested because a one-time standard product, dimethoate, will "most likely be phased out." In the growing season ahead, he'll direct field studies "necessary to extend the emergency permit for Danitol and to convince the product manufacturer that an expanded registration is economically justified."

* $4.500 to Dr. Philip Tipping, who manages biological control programs for insects and weeds for the Maryland Department of Agriculture, to establish, evaluate, and distribute in several locations across the state a new pupal parasite for corn earworm. The parasite is a large wasp, originally from Australia, that digs into the soil to find the pupation chamber of caterpillars such as earworms, cutworms, and armyworms. It is long lived and can parasitize about 100 pupae over its lifetime.

* A total of $10,500 to University of Maryland Extension weed control specialist Dr. Ron Ritter for three projects: to evaluate the weed control effectiveness of genetically engineered soybeans in Maryland; to investigate the control of ALS-resistant weed species in soybeans; and to examine the control of newly introduced grass species such as broadleaf signalgrass, plantain signalgrass, and Texas panicum which have begun to show up in soybean fields on Maryland's Lower Shore. Dr. Ritter received checkoff grants of $3,500 for each project.

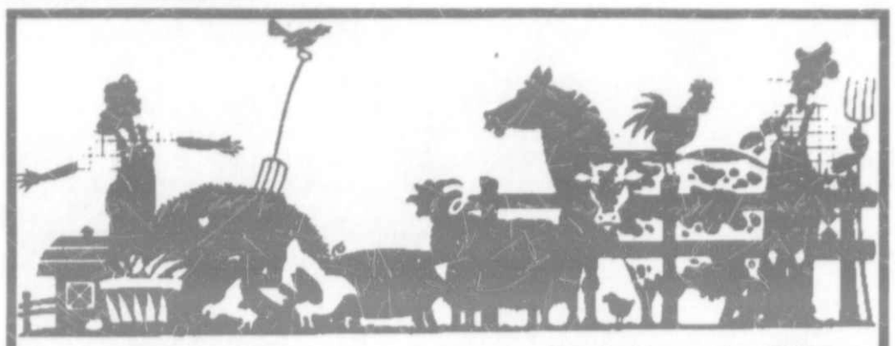
* $12,180, also to Dr. Kenworthy, for a five-part project to: conduct the annual statewide soybean variety trials; establish a soybean variety test in a cyst nematode-infested soil on the Eastern Shore; establish soybean Roundup Ready tests at two or more locations in the state; develop productive germplasm adapted to Maryland with cyst nematode resistance and increased levels of seed protein and altered fatty acid content; and identify DNA markers associated with economically important soybean traits.

* $3,600 to Dorchester County ag agent Betsy Gallagher for a project that will involve the Dorchester County Integrated Pest Management Association, its scout, John Swaine, two Dorchester County soybean growers, and an Easton company known as 3 D Imaging (3DI). An experiment in "precision agriculture," the project will "scout" 500 acres of soybeans using airborne hyperspectral imagery to detect pests and other crop stresses, such as from weeds, insects, disease, and drought, before they become visible to the naked eye. The checkoff grant will be used to cover the flight costs of 3DI, a geographic technologies company operating since 1974. A main goal of the project will be the early detection of spider mites, although, as agent Gallagher said, "we want to find and identify anything — weeds, soybean cyst nematodes — that shows up on that map."



State Potato & Pea Plantings Pick Up Steam

Potato and green pea plantings picked up major steam as they have passed their halfway marks and now stand at 67 and 60 percent, respectively, according to state statistician Ray Garibay. Potato planting improved a full 42 points but was still behind the progress made last year at this time. Green pea planting jumped to 60 percent complete, a 20 point advance from last week's report. Pea planting was ahead of both the previous and five-year averages. Sweet corn planting moved into the double digits as 13 percent was reported for the state. This was similar to last year's pace of 10 percent. Tomato and snap beans were similar in their percent planted as they were at 5 and 6 percent, respectively.

Small grains continue to be in good shape for the state, as winter wheat was rated 19 percent excellent, 54 percent good, 23 percent fair, and 4 percent poor. Barley condition was 30 percent excellent, 47 percent good, 21 percent fair, and 2 percent poor. Barley headed stands at 5 percent, only a little behind the previous year average and slightly above the five-year average of 2 percent. Rye condition was 14 percent excellent, 67 percent good, 16 percent fair, and 3 percent poor.

Peaches were at 50 percent bloomed, a two-fold improvement over last week's report of 25 percent. Apples were reported at 13 percent bloomed, well below last year's level of 40 percent, but comparable to the five-year average. Strawberries were at 20 percent bloomed.

Topsoil moisture was 7 percent short, 45 percent adequate, and 48 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was 7 percent short, 78 percent adequate, and 15 percent surplus. There were 4.3 days suitable for fieldwork for the week ended April 11. Twenty-two percent of the acreage has been prepared for planting of spring crops.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended April 11, listing the item and the percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, respectively, was:

Small grain development: barley, headed 5, 0, 9, 2.

Planting progress: field corn 6, 2, 5, 4; potatoes 67, 25, 72, 52; green peas 60, 40, 30, 42; snap beans 6, 5, 0, 1; sweet corn 13, 6, 10, 8; tomatoes 5, 2, 9, 3.

Fruit crops blooming: apples 13, 10, 40, 17; peaches 50, 25, 70, 33; strawberries 20, 15, 12, 15.

Water Quality; A Priority Concern For Ag Operations

The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) reminds citizens of the fact that water is one of Maryland's most precious and threatened resources. The NRCS reports that financial assistance is now available through the USDA and the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) to protect and enhance water quality. This USDA program will help agricultural operations throughout Maryland address the following natural resource concerns: animal waste/manure storage, farmstead runoff control, soil erosion, nutrient management and cover crops, integrated pest management, and riparian area conservation.

Cost-share or incentive payments can be as much as $50,000 over the life of a 5- to 10-year contract. Local Soil Conservation Districts (SCDs) and NRCS field offices will provide technical assistance for planning and installing needed conservation practices based on resource management systems. The FSA administers the financial aspects of the program. Money will be awarded to applicants whose contracts offer the highest environmental benefits for the least cost. The EQIP sign-up period ends April 23, 1999.

Those interested in EQIP may contact their local NRCS, SCD, or FSA office.

Dairy Farmers Eligible For DMLA Program

United States dairy producers are experiencing a decline in milk prices. On March 8 the secretary of agriculture announced the provisions of the 1999 Dairy Market Loss Assistance (DMLA) Program, which is a direct payment to dairy producers.

Michael R. Kozier, county executive director, outlined the following general information.

1. Program Availability - DMLA is available to producers on dairy operations if the dairy operation marketed milk commercially anytime from Oct. 1, 1998, through Dec. 31, 1998.

2. Application Period - Signup began on April 12 and ends on May 21.

3. National Payment Rate - A payment rate will be determined after the end of the signup. USDA estimates that the payment rate will be between 18 and 20 cents per cwt with maximum $5,000 per dairy operation.

4. Eligible Production - For DMLA is the calendar year milk marketings in either the 1997 or 1998 calendar year, whichever is selected by the dairy operation, subject to a maximum of 26,000 cwt per dairy operation.

5. Direct Deposit - The producer receiving payment under the DMLA must file SF-1199A for electronic funds transfer.

Dairy operations must complete CCC-1040 by self-certifying the pounds of milk marketed commercially during the base period for all persons of the dairy operation which marketed milk commercially during the marketing period and answer the three (3) questions for eligibility.

Because the producer certifies that the information is correct, no additional documentation is requested from the dairy operation at time of signup.

Anyone with questions may stop by the local FSA office or contact Kozier at 301-334-6954.

CLDAP Sign-Up Continues Through April 16, 1999

The sign-up for the Crop Loss Disaster Assistance Program (CLDAP) was scheduled to end April 9, 1999. However, Michael Kozier, county executive director of the Farm Service Agency (FSA), has announced that the sign-up will continue through April 16 for all multi-year and 1998 single-year crop loss applications.

Kozier stated that additional producers are now eligible for multi-year benefits based on new procedures, and this continuation will allow additional time for producers to request disaster benefits.

Keep an "Eye" on Phosphorus - By Bill Knepp

The Spring planting season is upon us whether we are ready or not. Have you taken your soil test for this growing season? There is still time to soil test for nearly everything but small grains. Soil testing is an important part of your total farm management. The Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998 deadlines are quickly approaching. If you haven't soil tested recently (within three years) you need to know your soil phosphorus levels. The optimum range of Phosphorus on the Maryland soil test is 51-100. If you are not in this range, the profitability of your farm could be improved. Anything over 150 on the Maryland soil test index could possibly mean problems if you have manure to spread. If your phosphorus soil test is greater than 150, you need to stop apply Phosphorus fertilizer. However, a starter fertilizer containing phosphorus on corn is still acceptable.

Soil test are only six dollars at the University of Maryland Soils lab. This is a small cost compared to the price of fertilizer and the cost of transporting manure to another area of your farm or to rented ground. We have soil probes available to loan you for soil testing. Remember, it is important to take a representative sample from your fields. In a ten acre field you should take a minimum of 15 cores six inches deep and mix thoroughly in a bucket. While sampling, stay away from field edges, dead furrows, or any place that is not representative of the entire field. We can test your livestock manure to determine the amount of crop nutrients available for the growing crop and assemble this information into a nutrient management plan.

Please feel free to give us a call at 301-334-6965. The University of Maryland Extension is in no way involved with the regulatory process of the Nutrient Management Law. We are, however, available to write your Plan and help in your management decisions to improve the profitability of your farming operation.

Reminder of the Sheep Marketing Meeting

This will be the last reminder of the area shepherd's meeting on April 28 at 7:30 PM at the Pleasant Valley Community Center south of Oakland, MD. We will be discussing and planning for a potential new market outlet in the Muslem population for sheep meat products. If you would like additional information contact my office at 301-334-6960 or Preston County Extension at 304-329-1391.

Spring Deworming of Stockers and Replacements

April is the time when most young, grazing beef animals, whether stocker, steer or heifer or replacement heifers should be properly dewormed. Strategically deworming appears to be the very best method for reducing buildup of the brown stomach worm larvae on pasture that will occur in early to mid-summer if parasitized cattle are grazing on it. Cattle should be wormed at turnout time or at the time when they are making their living from pasture. This general will occur around the last of April on most farms. There are a number of excellent deworming materials on the market that can be utilized in a strategic deworming program. When using most of them, cattle should be dewormed on the 0, 3, 6 schedule. Deworm them the first time, again three weeks later, and again six weeks later. If using one of the longer acting materials like Ivomec, they may be dewormed and then re-dewormed five weeks later, again with Ivomec or another product. The other alternative is to deworm cattle at turnout and then at mid season, around early July. There are a couple more recent additions to the arsenal of deworming materials. Dectomax which is a product of Pfizer Animal Health is an injectable which has most of the same properties of Ivomec and is the same basic chemical. The other is the Ivomec SR bolus which should be put in cattle at turnout time and will slowly release the active ingredient over 135 to 150 day period. The Merck Company advertises an increase in weight gain for the pasture of 40 to 110 pounds compared to un-dewormed controls. The bolus looks like an excellent product that is selling in the neighborhood of $12 each.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Pvt. Maximilian James Marshall of Garrett County graduated from the U.S. Marine Corps basic training school in Parris Island, S.C., March 26.

Following a brief leave, he will participate in a 17-day Marine Combat Training at Camp Giger, N.C. Upon completing the MCT course, he will transfer to Camp Johnson, N.C., where he will attend legal administration school.

Marshall, a 1998 graduate of Southern High School, is the son of Dean Norton, Mtn. Lake Park, and Christine Marshall, Chicago, Ill.

Women's Club Sets Luncheon

The Oakland Christian Women's Club has slated a luncheon at the Will O' the Wisp on April 21, beginning at 11:30 a.m.

The luncheon's program will include a fashion show with the theme "A Spring Fashion Forecast," presented by guest speaker Jo Knipe of Glen Burnie. The guest musician, Ellie Teets, will present a fashion-related musical program.

A free nursery is available for children 5 years and younger. Reservations for the luncheon and nursery may be made by contacting Diana Sharpless at 301-334-5070 no later than Monday, April 19.

The cost of the luncheon is $7.50 per person, and reservations not kept must be honored. Checks may be mailed to Gayle Richter, 360 Pergin Farm Road, Oakland, MD 21550.

GRANTSVILLE

The Mars Hill Homemakers met at Penn Alps for lunch for their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, April 12.

Ruth Stanton presided over the business session and made announcements.

The next regular meeting will be on Tuesday, May 11, at Eat and Park, Somerset, Pa., at noon. The members went to Goodwill Mennonite Home after the last meeting and celebrated Ruth Kinsinger's 89th birthday. Members took cake and ice cream, punch, flowers, and birthday cards, and sang "Happy Birthday" to Ruth. Those attending were: Linda Upole, Robyn Brenneman, Karin Durst, Esther Stanton, Dorothy Wilburn, and Mary E. Kamp.

On Monday, June 28, there will be a tea party at the Goodwill Home. A program will be given and refreshments served.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Nixon and Mary E. Kamp were recent dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Barncord, Corriganville.

Students Help Demonstrate At DR Tech Night

State-of-the-art computer equipment is used daily by students at Dennett Road Elementary School, and students and their instructors there recently gave demonstrations of this equipment at the school's Technology Show. The event was orchestrated by math resource teacher Arlene Lantz, with the assistance of several other educators.

Students from first through the fifth grade took turns demonstrating the ways they and their classmates now use computers to complete school assignments or engage in various learning activities. Through the school's Technology Fund and several donations, the staff has been able to purchase a large color projector, which shows on a large screen the smaller computer screen. This allows all students to view the computer screen during classes. This equipment was also utilized for the tech show, allowing parents and other guests to watch the students manage the mouse and find items on the Internet through Yahooligans™, a search engine designed for youth.

Fifth graders showed the audience how they utilized the Internet to do research for Black History Month reports, and assignments on George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

Lantz discussed another computer project at the school, which involved 13 parent volunteers who participated in a workshop with technology resource teachers. The parents learned to use the ClarisWorks word processor, worked with various educational software program to use with students in the classroom, and signed up for times to volunteer to help out in class.

Fourth graders then took over the mouse to show a series of math activities on the computer, including an educational game titled "Zoombies," which features comical characters the students can control.

"This is an excellent logical thinking program that the students really enjoy," Lantz said.

Third grade student Drew Proudfoot then showed how he used the ClarisWorks word processor to complete an assigned report.

First and second graders were featured next, as they worked with Lantz to show how the school's new Smart Board™ works. Obtained by Dennett Road via a grant written by Lantz and Dusty Stanton, the board offers younger children an alternative to handling the mouse. The board is the size of an average bulletin board, but is actually an enlarged computer screen. Instead of a mouse, the board itself is sensitized for touch. Students use their fingers to move items around on the screen.

The game the students displayed at tech night focused on the use of coins. The participating student was asked by a character in the program to count out the correct number of coins for a certain total. The student would then touch the dimes, nickels, pennies, or quarters and drag the selected coins to another area on the screen. This game is in coordination with the students' current math studies on counting and understanding money.

Lantz said she has found the younger students are able to do more work with the Smart Board because the manipulation of the screen characters is much simpler for them.

The first and second graders also demonstrated Lego Dacta™ machines, which had been built during a special after-school project, also led by Lantz and teacher Cindy Stem. The goal, Lantz said, is to help the students develop their visual reasoning skills by looking at pictures and then building the machines they have viewed. The students are then asked to explain the steps they took in building the machines and how they work. The teachers also help them explore modifications to their creations.

Lantz said the school will offer a Summer Lego Dacta™ Technology Camp for students completing the third, fourth, or fifth grades this year. The camp will be held June 20-24 from 9 a.m. until noon each day. More information will be sent home with students before the end of the school year, she noted.

Throughout the evening, Lantz expressed gratitude to the numerous individuals and businesses who have assisted her and the staff in obtaining the computer equipment and having it installed. In addition to the computer projector, the staff has also been able to purchase a digital camera, various software, and other equipment.

The businesses and organizations thanked by Lantz included the BPO Elks Lodge #2481, Buffalo Coal Company, Countryside Animal Hospital, Fairfax Concrete Products Inc., Gonder Insurance, Ladies of the Elks, Sylvan Manufacturing Company, McDonald's of Oakland, Nu-Finish Autobody, Rigidply Rafters, the Rotary Club, and Unique Decor.

Retired Bell Atlantic employees were also thanked for spending two days in the school last summer running the conduit into the classrooms and installing connection boxes for Internet wiring. These individuals, who also have spent numerous hours in other county schools, included Scott Atwill, Neil Dunham, Dave Higdon, Nickey O'Brien, and Buck Trautwein.

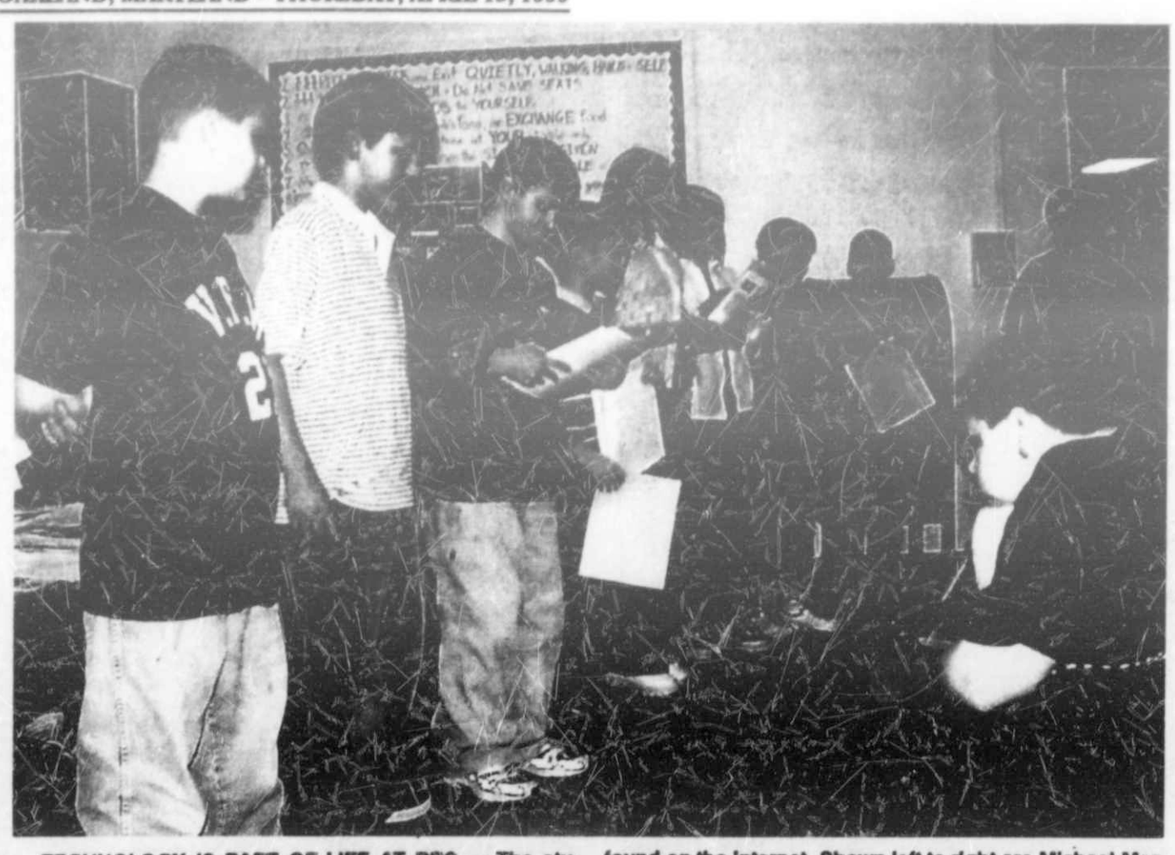
Lantz also thanked parent volunteers Willie Lantz and Mark Proudfoot, who helped install Internet wiring from the computer room to each classroom. They also helped set up the Quadra computers, she noted. She extended thanks to Amanda Bosley, who works for Bell Atlantic Video Services in Virginia. After learning of the needs at Dennett Road from her aunt (parent Aleta Glotfelty), Amanda arranged for the school to receive donations of eight Quadra Macintosh computers, a laser printer, and a box of spare parts and software.

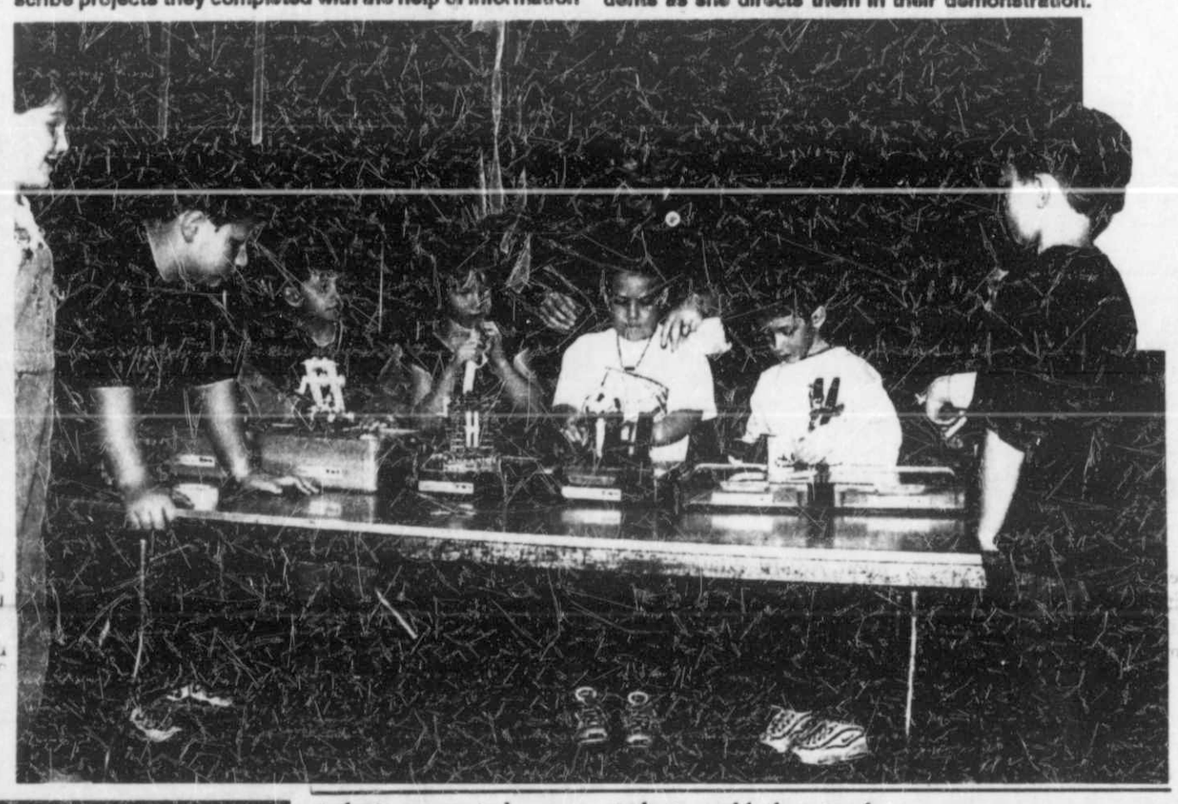
The county's technology resource staff also received praise from Lantz, who noted several individuals who have helped with the school's computer enhancement. They included Rick Dolan, Dale Kimble, Dusty Stanton, Chuck Trautwein, and Sandy Wilson. Finally, Lantz thanked numerous parent volunteers at the school who have helped raise money for the computer costs. Nancy Deal was acknowledged for establishing a savings account for the technology fund and for handling the deposits and withdrawals.

"We really appreciate each and every one of our parent volunteers," Lantz said.

Principal Gary Galloway took part in the evening's activities, helping to describe the school's progress with technology.

"One important person Mrs. Lantz has forgotten to thank is herself," Galloway said, adding that the math resource teacher is a valuable staff member at Dennett Road. "Much of our success here at Dennett Road is a result of her hard work and dedication."





TECHNOLOGY IS PART OF LIFE AT DRS — The students at Dennett Road Elementary School are immersed in the latest computer technology every day and are learning at an early age how to operate equipment and utilize the Internet. Their skills with this technology were put on display last month at the school's Technology Night, during which the students demonstrated their work to an audience of parents and other interested guests. See story. In the photo above, fifth graders are pictured as they describe projects they compiled with the help of information found on the Internet. Shown left to right are Michael Manning, Andrew Van Bogelen, Nick Gregg, Ivan Stutzman, Stacy Gaither, Cassie Skidmore, Anthony Daniels, and Michael Black. Shown below are first and second graders as they demonstrate machines they built with Lego Dacta™ equipment. Pictured left to right are Hana Smith, Nathan Thomas, Cory Murphy, Shawn Deal, Robert McEwen, Brandon Pritt, and Catlin Carrico. Math and technology resource teacher Arlene Lantz is pictured behind the students as she directs them in their demonstration.

Hepatitis C: One of the Most Serious Types

Five types of hepatitis viruses (A, B, C, D, and E) have been identified. Hepatitis C is regarded as one of the most serious types and is the most common cause of infection currently reported from the use of contaminated blood products. The Centers for Disease Control estimates that 7 of 10 persons who contract the virus develop some type of liver disease. Persons at high risk include those who inject illegal drugs, receive transplanted organs from donors whose blood contains the virus, receive contaminated blood transfusions, and become exposed to the virus via contaminated tattooing or body piercing instruments.

Currently no vaccine has been approved to prevent hepatitis C. Medicines used to treat hepatitis C infection include alpha interferon (Intron-A; Roferon-A) and an interferon-derived drug called Infergen. One report indicates that interferon injections reduce the virus in about 25% of patients. Interferon plus ribiravin (Rebetron) was approved last year for hepatitis C-infected persons who relapse after injections of interferon alone. This combination has been successful in a number of cases. Other antivirals such as amantadine are being evaluated to treat this viral infection.

Thank You
I would like to thank everyone who helped me celebrate my 80th birthday with cards, gifts, and the party on Sat., April 10. Special thanks to the ones who worked to have the celebration.

Good Will From Goodwill

by Miriam Loos and Clara Withnell

Everyone at the Goodwill Mennonite Home is enjoying the sunshine, finally, and looking forward to spring. Elaine Yoder of the activities department supervised residents planting tomato and marigold seeds. With tender, loving care they're already starting to sprout and will be ready for the garden when the weather is. The dietary staff hardboiled 30 dozen eggs that the residents decorated for Easter.

The birthday party was hosted by St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Accident. Eleanor Benedict entertained by playing fiddle and piano. The honorees were: Ollis Brenneman, Amanda Wilburn, Catherine McCullough, Robert Lyons, Anna Kerschensteiner, Saloma Schrock, Ora McKenzie, Claude Maust, Eleanor Dolly, Carnie Silber, Fred Bittinger, Marie Sisler, Gladys Bartholomew, and Mary Tabler.

A rash of respiratory ailments with a quarantine, as well as bad weather, caused many changes in plans and cancellations. The tea party had to be canceled, along with several chapel services. We're grateful to Henry Tice of Mountain View Christian Fellowship, who conducted one chapel, and Elaine Yoder, who volunteered to lead the only other one that was held. Idella Bender, activities director, said that Martha Bender and her kitchen staff outdid themselves with great snacks for the afternoon Bingos, especially the pizza that everyone loved.

Programs also suffered from cancellations because of the weather. Performances and programs in March included: a video about Bill and Gloria Gaither; Community In Harmony Chorus; Maple Glen Mennonite Church choir; Lowery family played piano and trumpet, and children sang; Harley Brenneman family played piano, keyboard, organ, and banjo; Duane Frederick of Meadow Mountain Mennonite Church; Andy Griffith video; Sound of Music video; Baby Animals video; Lolly Yommer of Jennings Church of God; Crystal Keefer told her personal story of how she sang to regain her voice after an accident; Krista Yoder played the piano; 20 teenagers from Mountain View Christian School sang and visited; Trinity Assembly of God; World Lighthouse Center sang; Rev. Philip Smith; Rick Jordan; Dry Run Mennonite Church with 16 singers; Bill and Anne Smouse; and Laurel Run Church of God.

Welcome to Alina Jodlowski from the Village, who came in March. Our sympathies go to the families of Dorothy Fifer, Fred Humberson, and Dorothy Thompson.

The Garrett County Commission for Women recently selected Mary Love, Goodwill resident, as one of the inductee choices for the fifth annual Women's Hall of Fame. She has degrees from the College of Wooster in Ohio and the University of Cincinnati. Mary was named the first director of mental health at the Garrett County Health Department and helped establish the Finan Center. Besides teaching at Garrett Community College, she wrote a book about Mtn. Lake Park titled Once Upon a Mountaintop. Nominators noted that Love had a keen sense of humor and shared many amusing and colorful stories through her writing. Congratulations, Mary!

New employees at the home include: Mary Beckman in the activities department, Ada Beachy in housekeeping, Clifford Nazelrod in maintenance, and Amanda Garlitz in nursing.

The 4th annual Villagers Spring Luncheon was held Wednesday, April 14, in the Multi-Purpose Room. Ruth Lyons and Betty Werner, hostesses, provided beverages and dessert.

4-H Club News

RED HOUSE
by Marcella Moreland
Reporter

The April meeting included a visit by guests of the Livestock Association. Louise Pysell and Marcella, both officers of the Association, spoke to the members about changes that are being made this year and about upcoming events. It was announced that Danielle, B.J., and Barry Upole will hold this month's club activity on Thursday, April 22, at 7 p.m. at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Stacey Holler's demonstration topic was dog grooming, which she demonstrated with the assistance of her Sheltie, Oreo. The segment on tooth brushing was quite a hit with everyone, including the Cloverbuds, who were invited to come and watch. Stephanie and Marcella handed out papers to members. B.J. displayed the centerpiece he made for the 4-H Achievement Program.

Marcella, Stephanie and Sarah and parents attended the Livestock Association meeting. Aliza Green presented an update on preparations for the club's fair float and fair booth.

The club voted to sell refreshments at the May 22 auction fund-raiser for the 4-H scholarship. The Brennemans updated members on the spaghetti dinner scheduled for Saturday, April 24. Each Red House club family is asked to bring a sheet cake or cupcakes to be served for dessert. Daniel Skipper and Adam and Travis Sanders invited the club members to join them on a fishing trip with the Garrett Bassers on Tuesday, April 27.

Stephanie presented a report on the Garrett County 4-H Public Speaking Contest, where she received second place and Daniel received first and second place honors. Tim Skipper and Lisa Brenneman served as two of the judges at the event.

A number of club members and adults were slated to volunteer their assistance at the Achievement Program (which was held this past Saturday evening at Northern High School). Frank Andersen was to give out club volunteer awards; Aliza, Eli, and Levi Green and their parents were to be responsible for food tables; Michelle and Stephanie were to hand out door prize tickets; Marcella and Stacey were to hand out name tags, made by Marcella, for each of the club's members and members of their families; Daniel Skipper was to call out door prize numbers, to be drawn by the Cloverbuds; and Steve and Ben Knepp, Marcella, and B.J. were to make the club's poster using pictures from last year.

The Cloverbuds joined the proceedings once again to present the Easter bunnies and chicks they had made, and they also sang Old MacDonald for the members present.

GRANTSVILLE
by Daniel Garlitz
Reporter

The Grantsville 4-H Club held its April meeting at the Casselman Valley Sportsman's Club, where the meeting was called to order by club president Sara Green, with 10 members and seven adults in attendance. Autumn Rizer presented the treasurer's report, and Ben Rizer and Aaron Wilhelm led the piedges.

Acting on a request from the student council of Northern High School, the members present agreed to donate cookies for the upcoming blood drive at the school. Aaron was placed in charge of purchasing and delivering the cookies.

Preparations for the 4-H Achievement Program (which was held this past Saturday evening at NHS) were discussed. Sara volunteered to bring a door prize, and Autumn agreed to make name tags for club members. All members were asked to bring a finger food.

The club will be holding a hoagie sale in May. Order forms will be distributed at the next meeting, and members will be taking orders at the beginning of the month. The proceeds will be used to fund club activities and donations to various organizations.

Club leaders Mary Ann and Bob Rizer led a club trip planning discussion. Members agreed that they would like to go to either Kennywood or Hershey Park, and possibly Laurel Caverns. Mary Ann will gather information to present at the next meeting.

The May meeting will be held Monday, May 3, at 7 p.m. at the Casselman Valley Sportsman's Club. All are welcome to attend.

BITTINGER
by Elliot Glotfelty

The regular monthly meeting of the Bittinger 4-H Club was held April 5. Our nursing home visit will be rescheduled because of the residents at Goodwill being sick. Robbie, Darryl, Elliot, and Blakely Glotfelty participated in the Garrett County public speaking contest held at GCC. Robbie will go to the regional contest in Hagerstown this weekend to represent Garrett County in the intermediate extemporaneous division.

Achievement night was on April 10 at NHS. All 4-H members were recognized.

Some upcoming events are: the arrival of broilers on April 22, a feeder pig sale on April 30 at the fairgrounds, and Camp Algawa, for which registrations are being taken. There is an essay contest to win a scholarship for $25. Our club will also provide some funds.

The club voted to send $100 to the Red Cross to help the refugees in Kosovo. There will be a buckwheat, pancake, and sausage dinner on Friday, April 23, from 5 to 7:30 at the Bittinger fire hall. Costs are $4.50 for adults, $2.50 for children, and free for 5 and under. Proceeds will benefit the club. We expect this dinner to be as good or better than the last.

We will have Safety Safari Sunday afternoon, April 25, at the Bittinger fire hall. There will be games and refreshments.

Our guest speaker was Tina Buckle from GCHD. She spoke about food safety in the home.

THANK YOU
The family of the late
Catherine L. McCullough
wishes to express their sincere thanks and deepest appreciation to all relatives, friends, and neighbors for the food, cards, flowers, memorial donations and prayers following the death of our loved one.
We especially want to thank Father Don Parson for the service, Ezra Yoder for the special music, and the Ladies of the Accident Zion Lutheran Church for serving lunch.
A special thanks to the staff of Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home, the staff of Garrett County Hospice, and Lynn and Carol Newman of the Newman Funeral Home.
May God bless each of you.

The worship service of the St. John's Lutheran Church, ELCA, will begin at 8:30 a.m. with the church service and will be followed by the Sunday School session at 9:30 a.m. Rev. Roland Nairn is the pastor.

The worship service of the St. John's Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, will begin at 9 a.m. and be followed by the Sunday School session at 10 a.m. St. John's is holding Bible studies each Wednesday morning throughout the month of April beginning at 10 a.m. The pastor is Rev. Douglas Kabell.

Alcoholics Anonymous meets every Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the St. Paul's Lutheran Church basement, Accident.

The Cove Kids 4-H Club met Tuesday, April 13. Carol Platter, guest speaker for the night, spoke to the members and parents about being a taxidermist. Carol brought many displays and gave a sample of freeze drying to each member. The club greatly appreciated her demonstration. The club will be going to Goodwill Mennonite Home, Grantsville, on Monday, April 19, at 6:15 p.m. for their spring program. Members are asked to bring small animals and pets to the program if the animals are well controlled and can be brought to share with the patients.

Those attending the 4-H Achievement Program on Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Long and daughter Beth, Mrs. Darlene Schmidt and daughter Rachel, Ellen Truman and daughter Melanie, and Cassie Adkins. Mrs. Darlene Schmidt received a three-year volunteer service award and pin for her help in the club throughout these years on the Achievement night. Mrs. Carla Swearman received a 10-year volunteer service award and pin on Tuesday night for her help, and Melissa Paugh received a one-year service award. These awards were presented by club reporter Beth Long. The club is very thankful to have these parents in the club and having them help for whatever is needed. Also a flower was given to Carla and Darlene for all their hard work. The club's next meeting will be May 11.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schmidt hosted a cook-out on Sunday at their home. Guests of the Schmidts were Pamela Schmidt, Kara Alt, Morgantown, W.Va., Melissa Collins, Accident, Ellen Truman and daughter Melanie, Joe Connors, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Alt, Donald Schmidt, and Rex Schmidt and children.

Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Markel Maust was Phebe Maust. Markel celebrated his 60th birthday on Wednesday.

Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Alfreda Friend were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson. Afternoon visitors of Mrs. Friend were Mr. and Mrs. George Fint, Aurora, W.Va., Mrs. Debbie Carr and son Justin, McHenry, and Elmer Hanft.

Spending a few days of her spring break with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Strider, was Julie Strider, on spring break from Marshall University.

A Sunday visitor of Mrs. Betty Richter was Mrs. Judy Travis, Oakland.

A Friday evening visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Long and daughter Beth was Miss Lindsay Swearman. Beth celebrated her 14th birthday on Sunday, April 11. Her brother, J.R. Thomas, treated her and the Longs to dinner at a restaurant on Sunday. The Longs were Monday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Summy and family and Mrs. Amanda Summy.

Spending a few days with Joyce Paugh and children is Joyce's mother, Mrs. Geneva Reese, Bruceton Mills, W.Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Funk's sons, Steven, Christopher, and Craig, were baptized into the St. John's Lutheran Church on Sunday morning. Pastor Douglas Kabell performed the baptism, and sponsors of the Funk boys are Donald and Jill Evans. Mr. and Mrs. Max Bowser attended the baptism. The group had breakfast on Sunday at Lone Star Restaurant, Markleysburg.

Tim and Kathy Murphy have recently moved because of a job transfer from Georgia to Dallas, Texas. Kathy is the former Kathy Bowser, daughter of Max and Betty Bowser.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bender and family attended the Mt. Top YFC Quizzing at the Springs Mennonite Church on Sunday, where Keith, Tony, Michelle, and Michael participated. Michael and Jeremy Bender were Sunday evening visitors of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brenneman.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Margroff, Mrs. Pam Margroff and daughter Megan, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Margroff and daughters, Mrs. Sara Broom, Grantsville, and Mrs. Karen Schefft and daughter Leigh Ann traveled to Los Angeles, Calif., Thursday and returned to their respective homes on Monday. The group was there with Brenda's Body Shop aerobic teams. Rachel Margroff received a gold medal with her group performance, Megan Margroff received a silver medal in a trio performance and a gold medal in a group performance, and Leigh Ann Schefft received a gold medal in her group performance. They can now compete in the World Sports Aerobic Competition in July in Las Vegas. Their performances will be on ESPN on April 20th at 9 p.m. The community is very proud of the these local girls.

CARING FOR KIDS — BREAKING THE SILENCE - In a presentation designed for youth, students of the Grantsville after-school program took part in activities geared to learning to protect themselves from abuse and violence. Heather Hanline, M.S., a counselor for the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence and sexual assault resource center, worked with the children on creating artwork with a child abuse prevention message. The program was developed through the Garrett County Caring Kids Campaign, which is currently sponsoring an art contest to illustrate a parent handbook, which will be prepared by the Garrett County Family Violence Coalition. Led by a generous contribution from Woodmen of the World, local organizations have donated $900 for art materials and incentive prizes for the contest. Final judging will be held May 22 at Garrett Community College. The work of 40 semi-finalists will be on display in the GCC gallery May 17-24. The Caring Kids Campaign is supported by state Department of Human Resources Child Abuse Prevention grant, administered by the Garrett County Office for Children, Youth, and Families Inc. Local youth groups are encouraged to contact the Dove Center at 301-334-9000 to enter this contest from now through mid-May. The Grantsville after-school program is sponsored by Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., AmeriCorps, and the HotSpot Initiative. For more information persons may call 301-334-9431.

No Shell Left Unturned In MLP Easter Egg Hunt

An Easter egg hunt held at the Veteran's Park in Mtn. Lake Park drew a number of participants armed with baskets recently. Sponsored by the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Community and Emergency Services Department, a total of 56 children joined in the hunt, in the company of number of parents and grandparents.

Honors for most eggs collected were garnered by Sam Moorehead, who found 28 eggs; Antony Shrene, Makayla Reams, and Harley Evans, who each found 26; Kali Fike, who found 21; and Tyler Garlitz, who found 20.

The following participants from the Grantsville Kids-N-Corporated After School Program helped fill the eggs: Christy and Jenny Orner, Amanda Swauger, Samantha Flanagon, Penny Durst, Tiffany Wilt, and Katy Towers. Children who helped hide the eggs at the park were Carrie and Cassie Fike, and Christy Moon.

Virginia Fike, AmeriCorps coordinator, and Jody Teets, AmeriCorps member, noted that McDonald's of Oakland donated certificates for each participating child.

NHS HOSTS EASTER PARTY - Northern High School Student Service Alliance class members hosted a party for the level four Northern Middle School students. Some of the children started off the afternoon playing Easter egg Twister, above, while others decorated sugar cookies. After everyone had a turn at each of these activities, snacks were served. Then more fun began as the Easter egg hunt got under way in the Husky stadium. A high point of the party was the breaking of the piñatas. Handmade by the SSA students over several weeks, the piñatas were in the form of a brightly colored egg and big yellow rabbit, below. As the paper covering tore, candy scattered and everyone scrambled after it. The Hill Top Fruit Market donated the candy for the piñatas.

TERMS OF SALE: This advertisement, as amended or supplemented by any oral announcements during the conduct of the sale, constitutes the terms upon which the premises described above are offered for sale. The Substitute Trustees reserve the unqualified right to withdraw the premises, at any time prior to the sale or release the premises from the effect of the Deed of Trust. If the Substitute Trustees determine that any bid is not commensurate with the value of the premises, they may reject the bid and withdraw the premises from sale. The highest bidder acknowledged by the Substitute Trustees shall be the purchaser and, in the event of any dispute among the bidders, the Substitute Trustees shall have the sole and final discretion to determine the successful bidder or to resell the premises.

The premises are sold in an "as is" condition with purchaser responsible for any housing and/or zoning violations, and neither the Substitute Trustees nor any other party makes any warranty or representation, either expressed or implied, of any kind or character, with respect to the premises' physical condition. The premises are sold subject to any and all convenants, conditions restrictions, easements, rights-of-way and limitations of record, including, but not limited to, any restrictions arising under the state and county laws. The premises are sold subject to the rights of persons, other than the Substitute Trustees, in possession of all or of any part of the premises as tenants under recorded or unrecorded leases, if any. Neither the Substitute Trustees, nor any other party guarantees or covenants to deliver or in any way obtain possession of the premises for the purchaser.

A deposit of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will be required to bid upon the premises. All deposits shall be in the form of cash, certified check, cashier's check or some other form of exchange acceptable to the Substitute Trustees, in their sole and final discretion, and will be required from the purchaser (if other than the noteholder) at the time of sale. The balance of the purchase price, together with interest on such balance at the rate of 13.5% per annum from the date of sale to the date of settlement, must be paid in cash, or equivalent current funds, on the date of settlement.

The property will be sold subject to a prior mortgage from March 11, 1994, in the original amount of $81,000.

All state and local real estate taxes, other public charges, regular or special assessments and the like, shall be adjusted to the date of the foreclosure sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. The purchaser shall pay all state, county and city transfer taxes, recordation taxes and fees, title examination costs, attorney's fees, conveyancing fees, notary fees and all other costs incident to the settlement.

The purchaser shall settle and comply with the sale terms within ten (10) days after the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland finally ratifies the sale; TIME BEING OF THE ESSENCE. If the purchaser defaults, in addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to them, the Substitute Trustees may declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the premises at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. In such event, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney's fees and all other charges. Conveyance of the property shall be by Substitute Trustee's Deed, without covenant or warranty, express or implied.

If for any reason the Substitute Trustees are not able to convey good and merchantable title as advertised or announced at sale, or if any exceptions to the sale are sustained, the purchaser's sole remedy shall be a refund of the deposit, without interest. Upon refund of the deposit, the sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees.

A STAR! in Western Maryland is looking for new Members!

A STAR! AmeriCorps program is recruiting Corps Members to join our team starting September 1999. All positions are contingent upon funding. Members will be required to have a background check prior to beginning service. The AmeriCorps program in this area is administered by the Western Maryland Alliance for Service, a partnership formed by Frostburg State University and local community service agencies. A STAR! provides direct service in the areas of health, education, environment, and unmet human needs to residents of Allegany and Garrett counties. A STAR! is an example of "Getting Things Done" when communities pull together.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS:

What could I receive in exchange for my service?

In exchange for one year of service, you would receive a living allowance averaging $8,370 per year, health care, child care (if eligible), and an education award of $4,725 at the completion of one year and 1700 hours of service.

Am I eligible to join AmeriCorps?

AmeriCorps Members represent a "snapshot of America," drawing from a diverse range of age, race, income, education, etc. To be eligible, you must be 17 years or older; a U.S. citizen or legal resident; and a high school graduate or be willing to complete GED requirements during the year of service.

For more information or an application, call the Alliance Office at 301-687-7599, or the individual agency you wish to apply. Applications can also be picked up at the FSU Lane Center Information Desk, FSU Braddock House, and the agencies listed. Applications will be reviewed until positions are filled. All positions are contingent upon grant funding. FSU and the Western Maryland Alliance for Service are AA/EEO employers.

Project HOME

Finally, the winter doldrums are slowly melting away to the brilliance of spring, and thoughts and spirits are starting to brighten like the flowers and plants that are popping up all over the landscape. If you've been waiting until spring to make your home improvements and repairs, then now's the time! Investing in home improvements can dramatically increase the value of your home as well as increase the pleasure you get living there. Yes, it's time to come out of hibernation and meet the challenge of the new season. It's also an excuse to go shopping for new spring things.

But where? That's easy. This guide is filled with household "how-to" advice from home repair and home improvement experts, and our advertisers have lots of the latest spring merchandise for you to choose from. Quick, Easy Improvements For All Around The House

By Elizabeth Scheibner

Most homes, whether new or old, can benefit from a little improvement now and then, and what better time than spring to spruce up your home. With a minimum investment of time and money, you can make your home more attractive, more functional, and more comfortable. And you don't have to be an expert like Martha Stewart or Bob Villa to make simple home improvements.

Here are a few quick-and-easy projects to help get you started.

WALLS AND HALLS

Adding wallpaper, molding, or paint is one of the easiest and most cost-effective ways to enhance a room. A fresh coat of paint can do wonders for a room, making a large space seem more intimate or a small area look bigger.

A design trend that is very popular right now are faux finishes, which can transform ordinary walls into works of art. Techniques like sponging, ragging, color washing, and marbling produce dramatic results that complement virtually any decorating style.

If your walls are bumpy, cracked, or less than perfect, wall covering may be the optimal solution. In lieu of traditional wallpaper, many homeowners are now using fabric to cover a wall, which can introduce an element of softness.

A decorative border also adds definition to a room and can be applied at the ceiling line, baseboard, or around doors and windows. Another way to add depth and elegance to a room is by adding moldings. You can dress up a room by adding lavish crown moldings at the ceiling or cover the bottom half of the wall with tongue-and-groove wainscoting. Moldings can also be used to create chair rails, mask corners and seams, or highlight fireplace mantels and shelves.

CREATIVE CLOSETS

Although some people are blessed with spacious walk-in closets, most homeowners don't have the closet space they need — or want. While there's not much you can do to enlarge an existing closet, you can make it more efficient by installing a modular closet system. (If you plan carefully you can double the amount of storage space.)

There are companies that can customize your closet for you, but it's more economical to do it yourself. Supplies are relatively inexpensive and you can have a new closet in less than a day.

There are two main types of modular closet systems — those made of coated wire and those made of particleboard.

The first step in redesigning your closet is to take inventory of your clothing and other items you plan to store in your closet. Pay attention to the size and shape of everything so you'll know the type and amount of space you need.

For example, if you have a lot of short clothes — shirts and slacks — two hanging sections are more practical than one. After measuring the closet, sketch out the closet arrangement on graph paper. To maximize space, you may want to consider installing pull-out hampers, shelf units with drawers, shoe racks, and other storage options.

CLASSY KITCHENS

Kitchens are generally high-traffic areas, which means they frequently show the most wear. Take a good look around your kitchen. Are the cabinets in need of paint? Are the faucets corroded? Do the drawers stick when you pull them out? Is there adequate lighting?

With a little money and some elbow grease, you can make your kitchen look new again.

One of the easiest ways to brighten your kitchen is to install undercabinet lighting, which not only helps illuminate countertops, but creates a warm ambience. Low-voltage halogen lights are the easiest to install and require a minimum amount of wiring.

If cabinet space is limited, consider adding a hanging rack to store your pots, pans, and kettles. Pot racks are not only efficient space-savers, but add a decorative touch to your kitchen. You can buy a rack at your local home supply center or custom design your own rack to meet your specific needs.

Another enhancement you can make to your kitchen is to tile the backsplash (the area between the top of the countertop and bottom of wall cabinets). This area, which attracts grease and grime, is perfect for tile because it can be easily cleaned. Tiles come in virtually every size, shape, and style imaginable — from simple terra-cotta tile to highly ornate handpainted Italian tile.

Because the area is fairly small, it's best to select tiles that are 4 inches in diameter or smaller.

CURB APPEAL

While the interior of your house is certainly important, don't forget about the exterior. Even small additions such as window boxes, trellises, flower beds, and lampposts can give your home a dramatic presence and increase its curb appeal. Framing an entry door, for instance, with a latticework trellis is an easy and inexpensive way to improve the appearance of your home. You can make your own lattice or purchase pre-made lattice sheets in a variety of styles and materials. Be sure to choose a climbing plant that is hearty and quick to grow.

Another way to make your home more inviting (and secure) is to install outdoor lighting. Lighting can serve a variety of functions, whether it's to illuminate steps and pathways, highlight trees, or accent architectural details. Low-voltage lighting systems are energy efficient and fairly easy to install. Many landscape fixtures are available in kits and come with all the supplies you need.

If the exterior of your house is plain and in need of some pizazz, you may want to consider adding shutters or window boxes to give your home a warmer and more finished look. Although many people associate shutters with traditional colonial-style homes, they are now showing up on all types of homes, from sprawling ranch houses to ultramodern dwellings. Shutters come in a variety of colors and styles, and some even feature ornate cutouts.

SPRING/SUMMER HOMEFACTS

Checklist for safety, maintenance

Once warmer, and usually wetter, weather arrives, survey and make various home repairs:

■ Gutters can be forced out of alignment by the weight of ice and snow. With a garden hose, be sure water flows out properly. Clean out debris. Be sure rubber linings in any box gutters have not torn.

■ Use quick-setting roof cement to repair curled shingles. Replace missing shingles. Be sure flashing has not pulled away from walls or chimneys.

■ Be sure no bird nests are covering attic vents, attic fans, chimney flues or AC units.

■ Be sure you are prepared for a tornado — know where you will go. Be sure you can get to your refuge in the dark as power may be off.

■ Inspect your home's lightning system. Be sure all pieces are tight and connected.

■ Be sure soffit vents are not blocked by wasp nests or items stored in the attic.

■ Change greasy filters in kitchen fans.

Step-by-Step Guidelines To Exterior Painting

Painting the exterior of a home can be intimidating unless you know the proper techniques.

To avoid common mistakes, the Weatherbeater Paint Pros offer the following exterior painting tips:

1. Evaluate -- Assess the area to be painted to determine if there are any surface imperfections that need repair.

2. Make a list of the materials you will need. Don't forget surface-preparation materials (i.e. caulk, primer, etc.) and paints, applicators, dropcloths, scrapers, ladders, masking tape, etc.

3. Prepare the surface thoroughly following the instructions on the paint-can label. Be sure to:

•Scrape all the loose paint from the area until most of the bare surface is exposed.

•Sand to dull and make the surface as smooth as possible.

•Use a commercial cleaner to wash the surface carefully, then rinse thoroughly.

4. The general rule of thumb is to always use a primer. The exception is if you're covering an existing paint with a similar color or darker color and the surface is in good shape. However, primers never hurt and only can enhance your result.

Tip: Try the water test — To determine if a previously painted surface needs to be primed, sprinkle a little water on the area to be painted. If the water soaks in, a primer is needed.

5. Paint the surface following the instructions on the paint-can label. When more than one can of paint is needed, mix some of the old paint with the new for uniform color. This is called boxing.

•Do not try to overspread or stretch paint because a thin film will affect the paint's durability.

•Paint from top to bottom, starting with the eaves and fascia. Walls are next; then trim.

•Always keep a wet edge to your painting job. After painting a section, immediately paint the next area before drying. If painting lap siding, follow a board all the way across until reaching a natural break (i.e. a window or door), before going on to the next board.

6. Weather can affect paint's durability by interfering with the drying and curing process.

•Ideal temperature for exterior painting is between 60 F and 90 F. Do not paint if, over the next 24 to 48 hours, the temperature is expected to drop below 45 F or if rain is in the forecast.

•Do not paint in bright sunlight, which can cause paint to dry too fast.

Do-it-yourselfers can visit their local Sears paint department, where specially trained sales associates can answer questions about the painting process. Consumers also can call the Weatherbeater Paint Pros at 1-800-9-PAINTS from anywhere in the continental United States from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. EST, Monday through Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. EST on Saturdays.

New Finishing Techniques Add Eye Pleasing Textures

By Celia Colista
and Michael Kapellas

Bored with flat, solid color, and tired of wallpaper, homeowners are trading paint rollers for sponges and rags to liven up the walls of bedrooms, bathrooms, living rooms and foyers everywhere.

So called "faux finishes" involve using glazes and special brushes, rags, plastic bags or even combs to create richly colored walls with added texture and patterns. Usually a glaze is applied over a base coat and texture is added by sponging, wiping, brushing or combing through the glaze.

The use of such techniques has become so widespread that interior decorators carry samples of different techniques to show curious clients. They then refer clients to professional painters who are specially trained in faux finishing.

The utility of faux finishing goes beyond just adding texture to walls. Plain pillars can be made to look as if made out of marble, new furniture can be antiqued and metal doors can be transformed to look like solid wood.

Gary Janssen, owner of GMJ Decorating, has been doing faux finishing for the past five years in homes in Chicago's suburbs. He typically does faux finishing in one or two houses a month.

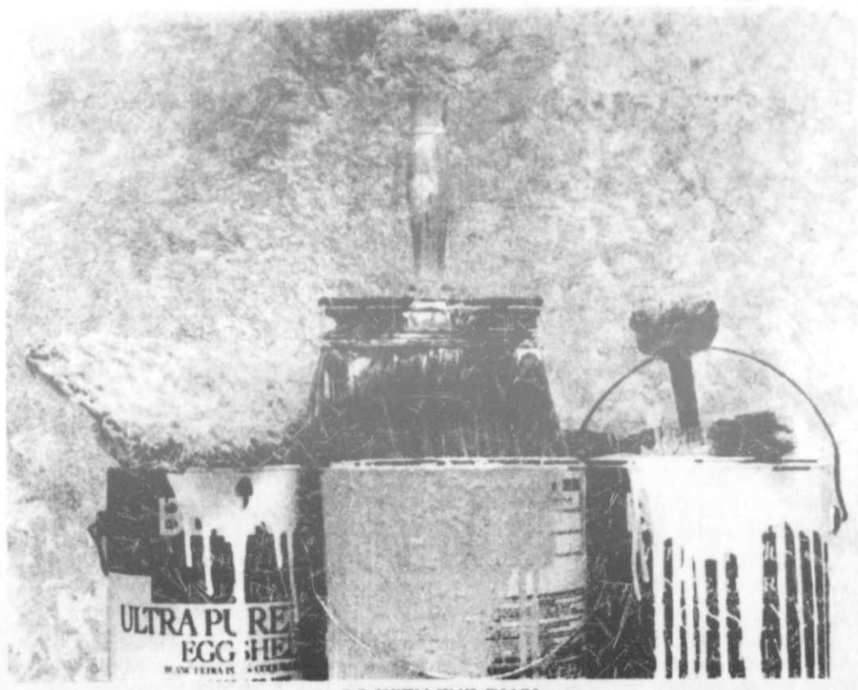
"When people buy a half-million-dollar house, white walls are just kind of Plain Jane," Janssen said. "This makes it a little more homey, gives it a warm feel."

Janseen said faux finishing often works best when it's used subtly, on things like trim or pillars. Too much faux finishing can get overpowering, he said.

"I do a lot of subtle things with new construction that people can live with for years," he said. My thing about faux finishes is giving them something they can live with for five or 10 years."

The glazes that are often used with faux finishing make redecorating more difficult than if a typical flat paint is used. Paint can be painted over. A glazed wall can't. Glazed walls need to be sanded before being repainted, a costly and time-consuming process. By using polyacrylic varnishes on top of flat paints, Janssen achieves the same type of embossed look glaze gives a wall without using the glaze, a trick he's learned through trial and error.

Those in the know say the faux finish trend is more than a passing fad. Sometimes, a faux finish is better suited for a particular type of space than is wallpaper.



GO WITH THE FAUX

Amy Collins, an interior designer with Jana Rudisill in Plainfield, Ill., says a faux finish is often preferable to wallpaper because of the size or shape of the room.

"A lot of times we suggest it in two-story foyers where they don't want to see seams in the wallpaper," she says.

Another advantage of faux finishing, said Collins, is its durability. Eventually, wallpaper will peel at the seams but paint can be washed with soapy water and will last for years. When it is time to redecorate, faux finishes can be painted over or stripped, either of which is easier than taking down old wallpaper.

Cost is another matter, though. Collins tells her clients that faux finishing probably won't save them money over wallpapering. Depending on the type of faux finish used, homeowners can expect to pay $200 to $400 to have a professional painter faux finish the walls of a small 12-by-12-foot room. A two-story foyer would cost closer to $1,200. Cost varies depending on the technique applied, the number of colors used and the size and shape of the room.

Do-it yourselfers will be pleased to know it is possible to faux finish a wall without the help of a professional painter. It's also cheaper.

Kits, complete with special gloves with Combs, brushes or other texturizers attached, are available. Ralph Lauren offers kits with specialty tools, manuals and even a video, in addition to paints and specialty glazes.

For ideas without investing in a kit, Ralph Lauren Paint has published a free color brochure (available in the company's paint displays at Home Depot) that features different techniques, colors used and tips.

For more detailed instruction, check out the Internet for faux finish web sites that offer tips, photos and definitions of different faux finishes. The Faux Like a Pro web site is where consultant Sandra Kiss-London shares eight years of faux finish experience with visitors to the site.

The site (www.fauxlikeapro.com) is loaded with information about sponging, cloth distress, marble and other faux finishes, and features a monthly finish with step-by-step instructions for eager do-it-yourselfers. It also offers brushes and other tools, and faux finish kits.

Kiss-London'sphilosophy is that anyone can do faux finishing with a little practice. She recommends practicing with color and technique on an illustration or poster board before tackling a wall. Practicing on accessories and small furniture is also a good way to finetune your faux finishing skills. Kiss-London warns against two errors common among beginners.

First, the misuse of color. Be sure to learn which colors complement each other and work well for the look you are trying to achieve.

Second, Kiss-London says many beginners are too heavy-handed. Apply the techniques lightly; subtlety, she says, is the key to faux finishing.

For do-it-yourselfers, research and practice are important, says Kiss-London, but the final result is usually worth all of the hard work.

"It's a wonderful art form because it's livable art," she says. "It's around you all the time. People will be rewarded, too.... It's something you can put your name to and say, 'Wow, I did that'.

Some faux finish tips for do-it-yourselfers:

- Do your research. Check out the Internet for tips and ideas. Go to your local library for books on the topic. Take advantage of free pamphlets, such as Ralph Lauren Paint "Techniques" booklet.
- Practice. Try out techniques on accessories first. When you're ready to tackle a whole room, paint on illustration board first to make sure your colors complement each other and to practice technique.
- Get samples of the real thing. If you want to try a marble finish, look at samples of the type of marble you want to imitate or find a book with good color photos of real marble.
- Start with easier techniques first. If you have never created a faux finish before, try one of the easier techniques, such as cloth distress or rag rolling (applying or removing the glaze with a rag to create a distressed finish) rather than a technique that requires a great deal of control and skill such as a strie (dragging a brush through the glaze to create a series of lines) or faux marble. Tips provided by Sandra Kiss-London of Faux Like A Pro.

Tips for hiring a professional:

- Ask about materials. Make sure your prospective painter uses high-quality paint, especially if he/she is quoting a low price compared to other painters you have talked to.
- Get references. Ask your prospective painter for references from previous customers. Ask the references if they were happy with the quality of work and whether the painters cleaned up the project area.
- Ask about moving furniture. Find out if the painter has enough helping hands to move furniture in the room. Tips provided by Pete McMahon of Valhalla Decorating, Mokena, Ill.

Factory Furniture Offers Sleek Lines, Lower Prices

By Penny Falcon

She didn't marry him for his design sense.

Bedroom: dilapidated desk, dormitory-style bed, antique chest. Living room: rustic furniture, '60s-era coffee tables, and a cowboy cutout, a gift from Mom that Warren Davidson never had the heart to throw out.

Before Elena Jennings was wed to Davidson, she inventoried his apartment and declared the whole mismatched mess unsalvageable.

"This has got to go," she told her fiancé, then pointed to another piece. "This won't do." And looking at the cutout, "Find this a new home."

Then, this twenty-something couple went shopping.

But the big furniture stores — with their big prices — intimidated. The secondhand shops, a confusion of bruised and worn pieces, did little to inspire. So, Elena and Warren headed for Pier 1, where they bought a couch and chairs, dishes and pillows, lanterns and picture frames.

"I had him in a store," explained Elena, "a major feat in itself.

"I wasn't about to let him walk out without getting the OK on a couple of the rooms in the house."

Mass-merchandise furniture and accessories are in. More and more, folks like this couple are heading into places like Pier 1 Imports, Crate&Barrel, Room & Board, and IKEA, and walking out with a good portion of their home decorated.

"We want to do everything fast. When we go out to shop, we expect the same pace," explained Barbara Pallat, an interior designer.

"We want it delivered tomorrow. We're going to have guests for the weekend."

FINISHED PRODUCT

An exaggeration, to be sure. But the owner of Barbara Pallat Interiors does acknowledge that today's society — and the desire to have everything right now — is shaping the world of interior design.

So much so that an IKEA, a newcomer to the Midwest market, will unveil a store in Schaumburg, Ill., in November 1999. It will be the company's third largest in the world.

The octagon-shaped building will feature 100 room settings, intimate dwellings decorated as customers might want their own.

"It's quite inspirational," said Marty Marston, public relations manager for IKEA North America. "You're not just seeing a sea of products. You see (a room) decorated."

IKEA sells just about anything you could need to fill your home, save the appliances. The clean looks, affordable prices, and decorating hints are expected to bring more than 100,000 people through IKEA's doors the first week it opens.

The furniture reflects the Scandinavian influence of the store's founders.

"Light on ornamentation and color, the wood itself takes center stage," said Marston.

"That way you can introduce splashes of bold color; the marketplace articles (accessories) become more important," she said.

IKEA works because it buys goods in enough quantity to outfit 146 stores in 29 countries. Everything is designed in Sweden, then farmed out to countries where it can be made most efficiently.

Customers, most younger, first-time furniture buyers, purchase the pieces and assemble them themselves.

"We call them pro-sumers," said Marston of IKEA buyers. "The customer plays the role of being part producer, part consumer."

QUALITY VS. TIME

Is buy-and-build furniture the best buy for the money?

That depends, said Pallat, on the purpose of the piece. If it's for the living room or another low-traffic area, style can take precedence over sturdiness.

But any furniture that lasts only a few years is a poor investment, she said.

"You have to understand the value of buying a good piece that will stand the test of time," said Pallat, a member of the American Society of Interior Designers. "You may get tired of it before it wears out."

Still, the "instant gratification" society has put pressure on companies that make furniture for high-fashion stores.

"They're trying to manufacture the same quality, but do it faster," said Pallat. "But a good piece of good furniture has a lot of hands-on work.

"And that takes time."

DO IT MYSELF

Time — seven years' worth — went into the decision to bring a furniture line to Crate&Barrel.

In 1989, when the final vote was in, the Illinois-based chain of stores opted to pass over the knock-down versions for more durable styles.

The newest location in Aurora is the company's first venture in offering furniture at an outlet store.

"The offerings still reflect the C&B style," said Bette Kahn, a company spokeswoman.

The difference is that the store stocks scratch-and-dent pieces, rejected custom orders, and last year's floor samples.

While C&B offers a shopping experience similar to IKEA, the company draws a different clientele, according to Kahn.

She points to a giant overstuffed chair, considered a bargain at just under $1,000, then runs her hand over a dining room chair tagged at $259.

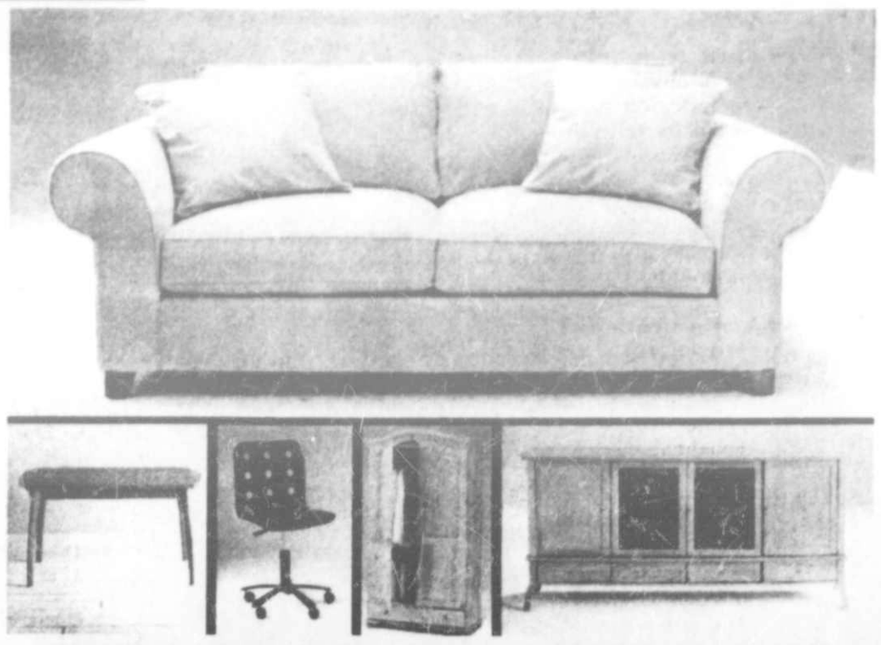
"This is for people going into their first serious home," she said.

There are drawbacks to purchasing pieces made in bulk. The most obvious: the loss of individuality.

"You want something that is truly you," said Pallat. "Not something that 10 other people walked in behind you and are going to buy."

The trick, says the interior designer, is to learn to accessorize in a style that reflects the personality of the homeowner.

"We're not saying it's not good. It has its place," said Pallat of the wealth of mass produced furniture. "You just want to be careful you're not living cookie cutter — cookie cutter furniture, cookie cutter houses, cookie cutter neighborhoods."



MASS APPEAL - Mass-merchandise furniture companies draw consumers with stylish furniture and accessories at prices lower than interior design showrooms. Popular IKEA pieces include the ervalla sofa, kronvik table, left, jules chair, kronvik chair, a wardrobe, the pixbo chair and stool, and kronvik cabinet.

Rental Furniture Easy Way To Fill An Empty Home

By Michael Kapellas
and Celia Colista

When Tony and Chona Torre moved into their new house, everything but the bedroom furniture moved with them.

It was far different from when they moved into an apartment complex last year. Coming from the Philippines, Tony said they brought hardly any furniture with them.

"Shipping furniture from the Philippines to the United States would be more like a joke," Torre said. "There's no guarantee that it would come in one piece."

But when they moved to the United States, Torre wasn't exactly ready to head out to a furniture superstore and fork over a few thousand dollars to fill his home with tables, couches, and chairs.

"There are things you don't rush into in life," said Torre, who, along with his wife, works for McDonald's, and lives in Aurora, Ill. "One of them is buying furniture. People, when they buy furniture, should give it some thought."

The more Tony and Chona thought about it, the more it made sense not to buy any furniture at all. So they rented it.

"It makes it easier for you to get settled right away," he said. "You've got a bed you can sleep in. You've got a sofa you can entertain people on. You've got a dinette you can eat on."

Just as you can head to Blockbuster and rent movies, head to Hertz and rent a car, you can go to a number of furniture rental stores and, usually within 48 hours, have a fully furnished house or apartment.

In addition to the convenience of renting, furniture rental companies offer a low-cost way for people who have debt or poor credit to furnish their homes.

"Even if a consumer has had trouble with debt in the past, they can rent without any credit hassles," said Michele Brooks, director of advertising at Rentway in Joliet, Ill.

Plus, for people like the Torres, renting doesn't involve any long-term obligation. Companies such as Rentway even offer free repairs and loaner furniture while repairs are being done.

The furniture rental business isn't new. Swingles, an Elk Grove, Ill.-based furniture rental company, has been in business for 26 years. Instant Interiors, based in Grand Rapids, Mich., is celebrating its 20th anniversary this year.

But if 10 years ago the industry was a love seat, today it has blossomed into a full-size couch with a pull-out bed. Marelyn Krueger, vice president of sales for Instant Interiors, said when she started at the company 10 years ago they did one-third the business they do today. Other furniture renters have experienced similar booms.

"The main reason is that we're such a mobile society and there's a lot of uncertainty," said Christa Landgraf, vice president of sales for Brook Furniture Rental, also based in Elk Grove. "We're for anybody who needs to have the flexibility to change their mind."

Everybody from expatriates, movie stars on location, professional athletes, the recently divorced, and victims of house fires rent furniture. The positive economic climate over the past several years also has given corporations the financial freedom to relocate executives for extended periods of time, which has spurred growth in the furniture rental businesses and corporate housing businesses.

Referred to as third-party companies, corporate housing companies find temporary housing for people and fill those quarters with furniture from a rental company. The third party pays for the furniture rental, and the person on temporary stay is responsible for one bill to the third-party company.

Amy Dowell, a manager for Swingles, said as much as 60 percent of their business now comes from corporate housing companies. Yet most other furniture companies still focus on the individual renters. With technology like fax machines and the Internet, it has reached the point where individuals often never have to set foot in a furniture showroom to decide what furnishings they want.

"They can look over the brochure and say, 'I want what's on Page 4,'" she said.

Individuals can customize their furnishings and can spend anywhere from $80 to $500 (a month) on a one-bedroom apartment, depending on how extravagant they want to get.

The Torres spent about $140 a month for the first few months in their apartment. They cut that total by about $40, though, when they decided they didn't need the sleeper sofa and other items in the spare room.

A percentage of the Torres' monthly payment went toward the purchase price of the furniture. Most furniture rental companies give renters the option to buy the furniture at the end of the lease, which is what the Torres did with everything but their bedroom set.

When a furniture lease runs out, the rental companies pick up anything the renters don't want to buy.

The companies then clean the items, reupholster them if necessary and, depending on the company and the condition of furniture, either rent them again or sell them through an outlet store.

The retail stores are smorgasbords for just about anything you might need for the house. A furniture rental store can be deceiving, because most rent all the housewares, too.

"We have everything from 27-inch TVs to floral arrangements for the kitchen table," said Krueger. "We can provide everything but their toothbrush and their clothes."

While renting furniture made great sense to Torre, he drew the line at renting linens.

"No matter how old we get," he said, "we still have our favorite blanket."

Sophisticated Stenciling Adds Special Touch Of Color

By Pam Adams

Stenciling isn't just ducks and hearts anymore.

Lynn Terrels makes the statement with a matter-of-fact sigh of relief. Not that she hates ducks, hearts or the country look. The look contributed to the popular revival of a long-dead craft.

But for her, stenciling on a wall is much more satisfying than doing the same on little boxes and other household items.

"We've gone so far beyond where it started," says Terrels, whose stenciling interest took her from a hobby to a profession and a 14-year-old business that includes painting faux finishes and marbling, as well as stenciling. She started because she wanted to create a certain look in her home that she couldn't get from wallpaper alone. The interest developed into a business, Stenciling Associates, successful enough to allow her to pick and choose the work she wants to do.

Terrels' path and her Illinois home illustrate stenciling's growth. Indeed, it has moved beyond simple decorative borders to creative canvases, both large and small, that can personalize the look of anything from stationery to wall murals.

But none of it is as easy as the simple designs on the main floor of Terrels' home.

The kitchen, dining room and the main-floor half-bath reflect stenciling styles common to New England in the 1700s. The house is modeled after a house in Sturbridge Village, Mass., a living history museum of Colonial New England.

A mural on one wall of the dining room is patterned after the work of an itinerant Colonial painter, Rufus Porter. The mural, part freehand, part stenciling, depicts a pleasant countryside landscape of stenciled-in buildings and sheep.

The half-bath, deceptively simple in appearance, also reflects the bold, primitive style typical in New England during Colonial times. The stark white walls, accented by designs in a rich, primary blue, looks like wallpaper, exactly the effect the colonists were trying to create because they couldn't afford wallpaper.

The designs include a leaf border, flowers and the pineapple, a symbol of hospitality in Colonial times. On the painted floor, she used a stencil process, though not stencil paint.

"But most of the work I do in the real world isn't as primitive as this work," Terrels explains.

For her "real-world" work, move to the guest bathroom in the basement.

There's a picket fence and garden in full bloom, stenciled on the walls and carried over to the shower curtain and other accessories.

"I wanted a picket fence," she said . My husband responded, "Absolutely not." "So I put one here," she said.

Hollyhocks, foxglove, sweet peas and ferns in soft, bright colors spill over the fence in the bathroom garden. The theme carries over from the walls to the shower curtain, a white sheet that Terrels stenciled the design on.

The point is, she says, the only limits today are imagination and skills.

Want a fireplace screen with a stone urn in the living room? How about a beautiful carpet on a wood floor? Or a lace curtained window in a room with no windows? All have been done with beautiful effect, as shown in a new book, Stenciling on a Grand Scale: Using Simple Stencils to Create Visual Magic, by Sandra Buckingham (Firefly Books of Bookmakers' Press Inc.).

Stenciling can be used in areas not amenable to wallpapering or to achieve effects that can't be done with wallpaper.

Stenciling can also be an inexpensive, practical solution for problem floors.

For a full exploration of the possibilities, see Stenciling on a Grand Scale and The Art of Decorative Stenciling by Adele Bishop and Cile Lord (Penguin Books).

Though stenciling is often thought of as a craft for people who can't draw, it is the preparation time — from preparing and cutting stencils to mapping out how to place the design — that requires the skill.

"Myrbathroom walls be a nightmare for someone who hasn't done it (stenciling). It took four hours to figure out the mathematics of spacing alone," Terrels says.

"Your eye has to think space as well as pattern."

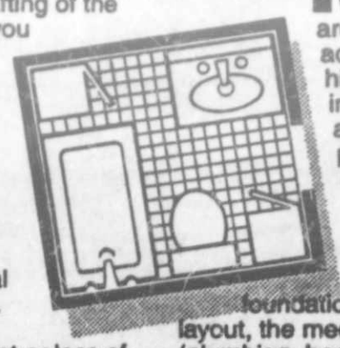
Architects and their work

If you are planning structural changes to your house, hiring a qualified architect is a wise move.



■ If you are doing a very simple addition, you may be able to let a contractor do the drafting of the plan. This assumes you know the zoning and utility rules.

■ Architects not only draft floor plans, but they investigate the geology of an area, must deal with zoning rules and permits, and will be familiar with electrical and plumbing codes.

■ Architect fees usually are 10 percent or less of the total cost.

■ Most architects use computerized drafting software that keeps a precise count of material and building costs.

■ When choosing an architect for a major addition, you will want his or her work to include the following: a floor plan, a site plan, a framing plan (showing how structural components fit together), exterior elevations, a foundation plan, the electrical layout, the mechanical layout (plumbing, heating) and 3-D perspective views.

■ Take a "virtual" tour of your new space if possible.

The Art Of Stained Glass Makes A Colorful Comeback

By Valerie Vedral

Although some of Carol VanTilburg's favorite pieces are from the Victorian Reproduction era, stained glass is making a comeback.

Not just restricted to churches anymore, stained glass is appearing in homes everywhere.

"It adds a certain touch of color to your home," said VanTilburg, owner of Alpine Stained Glass in Plainfield, Ill. "It's artistic. It's colorful."

Sharon Peterson, owner of Sharon's Unique Glass in Frankfort, Ill., also sees a renewed interest in stained glass.

"It was an old thing," she said. "Now it's coming back."

Peterson has been creating stained glass for 14 years. She also restores stained glass. She said stained glass can be used just about anywhere in the home — front doors, windows, kitchen cabinets, bathrooms — and can be created to match wallpaper and other decorations.

Judy Lange agrees.

"It can be placed anywhere, actually, that somebody wants it," said the executive assistant and marketing director of the specialty glass business Sherick Inc. in Homer Township, Ill.

Sherick uses a process called retrofitting, which doesn't require removal or major reconstruction, to place stained glass in windows. Kitchen cabinets can also be fitted with stained glass, though it requires creating a space for the glass.

"People are afraid that they're going to have to rip out their windows to have stained glass," Lange said. "It's not as difficult to do, and it can be done after you build a house."

Sherick does custom glasswork, including making stained glass for homes and businesses. Designers at Sherick create contemporary and old-fashioned-looking pieces, depending on what a customer wants.

"(Stained glass) is always in vogue," Lange said. "It's like art. I really believe that stained glass is an investment."

VanTilburg also does custom stained-glass work in addition to creations for churches, and repairs. Many of her customers don't have anything specific in mind for a stained-glass creation, besides the correct window measurements. But that's not a problem for VanTilburg, who has more than 450 kinds of glass in different colors, textures, patterns, and designs.

Stained glass adds to a home's atmosphere and can have all kinds of effects, and many say it is pretty.

"I think when the sun shines through, the different lights, it brings it to life," VanTilburg said. "It's an extra touch that brings something special to the home."

"When sunlight comes through it, I don't care how much you've seen it, I guarantee that would be the first thing your eye would be drawn to," Lange said.

Just as there are many different uses for stained glass, there are many different ways to create it. Artists use different methods to create channels and thick lines between panels of glass, such as the copper foil method used to create fine lines on stained-glass pieces. Bevels, edges of glass that light shines through, are also used in stained-glass creations.

"It is very labor-intensive," Lange said. "That's where all the cost is because it's all hand-done."

People can also create stained glass themselves, a cost-saving incentive for stained-glass enthusiasts.

Studios such as Alpine Glass and Sharon's Unique Glass in Illinois offer classes and sell supplies for the craft. VanTilburg offers classes during the fall, winter, and spring and said stained glass takes time — and patience — to create.

Peterson teaches classes Wednesday and Thursday evenings in addition to having an open studio Tuesdays.

Students in Peterson's class learn how to make a stained-glass sidelight for their homes.

"People really learn to appreciate stained glass more when they work on it themselves," she said.

Though the process is arduous, Peterson said anyone can make stained glass.

"There's art in everyone," she said. "If you can color, you can do this."

Homemade stained-glass creations don't have to be restricted to windows. Peterson said people can make small personalized gifts such as stained-glass butterflies or sun-catchers.

"It actually makes people very cheerful," she said. "It's a very therapeutic hobby."

A TOUCH OF GLASS - Stained glass catches the light and attracts the eye. It makes a colorful accept in any part of the house.

Couples Need No-Frills Policy When Decorating

By Erica Jacobson

Deep in the heart of every home improvement store, there is a section more cute than brute, more Venus than Mars.

It's the home decorating aisle.

It's a place where fuzzy puppies romp across sheets of wallpaper, fresh-cut flowers spill out of overturned flowerpots again and again on strips of border, and vines curl up trellises, catching hearts in their leaves on plastic stencils.

Unless a man wants the "Space Jam" look for his living room or "101 Dalmatians" for the bedroom, there's little hope of escaping flowers and fluff.

It would make sense, and cents, for Craftsman to capitalize on the whole "home improvement" craze with a collection of power tool-themed decorations. There's little chance that wives will stand for drill-bit wallpaper around the bedroom, but it could get the country duck wallpaper out of the den.

Ruth Walden's business, Tres Jolie Interiors (pronounced "tray jolee," meaning "very pretty" in French), in Illinois, is listed under interior designers in the phone book, but she might as well be cross-listed under "marriage counselors."

"Typically, you know you're in trouble when the husband insists on being at the meetings," Walden said. "If they really have dislikes, they'll tell me up front."

Walden considers that initial outburst as a husband's show of strength in a situation where he doesn't know what to expect. It's a totally different waging of the "War of the Roses," but when men speak up about what they want their house to look like, that's when a wife's vision of having a flowery master bedroom wilts.

Say nothing and Laura Ashley's famous florals will move in, not Ralph Lauren's polo ponies. Say something and he'll have to worry about decorating the doghouse, not the master bedroom.

"The guy usually relents to what I'm recommending," Walden said. "They know they have no taste."

With that battle over, some couples try to find a middle ground. Flowery patterns can grow in the kitchen if they don't spread to the family room. Or they divide up the house.

"Others will pick a particular room, like the study, and the wife will say yes to anything," Walden said.

However, the painting of dogs playing poker doesn't count as "anything." What men do want, Walden said, are furnishings and fabrics with a golf or fishing design, dark colors, plaids, and comfortable furniture.

The dividing of Mary and Ralph DeFreece's new home in a Chicago suburb has already happened. Mary furnished the living and dining rooms with formal furniture, Hummel figurines, and an organ. Ralph is still looking for casual furniture for the family room.

"We've run into a problem — I'm 6 feet tall and my wife is 5 feet tall," Ralph said. "So, there's an issue of comfort."

Still, Ralph's done a great job of decorating the garage with a motorcycle, pop-up camper, and assortment of outdoor tools and toys.

So far, the couple worked together on designing the kitchen, and Ralph has started convincing his wife that a Southwestern bedroom set might be their next purchase.

At Dave and Julia French's Lakewood, Ill., home, Dave has his own methods of interior designing. When he and Julia were still engaged, Dave teased her about becoming someone who collects knickknacks.

"I hate knickknacks," Dave said.

While some husbands may hate but tolerate the clutter, Dave joked about buying a gun, etching "knickknacks" into the side of it and using the knickknacks for target practice.

Now, although Julia may have never liked the little "doodads" to begin with, not that many of them have turned up in the couple's house.

Dave said he feels lucky that he and his wife don't argue about how they want their house to look. They're both kind of cool on country-style interiors, but sometimes lighthearted intimidation is enough to freshen up the house. Every now and then, Dave admitted to walking through the house and taking stock of the wall decorations.

"She'll be like, 'Oh, where did that picture go?'" Dave said. "I just tell her I got rid of it."

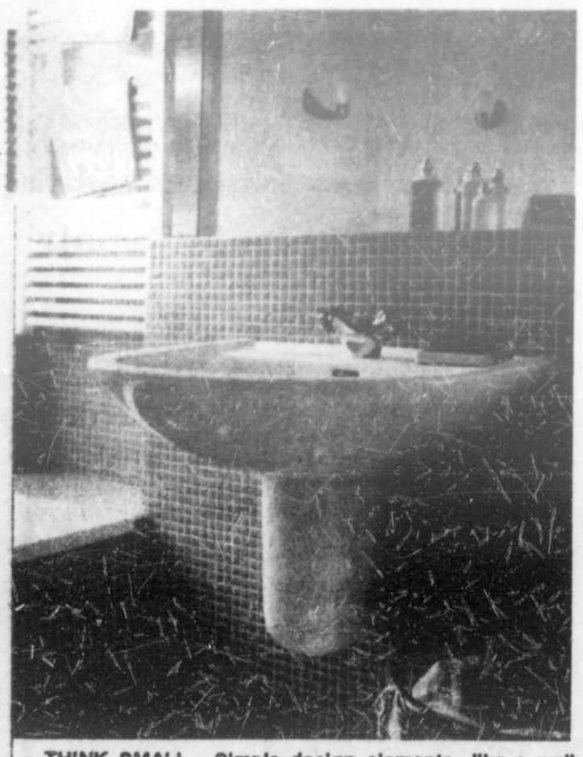
Solutions For Adding Space To An Itty Bitty Bathroom



THINK SMALL - Simple design elements, like a wall-hung sink basin and a unifying color scheme, add visual space to a small bathroom.

By Christine Brun

Once upon a time, only the grandest homes had private bathrooms connected to bedroom suites. More commonly, whole families shared a bath at the end of the hall. Today we expect the luxury of enough bathrooms so that every one can be accommodated. The problem is that sometimes even the most perfect houses have bathrooms that are too small.

The obvious solution, of course, is a total remodeling job. According to the National Association of Home Builders, spending on renovations and remodeling topped $33 billion in 1998. The average cost of a bathroom remodel with new tile and fixtures is around $8,500, about 77 percent of which is recovered when you sell your home.

But sometimes, due to budget constraints or the physical limitations of an older home, a project of this scale is not possible. The trick is to find ways to expand the space while maintaining the architectural integrity and not breaking the bank.

Start with the appropriate size for the lavatory. In very tight space, the sink and cabinet must be minimal. If you are using a pedestal design, it, too, must be the slimmest version available. You might even consider a bar sink, which comes as small as 16 inches by 15 inches in ceramic and stainless-steel bowl.

Do you really need a cabinet whose function is mainly to hide the plumbing? One option is a wall-hung cabinet or rack, but be sure that the depth is no more than 9 inches or so, just deep enough for tissue and soap storage. Some racks straddle the toilet to provide shelves above the tank.

Next, look at what you can do with the other surfaces, including walls, ceiling, and floor. Try to unify the surfaces visually. One approach is for either the floor material to wrap up the walls or for the color of both to melt together.

In a seamless box it is easier to create the sense of fluidity and order. Breaks in the wall by wainscoting or contrast between a burgundy bath carpet and pure-white tile walls do little to expand the area. The other tack is for the floor to present some interest and all other elements to blend as one.

For instance, a bathroom with a small terra-cotta tile floor with cobalt-blue accents might wear light-beige walls with a toilet and sink to match. Color may be added with blue linens and a small, colorful piece of art.

Miniature bathrooms are good candidates for the use of mirrors. It might be that a wall-to-wall and floor-to-ceiling application on one or two walls is the most effective use of your resources. Select a good glazing company and discuss with them exactly where the seams will be placed. Avoid square mirror tiles that add many lines to the wall surface. The goal is to keep this area clean and sleek.

If the wall opposite the sink area is mirrored, search for a hanging mirror for above the washbowl that has character. That way the warmth of an antique wooden frame or the beauty of a contemporary chrome accent mirror is repeated in reflection and adds depth to the room.

If you can tear out the existing ceiling and push the limit of the vertical space up another foot or two, do it. The effect of more overhead space is immeasurable. If you can add even a small skylight, the combination of more space and light is fabulous. Select a venting skylight, which could allow you to eliminate a window and gain wall space for cabinets.

Even if you do go for a massive renovation, one way to economize is to keep the plumbing wall in its present location. Unless a great design can be achieved by relocating the sink and toilet to other parts of the room, think long and hard about developing a design around this requirement.

Investigate whether there is a closet on the other side of the wall that might be captured as part of the new bathroom. Or break into adjoining rooms at the overhead cabinet height. Allow for recessed shelving from the bathroom side of the wall and lower recesses from the opposite side.

Think about extending whatever flooring currently abuts the bathroom. Running wood flooring or tile from a hall can expand the perception of space in the bathroom. Investigate the idea of running a lavatory countertop from wall to wall. Part of the cabinetry might reach from the floor to the ceiling, featuring closed- or open-shelf storage for linens.

Open shelving might also become art display when properly lighted. Not only does this add character, but if the back of the shelving is mirrored, it can add dimension to a small space.

Books are a good place to begin planning for any size remodeling project, and several are available on the subject of bathrooms.

Making the Most of Bathrooms by Catherine Haig (Rizzoli). Lavishly illustrated, this book's bathrooms are stylish and traditional, practical and contemporary, chic, sleek, and spare — the stuff dreams are made of. One section is devoted to small baths.

California Design Library: Bathrooms by Diane Dorrans Saeks (Chronicle Books). The California lifestyle is reflected in the most private room of the house — the bathroom. Divided into two sections, style portfolio and design workbook, the book covers everything from fundamental designs to luscious luxuries.

The Book of the Bath by Francoise de Bonneville (Rizzoli) provides a history of the bath and is awash with beautiful photographs and paintings. Truly a book for the dreamer whose ultimate joy is a long soak in a deep tub.

Whatever your budget, your bathroom can be convenient, functional, and beautiful — regardless of its use. This often-overlooked spot is where you spend your most private moments. It deserves the same attention to detail that you lavish on the rest of your home.

Relax And Unwind In Custom Tub Or Shower

By Ann R. Martin

When it comes to bathtubs or showers, it's no longer a question of which one consumers prefer. We want both, including custom showers with features that fulfill our wildest, steamiest dreams.

While the whirlpool bathtubs have become standard equipment, custom showers are now the rage, according to suburban plumbing suppliers.

"People seem to be spending their money in the shower," said Kerry Price, showroom manager for Wm. F. Meyer Co. in Illinois.

Cheryl Vanderplow and Jennifer R. Feddersen, consultants at Crawford Supply's Kohler showroom in Mokena, Ill., agreed.

"Elaborate showers are on the upswing," said Feddersen.

The customized spa units are popular because they give people a chance to retreat from their hectic lifestyles, added Vanderplow.

"People are looking for that little spot to unwind, shut the world out, and enjoy, with hot water pulsating on their backs," she continued.

The spacious "mega-showers" comfortably hold two people, and can be equipped with multiple shower heads, including hand-held or sliding shower heads, and body sprays that aim pulsating streams of water at knees, waist, and back. The body sprays are custom installed to hit the person who will use them in just the right spot.

"It's like a stand-up whirlpool," explained Vanderplow. "It's very relaxing."

Other options include steam domes, mini-whirlpools that massage your feet with swirling water as you sit in the shower, and even a waterfall feature that cascades a sheet of water from overhead.

"While some of the features may sound frivolous, the customized shower units are actually very practical," Feddersen said. Grab bars are a good safety feature. Seats and lots of space allow women to shave their legs in the shower much more easily. Hand-held sprayers facilitate thorough rinsing from head to toe. Sliding shower heads give parents the option of adjusting the shower head's height perfectly for little ones who want to shower.

People with physical disabilities who might have trouble getting in and out of a bathtub especially appreciate the custom showers, Price added. She's finding that remodelers, who don't have the space for both shower and tub, are getting rid of their bathtubs.

"We see a lot of elderly people especially who are taking out their tubs and putting in large shower units," she said.

"People also may turn to custom showers because they don't have time to use their whirlpool," Price said.

Personal preference is the deciding factor for equipping this very private part of the house, according to Vanderplow. Many simply want to keep the option of having a good soak in the tub. There are also some customers who will opt for a deep, soaking tub with elaborate decorative features, instead of a whirlpool.

"Sometimes the woman admits she wants the whirlpool, and the fancy shower is for her husband," she added.

Whirlpools also offer a wide variety of options, including size, the number of jets, the power of the pump, and additional deck-mounted hand sprayers. Feddersen reported a favorite model comes equipped with a timer that you can set to have a tub filled with hot water waiting for you when you get home from work.

Even if they don't think they'll have time to use them, new home buyers want whirlpool tubs to protect the resale value of their homes, the consultants said.

That's a wise move, according to Cheryl Pommerening, the owner of Aspen Builders in Plainfield, Ill. "Having both a two-person whirlpool tub and at least a 4-foot shower complete with a seat and grab bar are now standard for master bathrooms in custom homes," she said.

"It's not an upgrade," Pommerening emphasized. Most of the customers who buy her custom homes are "move-up buyers" for single-family homes in the $230,000 to $300,000 price range.

They're active, health-conscious consumers who want bathrooms that fit their lifestyles, she explained.

Vanderplow reported that master bathrooms get the most elaborate models and features. Combined tub and shower units are still popular in other guest bathrooms and children's bathrooms, but people also put whirlpools and custom shower units in those, too.

In larger homes, bathrooms that serve gym areas are likely to have the spa features as well.

Prices for the custom shower units start around $1,000. While most of their customers stay in the $2,500 to $3,500 price range, "you can go a lot higher," she added.

"Remodelers and do-it-your-selfers who might have to budget more carefully are also spiffing up their showers and tubs with the latest features," said Fay Peters, kitchen and bath supervisor at Builder's Square in Illinois.

The store offers a variety of products, starting with basic units in smaller sizes that homeowners can embellish with more sophisticated features, such as hand-held shower heads and adjustable sliding shower heads.

"It just depends on your budget," Peters said.

"Whirlpool tubs that will fit into a standard bathtub space are popular with remodelers," Peters said. Those tubs are priced starting around $400. Shower stall prices start at $179, but their best-selling shower unit is a two-piece 32-inch model for about $279. Combined shower and tub units start around $249. Faucets and shower heads are extra and can be as simple or elaborate as the customer wants.

Installation service is available for an additional cost. Peters advised that for the more complicated plumbing projects, it's worth it to have a professional do the work.

The sophisticated plumbing equipment should be installed by competent professionals, Vanderplow agreed. Customers should keep in mind that these whirlpools and shower units can use a lot of hot water. Auxiliary water heaters and pumps to increase pressure might be necessary, especially if they have several whirlpools or custom showers in the house.

With steam units, proper venting is especially important.

While consumers are going for elaborate features in their bathrooms, when it comes to colors, customers in all price ranges are sticking with basic white and off-white, the experts reported.

"A color called "biscuit," which is a very soft white, is probably the most popular," Price said.

"They want to stay real neutral and not date things," said Pommerening.

"Everyone is still having nightmares about harvest gold and avocado green," laughed Vanderplow.

Besides, strong colors might also interfere with the reason people go to such great lengths to create their own private spas in their homes.

"People just want to relax," Vanderplow said.

Springtime Energy-Saving Projects Save Money, Too

By Amy Kolzow

Spring conjures up more thoughts of bulbs, shrubs, and stone walkways than energy conservation.

"This time of the year I'm thinking about beautification projects like planting the garden, maybe doing a little painting," said Dale Eilbert of Batavia, Ill., as he sorted through the carefully placed bright-red impatiens in his Home Depot cart. "Energy efficiency is something I think about in the fall or winter. This time of the year I'm thinking about lawn mowers, not the furnace."

Eilbert seems to be pretty typical of consumers, according to home improvement experts.

Homeowners who put off energy conservation projects in the spring and summer months may be missing some great opportunities for saving money.

"There doesn't seem to be a very high awareness about spring and summer energy conservation projects," said Ray Spears, manager of an Ace Hardware store.

"Spring should be just as important for these types of projects, especially when you consider the high cost of cooling your home and the massive amounts of water that get mostly wasted during the warm weather," he continued. "Typically, people are more worried about their grass this time of the year."

Chuck Keuland, store operating manager of Kelley's True Value Hardware in Illinois, agrees.

"We talk more about Rototillers than furnaces this time of the year," he said. "People just don't seem all that concerned, which may be really shortsighted when it comes to doing what is best for your house and wallet."

Now is the time to get started on home energy conservation projects — before you turn on the air conditioner.

Windows seem to offer a clear opportunity for efficiency.

Steve Huff, manager of Seigle's Building Center in Aurora, Ill., says he sees people looking to switch from standard glass in windows to low "e" glass, a specialty product that is said to be more efficient at keeping the cool air in the house in the summer and the heat inside during the winter.

"Replacing your current windows with this type of glass will probably add about 10 (percent) to 15 percent to the cost of the regular window," he said.

"But when you look at the cost of the project over the long run in terms of the money you'll be saving by having more efficient windows, it probably pays for itself pretty quickly."

If you're not up to replacing your windows, caulking and weatherstripping should be checked twice a year — now, right before the air conditioner is switched on, and again when the furnace is about to be lighted for the first time.

"Most people do caulking in the fall, but if you think about it, it is just as important to do it now for the same reasons. You don't want that cool air you're paying for in your home escaping any faster than necessary," said Steve Arnold, assistant store manager at a Home Depot. "Winter months and accompanying temperature changes can be hard on caulking and weatherstripping, causing cracks and gaps, so it really is imperative that it be checked and repaired in the spring, too.

Spears said shades and blinds are another necessity when looking at warm-weather energy conservation projects.

"Drawing the shades keeps the sun out, which means you potentially don't have to cool as much," he said, noting that there are several special products on the market designed specifically for this purpose. "A digital, programmable thermostat also does wonders because it can be set to meet the needs of the family, like leaving the house a few degrees warmer when everyone is out during the middle of the day and dropping it again in the late afternoon when people start returning home."

Don't forget those furnace and air-conditioning unit tuneups.

Whether you do it yourself or hire someone to do it for you, changing the filters and making sure the equipment is in proper working order can go a long way in saving money on your cooling bills.

"Again, fall seems to be the time people are thinking about things like furnace maintenance and filters," Spears said. "These items really need to be looked at in the spring, too. You want your equipment working efficiently and properly all year-round, not just during cold-weather months."

And you can help out your cooling equipment by allowing air to circulate through the house with ceiling or box fans.

"Both roof vents and attic fans will take the heat from the top of the house," Arnold said. "Allowing heat to build in the attic means more radiates to upper floors and more cool air has to be generated to cool those areas."

For less than $100, power roof vents are available, and a whole-house fan will cost about $175.

"These projects are relatively easy to complete and provide you with a lot of energy savings compared to cost," Arnold said. "And think about it, if you get up on the roof now, you won't be sweltering in a few months trying to work on the roof."

And if work outside you must this year, Kevin Garrity of Builders Square in Elgin, Ill., said there are some products you can use to conserve water.

Water timers, which retail for about $20, can save you from walking through the yard in your robe. These devices are hooked to outdoor faucets and automatically turn on the spigot — which should be connected to a hose and sprinkler or other watering device set in a strategic area — at a set time.

"You should be watering early in the morning, when demand for water is generally lower, plus it's better for your lawn and plants because they won't be scorched in the sun," he said.

Another tip, though it may seem simple, is a new hose or sprinkler, or even new couplings and washers for existing watering tools.

"You waste a lot of water by having bad couplings and washers because water generally leaks all over and puddles, which isn't good for any number of reasons," Garrity said. "I don't really think drip hoses work well as a conservation tool, but if you use a standard hose with a good fitting properly, I think you can limit your water and use through observation and timing."

Balancing Act

There is an art to hanging art, according to the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art. Whether it's a picture of Aunt Mabel at the family reunion or a good-quality copy of a Renoir, there are do's and don'ts for hanging pictures on the walls of your home.

- Do place the most important work where you are going to see it first as you enter a room.
- Do put small things lower on the wall and large things higher up.
- Do give artwork some space; try not to put a big painting on a small wall.
- Don't hang a picture over a sofa that is the same size as the sofa.
- Don't allow sunlight to fall on a work of art on paper or canvas.

Do-It-Yourselfers Find Peace Of Mind In Home Projects

By Celia Colista

To some, a tool is merely something you store in a closet, hidden away until, on some rare occasion, you need to use it. But to others who revel in the handyman mystique perpetuated by "Home Improvement's" Tim Allen, a tool is a do-it-yourselfer's means to a new kitchen, a remodeled room, or a new roof. Some repair a kitchen faucet for the sake of learning how to repair a kitchen faucet (and for the sake of saving money), while others do it on the way to bigger and better home improvement projects.

Why is it what others consider a chore and a household hassle, the Bob Vilas of the world see as handyman heaven? What many men have found is that projects around the house are satisfying methods of relaxation. They are hobbies laden with practicality and other good reasons for spending hours working in the garage or in the basement.

Some weekend do-it-yourselfers have a Lone Ranger approach to home improvement: the more time alone the better.

But the man who ignores his family to spend days holed up in the garage may be more of a modern myth than a contemporary real-life story.

George Muersch Jr., who runs the family-owned Will Cook Ace Hardware in Homer, Ill., said home-improvement projects often end up involving more than just the project-hungry Tim Allen wannabe. He sees a lot of couples coming into his store together. Although he occasionally catches a wife rolling her eyes at a husband who has bought his umpteenth screwdriver, he said couples generally cooperate.

He should know. Muersch just finished remodeling his bathroom, a project that took him about a month to complete.

But his wife worked with him in sorting out the details of the new look.

"We picked out fixtures together, and we picked out colors together," he said.

Fred Wilker, who describes his toolbox as "humongous," has redone every room in his home except for two. He redid the roof on his garage, does his own plumbing, and has gutted and re-drywalled parts of his house.

Wilker lives with his companion and her children. The kids help with painting, and their mother chooses fixtures and other design accents. Wilker sees the work he's done on their home as "family projects" rather than solo improvements.

Of course, others appreciate the time to be alone and relish the hobby. Ross Margentina is a retired hydraulic engineer who spends about 30 hours a week in his basement workshop. His workshop is filled with hand tools such as chisels, saws, and planes, and heavy equipment, like his hobby saw. He builds dollhouses and train cars for his grandchildren, in addition to doing home repair and maintenance around his home.

He said his wife doesn't resent his time spent in the basement.

"She gets rid of me," he said. "It's peaceful. She does her thing, and I do mine."

For any kind of do-it-yourselfer, though, at some point the hard work ceases to be just a hobby and becomes ... well, work.

"It's fun to start," said Wilker, a service manager and mechanic, "but it begins to be a pain in the butt to finish sometimes."

Even some longtime home improvers have trouble finishing projects. After years of woodworking, Margentina still finds himself unable to finish some projects.

"It's just a natural thing," he said, "you leave it alone and let it go. Most projects I think people don't finish."

Despite the occasional frustrations every do-it-yourselfer runs into, most find the pleasure of doing the project and the satisfaction of finishing are enough to start all over again on the next project.

Muersch said he enjoys home improving as long as he has the leisure of taking his time; and as much as he works on projects with his wife, he also doesn't mind the solitude that comes with the work.

"I find a lot of peace to it ... especially when there's no one else around. If you're not pressured to get it done, it can be fun."

TOOL TIME - Some people just seem to be born with a do-it-yourself nature. Ross Margentina of Illinois spends about 30 hours a week in his workshop making doll houses from scrap wood. He doesn't sell his creations, but he will gladly teach anyone who wants to learn how to make one.

Clear Out The Clutter With A Closet Makeover

By Valerie Lembe

Since early man first cast about the cave for a cranny to stow his loincloth and spear, humans have felt a need to organize their stuff.

Today's cranny of choice is the closet — from the French "close the door on this mess."

Lately, yearning for "a place for everything and everything in its place" has led to aberrant thinking, according to a survey conducted by The Container Stores, a Dallas-based retail chain. When asked, "Which of the following would you be most willing to give up to get more closet space?" bedroom footage came in at 48 percent, but a sizable 17 percent responded, "My spouse."

It needn't be that way. Closet consultants and outlets are now available around the country offering everything from guidance to a $12 lace pantyhose caddie to a five-figure solution for your storage woes.

But where do you begin?

The first step is to inventory what's in your closet now, according to Theresa Gonzalez, president of The Solution, a San Diego image consulting firm.

"I meet clients in their homes. We discuss their lifestyle and their needs," Gonzalez said. "Then we get into the closet and decide together whether something is a useful part of the wardrobe." If it isn't, out it goes.

You can also free up space by storing your off-season wardrobe in another closet or in storage boxes under the bed, she said.

Gonzalez — who charges $60 an hour and spends about four hours with a client — cites two common problems: "Disorganized shoes," she said. "And wire hangers. They're so bad for clothes."

Her solutions are clear acrylic shoe boxes and plastic tube hangers that "slide on the pole and keep clothes neat."

Opaque plastic garment bags are another bugaboo. "You forget what you have. If you can't see through them, get rid of them.

Still disorganized?

"Get someone to come in and install a closet organizer with extra rods and shelves," Gonzalez said.

A veteran of more than 100 closet forays, Gonzalez has a single goal: "You need to be able to see everything in the closet," she said.

"I couldn't stand it anymore, I was wearing the same clothes every day," said Debbie Fox before calling upon Gonzalez. "I reduced my inventory, but my inventory is smarter. Now I feel like I have more clothes."

"The goal is to make space visible, accessible, and flexible," said John Thrailkill, organizational expert with The Container Store.

"Typically, customers come in because they have one or two things that are driving them nuts. Once we start talking, they realize it's not just shoes bothering them."

The solution is invariably a happy experience, according to Thrailkill.

"Generally, people are using closets so inefficiently that it's rare we can't make a dramatic difference," he said.

While The Container Store carries all of the smaller closet essentials, their full-blown closet reorganization relies on a Swedish system of clothes rods for both long and short garments, coupled with epoxy-finished wire drawers and shelves. Components are cut to size and the customer does the installation — a process the company assures is painless.

Measurements are all frustrated customers need provide for a complementary plan.

"You walk in, we develop a plan, custom-cut the system to fit in your closet, and you can take it home in the car," Thrailkill said. The price for this instant gratification is dependent on the size of the space.

"A 2-by-5-foot closet runs $200 to $500, depending on the number of drawers," he said.

"For $300, you can get drawer space for all folded clothes, double hanging space for short items, space for long hanging, and shelves."

Because the system is modular, closet organization can be done in phases. "We help you plan all at once, but you don't have to buy all at once," Thrailkill said.

The Container Store offers an Ultimate Closet Planning Guide that's available by calling 800-786-7315.

Exasperation isn't necessarily the incentive for clients consulting Robby Farris, president of The Closet Factory, a franchise that sells custom closet organizers in Seattle.

"Often, they're just running out of room. Some are downsizing — going to condos where they'll have less space to put stuff," she said.

The company is called upon by families building new homes, too. "The contractor tells them, 'Call The Closet Factory if you want more than a rod and a shelf.'"

The smallest job the company accepts is $350 for reorganizing a 3-by-4 foot closet, and they've done closets that cost $20,000.

Amenities can include molding on drawers and doors, veneers, cedar paneling, brass hardware, glass doors, and even free-standing armoires.

A trend in new construction is to free up the bedroom for things other than traditional bedroom pieces, according to Farris, who's been known to relegate an eclectic variety of furnishings to the closet.

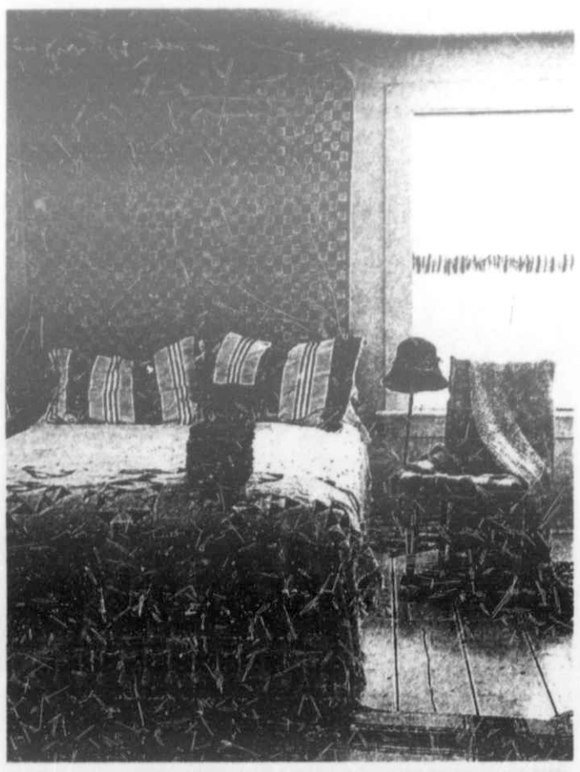
"We've put refrigerators and televisions in closets," she said. Open the door and you have an instant family room.

"Every job we do is different. We've reorganized closets in houseboats and yachts and built them in log homes — a special challenge because a log house settles 6 inches over the first year."

Farris recalled one strange request.

"We were asked to cut holes through a row of ascending shelves so the lady's cat could get to its perch at the top."

Add Warmth To Home Decor With Cozy Quilts



Cozy and comforting, quilts bring warmth and year-round decorative charm to any room in the home. Whether the elaborately pieced work of art of an expert needlewoman or an Amish-designed graphic, quilts are undeniably collectible and always in fashion. Mixing and matching various-patterned quilts and blankets with interesting trims and borders makes for an attractive and lively display in the bedroom, while visually adding depth through the overlapping of textures. Displaying quilts of similar or complementary colors unifies the room's theme with a look that can't be copied. Here, a simple checkerboard quilt becomes a one-of-a-kind headboard, featuring the same accent colors seen on the pillows, blanket, quilt and rug. New Money-Making Secrets Reveal The 10 Best Home-Improvement Tips to Sell Fast

Throwing away thousands of unnecessary dollars when you make improvements is crazy, claims consumer advocate and author Bob Easter.

"Over the years, I have previewed thousands of homes. I have seen the best and worst of home remodeling. Some improvements actually can eliminate potential buyers from considering your home. You must know what those projects are and how easy it is to avoid making costly mistakes," says Easter.

For 23 years, this successful real-estate broker has been teaching consumers the insider industry tricks. All consumers make mistakes when improving or buying a home, and Easter is quick to point out those crucial errors in his books, "The 14 Home-Selling Secrets, The Mistakes Everyone Makes" ($19.95) and "HOME BUYING POWER: Inside Tips, Tricks and Trends for Buying the Home of Your Dreams!" ($17.95), from 1-800-848-5593 or http://www.easterexpress.com.

"The No. 1 mistake is not having a game plan. Before you contact a real-estate company or builder, know the key questions to ask to protect your pocketbook," says Easter.

Two easy mistakes owners make is that they:

1) list with the agent who quotes the highest sale price. The agent knows the owner already has an emotional attachment to the property, along with an unrealistic price. The agent throws out a high listing price, and the owner signs.

2) fail to understand that listing agreements are written to tie the owner to the company without giving an accounting of exact services and marketing. Before you get locked into a listing agreement, know how to protect your rights.

Robert Bruss, Tribune Media Services syndicated columnist, says, "This very realistic book ('The 14 Home-Selling Secrets') is filled with practical sales advice to home sellers. His advice is practical, honest and often against the best interest of his profession."

"Knowing the 10 most critical items to fix before you put your home on the market can put big money in your wallet. Fixing certain items can bring a larger return than others, and some items really don't cost any money, just some work. In my home-selling book and special report we explain in detail what to do before you sell," says Easter.

There are many hidden traps of buying or building a home. "Paying too much for a home is the No. 1 pitfall to avoid. Another major mistake is not knowing the 48 advantages and disadvantages of buying a new or resell home. Smart shoppers want to know how to avoid the hidden traps of buying the wrong home," Easter says.

Mark Victor Hansen, New York Times best-selling author of "Chicken Soup for the Soul," says, "Protect your investment by learning the best advice and wisdom from a leading consumer advocate. Easter zeroes in on money-saving tips to protect home buyers now and in the future."

More than 11,257 consumers have ordered these informative reports. When you order "The 14 Home-Selling Secrets"($19.95), "HOME BUYING POWER" ($17.95), or the special combination price for both books ($29.95 includes shipping/handling), all of the checklists will be included. See address below or call 1-800-848-5593. Visa/MC accepted. Book orders are shipped same day and come with a 60-day money-back guarantee.

To order the checklists, "The 10 Best Home-Improvement Projects," "The 10 Critical Items to Fix Before You Sell," and "The Top 10 Tips Before You Buy," send $3 (cover printing and shippin handling), to Bob Easter, Au thor, 4212 Lostridge Drive, Suite 99, Austin, TX 78731-1306. Or, visit the Web site at http://www.easterexpress.com.

Read. Then Recycle.

Need Money?

Cleaning Your House Can Raise Needed Cash

"Redecorating could cost you nothing," claims author Tony Hyman, if you're careful when you clean house.

Nearly everyone owns a few old things which can be sold to help cover the cost of the new, he says.

A good place to begin is with the junk that children leave behind, Hyman points out, since children's things don't have to be very old to have value.

Five of the 10 most valuable baseball cards date from the 1950s. Transistor radios from the 1960s have reached the $300 mark. So have dolls, action figures, plastic model kits and rock 'n' roll posters from the same period. Some Happy Meals® boxes are worth hundreds of dollars, and a handful of PEZ® dispensers have brought $1,200.

David Welch, of Illinois, says he'll pay $1,000 or more for 50 other toys from the 1960s that originally cost less than $5. If you have one of those items, how do you find Welsh to cash in?

The key to getting these outlandish prices is locating the people willing to pay them. There only is one good buyer of cigar boxes in the entire United States and finding top buyers of collectibles like cap guns can be equally difficult.

That's where Hyman enters the picture. Twice weekly, his syndicated Trash or Treasure radio show helps listeners sell everything from arrowheads to road maps. For 18 years, he's been asked to help sell oddities like Buddy Holly's airplane, Lee Harvey Oswald's tombstone and Ty Cobb's uniform, plus many millions of dollars of more ordinary items turned collectible. The biggest find? A two ton farmyard meteorite that brought $200,000. Listener demand led Hyman to put his helpful tips into print.

Trash or Treasure Directory of Buyers contains 640 pages of what collectors want to buy, where to go for free appraisals, and pages of tips on how to get top dollar for china, records, watches, jewelry and everything else you want to sell. It includes names, addresses, and phone/fax/e-mail of more than 1,200 reliable experts ready to pay cash for more than a million different items you might own.

Hyman created his book because "it's easier, safer and far more profitable to dispose of your stuff to helpful experts over the phone or through the mail."

Trash or Treasure is $29.95, plus $5 shipping/handling, from Treasure Hunt, Box 3028-CN, Pismo Beach, Calif. 93448. Prompt orders that mention the name of this newspaper will get The World's Most Accurate Antiques and Collectibles Price Guide included at no extra charge. Credit-card customers can call 1-800-549-7500. A 30-day money-back guarantee is given.

Don't underestimate the value of some rather ordinary-looking things, Hyman warns.

A Griswald® No. 1 cast-iron frying pan is worth $1,000 to "Pan Man" Smith, in New York. Your high school ball glove could bring $2,500 from Illinoisian Dave Bushing, if it has the right player endorsement. New Englander Bob Block pays that much for some 20th century glass marbles. The G.I. Joe® nurse doll is worth $5,000 to a Florida man, and if you call Mike Strauss, there's a toy Hot Wheels® Volkswagen for which he'll pay you $3,000.

Beer mugs, bicycles, Hawaiian shirts, coffee cans, cigar boxes, plastic characters that promoted junk food, violins, tractor parts, corn planters, guns, swords, knives, bottles, crocks, rugs, lamps, magazines, books, postcards, autographs, fountain pens, typewriters, calculators, car jacks and radios, medals, catalogs, and uniforms are among 2,200 potentially valuable categories.

"Back in 1985, who imagined that Air Jordans® would someday put a hundred dollar bill in your pocket," Hyman laughs.

Spring Is A Good Time To Check Your Air Conditioner

By Judy Buchenot

Step out into the back yard on the first hot night of the summer and listen. Above the crickets chirping, there is the click and the whir of air conditioners cycling on and off.

Actually, the one in our back yard makes more of a clunk and chug-chug-chug. This unhealthy sound prompts a call the next morning to the air-conditioning company that left a flier on the front doorknob promising a fast and reliable air-conditioner check-up for only $49.95.

The repairman is fast and looks very reliable as he recharges the unit and hoses off the coils. The bill is not $49.95, however. It seems Freon is not included.

As he slips the check onto his clipboard, the repairman notes that it might be time to retire the unit that had seen more than a decade of loyal service.

"It's got a slow leak and you know, it's illegal to be leaking Freon due to the ozone and everything. And the thing is just sucking down the money because it isn't all that efficient. You might be better off with a new one."

He just happens to have several brochures, quotes, and other thoughts on the subject.

So now what should be done? Are dollar bills really being sucked from our pockets into the air conditioner? Are we personally drilling a hole into the ozone with the slow leak of Freon? Before panic sets in, it is time for a little research.

DEFINING FREON

The first item needing clarification was the whole Freon vs. the ozone issue. Freon is a trade name of DuPont, explained Don Carlson, the coordinator of the heating ventilation and air conditioning program at College of DuPage in Illinois. He has been an air-conditioning contractor as well as a teacher and is very familiar with Freon.

"All refrigerants are identified by numbers. R-12 is the refrigerant that everyone was so concerned about with the ozone. It is no longer being manufactured due to the agreements made at the Montreal Protocol, a conference held in the '80s between several countries. It was agreed to phase R-12 out.

"It was used in cars and refrigerators. It used to sell for about a buck a pound back in the '80s, but now it's gone up to about $70 a pound. And most of what's available now is recycled, said Carlson."

The refrigerant used in most air conditioners is R-22, which is not causing as much environmental concern. In the '80s, it sold for $5 to $7 a pound and today it is selling for about $10 to $12 a pound.

"You don't want to vent any refrigerant into the air, but R-22 isn't being phased out yet. Right now, it is scheduled to be phased out by 2010, but that could change to a later date."

The air conditioners that are around today all have R-22, Carlson said.

RATING EFFICIENCY

Carlson acknowledged that some air conditioners are more efficient than others, but he did not mention any dollar-munching capabilities. He said that air conditioners are given a SEER, or standard energy efficiency rating.

Although Carlson explains this rating to his students in terms of watts and Btu (British thermal unit), he said it basically refers to "the return you get on the electricity you use. The higher the rating, the better the unit."

Mark Burger, senior technology specialist at the U.S. Department of Energy Chicago, Regional Support Office, said that it is very hard to determine the actual savings gained by replacing an old unit with a more efficient unit. Everything from the insulation in the house, the average thermostat setting to the frequency of use can affect the savings. Even the number of times the door is opened and closed can make a difference.

"I guess the easiest way to explain this is to say that if you have a 10-SEER unit that is costing you $600 to run all summer and you move to a 12 SEER, then you will save about $120 during the season," he explained.

Although there is a savings, Carlson pointed out that it will take quite a few summer seasons to make back the cost of a new unit in the Midwest where the air conditioning is only run a few weeks during the year.

"I don't feel that it is

No fun in furniture

A survey found that women make most furniture buying decisions (86 percent of the time) and that most people rate furniture shopping as a dull ordeal.

- Half of those surveyed said they have furniture they were ashamed of.
- People making more than $70,000 a year buy one-third of all furniture, with people over 65 buying very little furniture.

What indicates quality furniture to you? (percent agreeing)

Air Conditioner

worth replacing one air conditioner with another for a better SEER in this area," he simply said. "Now, if the compressor goes, don't repair it. Replace it with a new one with at least a 10 SEER, higher if you can afford it."

OTHER SOLUTIONS

Carlson also noted that some people's expectations are too high when it comes to their air conditioners.

"An air conditioner is not an icebox," said Carlson. "It is not meant to pull down the temperature immediately.

An air conditioner can really only give you a temperature of about 15 degrees lower than what is outside. What it does is cool the air and remove moisture, and the removing of moisture is an important part for keeping you comfortable. If the air is humid, then your body can't get rid of moisture and you feel warm."

Burger said that before purchasing a new air conditioner to save on electric bills, try making your home more energy efficient.

"Check the insulation in the roof and walls. Get windows that are double-glazed. There are windows with special low-emission coatings that let less sunlight in," he said.

"One of the simplest ways to help with air conditioning is to keep the storm windows closed," said Carlson. "In summer, people pull up the storm windows to have just the screens. It is more important to have those storms down in summer than in winter because electricity is more expensive than gas."

Jennifer Kennefick, a spokeswoman for Commonwealth Edison, said that proper maintenance is an important factor in efficiency.

"Annual tuneups to clean the coils are important," she said. And although air conditioners may not be an attractive part of your yard decor, don't plant a bush or flowers in front of it. "The air conditioners need to have unrestricted airflow to operate well," she said.

Kennefick said that the average residential rate for running an air conditioner in 1996 was about $27.06 for each 100 hours of use.

The company also has a voluntary energy conservation program called Nature First. Those who consent to this program have a switch installed on their compressor that allows Commonwealth Edison to cycle the compressor on and off at 16-minute intervals during periods of extreme heat. A customer can earn up to $40 in summer rebates by signing up for the program.

THE RIGHT SIZE

When a new air conditioner is needed, Carlson said to be sure the unit is properly sized. A rule of thumb used in the past was to figure a unit sized at 1 ton for every 10,000 feet of living space.

"It is much better to have a contractor work up a heat loss/heat gain sheet," he said. "This takes into consideration the construction of the walls, the insulation, number of windows, and all of the other factors."

When everything is considered, it is sometimes better to size the unit a little smaller than to choose one that is too large. Don't figure that a bigger unit will make the house colder, warned Carlson.

"If the unit is too big, it will shut off more often. When it shuts off, it doesn't take care of the humidity, and reducing the humidity is very important. When it is 95 degrees outside, you want your unit running all the time, removing the moisture and cooling the air."

Finding a reputable serviceman to properly size a home for an air conditioner can be challenging.

"I have people call me all of the time wanting a name," said Carlson. "I don't give a name. I tell them to look in the phone book and look for the oldest companies. They are the best. The guy who has been in business for 20 or 30 years is here because he does good work. And don't only look for brand names on the air conditioners. Look at the SEER more than a name."

Burger said that many air conditioners and appliances that are efficient are marked with an energy star label signifying outstanding performance.

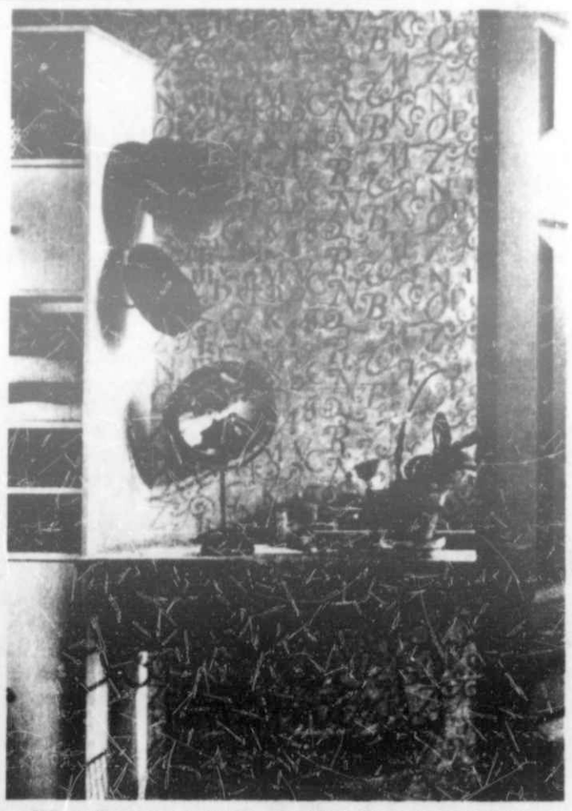
What's Hot in Wallcovering

Despite an abundance of wallpaper patterns on the market, certain looks have become more popular with homeowners today than in days past. Stacy Senior, marketing manager for Thibaut, a leading manufacturer of wallcoverings and fabrics, tells about the trends her company sees relative to design, color and usage of wallpapers, borders and fabrics in the home:

•Novelty patterns — According to Senior, there is a growing interest in novelty designs - patterns that are unique, lighthearted and fun. For example, a pattern called Legacy from Thibaut's new Chronicles collection features a block-letter design in a neoclassic style. The pattern is adventuresome, yet subtle. "It is popular for use in master baths and powder rooms," comments Senior. Other novelty designs include a pattern with flowering topiary trees, and a Majolica pattern with whimsically painted porcelain vases, pitchers, teapots and planters. These are from the company's newer Front Porch collection.

•Animals — "Interesting animals from Africa - like monkeys, elephants, cheetahs, leopards and giraffes - are being incorporated into traditional floral designs," states Senior. The designs are not "cutesy," but sophisticated and elegant-looking. "The animals add a refreshing feel to the familiar traditional style, and the designs are appropriate for either formal or casual settings," she notes. According to Senior, leopard and other animal-print fabric patterns are a strong, continuing trend.

•The "fabric feel" — "We have incorporated 'relief' effects into many newer patterns, in which designs take on the look of worn or woven fabric," says Senior. The textural look is created through the design and the printing process (the paper is not actually raised or textured). "The result is a softer, more gentle appearance on the wall," she comments. Relief effects have been used to embellish everything from floral to paisley designs. One of Thibaut's newer collections, Stripe Resource, features relief effects in stripe patterns, some resembling the look of silk, linen and corduroy.



When it comes to wallpaper, there is a growing interest in novelty patterns. The pattern pictured here, called Legacy from Thibaut's new Chronicles collection, is one such design that features block letters in a neoclassic style.

•Large-scale patterns — "The small-scale, mini-print patterns of the '80s are out" says Senior, "while more daring, large-scale designs are in." Small-scale tone-on-tone prints are good complementary sidewall patterns below a chair rail, or in an adjoining smaller-sized room, but larger-scale designs are being used in kitchens, master baths, bedrooms and dining rooms. "The popularity of larger-scale designs has stemmed from trends in building and remodeling, in which we see more open kitchen and family-room areas, higher ceilings, larger windows, and dramatic entry foyers," Senior comments.

•Fresh, clean colors — "Some of Thibaut's newest designs are colored with yellowy greens, grass-blade greens that are truer to nature, festive coral-pinks, dashes of purple, lemon yellow, sky blue and purplish-periwinkle," says Senior. The company sees demand shifting away from hunter green, teal, mauve and navy "jewel tones" that were popular three to five years ago.

•Taupe and black — "Neutral colors still are popular," comments Senior. They complement all types of styles, including contemporary tastes, and work well in large open spaces. They also can add "resale" value to a home. When it comes time to sell, neutral colors usually have broad appeal with prospective buyers.

•Borders used to "coordinate" rather than "complete" — In years past, borders more commonly were used to "finish off" and complete the look of one room. "Today, we are seeing borders frequently used with tone-on-tone wallpaper to combine the look of two or more rooms," says Senior. While a prominent wallpaper design might be used in the master bath, for example, a coordinating border is used in the adjoining bedroom or hallway, paired with a tone-on-tone sidewall paper, to help achieve an overall "whole-house" effect. The border is not used solely by itself, as the look seems "unfinished."

•More color on the walls — "Homeowners are choosing patterns with more background color," says Senior. "Sage and a minty apple-green are popular grounds for many of our newer designs. Soft yellow has been a popular background color for the past several years, and sensuous red grounds also have become popular," states Senior. Thibaut sees consumers being more daring and experimental with their decorating choices, moving beyond traditional white and off-white grounds.

The company's newer collections, like Chronicles, Stripe Resource, Front Porch and Treillage, which incorporate many of these new design trends, are available through interior designers and fine wallcovering and decorating stores. For more information or the names of local dealers, call 1-800-223-0704.

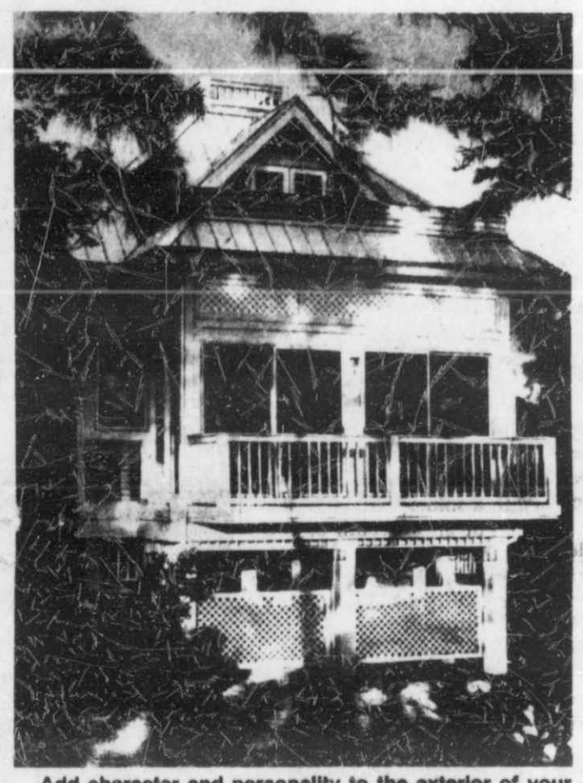
Personalize a Home With Lattice



Add character and personality to the exterior of your home with maintenance-free plastic lattice. For a free plastic lattice idea book, call TUFF-BILT at 1-800-394-6679.

Every year, homeowners spend lots of time and money landscaping, painting and residing their homes attempting to create a new look. Updating a home's exterior does not have to be an enormous project. Many homeowners are turning to lattice. It's a beautiful but inexpensive alternative that adds character and personality to a home without hassles.

Lattice is a framework of strips made from plastic, wood or metal interwoven to form beautiful patterns. It is available in a variety of classic styles and vibrant colors that complement any home.

While lattice often is used under and around a deck or porch, many homeowners are using it in creative ways to give their homes personality. Lattice adds texture and depth and gives a finished look to any style of home.

Try these easy projects using lattice to create a new and exciting look for your home:

•Give your home a quaint cottage look by accenting windows with lattice instead of shutters.

•Create a welcoming entryway in the colonial column-style by hanging complementing shades of lattice on both sides of a door.

•Add Victorian ambiance and a splash of color by painting lattice to complement or contrast siding, shutters and doors.

•Build a decorative lattice shield to hide obtrusive air conditioners or other unsightly objects and add instant country charm.

•Create a European garden-style facade on a bare wall by using lattice as a decorative accent and a place for ivy and roses to climb.

A home make-over is even easier with plastic lattice. It is versatile and sturdy, and can be screwed, nailed and sawed without cracking. Its color will not fade in the sun, and chips and scratches will not show because the color goes all the way through the lattice. Unlike wood, plastic lattice will not rot and is mildew- and insect-resistant. For a free plastic lattice idea book and information, call TUFF-BILT at 1-800-394-6679.

Painting Hotline

Intimidation notwithstanding, painting is the endeavor most often undertaken by American do-it-yourselfers, according to the Sears Weatherbeater Paint Pros.

A recent survey conducted by the Paint Pros showed that nearly one-fourth of Americans said they are concerned about not getting professional-looking results when painting their home's exterior, and more than 45 percent are concerned about the amount of time such a project takes.

Helping allay people's paint fears, the Paint Pros established a hotline, 800-9-PAINTS. Last year, more than 100,000 callers used the toll-free hotline to resolve their paint issues.

Bring The Outdoors Inside By Cultivating Garden Decor

By Rose Bennett Gilbert

Ask Mary, Mary how her garden grows these days, and she may take you out to the living room for a look.

What you'll see are flowers, flowers everywhere, plus trellis and picket fence patterns, natural stone floors, wicker and wrought iron furniture, complete with peely paint or a patina of rust.

What's in for America's homes as we head into the new millennium is what's out in the garden. While historians may insist that the agrarian age ended in the 19th century, interior designers know better. In the '90s, gardening has become our great new national pastime--the fastest-growing hobby on the horizon--and it's exerting a major influence on the way we decorate our great indoors.

So what if it has been three generations since most Americans moved off the farms and into the cities?

There's good reason we've never outgrown our roots, our romance with flowers, fields, and farms, never lost our underlying need to live with nature.

Ask Elinor Shebar, vice president and director of Design for Village, the wallpaper manufacturer.

"Because we need peace," she says, ticking off the century's ills. "We're all working too hard.... We're afraid our computers are going to die in 2000.... We're time-deprived and scared about our environment. Coming home to a garden environment makes us feel we're coming home to peace."

Cultivating that garden environment can be as easy as rolling off a roll of wallpaper, Shebar is quick to point out. Among her newest ideas for Village is the "Big Border" collection with 37-inch high self-stick borders that can instantly turn an entire lower wall into a country garden, complete with a picket fence.

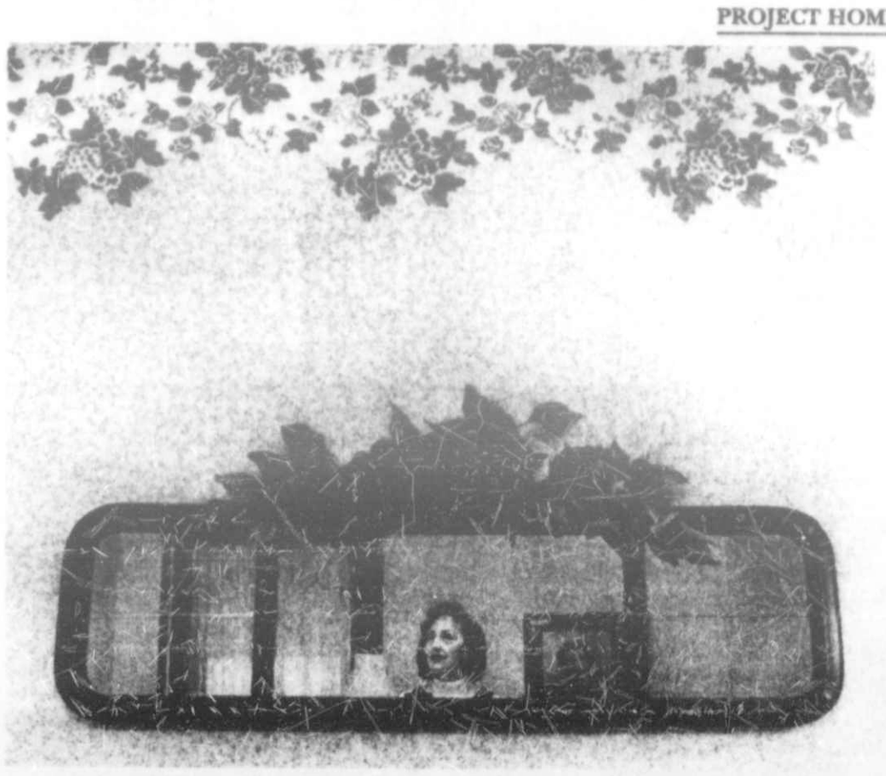
Other new Village collections liberate vegetables from kitchen walls and make them socially acceptable for the first time in the more formal rooms of the house. Is it art, or are upwardly mobile carrots just reflecting the health craze of our time?

Shebar says veggies are hot, on and off the wall. Besides, she adds, "the health club is the country club of the future."

Despite all the talk that blue will be the important color in the coming millennium, Shebar assures, "we're not through with the greening of America ... especially patterns taken from garden furniture and the fruits of gardening."

"Because Americans still have a love affair with the outdoors," she believes, "we'll continue to see wicker motifs, scrolls from iron walls and benches, as well as flowers, fruits and vegetables."

All of which inspire James Shearron, style director of American HomeStyle & Gardening magazine (which added the "& Gardening" to its name four years ago to keep pace with its readers' interests).



ETERNAL SPRING - Wallpaper with a floral border design and the addition of colorful blooms to an antique mirror make a guest room at Sherry Brewer's Victorian Rose Garden Bed & Breakfast in Algonquin, Ill., as fresh as a flowering garden.

Shearron points out that indoor garden themes are hardly new — "Think of the English and floral chintz, the Victorians with their conservatories and plants — but today's trend is a stone we've never turned over before. It's much more "down and dirty," much more sensuous. We (want to) smell the moss...feel the rough natural stone..."

Shearron's "down and dirty" advice: don't just allow outdoorsy ideas into your home; give them the run of the house:

- Turn iron gates and fences into a coffee table or dining table topped with glass.
- Treat accessories as works of art. Display architectural remnants as sculpture, or show off a rusted urn in place of the usual china vase.
- Bring garden furniture in from the cold.

"But do leave teak furniture outside for the first season," Shearron advises, "so it weathers to that interesting silver gray."

- Consider a garden trellis as an interesting wall treatment.

"I can see a white trellis over, say, a rich brown wall in an entryway," he visualizes.

Interior designer Stanley Hura sees still more opportunities for virtual garden living year-round.
